STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press.) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday: Demand 4.4577; cables 4.4602.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.— (Canadian Press.)— Exceptional dullness continues to hold the cash grain market here. There was no change in the flour situation. The market for millfeed is dead and there is practically nothing doing in the rolled oats market. There were no developments in baled hay. A weaker feeling prevails in butter with prices off nearly a cent. Some enquiry is apparent for cheese. Prices for eggs are unchanged.

Exports of cheese for the past week totaled 40,423 boxes and total shipments since May 1 were 559,248 boxes against 827,291 in the same period last year. Shipments of butter for past week were 28,115 packages and since May 1 were 204,752 against 43,307 in the same period of 1921.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press.)— Ontario country markets are reported higher with shippers paying producers and country storekeepers 24 to 25c, and making sales graded firsts 31c, straight gathered 27 1-2c. to 28c. f.o.b. In some instances shippers are asking 29c. f.o. b. These higher prices and the firmer tone of the market are the result of a further falling off in receipts. Cable advices state that the British market is a little firmer and some eggs have been packed during the past week in anticipation of sale, but as yet no actual sales have been reported.

Montreal specials 38c. to 40c., extras 34c., firsts 27c. to 28c.

Winnipeg dealers quoting country shippers 19c., delivered, straight receipts jobbing extras 33c. to 35c., firsts 28c. to 29c., straight candled 24c. to 25c.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, Augu. 29.—(Canadian Press.) —Receipts 4,800 cattle and calves, 395 hogs and 520 sheep and lambs.

The cattle market opened under fairly heavy offerings and early trading was slow and inactive, but bidding held in line with the close of the week-end. Killing steers topped at 5.00; butcher cows 3.50 to 3.75, with odd sales up to 84; feeder steers $4 to $4.25. Select hogs ranged from $12.00 to $12.50.

There was a good demand on the sheep and lamb market. Top lambs sold at $10.50; fair to good $8 to $10 and mutton sheep $6 to $6.50.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.— (Canadian Press.) — An unexpectedly strong market at Liverpool caused a sharp bulge in wheat prices here, and during the day commission houses bought on the breaks in sufficient volume to hold a good share of the rally. Toward the finish, short covering also strengthened the market and the close was 1-8 to 1 5-8c. up with September 103 3-8 to 103 1-2 and December 104 3-8 to 104 1-2. Corn was 1-4 to 1-8 cent higher. Oats were unchanged to 3-8c. up and provisions ranged from unchanged figures to 17 1-2c. advance.

BIG YIELD.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 19. — (Canadian Press.)— While the provincial department of agriculture has not been able as yet to announce the average yield of the Alberta crop, it was said in well-informed circles yesterday that wheat would average between fourteen and fifteen bushels to the acre. This is nearly a bushel an acre better than in 1921.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

MILLBROOK, August 29. — A most enjoyable re-union was recently held at Welbeck, the homestead of the Brackenridge family for the past sixty years, or over, at Westwood, Ont. Thirty-five of the immediate relatives and intimate friends of the family were the guests, for the occasion, of Misses Marian and Agnes and Mr. Will Brackenridge, who now reside on the homestead. Their father, the late "Squire" Brackenridge, who was postmaster of Westwood for twenty-five years, and also very capably filled the positions of Township Clerk and Police Magistrate, passed away in 1918, in his eighty-ninth year, while his wife, who reached the ripe age of eighty years, predeceased him four years.

In 1904 they celebrated their golden wedding, and the only complete family re-gathering held since that event was the one arranged for, and successfully carried out, in August of this year. The relatives present included three sons and their wives and families, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Brackenridge, and four children, Mr. and Mrs Thomas Brackenridge and two children, Mr. and Mrs. David Brackenridge with their four children, of Westwood; two daughters, Mrs. W. J. E. Gillott, of Millbrook, and Mrs. J. E. Thompson and her two sons, of Westwood; and one brother-in-law, Mr. W. Kindred, who was accompanied by his two children and also by his mother, Mrs. Kindred, Sr.

A very delightful time was spent with games of various kinds for the younger folk, while their elders preferred the somewhat quieter pleasure of social intercourse.

Afterwards a bountiful tea was served in The Grove, one of nature's beauty spots on the homestead, with the river not far distant.

Besides Mrs. Gillott, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Thorne, with their visitor, Mrs. Lamb, of Stouffville, were also guests from Millbrook at the gathering.

Missionary Session.

A very interesting missionary session was held in the Methodist Sunday School on Sunday afternoon, the members of Miss Hampton's Young Men's Bible Class providing the programme, the rule of the School being that each adult organised class take turns in giving missionary instruction once during the quarter. Miss Hampton occupied the chair, and conducted a series of questions and answers, giving interesting information on the missionary work carried on amongst the Indians of Canada. Following this Mr. Alvin Richards gave a most instructive talk on the life of Henry Steinhauer, an Indian boy, whose name is a household word for the excellent work which he accomplished amongst his own people. A duet by Messrs. J. L. Byam and A. Richards, which was much enjoyed, brought this part of the session to a close, and afterwards Mr. F. W. Fallis, the superintendent, briefly reviewed the recent Sunday School lessons, his talk being illustrated by lantern slides. Ewart Tucker handled the lantern in a satisfactory manner. The offering, which was a special one, goes toward the missionary funds of the school.

Special Prize.

The special prize given at the Cairo School Golden Jubilee last Thursday to the mother having the largest family of children on the grounds, was awarded to Mrs. Richard Moncrief, of North Monaghan, who had nine members of her family present. The prize was a large box of chocolates, and was undoubtedly quite thoroughly enjoyed.

Campers Returning.

Most of the local campers who have been enjoying an almost four weeks' outing at the river have now returned. Rev. S. T. Tucker and family and Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham with their family and guests, came home last Thursday, as did also Mr. and Mrs. G. Locke and Mr. and Mrs. C. Crossley, the former parties from Highland Park, and the latter from Deyell's Landing.

Personal Mention.

The Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, intend holding a corn roast on Friday evening, 1st September, at Wallace's Point. Motors will convey the members to the Park, where it is expected a thoroughly good time will be enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Mullen were the guests of their daughter, Mrs. B. R. Raper, at Campbelltown, on the Otonabee, last Thursday. Mrs. R. J. McKnight, who has been spending a brief holiday at the cottage with Mr. and Mrs. Raper, and other friends, returned home with Mr. and Mrs. Mullen on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Scott, of Kingston, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley.

Rev. Dr. Lee, of Thorold, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wright, of Garden Hill, preached at that appointment in St. Enoch's Church, on Sunday afternoon, and in Grace Church, Millbrook, in the evening, the congregations being pleased to hear their former pastor once more.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Mulligan and Messrs. A. E. Duncan and L. S. Cutton, of Cleveland, O., with Miss Alice Needler, of Millbrook, spent the week-end at the Thousand Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wellington Pickup, of Toronto, with their two children, John and Anne, motored here on their return journey from a holiday outing at Bala, Muskoka, last week, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Eakins and Mrs. E White for a few days.

Miss Esther Deyell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Deyell, of South Monaghan, has taken the Fairview School, 4th Line, Cavan, for the next year.

Miss Florence Fallis, of Fallis Line, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Reg. Armstrong, of Bailieboro, this week.

Mrs. McWhinie, accompanied by her son William, are down from Saskatchewan visiting friends in Ontario, were guests of her aunt, Mrs. A. Ferguson and sister, Mrs. S. E. Eakins, over the week-end. It is twenty-seven years since Mrs. McWhinnie, whose maiden name was Sarah Ferguson, has been in Millbrook.

Typewriter Speeds Radio Talk Between the Land and Airplane

Flying naval airplanes will soon be sending their messages to land or ship stations in typewritten form!

This remarkable advancement in radio development has just been announced by the Navy Department. It is an actual achievement, fully tested and found of great importance in communication between aircraft and their stations.

The apparatus that makes this form of radio transmission possible consists of a machine much like the commercial typewriter, connected by electricity to a radio transmitting or receiving set. Each key of the typewriter is connected to the radio apparatus in the airplane.

When a letter is struck a radio impulse is flashed from the antenna on the airplane to the receiving station below. On the receiving end is a similar instrument which reproduces the message in typewritten form on a tape.

The instrument has been named the "teletype." It has been in use for the last eight years in connection with land wire telegraphy. But this is the first time it has been applied to wireless. First tests were made at the naval air station at Anacostia, D. C.

The new system, it is said, will eliminate much of the chance of error in transmitting and receiving that is now experienced in the telephone and telegraph devices. Accuracy is the chief advantage of the teletype. Speed is next.

PREMIER OF CANADA ARRIVES IN TORONTO

Addressed Noon Luncheon at the Exhibition To-day.

TORONTO, August 29. Canadian Press.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Premier of Canada, arrived in this city this morning and made his headquarters at the King Edward Hotel. During the morning the Premier held several conferences and met many prominent people of Toronto. At noon he addressed the directors' luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition. This evening he will be the guest of honor at a banquet tendered by the local Liberals.

In some quarters it is expected that the Premier will make an announcement as to the Government's proposed policy regarding the location of the offices of the Canadian Government Railways.

Constipation Can Be Blamed For Diabetes and Bright's Disease!

And, constipation is responsible for most cases of rheumatism, hardening of the arteries, brain fag, sluggishness, headaches and many other organic disturbances! Constipation hastens old age; in fact, authorities tell you THAT 90% OF ALL HUMAN ILLNESS IS DIRECTLY TRACEABLE TO CONSTIPATION!

With knowledge like that can you stand by and see yourself slipping physically; see your loved ones fall, as the prey of a preventable condition? Do not minimize the dangers of constipation because you are only "slightly" troubled.

Inactivity of the eliminative passage creates toxic conditions which penetrate the intestinal walls, poisoning the blood and affecting the organs.

BRAN—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled—is nature's own positive and permanent relief from constipation. It is the most wonderful corrective food known. Bran is not a "remedy," but a "roughage" that through its mineral salts and ability to absorb water—giving bulk and moisture—assists in perfect elimination. We guarantee that if Kellogg's Bran is eaten regularly—at least two tablespoonfuls daily; in chronic cases with every meal—that the sufferer will be relieved permanently! Bran is wonderful for children, for the aged, for every one!

Kellogg's Bran is delicious, its nut like flavor greatly adding to the enjoyment of eating cereals over which it has been sprinkled. Kellogg's Bran makes the tastiest of bakery batches, such as gems, raisin bread, muffins, macaroons, etc. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran. In the "WAXTITE" package.

TREES TRANSMIT RADIO AT TIMES.

Take Up and Store Electrical Charges.

By Paul Godley.

Trees are radio transmitters.

So far as known, they have not to date sent out any intelligible message.

But trees do take up electrical charges which, when they have grown sufficiently, are passed off into the atmosphere. Usually the discharge takes place suddenly and a certain veriety of "static" is caused in this way.

But as science delved deeper and deeper into the mysteries of the origin of natural forces, we learned to differentiate between natural charges within limits depending upon their cause.

Even the smallest child knows that electricity may be generated by the stroking of the cat's back. This is frictional electricity. The rubbing of almost any two substances against each other will result in such "charges") being set up on the surfaces of two objects.

So with nature.

Frictional Charges.

When the gentle zephyr brushes through the tree there is friction. Frictional charges are generated. The air moves on, carrying its charge, and leaves behind with the tree a similar charge of opposite polarity. As more and more air passes the tree this charge becomes greater and greater.

Finally, perhaps, a change of wind. For many years 'static' was just temperature or humidity will throw of atmosphere which is bearing very little or no charge at all. The tree imparts some of its charge to this new air strata. It is done suddenly. An infinitesimal spark may take place. There is set up an ether wave, which makes itself known in the radio receiver.

"Clicks."

It may be slight; it may be strong. Very frequently discharges of this sort are extremely numerous and their continuous "click, click, click" may completely obliterate the signals from distant stations.

Such static discharges as these are classed generally under the head of "click" as distinguished from the great "grinders' caused by lightning discharges in the sky.

"Clicks' are usually of local origin and are numerous when a change of weather, from dry to wet, is imminent.

"Grinders" may originate several hundred miles from the receiver, for they are usually caused by discharges which represent the expenditures of even thousands of horsepower of energy.

FOUND ON ROCKS.

GENEVA, August 29. — Canadian Press. — The body of Sophia Bryant, aged 72, British educator, was found on the rocks near the village of Chamonix, in the Alpine region to-day. There was no indication of the cause of death.

STRIKE CONTINUES.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Aug. 29. —(Canadian Press.)—The strike of the freight handlers is still on at the head of the lakes. After coming to an agreement regarding wages, the men now insist on complete reinstatement of the strikers without regard to the men who have worked while they were out. Both sides are standing pat on this question and meanwhile most of the freight is going all rail and the few men who are now at work are sufficient to handle the little that is arriving.

"Mother Why Not Try The Newer Form Of Iron

And Be Strong and Well and Have Nice Rosy Cheeks Instead of Being Nervous and Irritable all the Time and Looking So Haggard and Old?"

"The doctor gave some to Susie Smith's mother and she was worse off than you are, and now she looks just fine." There can be no healthy, beautiful rosy-cheeked women without iron. Good physicians have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more of the newer form of iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard-looking patients. When the iron goes from the blood of women the roses go from their cheeks, and strength and vitality from their bodies. This newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in certain green vegetables, is highly recommended to thousands who wish quickly to increase their strength, power, and endurance. It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you the proper amount of good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale, and sickly-looking, just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron.

You can tell the women with plenty of iron in their blood—beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women, full of life, vim and vitality. You can get Nuxated Iron from any druggist under an absolute guarantee that it will do the same for you or your money back.

STILL DISCOVERED WORKING IN FIELD

Three Arrested For Illegal Manufacture of Hooch in a Corn Field.

SARNIA, Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press.)— Out in the waving corn which reached its head high to heaven, Constable Scott Sunday discovered a still in full operation on the extension road of Michigan avenue, Point Edward, on a farm owned by Henry Fraley. Accompanied by Constables Leslie Atkin and W. C. Oliver, they swooped down on the men engaged in the illicit business and besides the proprietor they arrested Joe Hicks and Joe Marshall, of Sarnia. Yesterday in county police court the case was postponed till Tuesday next week. Fraley was allowed out on bail of $1,000, and the other two men are to languish in jail as they could not raise the necessary bail.

HAITIAN GRAFTERS INTEND TO FIGHT.

Attempt to Shoot Mayor Creates Sensation.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, HAITI, Aug. (Associated Press).—The recent attempt to shoot Edouard Mangones, the mayor of this city of 150,000 people, followed within 24 hours by either the suicide or murder of the city receiver, have created a sensation unusual for Haiti. The resort to firearms, together with tales of a mystery car with three gunmen operating a night, are new symptoms for Haitian politics. In the past crimes of violence were usually accomplished by the secret use of poison or other methods. Since the occupation there have not been more than six murders, and what may prove to be a crime wave is an unusual manifestation.

Absolutely unknown in a century of Haitian local government is the determined campaign of mayor Mangones, backed by the influence of President Borno and the American-officered gendarmerie, to prosecute local officials charged with shortage of funds, falsification of tax receipts, and graft. Mangones, a man of means, an aristocrat and a business man, has created consternation among the politicians.

Last May he forced the resignation of the communale receiver for a shortage of $5,000 in his accounts, the receiver claiming that his safe had been robbed of that amount three months before, although he had not reported it. Following that three officials were arrested for alleged falsification of tax receipts to the extent of several thousand dollars. Then came an investigation of Ludovic Monplaisir, Director of Cemeteries, who had long been a partisan adherent of Mangones. In the course of it Monplaisir tried to shoot Mangones, seriously wounding one of his personal cabinet, Edmond Millet.

The following morning, the dead body of the new receiver, Clement Denize, was found. Whether his death was due to murder or suicide has not been established. Reports of a mysterious automobile complicated the situation, and gave rise to the theory of murder as part of a planned campaign of intimidation by the mayor's enemies. On the other hand an investigation of Denize's office had been ordered for the following day by Mangones.

Mangones had gone relentlessly on, whatever the truth of the Denize mystery may prove to be, and the Americans and other foreigners are delighted at his evidence of a growing civic responibility. For more than a century local graft and malfeasance have been winked at, but Mangones, a man of personal courage and honesty, promises a continuation of his campaign.

PAVEMENT TROUBLE IN BIG METROPOLIS.

Pedestrians Persist in Old Rule of Keeping to the Left.

LONDON, Aug. —(Canadian Press The experience of the first few weeks of the new rule of the pavement in some of the London boroughs requiring pedestrians to "walk on the left," has made it clear that a good deal of benevolent coercion will be needed if the people generally are to be persuaded to abandon the old rule of "keeping to the right." Most people are still following their old ways and straying carelessly from side to side as their fancy prompts.

Thus the virtuous minority on the left, being overwhelmed by numbers, inevitably suffers. At first, when people on the sidewalks dodged and bumped, the collision could be passed off with an angry glare or a polite apology, the rule to pass on the left instead of on the right being new, but now a collision on the left has more lasting effects. There is not only the physical damage, there is for the rightful party the mental tear and wear, the sudden flaring sense of wrong—so ruinous to the tempter—on the part of the person punished when in the right. The laconic "sorry," even the more gracious "so sorry," cannot sooth nerves jangled by such an incident.

One thing that has weakened the morale of the people in this matter is the display in many a shop of goods offered at "summer sale" bargains. The lure of the windows is hard to resist, and doubtless resolutions of numerous people have been weakened thereby when otherwise they might have obeyed the new rule of the sidewalk. It is difficult to remain on the left when that may mean missing a bargain on the right.

Another thing that has weakened the civic morale in this matter is the division among the city fathers. The new rule does not apply to all the boroughs, and this causes confusion. While in one borough "walk to the left" signs are up, in the next borough the old rule obtains and pedestrians keep to the right as they have always done.

The object of the new rule is safety. Vehicle traffic keeps to the left, as it has done for ages, and it is claimed that pedestrians, by keeping to the right, and walking with their backs to the vehicle traffic, are liable to step off the pavements into the roadway in unwary moments and be run down. The "word on the left" rule may ultimately become general here, but is appears doubtful.

Doubtless the Almighty could have provided us with better fun than hard work, but I don't know what it is. To be born poor is probably the next best thing.— J. M. Barrie.

PLANS FOR LINKING EMPIRE MODIFIED.

Chain Will Lack Several Links For Some Time.

LONDON, Aug. —(Canadian Press Important modifications have been made in the scheme for linking the Mother Country and the Empire overseas in one continuous chain of wireless communication. For some time to come the chain will lack several of its smaller links, these being the Suez Canal, Singapore, Hong Kong and East Africa.

Instead of preceding by geographical steps of about 2,000 miles each to Australia, South Africa and India, the Imperial Government proposes to establish direct communication. For this purpose a great new wireless station will be built in this country capable of developing 240 kilowatts of high frequency power, or twice the quantity contemplated when the scheme was in its infancy. This new station will be one of the largest in the world.

With the five stations in operation—England, Egypt, India, South Africa and Australia—it is stated that a service will be maintained capable of handling more than 10,000,000 words per year. When the relay stations have been established, it is expected that between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 words per annum can be dealt with. The new station will be near Bourn, on the southwestern boundary of Lincolnshire.

The original scheme for the Imperial Wireless Chain provided for a capital expenditure of $1,243,000, with annual charges amounting to $425,000. The new station, being so much more powerful, will be considerably more expensive, than the station first contemplated, but on the other hand, the omission or deferment of the stations at Suez Singapore, Hong Kong and East Africa must reduce the total expenditure involved. Of the original estimate of capital expenditure 853,000 pounds was to be borne by the Imperial Government, who were also to defray 268,000 pounds of the annual charges.

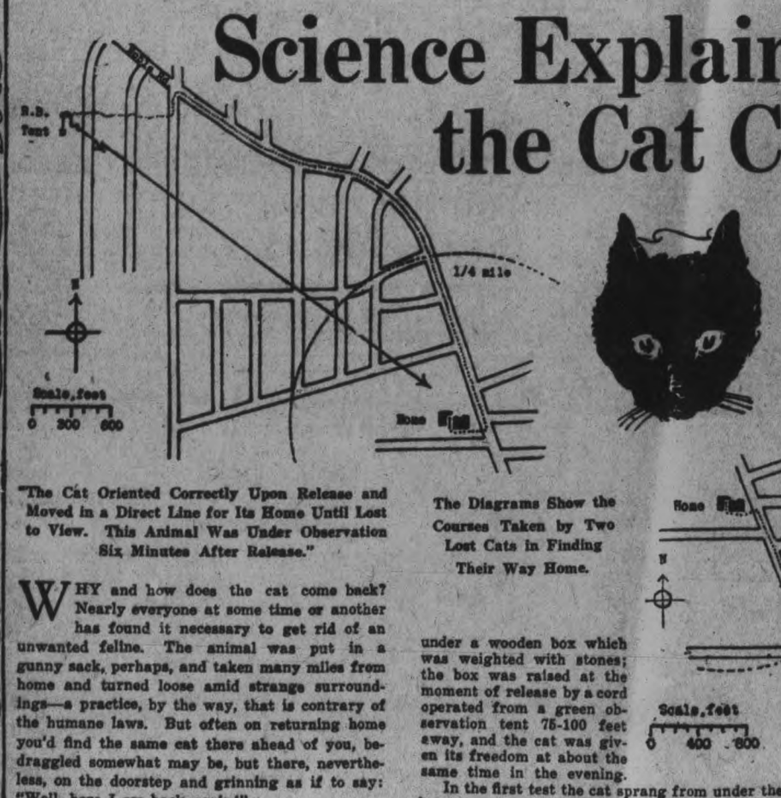
Science Explains Why the Cat Comes Back



"The Cat Oriented Correctly Upon Release and Moved in a Direct Line for Its Home Until Lost to View. This Animal Was Under Observation Six Minutes After Release."

The Diagrams Show the Courses Taken by Two Lost Cats in Finding Their Way Home.

"Cat's Home Territory Indicated by Circle One-quarter Mile Radius. Cat Taken Blindfolded One Mile Over Course Marked by Dotted Line to Release Box R. B. Cat Oriented Correctly, But on Being Disturbed by Dogs Made for Woods (crosses). Later the Animal Started for Home (direct course shown by long arrow) and Was Under Observation Thirty-five Minutes After Release."

WHY and how does the cat come back? Nearly everyone at some time or another has found it necessary to get rid of an unwanted feline. The animal was put in a gunny sack, perhaps, and taken many miles from home and turned loose amid strange surroundings—a practice, by the way, that is contrary of the humane laws. But often on returning home you'd find the same cat there ahead of you, bedraggled somewhat may be, but there, nevertheless, on the doorstep and grinning as if to say: "Well, here I am back again!"

Under such circumstances just how does a cat find its way back? Lately scientists have been turning their attention to finding the answer to this question.

Varied and voluminous as the literature of the cat is found to be, especially in the fields of anecdote, general natural history and anatomy, its homing ability has never been previously tested under experimental conditions, though accounts of this notorious power abound in many languages; from time immemorial it has been said that the cat, like the bad penny, always comes back.

Prof. Francis H. Herreck of Cleveland, writing in The Scientific Monthly, gives a highly interesting account of experiments that he made to ascertain the cat's ability to find its way home. These experiments do not admit of the usual methods of control; they can be multiplied indefinitely, but they cannot be exactly repeated, since the variables in each case, of which fear is but one, cannot be predicted and are bound to influence response.

In the first experiment casually made the cat was taken in a gunny-sack over an irregular course, mainly by electric car, down a series of hills to a point on the University Campus in the City of Cleveland, 4.6 measured miles from its home in Cleveland Heights; there it was given a dish of milk and the liberty of two rooms, in one of which a window had been slightly lowered at the top. This was on the morning of a Monday, and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon it seemed to be quite at home in its new quarters; on Wednesday morning, about 40 hours later, it suddenly appeared on the back porch of its house and gave its usual signal to be admitted.

In order to reach its home this cat had traversed an unknown country, consisting of city or suburban streets and allotments, had crossed the gulley of the Belt Line Railroad, probably by one of its bridges, and ascended in the path of greatest resistance a series of terraces to a height of 400 feet. That its home neighborhood could have been reached by exploratory movements, on the trial and error order, or by chance alone seemed highly improbable; the only known facts were that it made a homing attempt and succeeded.

Prof. Herreck decided to test the homing power, at the next opportunity, in the following way: (1) To take the cat, as before, under such conditions that the possibility of orientation through the receptors of sight, hearing and smell would, in all probability, be completely eliminated; (2) to convey it successively in different directions, and gradually increase the distance at each test, and (3) to release it at a uniform time at dusk, in unknown territory, and under conditions of as free behavior as it was possible to obtain.

The experiments to follow were made with another individual, a female with kittens which were about ready to be weaned; she had been adopted by a neighbor, and her previous history was not known; she was a large and powerful animal and had become such an inveterate hunter of birds and young chickens that her life had been declared forfeit.

Seven successive returns were made by this cat from points varying from one to three miles from its home, she was secured in a sack, carried to the release station by motor car, and placed under a wooden box which was weighted with stones; the box was raised at the moment of release by a cord operated from a green observation tent 75-100 feet away, and the cat was given its freedom at about the same time in the evening.

In the first test the cat sprang from under the box, came to attention, as it were, for a moment, facing in the direction of her home region, which lay a few points north of east; she moved slowly for a short distance on this course, mewing almost continuously, then turned more to the north, and after going a few rods suddenly veered and made for cover in a piece of woods, 400 feet to the south, passing within a few yards of observation tent.

At this juncture a farmer's boy appeared on the scene with two dogs, which were soon on the trail, but she out-distanced them and in a moment was safe in a tree; here the cat was left to her own devices, and all that is known of her subsequent movements was that by 6 o'clock on the following morning she was again at home with her kittens. That she returned the same night, and with little delay, is almost probable. The grass in the field where this test was made was not at that time very tall, and the cat could be readily seen by one standing erect. Whether the bend in the curve marks the point at which the cat first sensed the approach of the boy and the dogs may be doubtful, but there is no doubt that this change in her course was due to a sudden impulse to find cover.

Other experiments were made and in each case, Prof. Herreck says, the cat's behavior, immediately after her release, was observed from the distant tent. As a rule she immediately headed toward home, without any attempt to trace backward the course taken by the automobile. When she failed to pursue the right course it was on account of taking alarm at the approach of human beings or dogs, except in the case of her last successful return. In this case a test was made to determine whether the cat's ability to find her way home was or was not due to familiarity with the place where she was released, such as might have been acquired in the course of previous rambles.

The cat was put under complete anaesthesia by chloroform, and conveyed by motor-car, as before, one and one-half miles east by north of its homesite. Somewhere toward the end of the journey she recovered from the anaesthetic so as to appear quite able to take care of herself when let out of the bag. The animal was accordingly set free, without using the blind, in a field 50 feet from the highway. She made at once for this road, in a direction opposite that of her home, and would have gone beyond it but for a gorge which blocked her path; then she moved beside the road, very nearly back-tracking for several rods over the course which the automobile had taken, and disappeared in the cover of bushes.

The cat returned home, as in all the previous experiments, but only after an interval of 60-70 hours; that is, to home under these conditions from a distance of one and one-half miles, which ordinarily was accomplished the same night, or at most in from eight to ten hours, now required eight times as long. This could hardly have been the case if the cat had awakened to find itself in familiar territory. To hazard a conjecture Prof. Herreck says he is inclined to believe that in this case the cat, finding itself on strange ground, with all relations with its home-region broken, wandered about until its lost orientation was by chance restored through the discovery of familiar objects.

From his experiments Prof. Herreck draws the following conclusions: (1) That the returns were made from unfamiliar territory; (2) that success did not depend upon chance; (3) that the cat did not return over the course taken by the motor car on the journey out, or according to a so-called "law of reversal," as suggested by Darwin, and revived by Bonnier and Regnaud; (4) that the homing power in a more or less direct line is independent of the sense-receptors of vision, hearing and smell; (5) that under the conditions described the cat is able to home at night, and probably does so by preference; (6) that its power of return is not affected by rotation or any ordinary treatment, barring possibly anesthetization, which the animal may receive, prior to or during the journey to the point of liberation.

What a "Heat Stroke" Is and How It May Be Avoided

THE "heat stroke" is regarded by physicians as by far the worst of hot weather troubles. It is not an accident peculiar to any one age, but, on the other hand, stout, middle-aged people undoubtedly suffer more severely from it than agile youth. Moreover, the after-effects tend to be worse in older than in younger victims.

It is itself something of a mystery, physicians declare. There are all manner of theories to explain it, and until recently it was generally supposed to owe its origin directly to the temperature of the air. More recent work, however, has suggested that this may be an inadequate explanation. For it has been observed that heat stroke is rare in well-ventilated places or windy places, no matter how hot these may be.

The modern tendency, as a medical contributor to The London Times points out, is to look for the mechanism of disease in the individual rather than in his surroundings. We no longer seek to avoid the awkward question: "Why is it that Mr. A., who was subjected to the same conditions of heat as Mr. B., did not develop any symptoms?"

Again, we are ready to attempt to answer the other difficult question: "Why is it that heat stroke may be more frequent at a place with a moderate temperature than at a place with a high one?"

"The truth is that here, as in other medical problems, two entirely different sets of conditions are involved," says this authority. "Not on any one of these, but on the relation existing between them, depends the arrival of disaster.

"The groups may be divided into (1) personal factors, and (2) factors of environment. Let us admit at once that some people are more prone to heart troubles than others. These will necessarily suffer in conditions in which persons better equipped to withstand temperature will go unscathed. Again, let us admit that the term 'heat' is a bad one in this connection. For what matters is not so much the heat as the 'cooling power' of the atmosphere.

"Now, cooling power itself depends on many things. If, for example, our skins are full of blood we shall cool much more quickly than if the blood is flowing deeply under the skin—always provided that the rate of blood flow is maintained at an active level.

"The pump in a motor car is as vital a part of the cooling mechanism as the radiator itself, because on the efficiency of the pump depends the rate of water flow through the radiator and so, also, over the engine.

"But the cooling power also depends on such meteorological conditions as the humidity of the air, the rate of wind movement, and the temperature. Thus, a high temperature may be more than counterbalanced by dry, quickly moving air; a low temperature, on the other hand, may be rendered insupportable by damp and stagnation of movement.

"It follows, therefore, that in the case of a stout person with a weak circulation, placed in conditions of heat, damp, and 'airlessness,' heat stroke is very likely to occur. It will be more likely if heavy, tight clothes are worn, and if full meals are eaten (for during digestion the circulation is normally slowed down). On the other hand, a fit, thin man should stand very high temperatures in dry and windy climates.

"We may turn this knowledge to account in various ways. We may, for example, attempt to improve the tone of our circulations by judicious exercise and attention to health generally. Again, we may thoroughly overhaul our summer wardrobes to insure that what ventilation there is will reach the surfaces of our bodies. Finally, we may postpone eating full meals till the cool of the evening.

"We may, too, so arrange our rooms that currents of air will flow through them even on the hottest days. This is easily managed when electric fans are available; but even in the absence of these a great deal can be accomplished by judicious use of doors and windows—the latter being blinded against strong sunlight."

Why the BIRTH of Each BABY Should Be REGISTERED

IN one of his five-minute health talks by radio, Dr. Hermann M. Biggs, New York state commissioner of health, emphasized the importance of vital statistics, which he terms "human book-keeping."

"A merchant who failed to keep books would probably soon fail in business," he said. "Yet many people wonder why, under the law, every birth, marriage and death must be put on record and every case of infectious disease reported. Such records are in reality human book-keeping and are fully as necessary as the keeping of financial records in business. Just as the merchant's books tell him whether he is making or losing money, so vital statistics will show whether a community is gaining or losing in health.

"Why is a birth record so important? Your boy or girl will need a birth certificate when he goes to school, and later to prove age, names of parents, place of birth, to obtain working papers, to prove citizenship, to take civil service examinations, to obtain passports, and to prove the right to inherit property.

"Records of births, marriages and deaths and infectious disease reports are of great value to health officers and other people doing social work, and to doctors and scientists in the study of causes of death and in the work of preventing unnecessary sickness and death.

"From the statistics which are obtained from these records we can figure the death rate of any place and whether or not the rate is going up or down; when it goes up the figures show the reasons, just as the books in a business office show the reasons for loss or profit. When physicians' reports show that a contagious disease like typhoid is increasing, steps can immediately be taken to find the source of infection and to check the disease. Vital statistics also give us an opportunity to judge the effects of public health work and the results in the saving of human lives.

"The birth of every baby should be placed on record, not only because it is the child's lawful right to have this done, but also to enable accurate accounts to be kept of the causes of infant deaths. Very great progress has been made in recent years in saving the lives of new-born children and this was made possible in part because statistics showed the causes of illness and the extent to which it was occurring. In New York state 20 years ago about 158 babies died for every thousand born, but conditions have improved so much that last year only 75 died out of every thousand births."

Are the Migrating Races Now Facing the Fate of Extinction?

THE northwestern Europeans who made the American nation what it is undoubtedly are dying out, just as the northern invading Germanic nations died out in Italy and Spain at the level of Philadelphia, according to Dr. Austin O'Malley of Philadelphia.

"The death rate of the Irish here is more than double what it is in Ireland—it is 16.5 in Ireland, but 34 here," Dr. O'Malley says in a contribution to America. "The German death rate at home in 1912 was 12.1, in New York in 1915 it was 24.3. The English and Welsh combined rate at home was 13.3, in New York it was 18.8. The southern European death rate reverses the order: The Italian death rate at home was 14.2, in New York it is 8.9; the Austro-Hungarian rate in Europe was 26.9, in New York it is only 7; the Russian Jews' death rate in Europe before the war was 30.9, here it is down to 6.4, and these are carefully arranged rates, not dependent on the age of the immigrants.

"All this evidently means that the northwestern Europeans die out in America, but the southern and southeastern Europeans are increasing astonishingly. Twenty-five years ago the writer studied a group of 50 Irish families living in Pennsylvania after they had been in this country 50 years, and then, instead of advancing numerically or even holding their own, they had retrogressed 86 per cent.

"The final result in the United States with the descendants of our European immigrants undoubtedly will be that the southern and southeastern European races will survive here and come to the top or drag all down to themselves, according to one point of view, while the Nordic races decay under the attrition of our southern sun, as they always decayed in southern Europe after migration like the exodus which brought these people to America."

A Tire That Repairs Its Own Punctures

THE Scientific American illustrates a most ingenious attempt to solve the problem of a puncture-proof pneumatic tire. The inventor says that rubber will flow, if given half a chance, and fill a puncture. He accordingly makes his tube with a circumference considerably greater than the inner surface of the casing for which it is designed. The extra rubber is taken care of, and it is made possible to insert the uninflated tube inside the shoe, by deep corrugations that are molded around the tube, as indicated in the accompanying diagram, which shows the uninflated tube in position in the casing. When it is now inflated, and forced by its contained air to conform to the shape of the casing, a pressure is set up along its outer wall which is claimed to be sufficient to close the hole made by any ordinary puncture, and keep it closed.

The "compression tube" is made in Tulsa, Okla., and has been in rather extensive use in the Southwest, with very good results.

BAREFOOT BATHING and FLAT FEET

BATHERS and vacation campers who stand around barefooted or in flat-soled sneakers are not taking the right course if they want to preserve their foot arches, according to physicians of the Reconstruction Hospital at New York City. These physicians say that girls who wear high-heeled pumps with beach suits have the right idea for avoiding weak or flat feet. Even children with a tendency to weak feet risk the probability of this painful disfigurement by going barefooted or in flat-soled shoes. Activity may save them, for it is improper standing for long periods without raised heels which breaks down the foot arches.

These timely hints for the summer vacation season are contained in a report prepared last week on the orthopedic work of the Reconstruction Hospital. This first hospital of nation-wide scope to deal exclusively with industrial disabilities has treated many cases of flat feet. In addition to surgical correction, where such is required, certain exercises are prescribed which assist in effecting improvement.

The simple, easily remembered rule emphasized for avoiding or correcting flat feet is: Wear heels and walk, toes forward, on the outer edges of the shoes. The "toes out" standing postures and walk is now held responsible by orthopedic authorities for many cases of flat feet.

To straphangers on crowded cars, the advice of the Reconstruction Hospital's orthopedic surgeon is: Stand pigeon-toed, throwing the weight of the body on the outer bottoms of the foot if it is necessary to stand for any length of time. It may look funny, but it relaxes the muscles which support the foot arches and which, if stretched too much, will eventually fail to do their duty.

Housewives should don low-heeled shoes upon rising to prepare breakfast, say the surgeons, adding that altogether too many women risk painful flat feet by putting on flat bedroom slippers to prepare the morning meal and then continuing to wear this footgear throughout the forenoon until the household chores are done. Policemen who stand at fixed posts, motormen and conductors, all classes of men who stand for a long time at their work are apt to suffer from this very real and painful affliction.

Are Man's or Woman's Clothes Healthiest?

WHO wear the healthier clothes, men or women? This is an open question. The loosely fitted skirt worn by women is undoubtedly more hygienic than trousers. Against this, however, the modern woman's skirt hangs from the hips, whereas man hangs his clothes from the shoulders—an easier and more natural method.

In the matter of coloring, man is more or less a slave to convention, whereas woman's summer clothes undoubtedly not only look, but are actually cooler.

In the winter-time, however, woman is, as a rule, not healthily dressed, heavy furs at one end of her hardly compensating for gossamer stockings at the other!

A great advantage from the point of view of health is that woman's garments are in the main washable. Neither for men nor women, health authorities say, is modern dress entirely satisfactory.

SUPERSTITIONS About the RUBY

THE ruby is most highly prized among precious stones because of its supposed talismanic power. The Hindus placed it before all other gems. One of its names in Sanskrit was interpreted as "king of precious stones."

It was the belief of the Hindus that an inextinguishable flame burned in the ruby and that the wearing of the stone would preserve one from all bodily and mental evil. Even in England in the 14th century it was believed by many that the ruby had power to preserve the wearer from perils such as injury by tempests and that this good effect was more surely secured if the stone was worn in a ring or bracelet on the left hand.

A peculiar superstition connected with the ruby in Burma, where the finest specimens are found, is that a ruby inserted in the flesh will render the owner invulnerable in war.

In the early centuries it was believed that some special sign should be engraved on a given stone. From an old list of these symbolic signs it appears that the "beautiful and terrible figure of a dragon" engraved on a ruby would give to that stone the power to augment the goods of this world and the blessings of joy and health.

Hindu writings, both ancient and modern, give expression to the belief that treasures offered to the images or shrines of the gods will bring good fortune to the donor. One of these ancient books says: "He who worships Krishna with rubies will be reborn as a powerful emperor; if with a small ruby, he will be born a king."

HARRIERS TO MEET TO-MORROW EVENING

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock a meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms of all those interested in the formation of a harriers' club. This idea was broached some time ago and a large number have handed their names in to Charlie Thorpe or to the Examiner, asking to be included in the club activities. These young men and boys, as well as any others in the city who are interested in middle distance running, are invited to be present and take part in the discussion.

Mr. Thorpe will be present to give a short talk on the formation of such a club and the matter of organization will be pretty thoroughly discussed. The order of the evening will be a short meeting and a snappy one.

COBB MAKES FIFTEEN HITS IN THREE GAMES

The greatest of them all is Ty Cobb, who was in Toronto yesterday with Detroit Tigers, now running third in the American League pennant dash, and threatening to overtake the Browns and Yankees before the wire is reached. Cobb's playing since he joined the big show some seventeen years ago has been brimful of features. One of his latest is to make fifteen hits in three games this season. On May 7 he made three doubles, a single and a home run in five times at bat, a total of eleven bases, off Faber of Chicago. Two months later to the day he cracked the offerings of Mogridge, Zachary and Brillheart, all southpaws, of the Washington Senators, for five hits. And ten days later he made a double, a home run and three singles off the combined pitching efforts of Quinn, Piercy and Fullerton of the Boston Red Sox. Quite some achievement, eh, what?

THEY'RE TWINS.

CLAUDE JONNARD, NEW YORK GIANTS (UPPER), AND HIS TWIN BROTHER, CLARENCE JONNARD, WITH PIRATES.

There have been many instances of brothers playing in the big leagues at the same time, in some cases even on opposing teams, but the present season saw the first advent of twin brothers playing in the majors.

COLONIAL GIRLS DOWNED BY C.G.E.

Best Game of Season — C.G.E. Girls Won 14 to 11—Now Lead League.

The C.G.E. girls team defeated the Colonial Weavers 14 to 11 in the fastest and most exciting game yet played in the Girls' Soft Ball League. A large crowd watched the game and the excitement grew high at times. The Electrical girls now head the league as a result of the victory.

The C.G.E. hopes sank when the Colonials got two counters in the first but rose when Miss White, the first one up for the C.G.E. slammed out a homer. This was all the C. G.E. got however in their half.

Each got one run in the second. The C.G.E. hit hard in the third and got four while the Colonials failed to score. At the end of the fourth the Generals lead 12 to 6. The Colonials nearly evened it up in their half of the fifth getting five C. Robinson and L. Wade each getting a circuit clout. Good fielding by the Colonials kept the C.G.E. from scoring in the fifth. The C. G.E. got two in the sixth and the Colonials failed to score.

An unassisted double play by Miss Taylor, the C.G.E. first sacker, shattered the Colonials hope of tieing things up.

Miss L. Wade turned in a good game behind the bat for the Colonials, but few getting past her. Both teams judged flies accurately, very few that went up got away from them.

The teams were:

Colonial Weaving—C. Robinson, p; L. Wade, c; J. Bradshaw, 1b; H. Plunkett, 2b; A. Burns, 3b; L. Wade and M. Staples, ss; D. Goodwin, rf; N. Thomas, lf; V. Wade, cf.

GLOUCESTER MEN PREPARE TO MEET CANADIAN SAILORS

Yankee Fishermen Have Five Schooners After the Cup Now Held By the "Bluenose" of Halifax.

PURITAN WRECKED.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., August 29.—Associated Press. — Five fishing schooners are seeking the honor of representing Yankee fishermen in the race for the International Fisherman's Trophy late in October. The elimination races will be sailed Oct. 12, 13 and 14 off Eastern Point.

The vessels which will fight it out for the responsibility of trying to regain the trophy won last year by the Halifax fisherman, Bluenose, are expected to be Mayflower, Elizabeth Howard, Yankee, Henry Ford, and L. A. Dunton.

Puritan, the pride of Gloucester, on which many a deep sea fisherman pinned his faith in the great race this fall, lies piled up on the treacherous shore of Sable Island. Along the water front the old sea dogs say that the reason for Puritans' wreck last winter was that she developed a speed far greater than those on board realized and fetched up on Sable Island long before she was supposed to be near it.

Now Gloucester folk are turning to the Henry Ford which ran ashore on Essex Beach when she was being launched in April, and was seriously damaged. She was in port recently with a large cargo of salt fish and showed no structural defect as a result. But the fisherfolk wish that the Henry Ford was a little longer and openly admit that the other Gloucester entrant, Elizabeth Howard, is too heavy.

From a Gloucester point of view the most profitable fisherman is one measuring between 90 and 105 feet feet at the waterline. For this reason they frowned upon Mayflower and Bluenose, which measures 111 feet at the waterline.

The principal criticism of Mayflower, barred from the race last year, was that those who built and owned her were not interested in the fishing industry and that her cost was almost was almost $60,000—twice as much as the average cost of a Gloucester fisherman. Her carrying capacity also is less than the average fisherman. It is expected, however, that the International Committee will approve Mayflower's entry, as she has made a number of fishing trips. Although her profits have not been as large as in the case of some of the other vessels, owing to her high first cost, she has been fairly profitable to her owners.

The recent races of the New York Yacht Club of Marblehead attracted great interest among the Gloucester fishermen who attended in large numbers to get pointers for their races two months hence.

While the deep sea fishermen are unsurpassed in the art of getting the most out of their vessels under lower sails or in making runs in from the banks they are not quite so versatile in the game of hitting the line a few seconds after the start.

In the races of the last two years they have had the benefit of the starting and light sail handling of a number of Marblehead amateurs. This year the rules permit only actual fishermen on the after deck although there is provision for one observer.

JACK ROSEVEAR IS OUT OF THE GAME

Popular and Impartial Umpire For the Past Twenty-Five Years Decides to Quit

Jack Rosevear has taken the chest protector and cake and placed them in a little cubby hole up in the garret, and the indicator is snugly resting in the corner of the dresser, all because Jack is through with the umpiring game. For twenty-five years Jack has called them behind the plate, and in early years from behind the pitching mound when one ump. took charge of the whole game. His services were always in demand and his fair and impartial rulings won for him the esteem and respect of every ball tosser. He was not infallible—none of us are that—but you could rest assured that Jack would call them as he saw them, and no team would ever be deliberately cheated by his decisions. But after a quarter of a century of clear, smooth sailing Jack has, struck a storm, and he has put up with more abuse this year than in all the other years combined. The climax was reached on Wednesday when Tyson, the Cobourg catcher, carried on a tirade against Mr. Rosevear, adding insult to injury by throwing the decker at him. So Jack has decided the game is not worth it and has notified President Parsons that he will not officiate at any future games in the Central League. Again we would ask Mr. Parsons, is this league going to protect its officials?—Port Hope Guide.

A CUP DEFENDER.

Vincent Richards.

America's defense of the Davis Cup, the emblem of tennis supremacy, depends on William Tilden, the two former champions, Williams and Johnston, and Vincent Richards, a nineteen-year-old boy who has never before appeared in an international competition.

The appointment of Richards, although the third ranking player in the States, came as a surprise, as he displaces the seasoned veteran, Watson Washburn of New York.

Richards is a pupil of Tilden, the present champion, and first gained prominence when paired with the Philadelphian in winning the national doubles.

PORT HOPE HERE FOR DOUBLE BILL

Two Games Will Be Played on Labor Day By the Locals.

The Petes will have a big day before them on Labor Day with a double-header scheduled with Port Hope. The regular league game scheduled for Wednesday has been advanced to Monday morning, and the exhibition game will be staged in the afternoon. The Port Hopers have been promising to do all kinds of things to the Petes, at the same time maintaining a very mysterious silence as to how the feat is to be accomplished. The impression they have been circulating is that they have something up their sleeve which they will spring when the time comes. The tailenders have shown some surprising spurts in the past and may prove a handful for the locals on Monday.

In addition to the afternoon game, a baseball track meet will be held for Central League players. The events will include throwing the ball for accuracy and distance, running the bases for speed and fungo batting.

The morning game is scheduled to start at 10.15 and the afternoon game at 2.30.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil).

Every golfer feels that he is only too well accustomed to the use of the niblick, for his groans have gone forth from the aching depths of his heart and the sandy depths of many a bunker. It is the club associated above all else with bunkers, bad lies, deep holes and sand traps. Its blade is laid the farthest back of all the club, and that means that it is capable of making the least distance.

Lord Charles Hope, star British player, obtains a remarkably full follow-through, as this action picture shows. The long driver has a great advantage if he keeps his drives straight. The surest protection for the long drive is the full follow-through. This is best obtained by snapping the clubhead down with the right hand, keeping this hand well under.

MEETING TO PLAN FOR BIG FIELD DAY.

The Athletic Commission representatives of Peterborough and district will meet in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock to outline the programme for the meet which is to be held on September 23 for all boys under 16. Among the representatives expected to be present are: Dr. R. W. Frank, representing the P.A.A.A., J. Munro and Maurice Parks representing the Public schools; J. Corkery and Jack Sullivan, representing the Separate schools, and Walter Smaill.

CHEAPEST PLAYER SWAPS GREETINGS WITH COSTLIEST.

You remember "Turkey" Mike Donlin, who used to play in the outfield with the old Giants, dont you?

Well, Mike is a scout for the Boston Red Sox right now and doing duty in and around the Pacific Coast League. He dropped into San Francisco the other day and met Willie Kamm, the third baseman, who will wear a White Sox uniform next year.

Mike shook hands with Willie, and said: "I wanted to meet you, young fellow, because you're the highest-priced minor leaguer ever sold and I'm the cheapest."

Willie was sold for $100,000 and Mike for $500.00.

KOLP WAS "KIDDED" OUT OF MINORS INTO THE MAJORS

While Playing With Akron the Constant Teasing of Catcher Smith Caused Him to Lose His Effectiveness and He Was Snapped Up By the Browns.

Many a player has been "razzed" off a team, and even out of a league.

Mostly it has been the fans that have turned this trick.

But there is one player in the game to-day that was not only "razzed" off his team and out of the league, but "razzed" into the majors.

And, strangest of all, it was the players of his own team, and not fans, that pulled this stunt.

The player in question is Ray Kolp, hurler for the Browns, now in a blazing battle with the Yanks for the American League bunting.

Kolp played on what at the time was the most colorful minor league team in the country, even if the color was supplied by former majors.

The team was that of Akron in the International League two years ago.

When Kolp joined the team he wanted to try out for short. That was because Webb had been purchased from the Pirates. When the team reached Hot Springs for training that was the place Kolp was after.

Someone had tipped Hoblitzel that Kolp had been the burden-bearer for the Hoover Sweepers in the box the season before, when that team had won the A.A.A. title. Hobby tried him in the box, and liked his work.

Smith, the catcher, was a hard worker and somewhat caustic in his talk when things did not go right. One day, in a spirit of fun, but in a serious tone, he asked Kolp where he learned to pitch.

Kolp, anxious to get a few tips from the veteran catcher, told of his achievements. That made it "duck soup" for Smitty.

The teasing got under the rookie's hide, and soon there was bad blood between the two. Though no one ever charged the catcher with deliberately throwing any of Kolp's games, because the team was one-two-three all the way, it was a fact that his errors lost several.

The verbal battles continued until Kolp lost what little effectiveness he had ever had. Then he was released in conformity with a promise made him at the start of the season, that if he did not make good he was to be unconditionally released.

Pete Johns, former Columbus player, played with Kolp on the Sweepers and had recommended him to Lee Fohl for a tryout. When Akron dropped Kolp, John tipped Fohl off and Kolp was offered a chance with the Browns.

How he has made good, especially as a tamer of the Indians, is a bit of baseball history. Thus the "razzing" of his team mates, especially that of Smith, drove Kolp out of the A.A. classification into the majors.

A WINDY STORY.

One hears much of the spectacular in golf these days, but here's an episode that ranks with the best:

Joseph McKenzie of Minneapolis was playing at Glenwood recently when a storm swept over the course. After reaching the green in regulation fashion, he made a long putt, which found the cup. Imagine his feelings when, just as he was about to pick the rubber core out of the cup, which was brimming with water, a strong gust of wind came along and blew it squarely out of the hole. He had to take another putt to "hole out."

(Stuart West.)
(Special to Examiner.)

NEW YORK, August 29.—The recovery on the stock exchange was not due so much to any favorable outside development as it was to a more cheerful view taken of the strike situation at home, and the financial problems abroad.

The more the proposed shutdown of the Ford plants was looked into the more it seemed to be regarded as an entirely special case. If a coal shortage forces the closing of industrial plants during the next few weeks the number of these closings will be very small. This was the conclusion which Wall street drew from the information received over night.

Efforts at Washington and elsewhere to picture the coal trades' condition in the light of great national crisis, have been very much over done. Soft coal production is already back between two thirds and three quarters of normal. The remaining deficiency will be made up within the course of another fortnight.

The one dubious feature is the ability of the railroads to provide adequate transportation facilities. But coal will be given the priority in assessment of cars, and barring possible cases of congestion in certain localities, there is very little doubt that the country's industries will be getting their full supply of coal by the end of another week or two.

In the light of to-day's happenings Monday's decline in stocks seemed to be due far more to inside than outside conditions. The market after a week's continuous advance, was in line for a reaction and outside news was used as a mere excuse. With conditions inside market strengthened, prices came back very easily over the ground lost. It took less than an hour this morning for the list to retrieve all of Monday's losses and in the afterno the upward movement was renewed in a large number of industrial and public utility issues.

CANADIAN STEAMERS DUE TO SOAR SOON.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—The Canadian market has shown considerable life for several weeks, and and it is stated on good authority that many of the shares will sell very much higher before the snow flies. Riordon stock, although having passed through very critical times, seems to be a fairly good speculation at the prevailing price of $8 per share. Spanish River, after a re-action last week to below 100, is slated for better things. The Preferred has been holding steadily around 106. Toronto Rails are showing their ability to come back, and I would not be surprised to see them make good, the prediction of selling above 100 before the winter. City Dairy has been a very strong feature lately, and is now selling at 136 for Common and 98 for Preferred.

There is one Canadian stock that I would draw your attention to in particular, and that is Steamships Preferred. This stock has been the target for a good deal of sharpshooting by the bearish element, but it is quite evident that the tide has turned and that before long there will be a wild scramble for the shares. I am informed that they have enough business in sight this fall to put it on a dividend basis. In addition to their own boats built specially for the grain trade, they have acquired by lease nearly 50 grain boats from the United States, which will be pressed into the grain-moving trade from Fort William. Don't be afraid to buy some of these shares and watch your profits grow. Yesterday they were bidding as high as 56 for the stock with very little coming to the surface.

The Mining Market is holding its own very well, having retained the advance made the last several weeks. It is freely predicted that the Gold stocks will sell very much higher, perhaps before Christmas. Watch opnortunities and buy conservatively. —Dupont.

MEXICAN SEABOARD HAS GREAT POSSIBILITIES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Who knows what will happen in the financial world these days? Well, it is hard to know what the daily fluctuations will be, but I haven't changed my opinion in the least about the ultimate result—a higher market. On Saturday's closing everyone expected to see a continuance on Monday, but you were disappointed when the Monday openings, without an exception, were lower. It looked for a while as though the bears were rallying their forces for a drive, but did you notice how dull the market became when any move in that direction occurred? I would not consider the point or so decline anything but profit-taking, or perhaps more strictly speaking, to sagging caused by the real men not taking action of any kind. It was a professional day and a sorry spectacle it was. As usual though there were a few fireworks, such as Consolidated Gas of New York, which opened at 138½, where it closed on Saturday, and quickly climbed to 141, a net gain of $12 per share from Saturday's quotations. Naturally, after such a sensational advance, it re-acted to 138½, but closed within a point of the high. This was the most spectacular stock on the board. Mexican Petroleum opened off 2½ points from Saturday, reaching 183⅛ as high and 178½ as low. This stock has become one of the most attractive to the daily traders as it seldom changes its tactics, doing 4 to 5 points per day. Do not imagine this stock is a weak issue if it declines a half dozen points, for it is not, but in case of re-actions the stock is simply left to its own device and is sold for day-to-day profits. This stock will, I think, sell well over 195 before many weeks go by. The bears seemed to pick the Motor stocks for the day's target and sold Studebaker freely, securing a re-action of 1 3-4 points from the previous close. The surprise of the afternoon came from Mexican Seaboard with a net gain of 2 3-4 points. This company has great possibilities in Mexico, having been sanctioned permission by the Government to begin new work in drilling. This stock could be bought.—Seawright.

BANKERS SEARCHING FOR NEW INVESTMENTS.

Investment bankers have scouts as far west as San Francisco, as far north as Minneapolis and as far south as Dallas, Texas, on the search for new bond issues of worth with which the investment appetite may be appeased. The situation has become peculiar, in that the investment bankers now are seeking the issues rather than the issues seeking the bankers. It used to be a common sight to see the heads of two or three corporations with their balance sheets in their hands, waiting outside the door of some of the prominent investment bankers for the opportunity to present their arguments for new financing. As a matter of fact, all of the industrial "lame ducks" have been taken care of or thrown completely overboard. Such business as comes to hand from this time on will not be of absolute necessity, and there is a considerable disposition on the part of heads of most corporations to sit back and await further easing in money rates before getting down to brass tacks with their bankers.

LEATHER GROUP RECOVERING.

Probably the last of the important industries which show signs of getting back to somewhere near normal is the leather industry, and the recent strength in the group of stocks connected with it is attributed to the improvement reported in the trade, says the New York Times. Thus far most of the improvement is noted in the hide market, but attempts have been made to advance leather prices. The advances in hide prices meet with protests from the tanners, while the advance in leather prices announced by tanners meet with protests from shoe manufacturers, and to add to the many links involved from the time the raw product is taken in hand to the time the shoe is sold to the consumer, the dealers protest against the price advances announced by the manufacturers. But the opinion prevails that this situation cannot go on indefinitely and that prices will soon break "their harness." Hide prices to-day are about 30 per cent. above the prices prevailing a year ago, while sole leather is up less than five per cent. Calfskins are up about twenty per cent. but "upper leather" is actually selling below the price quoted a year ago. Interests in the trade contend that hide prices must drop or finished leather prices must advance.

MOTOR COMPANIES ARE SUPPLIED WITH COAL

NEW YORK, August 29. — Studebaker gained somewhat, and other motors showed a better tone despite rumors that coal shortage might force early curtailment of operations by a number of important motor companies, including General Motors and Dodge Bros. The latter is turning out upwards of 650 cars daily, the highest production of the year, and contemplates continued high operations. Officials characterize Dodge Bros., coal supplies as adequate and no interruption to activities is likely except in the event of difficulty in maintaining steady inflow of materials. Three principal General Motors divisions, Chevrolet, Buick and Cadillac are at capacity and no early let up is anticipated. General Motors buys considerable power from public utility companies but also has a considerable coal reserve. As in case of Dodge Bros and most other motor producers, however ability of General Motors units to keep going depends mainly upon uninterrupted receipts of materials rather than coal.

Capitol Entertainment

One of the most delightful screen productions of the year is "Seeing's Believing," the new Metro photoplay starring Viola Dana, which was seen for the first time yesterday at the Capitol Theatre. It gives the sparkling youthful star an excellent vehicle for the display of her unusually effective talents as a comedienne, and it tells a thoroughly interesting and at all times plausible story. If you enjoy motion pictures at all, this one certainly ought to give you genuine satisfaction.

As the title indicates, the play takes a slant at individuals who are prone to jump to a conclusion merely because they have seen a situation which partially warrants it. Viola Dana is cast in the role of Diana Webster, a charming millionaire orphan who makes her home with her aunt. When Diana and her aunt's suitor are caught in a storm on their way to the city they are compelled to register as man and wife at the town's only hotel, to avoid unnecessary inconvenience. This is a harmless enough situation, to be sure; but it happens that another guest at the hotel suspects that all is not as it should be with these two.

To Diana's dismay the latter appears as a guest of her brother at their home, to which she returns a few days later. Diana tells him that she is not married. He feels that the situation in which he has seen her at the hotel is enough for him; to him, "seeing is believing," but he gallantly volunteers to share her secret with her alone.

Diana determines to prove to him that it is poor policy to believe all that we see. She decides to involve him in a compromising situation, appear at the right moment, and when he attempts to explain, give him a taste of his own medicine. Her plans are frustrated when her agents prove to be professional blackmailers themselves. Instead of gaining her point, she is almost made the victim of a serious plot from which she is extricated in the nick of time. The arrival of the district attorney sets matters to rights, and the crooks are arrested.

'Seein'g's Believing" is a Harry Beaumont production. It was adapted by Edith Kennedy from a story by Rex Taylor. The photography is by John Arnold. A. F. Mantz was art and technical director.

A number of specials, including a good comedy, complete an interesting bill for the first half of the week.

AT THE GRAND.

On Monday next, September 4th (Labor Day) matinee and night and for an indefinite run, the popular Grand Opera House will re-open its doors to the theatre going public of Peterboro' with an attraction that is a real novelty in modern high class refined entertainment, when the most popular organization of Musical Revue in the Eastern States and the Maritime Provinces where the Company has held sway for the past four years, will makes its bow to the Ontario theatre going public. Mr. Evans is a refined comedian of wide repute in Boston and New York and has selected his own company for the present season with the idea of making a reputation in Canada beyond comparison in this particular style of entertainment. The Co. has just completed a 10 weeks run in Boston, and jumped direct to Brockville where it opened the Canadian tour on Thursday last and the Brockville papers laud the attraction as the best evening entertainment seen and heard in that city in years.

Now Brockville has, every year some of the best shows travelling in Ontario and the criticism given of the Evans' Revue is worth taking notice of.

Manager W. L. Phillips of the Grand, when asked this morning regarding the attraction gave a personal guarantee that the theatre lover in Peterboro' if at all fond of music, singing, dancing, refined comedy, gorgeous costumes and scenery, and clever pretty girls, will be amply repaid for their visit to the Grand next week. Mr. Phillips was responsible for the popular Rex Stock Company coming to Canada, and you know all the high-class productios were given by that company and states the new venture in Evans Musical Revue is fully equal in every respect to Rex and Co. He states he does not want the public to be under the impression that this attraction is one of the so called Musical Tabloid shows, for they are mistaken. A full two hours show is given, with not a moments wait from start to finish, and the entertainment includes a little bit of everything, in fact it is hard to explain this style of show on account of the continual changes and variety.

Seats go on sale on Thursday morning at 10 a.m. for the entire week, and as Monday is a holiday, would advise all to secure seats early for either matinee or night performances, as all seats are reserved for both performances. Popular prices prevail, viz:—20, 30, 50 and 75c.

WATER IS RISING IN ST. JOHN RIVER.

FREDERICKTON, N.B., Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press)—Water in the St. John river has risen two feet as a result of the heavy rain during the week and was still rising yesterday afternoon. So far the freshet results from the heavy rains have not been serious but a continuance of the downpour might have serious effects.

Charles Ray in "Scrap Iron"

AT THE ROYAL.

THIS CLAM BAKE NEEDED MUCH RETAKE

In "Scrap Iron," shown at the Royal Theatre last night, and which was adapted from the Saturday Evening Post story, by Charles E. Van Loan, and in which Charles Ray is starred, there are scenes representing a clam-bake, and as Mr. Ray is very keen on having all the incidentals and small details connected with his pictures correct, he had one scene taken of the clams actually making with the shells popping open.

When he thought of this particular scene, he told his property man to go down and buy two or three dozen clams, in order to take enough film to get just what he required.

In the finished film, there are about three feet of film showing these clams with the shells of one of them opening, and quite a good deal of time was taken to obtain the result. As a matter of fact, about nine hundred feet of film was consumed and four and a half dozen clams were used.

When Mr. Ray saw the finished film, he said, "that's fine— we got what we wanted at very small cost." When his property man asked him if he knew what the cost of the clams alone was and he answered "no," he was told that the clams had cost just $18.00. Added to this was the salaries of the camera man and his assistants and the time consumed —the "shot" cost over $100. Charles Ray's final remark was, "Gee. But that's a lot of money to show one clam opening, but it's worth it."

Incidentally the taking of the scene proved a source of amusement to the whole company, as they all stayed around watching to see if the proper result was obtained, and afterwards the baked clams were not allowed to go to waste, as there was a regular clam-bake on the stage.

USING RADIO AND NOT KNOWING IT.

By PAUL F. GODLEY.

Countless persons have talked over a "radio" telephone without knowing it.

It's going on every day. As many as half a dozen may talk at the same time between two cities by "radio."

To obviate the necessity for increased wire lines as the demands on their service increased, the American Telegraph & Telephone Company has been using "radio" waves with great success for long-distance telephone connections.

The waves, generated by a miniature generating plant, are guided to their destination some hundreds of miles away by a pair of copper wires which may be carrying one, and perhaps two, conversations. As many as five "radio" messages may be thrown upon the wires without interference.

Wired Wireless.

This method was the first commercial practicable application of the "wired wireless," of which we have heard so much. Its continued use should help hold down the rapidly climbing telephone rates. In the past, when increased business had overloaded existing channels, the operating companies have had to erect new lines of poles and string upon them thousands of miles of wire.

Given "wired wireless," as applied to land line telephony, it is only necessary to provide at each end a miniature generator of radio waves and a receiver suitable for "translating" those radio waves into sound waves.

With this method in use, existing circuits will be able to take care of the growth in volume of traffic for a long time.

No Loss.

Strange as it may seem, the quality and clarity of the voice as it carried across the continent in this way, is far superior to that one carried by the old-type system. The marvellous device used so much in radio work—is called in to act as the miniature generator of radio waves. It is also used as a detector of the waves coming from the distant place. At intervals of 400 to 600 miles are repeaters which utilize this same vacuum tube.

Prior to the invention of the vacuum tube, which is primarily a radio contribution, it was possible to telephone only as far as Denver from New York.

The application of the vacuum tube to telephone line work makes transcontinental telephony possible. The voice of the man on the Atlantic coast now reaches his friend in San Francisco with the same distinctiveness as though they were talking across the street.

PREPARING FOR THE COAL-MOVEMENT.

With the general opinion in financial circles that the railway strike will either be promptly settled or will wear itself out, there was much speculation yesterday on the possibility of the roads furnishing a sufficient number of cars to handle the heavy coal production which is expected to begin as soon as all difficulties with the miners are smoothed out. It is recognized that there will be a pinch of anthracite this winter, and the anthracite roads are understood to be anticipating the demands for such traffic by repairing every available open top coal car. The Lehigh Valley was reported yesterday as having some 4,000 cars ready for shipments, and the Lackawanna as having 9,000 cars on hand for the purpose. These roads are two of the most important anthracite carriers.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Mr. Robert Miller, who died Aug. 29., 1921.
It singeth low in every heart,
We hear it each and all;
A song of those we answer not,
However we may call.
They throng the silence of the breast,
We see them as of yore,
The kind, the brave, the true, the sweet,
Who walk with us no more.

'Tis hard to take the burden up,
When they have laid it down;
They brightened all the joy of life,
They softened every frown.
But, oh! tis good to think of them,
When we are troubled sore,
Thanks be to God that they have been
Although they are no more.

More homelike seems the bast unknown,
Since they are entered there;
To follow them were not so hard,
Wherever they may fare.
They cannot be wheer God is not,
On any sea or shore
Whate'er betides Thy love abides,
Our God forever more.

Loose Flowing Sleeves Passe This Season

Sleeves remain highly important in the architecture of a dress. Here are some of the fashionable new ones.

You'll notice that they are not so loose and flowing as they were last season. There is more and more a tendency to confine their width with a cuff. Many of the newest frocks show the long, tight sleeve again.

Hall-and-hall sleeves are very good—like the one that is tight to a little above the elbow and full and pleated from there to the wrist.

The straight tailored pleats and the triangular set-in piece are shown on some of the smartest tailored coat dresses for fall.

It seems evident that once having discovered the potentialities of sleeves designers are unwilling to let slip any slightest possibility for variation.

THE ANTHRACITE COAL STRIKE IS NEARING A SOLUTION

SITUATION IS IMPROVING IN COAL CENTRES

Operators and Miners Agree to Meet for Another Conference With View of Settling Strike

PROPOSALS DRAFTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The anthracite coal strike situation took another turn toward settlement today when leaders of both sides agreed at a conference here to present to the anthracite operators and miners a general scale for "final decisions." The settlement proposals were drafted by Senators Pepper and Reed of Pennsylvania.

A statement issued after the conference, which continued from last night into the early hours of today, said separate meetings of the two groups would be convened as early as possible. John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, and S. D. Warriner, Chairman of the General Policy Committee of Anthracite Operators, who attended the conference, prepared to leave Washington immediately to convene these, probably in Philadelphia.

It was further agreed that the terms of proposals should be withheld from publication pending the meetings. These were understood, however, to provide for immediate return to work of the miners on the basis of the wage scale and working conditions in effect last April 1, with the operators withdrawing their insistence that arbitration be adopted as a method of fixing future wage scales.

The speech-making, in which the progress of Provincial roads will be enlarged upon, will commence at 3 p.m. A large number of Peterborough motorists are co-operating to make the event a success. A feature of the programme will be an automobile parade, with a prize for the best decorated car.

Mayor W. H. Taylor will entertain the guest at luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-morrow, after which the party will journey to the scene of the dedication.

THE COMMISSION HELD A SESSION ON REPARATIONS

Reparations Commission Expects to Act by Noon Tomorrow.

PARIS, August 30. Canadian Press. —The Reparations Commission convened at 10.30 this morning, and after a few minutes called in the German delegates, including Karl Bergmann, Herr Schroerer anh Dr. Fischer of the Finance Ministry, and Ambassador Mayer.

Herr Schroerer presented the German proposal on which the delegates hope to be granted a moratorium. They declared that the offer made by the Berlin government represented their limit.

The morning session with the Germans lasted two hours. The German representatives pictured to the commission the gravity of the situation within Germany and asked prompt action to relieve the suspense.

The German delegates arranged to make a technical exposition of their proposals at the afternoon meeting. The commission expects to act by noon to-morrow.

MAY WITHDRAW FROM CONFERENCE

PARIS, Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press)—Feling was expressed in reparations circles this afternoon that French government would withdraw its delegates on reparations question preparatory to independent action on indemnity question. This belief arose from fact that German delegates had not advanced proposal satisfactory to France.

Holding the Fort In the Lean Days

The Story of an Admiral Who Chopped His Home Out of the Wilds Near Lindsay

A party of Lindsay excursionists yesterday visited a spot called the "Old Fort" on Balsam Lake. The story connected with the place is interesting.

The title "Old Fort" is somewhat of a misnomer. There is actually no fort nor has there ever been one. The first settler in the township was Admiral Vansittart, a cousin of Baron Bexley who came to Canada in 1834 and was given a grant of one thousand acres on the shore of West Bay, Balsam Lake. Of the newcomer, Mr. Watson Kirkconnell, B.A., says:

"He came in with ox-wagons over the old Indian trail from Lake Simcoe and often had to stop and chop out trees and logs from the path. His new property, at the head of the Portage had had an earlier history. Indian villages had flourished here in the sixteenth century; Champlain had traversed the spot in September of the year 1615; Jesuits, coureurs de bois, Hurons, Iroquois and Mississaugas, all passed and repassed up to 1760; then came English furtraders and toward the end of the eighteenth century a trading post, comprising three main buildings, was established near the shore. The stone chimneys of this post were still in existence in 1871, but were demolished not long afterward.

"The old admiral was not without character. Even in his wilderness home he insisted on dressing for formal dinner every evening and was never without his champagne. He was twice married. His second wife was a Miss Stephenson, the daughter of one of his own servants, and to her he lef the entire Balsam Lake estate. In later times, about 1871 the property passed into the hands of the late George Laidlaw, the "Laird of Bexley," who named it the "Fort Rranch." The name does not refer to any fort on the premises, but the customary question of a frequent guest, the late Hon. Rupert Wells, who, as the times were hard and money tight, would ask his host on each visit if he were still "holding the fort." One of his sons, Colonel George E. Laidlaw, now occupies the estate."

Relics of the Indian occupation and spearheads and other indications of warfare have been unearthed in the region. In this vicinity of Laidlaw's Landing, to which the Lintonia went yesterday, is the commencement of what is now known as the Portage Road, which was the old Indian trail between Balsam Lake and Lake Simcoe.

COMMITTED IN POLICE COURT THEFT CHARGE

TO-DAY'S COURT NEWS

An eleven-year-old boy was committed to St. John's Industrial School for a three-year term by Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning. The mother declared she could not do anything with the boy. A week ago he stole eighteen dollars from her and yesterday he took possession of a horse and buggy tied on Water street and went for a drive. This morning he was charged with the theft of the outfit, which was owned by Dennis Maloney and recovered on Euclid avenue. The boy had just emerged from the picture show when he became interested in the carriage and yearned for a drive. He helped himself.

"Why did you do it? I wonder you weren't killed. You don't know anything about horses," remarked the mother regarding her offspring, hopelessly.

"I do so. I was on the farm once," declared the boy, who found the proceedings highly interesting.

The Magistrate approved of St. John's Industrial School, which was suggested by G. W. Powell, Children's Aid Society Agent The mother expressed the hope that her son, who is incidentally one of twelve, would return with a good trade, and the boy regarded enthusiastically the prospect of being associated with hundreds of boys "on a big farm," as Mr. Powell described the place. Of the $18 taken at home the boy said he spent $7.50 on candies. The boy's case was evidently one of energy misdirected, and as he had, through force of circumstances, only attended school about one year, his conception of right and wrong was inclined to be hazy.

Toted a Gun.

Packing a gun cost Arthur Hines $10, and in default of payment he must spend one month in jail. The pistol was confiscated. The Magistrate pointed out that the maximum penalty for carrying firearms without a permit was $100, but the circumstances seemed to indicate that Hines did not make a habit of carrying a gun. The Chief spoke on behalf of accused. Some of the extenuating circumstances, he said, were that accused had had a row at his father-in-law's home and the family had encountered financial difficulties. Hines can get his job back on the farm, although the Chief said the farmer did not mention that he would pay the fine.

RHODESIA VETERANS ASK AID OF G.W.V.A.

OTTAWA, August 30. Canadian Press. — Claiming that the pension Board in London and the British Ministry of Pensions had annulled by cable numerous pensions awarded in Rhodesia by the duly recognized pension board of that country, the national grand council of the Comrades of the Great War (Rhodesia) has requested the support of the Great War Veterans' Association here in endeavoring to have the British authorities reconsider their decisions.

A letter to this effect was received by R. B. Maxwell, dominion president, G.W.V.A., this week, who immediately communicated with the headquarters of the British Empire Service League in London voicing unanimous support of the Rhodesia protest.

To Withdraw All Postage Stamps of The Germania Type

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—(Associated Press.)—One of the last remaining symbols of the old regime in Germany will pass away with the withdrawal of all postage stamps of the familiar "Germania" type on October 31 next.

This striking design, first adopted in 1900, played a measurable part in fostering the militarist movement that brought disaster upon the Fatherland.

The original of the mail-clad figure of Germania was Fraulein Anna Fuhring, of the Imperial Opera, whose portrayal of the role so impressed the former Kaiser that he ordered the likeness to be placed upon the new postage stamps of the Empire.

Since the establishment of the Republic numerous protests have been lodged against the continuance of this design, and now that the new industrial series of stamps has been completed, instructions for its suppression have been issued.

MAYOR TAYLOR WILL ENTERTAIN VISITORS

To Be Mine Host to Prominent Parliamentary Representatives.

Mayor W. H. Taylor is entertaining the prominent visitors who will be here to-morrow in connection with the opening of the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway, to luncheon at the Empress Hotel at noon.

The County Council, it is said, took no steps to entertain the Cabinet Ministers and members of Parliament, and the Reception Committee of the City Council is afraid of criticism, although, as a matter of fact, such criticism would be unjust.

The Mayor has, therefore, arranged to personally entertain the visitors, and the citys reputation for hospitality will be upheld.

MY BOSS

Give me for a boss the man who has worked hard and accomplished much. Who has met the challenge of adversity with a glad smile, and listened to the flattery of success with a doubting ear. Who has never belittled the labor that gave him bread, nor fawned on the hand that made up the payroll. Give me this man for a boss and I'll not work under him, but with him. — The Lamp.

BYLAW TO BE SALVAGED AND THEN AMENDED

Fire Chief Says Storage of Oil in the City Should Be Regulated -- Chief Misses the Convention

COMMITTEE MET

An ancient and obsolete bylaw, bearing the signature of James Kendry, Mayor and embodying the regulations for the storage of oil in Peterboro was reclaimed from the dust by Fire Chief Gimblett and laid before the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night by Ald. Crowe. Ald. Turner curiously read several of the paragraphs, prescribing where coal oil and other oils might be kept, but Mayor Taylor was in a hurry to get away, the committee having been half an hour late in assembling, and as a result Ald. Crowe was instructed to have the by-law revised.

It transpired in the perusal of a note from Chief Ten Eyck of Hamilton, that Chief Gimblett was not attending the fire convention of the Fire Chiefs of Ontario.

Ald. Crowe explained that a meeting hadn't been called and that consequently the Chief had not been authorized to go.

Duty of M.O.H.

In regard to the physical examination of the firemen, Ald. Crowe reported that Dr. Young, Medical Officer of Health, contended that according to his agreement with the city he was not required to perform this work, and he therefore felt that to give the men a thorough test he should be paid for it.

The agreement was produced and it was read that the M.O.H. should make such examinations. No further action was taken.

Ald. Stocker suggested that the firemen should be provided with combination overalls to be used in their drills for the purpose of saving their regular colthes. He believed it would be an economy.

Ald. Gainey's motion that a hydrant be placed on Munroe avenue was seconded by Ald. Turner.

The purchase of a brass sliding rod was left to the chairman, Ald. Crowe, who quoted a price of $87.50 from a man named Morden. This quotation was considered too high, and it was stated that a second hand pole might be obtained from the Hamilton department.

$90 in Firemen's Fund.

The cheque for $25 from Rev. J. V. McAuley, parish priest at Ennismore, who gave it as a contribution to the Firemen's Fund, was turned in by Chief Gimblett and will be added to the fund the secretary-treasurer of which is City Treasurer Adams. The other members are the Chief and the chairman of the committee, which City Clerk Armstrong remarked rarely meets. The amount in the fund treasury is $90.

Ald. Crowe reported that the firemen have in the past bought their own metal badges. He proposed that the committee might consider buying them for the new men in future, but this change was laid over until next year, when the estimates are being prepared.

UPHELD OBJECTIONS TO PRIVILEGES AT BOYLER INQUEST

Deputy Attorney-General Sustains Crown Attorney Hatton's Protest Against Cross-Examination of Witnesses by G. N. Gordon, K.C.

AN INNOVATION

In a letter received by Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., the objections set forth by him at the inquest into the death of Orman Boyler, before Coroner Dr. D. C. King a month ago, regarding the privileges granted G. N. Gordon, K.C., solicitor for George Evans, have been upheld by Edward Bayley, Deputy Attorney-General.

Mr. Hatton objected to Mr. Gordon being alowed to cross-examine the witnesses and claims that he produced precedents to show that the permissoin was not granted at coroner's inquests, as cross-examination leads to re-examination, and the proceedings would be dragged out ad infinitum. Mr. Gordon was allowed to proceed however. Mr. Hatton also strenuously objected to Mr. Gordon being allower to address the jury, claiming that this innovation was unheard of.

The Deputy-General's attention was drawn to the alleged unusual privileges granted Mr. Gordon by George Boyler, the father of the boy Orman who was killed by Evans' auto, on July 19. The father objected to the finding of accidental death by the coroner's jury, and the jury's finding is now under full consideration by the Attorney-General's Deaprtment.

Mr. Hatton was instructed to proceed with a charge of manslaughter, but in this regard the deputy had evidently not been informed that the case against Evans was instituted the morning following the tragedy, and he is now committed for trial.

KINGSTON, Ont., August 30. — A local coal dealer is taking orders for a carload of American anthracite coal which is expected to arrive in a few days, at $23 a ton. In explaining the high price the dealer said he was obliged to pay a premium of eight dollars above the regular price.

LANDED A BLACK BASS AT WHITE LAKE.

Alec Mervin, the 12-year-old son of John Mervin, was successful in landing a five and one-half pound black bass at White Lake, near Warsaw, yesterday afternoon about 4.30, and today he arrived home with the splendid trophy, testifying to his ability as a fisherman.

He was accompanied yesterday by Thomas Miller, of Warsaw, where he had been visiting, and Mr. Miller took part in bringing the big fish from out of the depths of the lake.

The bass was caught with an ordinary hook baited with an angle worm, and the youthful Walton is confident of the attractiveness of this simple bait.

Other bass were caught, but none approached the black bass, and reports say it is one of the largest ever taken from that body of water.

Find the Site of One of Earliest Irish Monasteries

BELFAST, Aug. 30.—(Associated Press.)—The site of one of the earliest Christian monasteries in Ireland has been found at Mahee Island, Strangford Lough, near Belfast. The ruins have been identified as those of Nendrum monstery, mentioned in Muircha's "Life of St. Patrick," written before 699 A.D.

Extensive excavations have been carried out and valuable material, including some stones with writing, the exact meaning of which has not yet been ascertained. Some of the writines are believed to be of Danish origin.

In Gede's "Ecclesiastical History," it is recorded that in 634 Pope Honorius wrote to certain bishops of the Irish Church about the Paschal controversy and Pelagian heresy, and one of the bishops mentioned in the letter is Cromous, Bishop of Nendrum. The island of Nendrum was afterwards named Mahee, after a bishop of the monastery,

TURKS SEE THE DOOM OF ISLAM

What the Morning Post Thinks of the Prime Minister's Policy.

LONDON, August 30. Canadian Press. — The "Morning Post" thinks the Turkish-Greek offensive is the Angora Governments' reply to the cool reception given to Bethi Bey, the Kemalist Minister of the Interior, on his recent visit to London and to Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons several weeks ago, in which the Premier "in so many words declared Turkish sovereignity could no longer be established over Smyrna."

The Post says the Turks accepted this speech as a challenge and that "it was to them the doom of Islam."

The prime minister's policy, the newspaper charges, is driving the Turks to despair and making Greece bankrupt, France hostile, and Great Britain powerless.

Question of Government Control Is Revived Again

Bill Will Be Introduced to Give President Harding Authority to Seize Mines and Roads.

PUBLIC 'PLUNDERED.'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.)— Smouldering official opinion in favor of a presidential authorization to take over United States railroads and coal mines not operated at their highest efficiency was revived in Congress yesterday when it was made known at the White House that President Harding still held that such a grant of power was desirable although without any idea of using the authority except in a case of direct public necessity.

One immediate result of the renewed discussion of Government operation was the prospect that the House might be called upon at short notice to put itself on record in the matter. Representative Johnson, Republican, South Dakota, announced his intention to offer to-day an amendment to the administration coal control bill, which would give the President the authority he was said to desire. Several other members of the House indicated that they also would submit amendments with the same purpose in view, although Congressional leaders generally predicted no such legislation will be passed for the present.

As explained at the White House, the President's attitude is that the administration's hold on the situation would be measurably strengthened if it had as a foundation the potential power to take over a single railroad or a system of carriers, a single mine or a series of mining properties, which had been shown clearly to have failed to render the public the full service of which they were capable.

Mr. Harding, it was declared, believed yesterday that the bituminous coal industry was working out its own problem under the impetus of the practical settlement reached at Cleveland and held further that the anthracite strike would be settled shortly on a basis which would permit the hard coal mines to return rapidly to production.

A less optimistic view of the fuel situation was taken by Chairman Cummins of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee in his report on the coal control bill.

"The present situation is an exceedingly grave one," the report declared, adding that unless the railroads succeeded in measurably increasing their facilities for handling coal, the situation would be the same as though the bituminous strike was still in progress throughout the industry. Some operators "and many dealers," the report continued, 'are' taking advantage of the shortage of fuel and Congress was faced with the necessity of either approving legislation such as that being reported, or of permitting the public to be "plundered."

The Senate Committee approved an amendment to the bill which which would limit the authority of the controlling commission to one year.

The House Interstate Commerce Committee in reporting the Winslow Bill for Federal coal control, announced that the proposal for a Federal fuel agency had been definitely abandoned and that "the President is in accord with this conclusion."

The six hours of general debate on the bill had not been concluded when the House adjourned last night. The measure will be taken up to-day for continued consideration, item by item, and leaders said they would press for a vote to-night.

FUEL ADMINISTRATION FOR STATE OF NEW YORK.

Fuel Dictator Will Be Armed With a Maximum of Power.

ALBANY, N.Y., August 30 (Canadian Press). — Without a dissenting vote, the New York Legislature, in extraordinary session, yesterday passed the Administration Bill providing for the creation of a single-headed fuel administration ,and an appropriation of $10,000,000 to cope with the shortage due to the coal strike.

Two hours after the Legislature had adjourned, Governor Miller enacted the measure as law by signing the Bill.

In less than twenty-four hours after the Legislature had been convoked in extraordinary session, the State was thus officially embarked on a drastic policy of fuel control to continue during the existent emergency.

Under the authority of the new law, Governor Miller will, within the next day or two, appoint a State fuel dictator, armed with a maximum of power to regulate the use, sale, and distribution of coal within the State, with further power to control the margins of profit and to prevent profiteering and hoarding.

OTTAWA TO USE OIL BURNERS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Shortage of Coal Makes Change Necessary—May Be More Economical Than Coal.

LESS LABOR.

OTTAWA, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—There is likelihood that oil burning will be immediately substituted in most if not all the Ottawa Public schools for heating purposes ready for the forthcoming winter. The matter will be decided at the regular meeting of the School Board which will be held on Thursday, September 7. Members of the board, together with the superintendent of buildings, W. C. Beattie, have been busy during the last few days visiting institutions in Ottawa which have already adopted oil burning for heating, and from remarks made they have evidently been impressed with the advantages of oil so far as human labor is concerned in the matter of handling the heating systems as compared with coal fuel. They are also inclined to regard oil burning as more economical, especially in view of present difficulties regarding coal supplies and prices likely to obtain through alleged shortage.

The matter has been brought to a head through the desire of the local coal dealer who had secured the year's contract for the supply of coal for heating the Public schools and buildings to be released from the contract in view of strikes and other difficulties.

SEAN COLLINS MAY SUCCEED TO SEAT.

Shake-Up in the Irish Ministry—Women at the Graveside.

DUBLIN, August 30 .(Canadian Press). — Political writers forecast that Sean Collins may consent to stand for th seat of his dead brother in Cork County, and say that he is certain to receive practically unanimous support from the southern admirers of the late leader.

General Richard Mulcahy now holds the combined posts of Minister of Defence, Chief of the General Staff, and Commander-in-Chief of the National Army.

Should he relinquish the office of Chief of Staff, it is expected that General O'Connell, Assistant Chief, will be promoted.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Norman Wilson and Albert Burke were last night at an inquest held responsible for the death of Mrs. Annie Taylor, aged 56, who died in the hospital on August 22, the day after she was struck and run over by Wilson's automobile, which was driven by Burke. Both are held on a charge of manslaughter.

Efforts to Aid the Farmers Who Are in Financial Difficulty

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The appointment of an official who would act as advisory referee where farmers, who are hard pressed financially, want an extension of time will probably be made as the result of a conference Monday between the Government and business interests of Manitoba, it was learned officially yesterday.

This is the first practical effort in the Dominion to set up business machinery whereby the rural population can appeal from their creditors, and it is expected that this will prevent the glutting of the wheat market by forcing farmers to sell their grain too soon after harvest.

The plan has been approved by the business men who attended the conference, but a further meeting will be held before the appointment is announced. The referee, while having no legal power to stay the foreclosing of a farmer, will be able to bring strong pressure to bear on the creditor to allow an extension of time, if it is considered advisable.

MANITOBA WHEAT CUTTING FINISHED

Threshing Now in Full Swing in Many Places—Work Retarded By Rain in a Few Places.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadian National Railways crop report for week ending August 26, shows that cutting in Manitoba generally speaking is completed and that threshing has commenced in many places. Many points report that the weather for harvest is ideal, but in a few places they say that harvesting operations have been delayed by rain. The yield so far is very satisfactory and in many cases exceeds the estimates.

In Saskatchewan wheat cutting is reported to be from fifty to eighty per cent. completed and threshing is expected to start next week in many districts. A few places report that work has been retarded by rains.

In Alberta cutting is general, but several places in the northern and central parts of Alberta report that they have been delayed by rain.

REPORTED HEN THIEVES BUSY NEAR WARSAW

Chase After Alleged Robbers of Hen Houses Results in Recovery of 35 Birds.

WARSAW, Aug. 30.—It is reported that quite a number of henhouses have been robbed of late; but one victim north of this village was fortunate enough to not only recover his own missing hens, but some also belonging to others, it is claimed.

Hearing the hens squeak and the dog bark the other night, this resident's wife aroused him. When he arose and fired his shotgun in the air, at the moment a man carrying a squeaking bird passed the house. The suspected thieves entered a waiting democrat and drove through Warsaw village, headed for Peterborough, with the owner of the stolen hens in hot chase with a neighbor in his car.

They overtook the democrat, and the driver eventually stopped, but the men stoutly denied having any fowl in the rig until a hen squeaked and gave the show away. The rig appeared to be laden with a camping outfit, but on being unloaded it was discovered to be crated at the bottom, apparently for carrying fowl, with an entrance to the front. Camping paraphernalia was piled on top as a blind, it is alleged. Quite a number of hens were found confined in the crated bottom of the rig, when one of the men pleaded for mercy for the sake of his wife and family. Some of the fowl claimed to belong to the man who had been alarmed, and with his neighbor given chase, the men were forced by their captors to drive back to the farmer's home, where they unloaded 35 hens, some of which are the property of some person or persons as yet unknown. The strangers claimed they had brought the hens from home, but this is not credited, although the men were not detained.

TO OPEN 54 MINES.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—The Pittsburgh Coal Producers' Association last night accepted the terms of the Cleveland agreement and signed a supplemental agreement with the United Mine Workers organization to immediately re-open 54 mines employing more ten thousand men. This action practicaliy settles the strike of miners in the bituminous field which began April 1.

BANDITS MAKE BIG HAUL FROM WESTERN BANK

Early Morning Job Results in Haul of $82,000, Including $12,000 in Cash.

BLEW THE SAFE.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., August 30 (Canadian Press). — Six masked bandits held up the Union Bank branch at Foremost, about 80 miles south-east of Lethbridge, on the Canadian Pacific Railway, Lethbridge-Weyburn line, between 1.30 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning, bound and gagged two clerks sleeping in quarters over the bank, after having forced the junior clerk to open the outer door of the vault, and completely ransacked the vault and safety deposit boxes, getting $12,000 in cash and $70,000 in securities, mostly registered Victory bonds.

They made their get-away by automobile, and are believed to have headed for the new oil field region at Sunburst, on the Great Northern Railway in Northern Montana.

The robbers blew the inner door of the safe.

Police have spread a dragnet in an effort to intercept the hold-ups, but they had a good four hours' start on the officers.

Police here believe the job was done by professionals. They entered the town, cut the telephone cables at the exchange, and the C.P.R. telegraph wires at the depot.

Then they cut the wires on the ignition systems of all the automobiles standing about on the main street.

About 1.30 a.m., four of the men, masked, forced entrance into the bank, and going up to the sleeping quarters in which the two clerks were asleep, awakened them.

McPhee, the teller, they bound and gagged. He was a new man in the bank, and the hold-up men seemingly knew he did not know the combination of the vault.

The junior clerk, Reg. Jennings, they forced to accompany them down stairs and open the outer doors of the vault. He was then taken back to his bed, and both clerks were roped to the beds. The inner door of the safe was then blown, and the vault thoroughly ransacked.

REPORTS ON COAL SUPPLY CONFLICT

Montreal Board of Trade Says "Shortage" Dealer Says "Plenty and Will Cost Less."

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Working on the basis of a three-quarters shortage in the normal supply of coal which comes into Montreal from the United States for local use, the consensus of opinion at a specially called meeting of the Board of Trade here yesterday was that it is for the individual to get what ufel he can at once to meet his wants at least until the end of the year.

In sharp contrast with reports of coal shortage, present and to come, is the fact that some coal dealers in this city have advised customers not to worry about the situation, that they will have their coal shortly and at satisfactory prices. One downtown business man was told today that he would get his usual supply within two weeks at about $1 less a ton than last year.

YACHT SUNK TEN YEARS AGO FOUND.

FORT WILLIAM, August 30 (Canadian Press). — The steamer Strathbell has arrived here with John C. McRae, who has succeeded in locating the wreck of the steam yacht Guinilda, lost near Rossport ten years ago, in the summer of 1912. McRae is a marine engineer, and has been searching for the wreck.

The Strathbell brought back one of the davits and some cable sheaves which had been secured by grappling hooks.

The Guinilda lies in over 200 feet of water. It is expected the yacht will be salvaged next summer.

The Strathbell, in charge of Captain B. McCabe, is one of the fleet of the Dominion Towing and Wrecking Company, who will undertake the work.

The Guinilda, with fittings, was worth about $200,000, and many articles of valuable plate and jewellery went down with her.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER COLLINS' CHAUFFEUR

CORK, Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press)—Charged with having driven the automobile in which Michael Collins rode to his death Edward Isherwood an Englishman, was taken from his residence this morning by an armed band and shot. His wounds were not mortal, however, and after feigning death for several hours Isherwood escaped and made his way to a hospital.

Reparations Commission is Deadlocked Over Payments

German Government Does Not Offer Any New Concessions and Breach Is Feared Between France and Britain.

DECISION POSTPONED.

PARIS, Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press)—The members of the Reparations Commission were still deadlocked last evening after another strenous day given over entirely to an effort to reach a basis for an unanimous agreement on German payments and prevent a split in the commission and a possible breach of Franco-British relations.

The failure of the German delegates, Herr Schroeder and Herr Bergmann, special envoys from Berlin, to bring with them any new concessions from the German Government had a depressing effect in certain circles where it was hoped Germany may have formulted some new scheme.

Herr Bergmbann conferred yesterday afternoon with members of the Reparations Commission and told them that the last minute proposal handed to Sir John Bradbury just from the mission left Berlin was the last effort of the German Government to meet the French demands. Bergmann and Schroeder, however further details of these proposals which will be outlined to the commission this morning by the latter.

The Reparations Commission has again postponed for twenty four hours its decision in the matter, which if satisfactory one, will be announced Thursday. But if it is apparent that no unanimous decision can be reached it is possible that there will be a further delay.

The Belgian plan remains the most talked of solution, but France will not consider it unless 200,000,000 gold marks are deposited in the Bank of England by Germany as a gurantee. It is not believed that Germany will consent to this.

Sir John Bradbury is still urging a moratorium based on the guarantees which have already been exacted. It is thought that his resolution calling for a moratorium without further guarantees will be the first proposition voted upon by the Commission Thursday. This will be voted down according to present indications after which some form of compromise for which the delegates hope to arrange beore Thursday will be considered.

The German delegates denied reports that Hugo-Stinnes was in Paris. They declared that Herr Stinnes had no plans for coming here so far as they knew.

TO FLY OVER ANDES

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press)— The Chilean Army aviators Captains Aracena and Barahona started yeserday morning for a flight from the aviation school near Santiago to Rio Janiero. The route will lay over the Andes to Buenos Aires and thence to the Brazilian capital. The aviators are using two 250 horse power planes which are christened "Brazzil" and "Chile."

"NOT BLUFFING" DECLARES FORD

Fuel Shortage Responsible For Shutdown in the Ford Plants—Doing Big Business.

DETROIT, August 30. — Canadian Press. — Reiteration that Henry Ford was "not bluffing," in his decision to shut down his big automobile plants here on September 16th, as part of a fight against what he terms a "hold up" on the part of coal brokers, and denial of various reports that causes other than the fuel shortage were responsible for his action, were made to-day at the Detroit manufacturers' offices.

A report from Louisville that when the 75,000 Ford workers in the Detroit district were released on September 16, Mr. Ford would advise them to take employment with the railroads, in an effort to break the rail strike, was denied emphatically. The statement was termed ridiculous. "There may be individual cases of Ford workers anticipating the lack of employment making application for work with the railroads," it was stated, "but Mr. Ford certainly is not going to advise the men to attempt to break the rail strike."

Another report that met emphatic denial was that lack of business figured in the decision to close the plants. Figures were cited to refute it. "When the decision to close the plants was reached," it was stated, "We were four weeks behind in orders for Ford cars and three weeks behind in orders for Lincoln cars. We had only just caught up on orders for tractors."

The decision to suspend operations came, it was reiterated, at a time when the Ford company was being the greatest business in its history. Production figures showed 5100 cars being turned out daily against orders for 5200 a day, it was pointed out .

A statement from Secretary Hoover that present prices of coal would add but $1.50 to the price of Ford cars, also came in for sharp criticism and the inquiry "Does Mr. Hoover think we should turn over to the profiteers from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 that would be represented in the increased cost of coal?"

There were no developments during the day, it was said, to support the hope that the sh down could be averted.

DEBATING HYDRO RADIAL IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press)—After ten hours dicussion, Toronto City council adjourned about midnight without reaching a decision on the question of accepting or rejecting the agreement providing a six track right-of-way for Hydro radials along waterfront. The meeting will be resumed today.

CASE IS CITED BY G.W.V.A. BEFORE THE COMMISSION

F. R. Phillips, D.C.M., Who Enlisted in 1914, Was Offered $100 in Full Settlement of Claim.

ARM INJURED.

OTTAWA, Aug. 30. —By request of Mr. Bowler, Dr. Johnson read extensively from the file of a soldier, F. R. Phillips, D.C.M., who was accepted for enlistment in 1914, though his arm had been fractured six years previously. During the war this soldier had been engaged in bombing operations; but a fall into a trench caused further injury to the arm. Finally, while going through physical training toward the end of the war, the arm gave way completely and the soldier was sent to hospital. Letters on file, one of them from General J. F. L. Embury and another from General Ross, testified to the fact that the injury to the arm must have been very greatly aggravated while on service.

At first the pensions board took the ground that the disability was not due to active service and that the man was entitled to but $100 in full satisfaction of his claim. This decision was objected to by the Calgary unit and the result was that the man was finally classed as a 25 per cent disability and granted a pension on that basis.

C. Grant MacNeil, secretary of the G.W.V.A., made a brief statement in regard to this case which, he said, was one of these on which the charges were based. In giving his statement before the parliamentary committee, he had instanced this case as one which the pensions board had tried to settle for $100. He had been interrupted by Col. Thompson, head of the pensions board, who said that pension had been allowed in this case. Inquiry, however, showed that when this statement was made by Col. Thompson, the 25 per cent. had not been allowed, said Mr. MacNeil.

"That was one of the reasons we thought we were being tricked," he declared.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 30, 1922.

TWO EVERY HOUR.

Some motorists are inclined to regard themselves as a persecuted class because efforts are being made to check speeding and because magistrates and judges are increasing the penalties for infraction of the traffic regulations. Yet the fact remains that some means must be adopted of protecting the public from speed maniacs, and of reducing, if possible, the number of motor accidents. The death toll exacted by the automobile is appalling. Taking a tabulation of the experience of fifty American cities as a basis, and considering 18 hours as a day's operation, it has been found that automobiles killed two people every hour during 1921. The death rate from motor car accidents in 1920 was 149.7 per million population, while last year it had increased to 155.1 per million population. This means that the automobile as a factor in the general mortality has risen to alarming proportions, and there are no signs of an improvement. Motorists who have a tendency to believe that the regulations are being administered with undue severity, should allow the significance of the figures quoted to sink in. They will probably then come to the conclusion that even more vigorous steps may be necessary.

CANADIAN FIRE LOSSES.

Newspapers are asking the old question why is it that in Canada the fire losses attain figures out of all proportion to those recorded in Europe, with its much greater density of inhabitants and buildings. The answer does not seem to be readily forthcoming. The increase each decade is striking. In 1897 the total loss was $7,369,-100, a per capita loss of $1.41 During the next ten years the total had climbed to over $13,000,000. For 1921, the loss was recorded at $45,015,900, and the present year threatens to break even this appalling record. The most striking feature about the matter is that the constantly increasing losses have been recorded in spite of improved fire-fighting apparatus, larger fire departments, and motorized equipments in the cities of Canada and of regulations and restructions in regard to the forests' organizations, such as the ordinary Fire Prevention League, have endeavored to awaken the people to a realization of just how serious a matter the annual fire loss is in Canada, but their efforts in face of the official figures, cannot be regarded as highly successful. The Brantford Expositor is one newspaper that has been calling for a nation-wide effort to get at the cause of the terrible damage exacted by fires in this country every year, and Examiner readers will doubtless agree that some such step is necessary.

WHAT ABOUT WOOD?

It would seem wisdom on the part of the city's fuel committee to pay especial attention to the question of obtaining a sufficient supply of hardwood to meet the emergency that is undoubtedly coming. People are being advised that it will be necessary for them to use wood and soft coal for at least part of the winter. The advice is sound enough but the unfortunate part of it is is that the available supplies of hardwood have for the most part been already gobbled up by panic-stricken citizens, many of whom have been allowed to get more than their fair share, while hundreds of families, who have no the wherewithal to purchase fuel in quantities, will find when the first cold blast of winter comes that the hardwood they have been advised to burn has long since disapepared. The Fuel Committee should investigate that angle of the situation, and endeavor to ascertain what resources of hardwood they can count on in the event of the optimism of coal dealers proving a delusion. There is wood to be had in this district and back of this supply is the offer of the provincial government to allow municipalities to carry on wood cutting operations on Crown lands. No harm would be done if these pssibilities were made the subject of close inquiry. The information as to what supplies can be procured at least would be of value and the outlook is such as to justify an investigation into this phase of the matter.

THE PETERBORO EXHIBITION.

One thing that is absolutely necessary to make the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition the complete success that it should be this year is for the people of this district to absorb the fact that the Exhibition has outgrown the old proportions, and that it is now a four days' fair, with a programme of unusual merit each day. That means that one visit to the Exhibition grounds is not sufficient to allow one to see half the features of interest. It will be necessary to go two or three times if the full benefit of the Exhibition is to be reaped. It has been difficult to get people to realize that the old days have gone, the days when the exhibition was really only a one day affair, and a few hours' time spent on the grounds were ample. On the contrary, Peterboro's big fair is rapidly approaching the time when it will stretch over an entire week. The plant is being rapidly increased, the prize lists are constantly being made more valuable, the number of exhibitors has grown to huge proportions, and new features added each year have made the Exhibition one that is really worth while. This year should see a new attitud towards the Exhibition adopted by the citizens of Peterboro and district. They should visualize the event in tis real light and decide that it is impossible to enjoy the annual event if the attempt is made to see everything on display in one visit. If they come to that decision theer is no doubt of the success of the Exhibition; in fact it would be safe to wager that the attendance figures would leave previous high levels far behind. The Exhibition belong to the people, and they owe it to themselves to see that they get out of it all the benefit possible. They cannot do that if thy confine their attendance to one visi to Exhibition Park.

A SERIVCE TO CANADA

As to the extent to which Canada will benefit by the removal of the British cattle embargo, opinion in this country is divided, says the Ottawa Journal. It is not unanimously accepted that the embargo worked injury to Canadian industry. But in the process of the conversion of the British Parliament to the determination to remove the embargo an incident l service was done to Canada about which there is no question. Tiis was the dissipation of the impression that unfortunately was conveyed to British people by the indiscreet activities of a few persons from Canada that the embargo question was regarded as a political issue between the two countries and that the failure of Great Britain to concede the abolition of the embargo would threaten the bonds holding this Dominion within the Empire. The debates in the two Houses of the British Pa liament served to place Canada's attitude in the matter in its proper light. The British Parliament now understands that Canada did not regard the question as a politicali ssue, tha Canadians did not contest the right of Great Britain to impose such restrictions as she saw fit on impor.ations of cattle, and that their quarrel with the embargo was on the score of a libel on the health of Canadian cattle being employed as an excuse for restricti us.

In both the Lords n the Commons participants in the debate t ok the trouble to put Canada's position in its true light. The real issue before Great Britain was ably and effectively presented by Lieut.-Colonel Grant Morden, Canadian member of the House of Commons. As a Canadian, and as a stock b eeder in England, Colonel Morden was able to approach the question from both sides. From the standpoint of a British cattle breeder he contested the necessity of the embargo as a protection to the Old Country stock-raising industry. He contended that the extension of the British market for Canadian cattle would expand the Canadian market for pure-bred stock from the Mother Country. Canada might profit by the removal of the restrictions. "If I were Prime Minister of Canada I would be more inclined to put an em'argo on the export of cattle and keep the by-products in Canada nd als provide employment in the making of tin cans," Colonel Morden said. But he was convinced that the British people would not eat tinned beef when they could get fres'i beef from healthy cattle fattened in England. Canada, however, had justification in protesting against the allegation of disease in her cattle. A pledge had been given that the embargo resting on the assumption of such disease would be removed and Great Britain, ne maintained, was in honor bound to respect it.

This country recognizes that the matter of restricting imports of cattle or anything else is strictly a matter for the decision of Great Britain alone. The shutting out of Canadian cattle in the interests of British industry has not had or would not have had any effect on the loyalty of Canada to the Empire. The only excuse we had for interfering in the question was the stigma on Canadain cattle on which the restrictions rested.

THE COAL SITUATION

The gravity of the coal situation is being borne in upon our people with rapidly increasing disquietude as summer nears its death. We shall soon have a winter view of empty bins, helpless coal dealers and make-shift methods if these calamities are not now energetically averted. A more Southerly country can take a philosophic view of a prospective coal shortage; but to Montreal it spells real suffering, impaired health, increased disease and even death.

Coal is one of the things that we simply cannot do without. Insufficient coal means a shortage for somebody—possibly YOU. A scarcity of fuel means that in thousands of our homes winter comfort will disappear, and we will be lucky if the temperature is liveable.

The careless optimism of the moment will vanish at the first bite of the wolf of winter. Then the coal situation will wholly fill the public mind and public indignation will swiftly pass all bounds. We shall wonder at the easy tolerance with which we watched this catastrophe preparing through the soft days of summer. But the comparative calm of our people now, threatened as they are with a whole winter of meagre coal rations, is only another proof of how little foresight we all show toward dangers and injuries which are not actually at hand.

The coal dealers of Montreal have been very good citizens. They have served the public with ability and satisfaction. Most of them have made money at it. There is no reason to doubt that they will again do all they can for us. They will want to sell coal as badly as we will want to buy. But the real testing time for their usefulness is right at hand. Will they be able to meet this crisis? They have special knowledge of all the sources of supply and all the avenues of transportation. They can do infinitely more than any one else. Will they do it?

It is truly a crisis that confronts us. It is no ordinary case of barter and trade. We are trying to save this country from INVASION—the invasion of a devastating army of winter conditions against which, without coal, we will have no defence.

Under such circumstances, what is needed are emergency measures. The usual channels of purchase and supply cannot be relied upon. No matter what happens now in the United States, the quantity of coal at the disposal of the people of this whole Continent will be menacingly meagre. Everybody will be on short rations, and some may be tragically deprived. An expert writer in The Review of Reviews says that even in normal times, when there are no strikes the amount of anthracite mined in America cannot meet the demand of this Continent. This bein true, who imagines that the chief sufferers will be the American people, who are the owners of most of the coal and practically all of the anthracite available for the East?

They will care for their own first. Then we will come in for what can be spared.

The Americans themselves are so genuinely alarmed over the situation that they are importing Welsh coal as swiftly as their ships can carry it home. Over two hundred cargoes re arranged for already. Moreover, in New England—which has a Canadian winter—the housewives are being taught how to use substitutes and makeshifts. If New England feels that it must take these steps because of the scarcity of home-mined coal, what about Quebec?

It is a time for prompt action, a frank facing of the problem, a loyal rally to our rescue by every man in a position to help, energetic Government co-operation, municipal support, and a united, organized "drive" to meet this national emergency and to protect this winter city from the only foe it fears from December to March.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The city authorities doubtless are aware that if the supply of fuel fails the people will make it hot for them.

As usual it is the poor that will suffer the most from the fuel scarcity. The well-to-do either have coal or else can go to the tropics for the winter.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

"Burned?" Dupont half rose. He remembered the horrible mask.

"That's what the Medical Examiner said."

"But saw—" Dupont checked himself. He did not wish to be laughed at, yet he was sure that he had seen, had touched, a strange, unusual vampiric growth; that he had discovered an almost unbelievable psychic phenomenon.

"He said it was a simple case of acid burn," the sergeant reiterated.

Dupont turned to the surgeon. "How about my head?"

"I'll dress it again to-morrow. Meanwhile you'd better go home and take it easy. You're all right now, but no sense in overexerting."

Dupont looked at his watch. It was not quite nine o'clock, and from the sunlight in the room it was morning. The raid had been at about five; it must have been seven or after when he found the secret door and the body of Phantom Face. This was surprisingly little time.

"You—you fixed me up quickly," he remarked.

"Quickly?" Then the surgeon saw the watch in his hand. "Quickly? Why man, you've been unconscious nearly twenty-four hours. At first I wasn't sure you didn't have a badly fractured skull, that you weren't finished for good. This isn't the day you think it is, it's the next morning."

Dupont rose to his feet weakly, with an exclamation. Twenty-four hours At once he thought of Violet, and of Doctor Sutton, and Dacca. Were they all right? While he was following Kali, while he was trapping Renard and some of the important members of the gang, he felt that he was protecting the girl, that he was accomplishing something. But now that the raid was a failure he was sure the band would redouble their efforts. There would enter into their calculations the motive of revenge. And a day—a whole day and night had passed while he lay here unconscious.

"Did you notify anyone about my injury?" he asked, eagerly.

"I phoned your apartment," explained the surgeon, "but they said you had closed it about a week ago, that you were awa-."

Violet, then, knew nothing. He broke away as rapidly as possible, calling a taxi and racing to the studio. In response to his ring there was a very cautious opening of the door on the chain, but when Doctor Sutton recognized him there was no mistaking the warmth and relief of the older man's greetin-.

"Thank God" he exclaimed. "I—I don't know what to do, which way to turn. Violet has been kidnapped again"

Feverishly Dupont demanded explanations. He heard of the attempt to bury her alive in plaster. He questioned Dacca and learned that when Doctor Sutton went up to bed the evening before the black had remained awake the entire night upon the stairs, watching Violet had vanished from her room as mysteriously as the body of the man the dog killed, as unaccountably as Vera Collins when she masqueraded as a telephone repair man.

The thought of a possible secret passageway, suggested by the one in the den of Phantom Face, urged him to a careful search of her room. He found no clue or indication of a hidden door, nor did any of the panels ring hollow to his knock. Later he found it, from Violet's description. Now it baffled his best efforts.

From the superintendent of the building he obtained access to Paul Noyes' studio adjoining. Here were still the signs of the plaster and of the attempt of Vera upon the life of the girl. But he could find no clue which would be of any assistance in his present search.

It was necessary to get in touch with some member of the gang, or to find some clue to their other haunts, or else to wait for them to strike again. The last course was utterly out of the question with Violet in danger. By telephone he arranged with the detective agency to keep operatives watching the shack where the raid had occurred and the coffee house of Luis. Though they reported that this last had obviously changed hands it was yet possible that some clue would develop, that something would happen at either place to put him on the trail again.

He knew that the portrait of Steele would act as bait to draw them. After considerable discussion with Doctor Sutton he cut the canvas from the frame, and in Doctor's Sutton room peeled off a section of heavy burlap wall paper, tacking it back again with the picture behind. It was a clever hiding place which would not be obvious except upon very careful and close inspection, and there was no time for a more painstaking job. Even Dacca was not shown the spot in which the painting was concealed.

WARKWORTH SECURES SUPPLY OF POWER FOR THE VILLAGE

Has Come to Agreement With Owner of Privately Owned Plant—Will Submit Two By-Laws.

WARKWORTH, August 30. — The police commissioners of Warkworth who have been negotiating for hydro power in the village have come to a satisfactory agreement with James H. Goodrich, proprietor of the privately-owned electric plant, and will go ahead with the preparations for submitting the two bylaws (the enabling and the debenture bylaws) to the citizens of Warkworth.

The sentiment of the village appears to be favorable to the introduction of electrical energy and the people generally are delighted with the prospect of a 24 hour service.

The police commissioners, James Armstrong, W. A. Kelly and A. C. Twiddy, have been working hard for the innovation which will undoubtedly prove a long step forward in the advancement of this progressive little village.

No trouble was experienced in coming to an agreement with Mr. Goodrich, who for the past eleven years, despite a decided handicap in the way of a very small amount of available water, has given the village good service. His franchise has still four more years to run and his action in coming to such a prompt settlement with regard to the price has saved the village considerable expense, as in accordance with his agreement with the village authorities the settling of the price would otherwise have to be submitted to arbitration.

The method proposed for serving Warkworth with power is to build a transformer station near Bradley's Corners, about three miles from the village.

If the first or enabling by-law is carried with sufficient majority operations will be commenced at once, and Warkworth will probably have power before the end of the year.

War Havoc Expands Domain of Stinnes, "New German Kaiser

By MILTON BRONNER.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—When the German empire was formed, the Hohenzollerns could put into the common pot the Kingdom of Prussia over which they ruled. To this were added the Kingdoms of Bavaria and Wurtemburg, the Duchy of Baden and dozens of little principalities all ruled over by kings, dukes and princes. Then the Hohenzollern king became German emperor.

Hugo Stinnes, Germany's undisputed business emperor, started before the war with two kingdoms—the kingdom of coal and the kingdom of iron. And to this he has since added various duchies and principalities in commodities over which no others but himself is ruler.

He grasped early in his business career what the nations only fully learned after the great war started—all modern life, all its necessities, all its conveniences, all its comforts are a pyramid of which the base is coal. Place iron on top of the coal and you at once have almost all the needful.

So Stinnes began with coal. He secured control of many of the best coal mines in the rich Ruhr. Like his grandfather he continued the building of tugs and barges to convey his own coal up and down the rivers to his own coal yards.

He became the ruling power in the Rhenish Westphalian Coal Syndicate which in its great brick palace at Essen regulates the production, price and market of practically all the coal dug in the Rhineland and Westphalia. And it is done openly. The coal barons don't have to dodge the law to accomplish their purpose.

Ready for Chance.

Having fortified himself in the coal business, Stinnes long before the war was in a position for his next strategic move which was a big invasion of the iron and steel trade. He loaded his heavy guns with money and with coal.

There is this to be said for Stinnes—he goes forward not by crushing or wrecking opponents. He is a constructor. He takes sick businesses and cures them of what ails them. He takes well businesses and makes them bigger. He likes to make two mills produce where only one did before. That gives more work to Germans and enriches both Germany and Stinnes.

Back in the nineties a weak blast furnace corporation in Luxemburg and another in Bochum, Germany, were united in one organization which was just as weak. It lost money for its stockholders.

Then in 1901 Stinnes came into the field. He formed the German Luxemburg Mining and Smelting Corporation with a capital of only one million marks. He took over the weak combination just mentioned. In less than a year the new concern increased its capital to 25 millions and in 1910 to 60 million marks.

Under Stinnes' leadership it bought some stock in big coal mining companies in the Saar and Moselle valleys and thus assured a cheap coal supply. Then it gobbled up a Dortmund company and rocketed its capital to 100 million marks.

Stinnes was showing himself the German Napoleon of industrial finance. But it was sound finance. It was based upon actual possessions, not water a la American trusts. Vast mills in Bochum, Dortmund, Mulheim and Emden, coal mines, iron mines, coke ovens, 40,000 busy workmen, all told a very real story of big business.

The concern controlled five million tons of coal and 1,500,000 tons of coke per annum, to say nothing of ammonia, benzol and coal tar products. It made not only pig iron, cast iron and steel, but finished products like freight cars. In other mills it made machinery.

It seemed Stinnes was at the zenith of his career. But he had not yet been really tested. The war came and with it the bitter aftermath of crushing defeat for Germany. Albert Ballin, creator of the Hamburg-American Steamship lines, seeing his great business destroyed, didn't have the heart to go on. It was said he killed himself. But Stinnes was of tougher metal. Seeing his greatest work cut into pieces by the allied victory, he astonished all Germany by wresting greater achievement out of disaster.

War Spurred Him.

No German business was hardes hit than his German Luxemburg. When Losraine went back to France and Luxemburg was freed from German influence, Stinnes' company lost 60 per cent. of its raw material—iron ore and coal. For an ordinary business man that would have been a crushing blow.

But Stinnes isn't an ordinary man. He at once began buying up small companies which could give his company some of the material it needed. But he was after bigger game. Another Ruhr valley family, the Kirdorfs, had founded an organization known as the Gelsenkirchener Mining Corporation. It was one of the biggest in Germany. It had over 55,000 workers. The war also hit this corporation hard. Stinnes brought about a combination of his German Luxemburg, the Gelsenkirchener, and the Bochumer Verein. He made himself its master. He christened it the Rhine-Elbe Union and it started out with a combined capital of 600 million marks, or just 1,000 times more than the amount with which he began his independent business career.

Controls Fifth of Ruhr.

German Luxemburg brought into the combine 14 coal mines, 1,300 coke ovens, 7 iron mines, 5 steel and iron works and 4 other big factories. Gelsenkirchener had 16 coal mines, 9 iron and steel works and a number of other factories. The Bochumer Verein had 4 coal mines and 2 iron and steel works. No man in Germany was in a position like Stinnes. The coal he and his family own and the coal he controls amounts to exactly one-fifth of the vast Ruhr production.

But he wasn't through with coal. With August Thyssen, another famous Rhineland captain of industry, and the Dresden bank, he bought a controlling interest in the Mulheim Mining Corporation which operates four big coal mines, has other seams as yet untapped, and a number of factories. Then the far-seeing Stinnes became interested in the possibilities of lignite. This fuel has become especially precious for German industry since the loss of the Saar and Upper Silesian coal mines. Stinnes secured a nuge block of stock in the Ribeckschen Corporation of Halle which owns 34 lignite mines, 15 factories for the manufacture of coal briquettes, 5 brick factories, 11 electrical power stations and 5 factories for the extraction of mineral oil and paraffin. Lignite is especially valuable in this regard.

Invades Retail Business.

Then Stinnes thought of another scheme. His own coal mines supplied fuel to his own steel mills, but he looked around Germany and everywhere he saw consumers of coal. Their money might as well flow into his pockets.

So thought, so done. He controls the United Coal Dealers Corporation of Berlin. He has similar companies in Nuremburg, Koenigsburg, Flensburg, Hamburg, Bremerhaven and numerous other important towns where Stinnes coal mines sold to big and little consumers. Foreign fields tempted him, too. Some of the finest iron ore in the world is found in Sweden. Therefore Stinnes bought some Swedish ore tracts.

One of the greatest foreign coups came to him by simply sitting still. In the old days of the Austro-Hungarian empire one of the greatest companies in the country was the Austrian Alpine Mining Corporation which practically owned an inexhaustible supply of high grade iron ore in the Styrian Alps—a whole mountain of ore in fact. After the peace treaty the great Alpine company found itself in a poverty-stricken little Austria. Its former bases of coal supply were now situated in new and hostile states.

Into Austria.

In its need of financial support, a great block of its stock went into the hands of an Italian syndicate of automobile and steel manufacturers. They saw in the plant an excellent chance to get for Italy the steel it so badly needed. But production failed. The Italians could give the company money and labor, but no coal and coke.

In their trouble they looked to Germany and naturally to Stinnes. The great Hugo was ready to oblige. He could shoot coal and coke right straight across Germany into the Styrian Alps and the great concern could work full speed ahead.

Only—there is almost always an important only with Stinnes. He told them he would like to sell them coal, but must be interested financially in the Alpine company. The Italians saw the point.

Result—Stinnes owns outright two-fifths of the company for which he paid the huge sum of 250 millions of marks.

Political Furore.

This caused more political furore both inside and outside Germany than anything Stinnes has ever done. At a time when the allies were demanding that Germany pay huge reparations, it was pointed out there must be lots of money in Germany when Stinnes could spend that much in one transaction. And inside Germany opponents of the government asked why Stinnes didn't pay more taxes. The fact is the money was raised by a Swiss concern in which Stinnes is chief owner.

But the rude Socialists still laugh when you tell them a corporation in the little town of Zug could raise all that coin.

In his next story Bronner tells of the ramifications of Stinnes' gigantic electrical combine.

WHAT A MILLION MEN MEANS

Hugo Stinnes, industrial wizard and the uncrowned "new kaiser of Germany," employs a million men.

Walking single file, four feet apart, at an average gait, it would take these men 11 days and nights to march past their employer.

Total employes in the American coal industry number 740,000.

Henry Ford employs 75,000 men.

The Standard Oil of New Jersey employs 60,000 men.

CALGARY, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press)—Greased gloves and protected shoes worn by bandits who looted the Union Bank branch at Foremost Alta., of more than seventy thousand dollars in cash and securities, early yesterday, are creating unsurmountable difficulties to the police in their efforts to take the rail.

MUSIC DAY AT TORONTO FAIR

One of the Most Important Features of Big National Exhibition.

Music Day at the Canadian National Exhibition (Thursday, 31st August) will this this year be one of the most important days of the whole two weeks' Fair. Right from the time the gates open on that day until the big spectacle in the evening before the grand stand, ends with the singing of massed choirs and bands, music will occupy the centre of the stage.

Every year the Exhibition management secures the services of some internationally famous band to dispose music. This year it is the West India Regiment Band from the West Indies. Included in its ranks are two holders of the Cousins Memorial gold medal, the highest award which can be obtained at the Royal College of Military Music, as well as many silver medallists, and those who have won the certificate of merit. The men will appear in Zouave uniforms, consisting of a colourful turban, baggy blue trousers, and tunic of scarlet and gold. This band will not only be present Music Day, but throughout the whole Fair.

Particular interest is attached to the band contest. It was the intention of the committee to have the various bands from Ontario compete for the prizes on Music Day, but at the time of writing, with nearly 20 bands in the contest, it is doubtful whether they can all be judged in the one day. The first prize for Class A is $1,000 and "Musical Canada" Shield, custody of which will be given to the band winning this prize for the ensuing year, with individual tokens for each member of the band; second prize, $500.00; third prize, $350.00. In Class B the first prize is $600.00, and an individual token for each member of the band; second prize, $300.00; and third prize, $200.00.

The test piece for Class "A" bands is the "Rienzi" Overture (Wagner), arranged by Morelli; that for Class "B" bands, selection from the opera "Lily of Killarney," by Sir Julius Benedict, arranged by Bidgood. The adjudicators are the famous band leader, Pat Conway, of Chicago; Dr. H. A. Fricker, conductor of the Mendelssohn Choir, and Capt. Alfred Light, conductor of the Royal Artillery Band, Kingston.

The musical activities will not be all in the open, however, as in the case of the bands. In the Manufacturers' Building, where the piano exhibits are housed, there will be a series of piano recitals all day long, four going on simultaneously, each of the four in a different section of the building. Then in the music amphitheatre adjoining the Phonograph Building (formerly the Dairy Building), where this year the phonographs will be exhibited, another continuous series of concerts will be held, each one lasting 45 minutes. Various musical institutions and artists have kindly helped to make this possible, some of them being the Toronto Conservatory of Music, the Canadian Academy of Music, the Hambourg Conservatory, the Coleridge Taylor Chorus, the Kitchener Conservatory of Music, the Welsh Eisteddfod Organization, The Somers' School of Dancing, the Albert Ladies' College and Conservatory of Music, Belleville, the Cecilian Quartet of Toronto, the Carboni Studios, Verna Watson School of Dancing, Miss Sternberg School of Dancing, Miss Agnes Adie, and a young whistling genius.

It might be stated that throughout the first week of the Exhibition Music Competitions will be conducted in the Music Building daily. These include vocal, piano and violin competitions, and are arranged in classes according to ages. When the entry list closed it was found that 172 contestants from various parts of Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba had entered. Some of Canada's leading musical institutions have promised to supply adjudicators for these.

In different parts of the Fair grounds on Music Day there will also be musical demonstrations and dancing. Bands of Troubadours from the Carboni Studios, the Bell Telephone Choir, the Coleridge Taylor Choir, the Jules Brazil Quartette and Folk Dancing by the Somers' School and City Playgrounds, are all scheduled for Music Day; also Ukranian and Chinese Folk Songs and dances.

Perhaps the most gorgeous and stupendous item of interest to all music lovers though, will be the big Festival Choir of almost 1700 trained voices, that will sing, accompanied by massed bands, in front of the grand stand in the evening—a culmination to both the "Prince of Wales Durbar" spectacle and Music Day generally. The choir which will be under the direction of Mr. H. A. Fricker of the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir, will be the biggest aggregation of trained choristers ever assembled before one baton on this continent, and will have a tremendously exhilarating effect upon exhibition visitors. At the time of writing rehearsals for this big chorus are in progress.

QUEER FEELINGS AT MIDDLE AGE

Women Should Know how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps at This Trying Period

Sheboygan, Wisconsin. — "I was run down, tired and nervous. I could not even do my own housework, could not sleep at night and all kinds of queer thoughts would come to me. Finally I gave up going to the doctor and a friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After the first bottle I could sleep better and I have kept on improving ever since. I have taken seven bottles now and am so happy that I am all over these bad feelings." —Mrs. B. LANSER, 1659 N. 3rd St., Sheboygan, Wisconsin.

For the woman entering middle age Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can be of much bensfit. During this time of life certain changes take place which sometimes develop into serious trouble.

Melancholia, nervousness, irritability, headache and dizziness are some of the symptoms. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a natural restorative, especially adapted to assist nature in carrying you safely past this time. Why not give it a fair trial?

VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE GRAND TRUNK RESIGNS

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—The resignation is announced of Mr. Frank Scott, Vice-President and Treasurer of the Grand Trunk Railway System. In a letter submitted to the Board of Directors of the railway at their meeting here, Mr. Scott asked to be relieved from office. In accepting the resignation the board expressed appreciation of the services rendered to the company by Mr. Scott during his long association with the road.

Mr. Scott retires under the superannuation plan of the railway to enjoy a well earned rest. During his forty-four years of service with the Grand Trunk Railway he rose from a junior clerkship to a vice-presidency through the one department. Mr. Scott was born at Montreal in 1862, being the son of the late W. E. Scott, M.D., for many years Professor of Anatomy at McGill University and Chief Medical Officer of the Grand Trunk. Joining the Grand Trunk in 1878, he became Chief Clerk to the Treasurer in 1881, and Secretary to the Audit Board and Purchasing Committee in 1891. Two years later he was promoted to be Assistant Treasurer of the railway. In 1901, on the retirement of Mr. Charles Percy, he was appointed Treasurer of the company. In 1906 he became Treasurer also of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and on August 1st, 1914, was appointed to a vice-presidency of the Grand Trunk System and to the Board of Directors of several of its subsidiary companies. His sound judgment and practical knowledge in every branch of economics have been recognized not only by his railway associates, but by banking men and financial officers throughout Canada and the United States. In 1909 the Society of Railway Financial Officers of America elected Mr. Scott to the Presidency of the society.

Following upon the receipt of Mr. Scott's resignation, Mr. W. D. Robb, Vice-President and General Manager, announced the appointment of Mr. James A. Yates as Treasurer of the railway. Mr. Yates entered the service of the Grand Trunk as a junior clerk in the Audit Department in 1891. He was transferred to the Treasurer's office in the same year and has since had continuous service there. In 1907 he was appointed Chief Clerk to the Treasurer of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways. In 1914 he was promoted to be Assistant Treasurer of the Grand Trunk, a position which he has occupied until his present appointment. Mr. Yates' ability also led to his being appointed a director of companies associated with the Grand Trunk Railway System. He has been Secretary of the Montreal and Southern Counties Railway since 1915. In October last at the annual meeting of the Railway Treasurers' Association of America, held at Chicago, he was elected Second Vice-President of that association.

Radio Vacuum Tube Oscillates Like Pendulum of Clock

By PAUL F. GODLEY.

Getting oscillations out of a vacuum tube is one of the mysteries of radio which is forever puzzling amateurs.

Yet it is easily explained.

Any phenomenon which recurs regularly is described as being oscillatory in character. The pendulum of a clock oscillates.

It is necessary to apply energy to start this oscillation. This energy is applied by the hand and stored in the spring, from which sufficient force is released once during each swing of the pendulum to keep it in motion.

Figure 1 shows how an electrical pendulum may be set in motion and kept swinging.

Electrical Circuit.

Lift the receiver from the hook, and quickly place it directly in front of the transmitter. Speed of action is suggested in order that the experiment may be completed before Central comes in on the line.

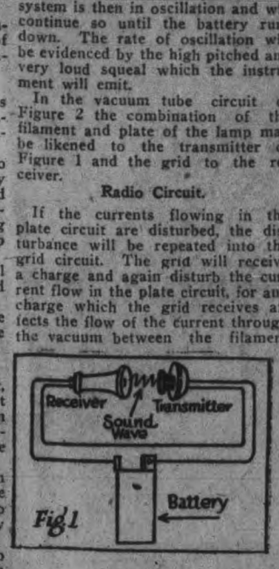
Next tap the transmitter. In tapping this, you have pushed the pendulum with the hand. In so doing you have released some energy from the battery (spring).

This energy causes the receiver to emit a sound wave. This passes into the mouthpiece of the receiver and administers a second tap. The system is then in oscillation and will continue so until the battery runs down. The rate of oscillation will be evidenced by the high pitched and very loud squeal which the instrument will emit.

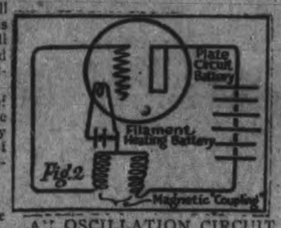
In the vacuum tube circuit of Figure 2 the combination of the filament and plate of the lamp may be likened to the transmitter of Figure 1 and the grid to the receiver.

Radio Circuit.

If the currents flowing in the plate circuit are disturbed, the disturbance will be repeated into the grid circuit. The grid will receive a charge and again disturb the current flow in the plate circuit, for any charge which the grid receives affects the flow of the current through the vacuum between the filament and the plate.



THE "ELECTRICAL PENDULUM"



AN OSCILLATION CIRCUIT.

Electrons are thrown off the filament and attracted to the plate. Each carries a small quantity of electricity. A negative charge upon the grid will prevent these electrons from ever reaching the plate. The negative charge drives them back into the filament. Thus the charges on the grid received from the plate circuit act as a boomerang and cause the plate circuit to emit pulse after pulse at regular intervals.

The batteries supply the energy for keeping the oscillations in existence.

Tubes arranged in this way may be caused to generate several kilowatts of energy at very high frequencies. The oscillations may occur as rapidly as 3,000,000 times a second.

SOVIET NOW SEEKING NEW FIELDS IN ASIA.

Angora Organ Calls on Moscow to Take the Lead in Organizing a Conference.

MOSCOW, Aug. 28. — Further light on Russia's Asiatic policy is thrown by a quotation from a recent issue of an Angora newspaper prominently featured in Isvestia, appealing for a conference of Asiatic peoples. The writer contracts "the political and capitalistic intrigues' of the Genoa and The Hague conferences with the conferences he proposes of free Asiatic people who have a common bond in the avoidance of European exploitation and aggression." The article concludes with an appeal to the Soviet Government to take the lead in organizing the conference the article is headed "Hope of Russia." The writer makes it clear He does not advocate so much opposition to Europe. He says, 'If we can settle economic difficulties we can be of the greatest help in European reconstruction."

The principle of the independence of the Asiatic peoples the Soviet Government already has definitely espoused. This article coincides with the present Russian attitude, and is evidence of the degree in which Russia won Asiatic confidence. This latter point is especially important in view of the trend of Russian policy to become the leader of the Asiatic powers in default or pending a satisfactory arrangemnt with Europe or America. It shows, too, how much water has run under the bridge since the abrorative Communist Pan-Asiatic conference at Baku in 1920, when Asiatic representatives were scared by the threat and insistence of Bela Kun and Zinovief on the Russian opposition to religion and rights of property. To-day, however, Russia has proved by her treatment of Persia, Afghanistan, Khiva, Bokra and Turkey that she developed a new national policy, apart from communism, which, in essence, aims at nothing less than a Monroe Doctrine for Asia.

LIVE 160 YEARS BY TYING GLAND

Dr. Steinach Says Simple Operation Gives New Lease of Life.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—A comparatively simple gland operation whereby men in the last stages of senility can have their youth restored to full bloom, has been invented by the famous Vienese surgeon Dr. Steinach, the Express announces.

Unlike the other famous gland grafting operation devised by the Austrian surgical wizard, this one does not involve the insertion of glands from other persons or animals. It consists simply in tying the duct of a certain gland, resulting in the retention of life-giving properties.

Old men of eighty can thus be brought back to the vigor of forty years, not only once but twice, it is said, thus giving a virile life span of 160 years.

Announcement of Dr. Steinach's new operation has aroused amazement and eager curiosity here. The Express declares it investigated the reports with great care "taking the testimony of scientific men of unquestioned competence."

This simple, duct-tying operation can be performed on men in a few minutes with the aid of a local anasthetic. Within two hours the patient is able to resume his normal pursuits.

Dr. Steinach has evolved a modified form of this operation for women, but it is more complicated, necessitating the grafting of a fresh gland from a younger woman.

His conclusions are based on experiments with rats in which senile animals gained a new lease of life, attained a new growth of hair, and propagated normally. Experiments were performed as often as three times on the same rat.

From the time of the operation, Dr. Steinach says, the patient visibly grows backward, his white hair resuming its natural color and the wrinkles disappear from the face which regains youthful color once more.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF A SMILE

Of all appearances of the human countenance man thinks a smile is the most exacordinary. It plays with a surprising agreeableness in the eye, breaks out with the brightest distinction, and sits like a glory upon the countenance. What sun is there within us that shoots its beams with so sudden a vigor? To see the soul flash in the face at this rate one would think would comfort an atheist; by the way observe that smiles are more becoming than frowns. This seems an actual encouragement to good humor, as much as to say—If people have a mind to be handsome they must not be peevish and untoward.—Jeremy Collier.

Lunch For Picnics

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

This is the season for picnics and someone must always prepare a lunch.

Once was the, time when a basket must be carried containing plates, spoons and linen napkins, all of which had to be carried home.

Nowadyas there are wonderful lunch boxes and baskets, containing everything one could possibly need, and the automobile carries the burden.

Or the lunch is eaten by the roadside, in an attractive spot, while seated comfortably in the car.

For less fortunate people there are paper plates, cups, spoons, forks, tablecloths and napkins. Also paper containers, in which may be carried moist food, make it possible to have salads.

Patented bottles, now very cheap, will keep the coffffee or tea hot and the ice water cold. With such equipment and a pasteboard box no one has to carry home anything.

What You Need

The one preparing the lunch needs oiled paper, or waxed paper, in which sandwiches, hard cooked eggs, cake, cookies or pickles may be wrapped and straws, to go with the grape juice or ginger ale.

It is wise to have three different types of sandwiches, one with meat or eggs, one plain, and one sweet. Devilled eggs, each one wrapped in its own piece of paper, or plain boiled eggs with a little packet of salt and pepper mixed are always enjoyed.

When a fire is possible, the lunch may be varied in endless ways. Chops, small pieces of steak to be broiled on a stick, and bacon made one happy just to think about them. Potatoes are a good accompaniment. Marshmallows to be toasted on a stick should not be forgotten.

Following are three suggested menus —one a cold, simple lunch; one hot, where a fire is possible, and one automobile lunch:

Cold Menu
Ham and Egg Sandwiches
(Slice of ham and chopped hard cooked egg, mixed with salad dressing)
Plain Brown Bread Sandwiches
Hard Boiled Eggs
Olives or Pickles
Small Sponge Cakes
Tea or Coffee (in patented bottl)
Fruit (whatever is available)
Automobile Menu
Chicken Salad Sandwiches or Chicken Salad and Buttered Rolls
Olives
Cut-up Fruit, Cakes, Candies
Hot Coffee or Tea Punch

Hot Menu
Chops and Bacon
(Allow two chops and three slices bacon to each person)
Rolls to Split and Toast, Butter
Tomato and Chopped Cabbage Salad
Chocolate Layer Cake
Coffee
Marshmallows (to toast)

Lady Violet, Who Said Her One Wish Was to Get Out of the Shrewsbury Family.

The Earl and Girl Scandal That Drove Taft Out of a British Court

Imagine the Embarrassment of the Genial ex-President Who "Dropped in" at the Highly-Flavored "Shrewsbury Case" at the Most Unfortunate Moment

LONDON.

THE door to the august British court-room opened and in walked William Howard Taft, ex-President of the United States, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court and distinguished visitor to England.

The presiding judge, in his wig and black robes, greeted him. The solicitor stopped in the middle of his argument, waiting respectfully. With due ceremony Justice Taft was escorted to a place of honor on the bench.

There he flashed the famous Taft smile and settled back to listen. The presiding judge gave a sign to the solicitor to proceed, and the solicitor began to read some letters.

As the reading progressed the famous Taft smile faded. The twinkle vanished from the Taft eyes and little spots of red began to appear in the Taft cheeks. The presiding judge was coughing nervously, but the solicitor plugged on.

Sneering references to "the American" were becoming frequent in the letters. Finally the solicitor read a letter from "the American" to Lady Shrewsbury. When he finished he began to address the court.

"Lord Shrewsbury," he said, "regarded this letter from the American as a great insult to his wife. He also felt that, in view of his daughter-in-law's marriage to an American, the young Earl might become saturated with republican views. It was perfectly obvious"——

The solicitor paused, for Justice Taft had risen, his face a fiery red, and was bowing adieu to the presiding judge. The judge himself was distinctly flustered, and across the courtroom swelled a low murmur. The next moment this stopped at the rap of the gavel, but Justice Taft was stalking toward the door. It closed behind him emphatically, some hearers thought.

What was it all about? Why did old Lord Shrewsbury feel that an American had insulted his wife? Why did he denounce the American and "republican ideas"? It was most unfortunate, agreed British jurists, that an ex-President of the United States—England's honored visitor, Justice Taft—had chanced into the court where this particular case was being tried, at the particular moment Lord Shrewsbury's letters were being read.

For the answer to those questions the reader must know what recently has been revealed to all England—that a secret romance ruled the last ten years of life of the late Charles Henry John Chetwynd-Talbot, twentieth Earl of Shrewsbury, premier Earl of England, Hereditary Great Seneschal of Ireland, sportsman, big game hunter, sometimes known as "the coaching Earl."

When the old Earl died last year members of his family were astounded to learn that he had made a will, leaving the greater part of his $1,000,000 estate to "a rank outsider," Mrs. Eleanor Whyte Hughes Brownlee, a young widow.

They learned he had met Mrs. Brownlee when he was forty-nine and she was only twenty. That was a few years after he separated from Lady Shrewsbury, giving her $20,000 a year and the palatial Shrewsbury estate of Alton Towers. The Earl could not marry Mrs. Brownlee because he was not divorced. But they loved one another devotedly.

The Earl built her a home at Goring-on-Thames. Here they lived as man and wife. They rode and hunted together. They [illegible]ed on the Earl's yacht. When he [illegible] she nursed him. To his intimate [illegible]s, who were "in" on the secret, the Earl said Mrs. Brownlee was his "best pal."

Attorneys for the Earl said he began to alter his will soon after his affair with Mrs. Brownlee began. He made codicils, bequeathing her jewelry. He made codicils, giving her his fine hunters. He made codicils, by which she was to receive the Shrewsbury family heirlooms. Finally, only a few months before his death, he drew up an entirely new will. This document gave his nurse, his "best pal," his "wife in all but name," practically his entire estate, variously valued from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000.

The reading of the will was a bitter blow to the Earl's aristocratic blood kin. Especially did their disinheritance come hard to his daughter-in-law, Lady Violet, and her little son, John George Charles Henry Alton Alexander Chetwynd-Talbot, who succeeded to the earldom.

Guardians of the boy, who is only seven, determined to break the will. They sued, and the hearing of the suit brought still more family skeletons to light. The Earl, a bred-in-the-bone Britisher, had quarreled with his daughter-in-law because she loved an American.

Lady Violet was the daughter of the Marquess of Anglesey. She married Lord Ingestre, only son of the Earl of Shrewsbury, in 1904, and they had one son, the lad who inherited his grandfather's title, but not a cent of his millions. Several daughters also were born to them.

Lord Ingestre was killed early in the World War in 1915. Some time afterward his widow met young Richard Pennoyer, native of Los Angeles and an attache of the American embassy in London. They fell in love. They were married. And thereby Lady Violet brought down on her head the wrath of her Shrewsbury "in-laws," who had frowned upon her attraction to "the American" from the first.

Hot letters were exchanged. The first was from Lady Shrewsbury to Lady Violet, protesting against the engagement. Lady Violet replied, "I should like to say that, in the first place, the children do not require your pity; they are my children and I am their sole guardian, and I have no wish for them to be with anyone who is unkind to and about me, and as for the American, as you call him, you need have no fear that he will be brought into the Shrewsbury family; my one wish is to get out of it."

After her marriage to "the American" Lady Violet wrote a letter to Lord Shrewsbury, accusing Lady Shrewsbury of "spying on me and putting my children against me." At the same time Mr. Pennoyer wrote to Lady Shrewsbury, declaring he and Lady Violet intended to put Lady Shrewsbury "completely outside their lives."

Lord Shrewsbury and Lady Shrewsbury were not living together. His lordship was in the midst of his love affair with pretty Mrs. Brownlee. Nevertheless, he decided to take a hand in the squabble on behalf of his wife, the woman who bore his name.

He wrote to Pennoyer, suggesting a conference to patch up the disagreement. Pennoyer wrote back, from the American embassy, declining an interview. Lord Shrewsbury, hot under the collar, penned a scathing note, assuring the young man he was "not a gentleman" and threatening to put all the letters before the American ambassador. To which Pennoyer shot back a brief, "Go ahead!"

Another letter from Lord Shrewsbury to Pennoyer demanded an apology to Lady Shrewsbury. When Pennoyer refused to apologize to the woman who referred so scornfully to "the American," Lord Shrewsbury sent copies of all the letters to Ambassador Page. The ambassador acknowledged them, and there the matter rested.

The rest of the world might never have heard of the tiff between Lady Violet and Lady Shrewsbury and the counter-tiff between Lord Shrewsbury and Lady Violet's American husband if Lord Shrewsbury hadn't been angered by the refusal of his grandson's stepfather to kowtow to him.

The American's attitude caused the old Earl to make a new will, leaving all his money to Mrs. Brownlee. The will caused the guardians of the disinherited grandson to sue. The suit caused the plaintiff's solicitor to read Lord Shrewsbury's slurs on America and Americans to the court. And those remarks caused an ex-President of the United States to quit the courtroom.

London isn't sure whether Justice Taft resented the reference to "republican views" or whether he simply sympathized with a fellow-American who had dared tell the premier Earl of England just "where to get off."

For Justice Taft didn't explain—he merely departed. Yet that, in the eyes of the American colony in London, was as significant as though he had written a twenty-page explanation.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., August 30 (Canadian Press). — Superb pitching featured the double-header which Pittsburgh and Brooklyn divided here yesterday. The Dodgers won the first 3 to 2, and the Pirates took the second contest 6 to 0.

The opener was a thrilling duel between Hamilton and Ruether, but the breaks went against the former. Adams' perfect control far offset Cadore's speed in the second contest. Scores:

NEW SPORT COMMISSIONER

MAJOR JOHN L. GRIFFITH

Judge Landis, dictator of baseball-dom!

Will Hays, ruler of the movie realm!

Now make room in your list for John L. Griffith, who's just been named supreme commissioner of Western Conference athletics.

He has jurisdiction over western college sports, from football on down. His subjects include 2,000 'varsity men on Big Ten squads, and they'll have to be mighty good, or papa'll spank.

Griffith received his appointment from the sport directors of the Big Ten. He'll have offices in Chicago, and his term will be two years.

John L. Griffith was born at Mt. Carroll, Ill.

He is a graduate of Mt. Carroll High School and of Beloit College.

He coached at Yankton College, 1902-05, was director of athletics and athletic coach at Morningside College, 1905-08, and served as director of athletics and coach at Drake University, 1908-17, besides being dean of men at Drake for four years and, for one year, vice-president. He also founded and managed the Drake Relays.

He entered the military service in 1917. Thenceforward, until his discharge, with the rank of major, in October, 1919, his history was as follows:

Athletic officer for the 88th army division, with supervision over the physical and athletic work of 30,000 men; ordered in August, 1918, to Camp Gordon, to assist in establishing a physical and bayonet school; placed in command, in September, of the physical and bayonet school at Camp Pike; ordered, in January, 1919, to Washington, and placed in command of the physical and bayonet work of the army in the United States; became, in September, 1919, senior instructor of a special physical and bayonet school established at the infantry school of arms by the general staff.

He was connected with the athletic department of the University of Illinois from October, 1919, until August, 1922.

He is editor and publisher of The Athletic Journal, chairman of the National Collegiate track and field rules committee and a member of the N. C. A. A. track and field meet committee.

The Value of Sports

School and college competitive athletics constitute a utility in our social and economic life.

It is on our Canadian athletic fields that unwritten laws are largely developed.

Athletics are invaluable in creating morale, and in teaching lessons of loyalty and patriotism. In short, our athletics are too valuable to be dispensed with, and too important ever to be placed on the defensive.

OSHAWA TO PLAY HERE TOMORROW

Central League Game Has Been Moved Forward—Great Battle Expected.

The announcement that the Central Ontario League game with Oshawa scheduled to be played here on Wednesday, September 13, has been switched to tomorrow afternoon will come as a pleasant surprise to the fans, especially to the business community who have not had many opportunities to see the Petes in action. Tomorrow being the last half holiday of the season, the merchants and their clerks will have a chance to witness the Oshawa battle, which promises to be one of the best of the season. Oshawa have not forgotten the knock-out blow administered to them by the Petes in the first half, and they have Gallagher primed and ready with a week's rest under his belt to shoot in against the Solomon crew tomorrow. Gallagher's sensational performance against Port Hope a week ago when he allowed but one hit and only twenty-seven batters faced him shows that the former Kingston Pony southpaw is back in his old-time form, and he will undoubtedly prove an awkward proposition in tomorrow's fixture. Heckman will do the gunning for the Petes and Boundy and Barnes of Cobourg will handle the game, which is called for 3.30 o'clock. This is the second last scheduled home game of the season and the last appearance of Oshawa here. It should be a memorable one.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil).

I found that one of my troubles in playing the niblick came from resting too much on my heels. It is very important, too, to get the lie of the clubs just right. Let the clubhead pass through the ball. Swing your arms; keep your elbows in; feel the "break"; press the left knee. You can get a lower trajectory, and better direction if you stand over the ball.

When the driver is brought down properly the clubhead snaps through the ball and is back over the shoulders so quickly that the player does not for the moment realize it is back there. This picture of Eddy Held, the star St. Louis amateur, who took "Chick" Evans to extra holes in their match in the western amateur championship, shows perfect golfing form. Take the driver up as you would take up a hammer to hit a nail—then be conscious that you are going to hit the ball exactly as you would know you were going to hit the nail.

BRINTONS BEATEN BY QUAKER GIRLS

Lost By One Run After a Close and Exciting Seven-Inning Battle.

A last inning rally for the Brintons netted three runs last evening. One more would have been enough to tie the score, but the necessary steam was lacking, and the Quakers won, 20 to 19. Both teams played a strong game and the Brintons held a two-run lead at the end of the fifth frame. They weakened in the sixth, however, and the Quakers sent six runs across the plate, which was enough to give them the one-run lead to win. Both teams batted well and both showed up with some snappy fielding. A close score right through kept the spectators on edge for the whole game, and as both sides had some enthusiastic rooters on hand it was difficult at times to hear just what the umps. were saying.

The players were:

Brintons—M. Todd, p; H. Bartlett, c; F. Bartlett, 1b; T. White, 2b; E. Leether, 3b; L. Hatley, ss; A. Griffin, ss; I. Williams, rf; M. Middleton, lf; R. Jay, cf.

Big League Dope

Either the New York Yankees or the St. Louis Browns will win the American League pennant. The remainder of the schedule lays the heavier burden on the Yanks. If the Yanks slip for a minute down the stretch they are gone. Lee Fohl and his Browns have it figured that if they get back home for the last stand within one game of the Yankees, they will win the pennant. The Yanks are now leading by a game and a half and the Browns can't be back farther than that when they go back home. The Yanks practically finish their season against Detroit, Chicago and Cleveland, while the Browns have rather easy meat for the last hard drive. The Yanks will draw a lot of fight on the road, and it will take some clever handling from Miller Huggins to get over the jumps. Figuring what the managers of both teams have had to work with all season and what they have done with their material, the Browns seem to be a slight favorite for the pennant.

ADANACS LEAD IN SECOND SCHEDULE

Defeated Lock Works in a Weird Game Last Evening and Cinched First Place in Second Half.

The Adanacs won the championship of the second section of the City Junior League last evening when they defeated the Lock Works team in a loosely played five innings game by 18 runs to 7. Adanacs had their batting togs on and hammered three Lock Works twirlers, Smith, Van Esse and Sturgeon, for seventeen hits, Jeff Hardill leading the way with a double and three singles in four trips to the plate. Eight runs were scored off Smith, who started the game, and he was relieved in the third with nobody out and the bases full, after the Adanacs had registered six times in the inning. Van Esse took his place and got out of the hole with only one more run against him. Next inning, however, the winners jumped on him for six hits, which with a base on balls and a couple of errors, gave them seven runs. Three more were hung up off Sturgeon, who finished the game. Lock Works got nine hits off Shaughnessy, and the fielding behind the Adanac twirler was not of the snappiest. Fitzgerald, lead off man for the Lock Works, had the same batting performance as Hardill, with four hits in four appearances at the plate.

The line-up:

Adanacs—J. Turner, lf; Hensley, ss; Batten, 2b; Wilgar, m, c; McLean, 3b; J. Hardill, 1b; Bradshaw, rf; G. Hardill, c, m; Saughnessy, p.

LEAGUE EXECUTIVE MET IN PORT HOPE.

At a meeting of the executive of the Central Ontario League at Port Port yesterday arrangements were made for the league play-off, if one should be necessary. It was decided that in the event of a play-off being required Peterborough will play the first game on the grounds of the second half winners on Wednesday, September 13, with the return game in Peterborough on Saturday, September 16. If a third game is necessary it will be played in Oshawa on September 20.

Belleville are the favourites for the second half race, although Leaside, who have yet to meet the Grand Trunks in the second section, claim they will annex the honours by taking two games from Mills and company.

Rev. D. C. Ramsay of Belleville was elected to the Protest Committee in place of A. C. Kimmel of Cobourg, who is managing the Cobourg club.

TORONTO HOCKEY PLAYERS INVADE THE WEST COAST

St. Pats, Holders of the Stanley Cup, Will Take a Swing Around the Pacific Coast Loop.

IN DECEMBER.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—St. Pats of Toronto, holders of the Stanley Cup, representing the world's professional hockey championship, will make a swing around the Pacific coast loop early in December, playing Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle teams preparatory to the opening of the championship races in the Pacific Coast Hockey Association and the National Hockey League.

Announcement to this effect was made recently by President Frank Patrick of the coast circuit, who has completed arrangements for the visit of the Toronto Irishmen. The series will mark the first appearance of the Queen City puck-chasers on the coast, and while the matches will have no bearing on the world's championship they will give the fans out this way a chance to size up the cup holders. This series, to be followed by the interleague matches between the coast and prairie teams, besides the regular coast titular race, promises to provide coast hockey followers with one of the most attractive programs in the history of the sport.

President Patrick received a wire today from President Frank Calder of the N. H. L. in which the latter put his O. K. on the western tour of the eastern champions. The St. Pats, it is planned, will leave Toronto the first week in December, coming direct to the coast and opening the series here.

Lester Patrick, manager of the Victoria Aristocrats, is making an early start in lining up playing talent for the current season. He has pulled out for the east and will be away for a month or six weeks. Every effort is to be made by the coast clubs to secure new players, and it is understood that the managers are already in touch with new men, while several trades with prairie and N. H. L. teams may also be put through before the opening of the 1922-23 season.

GIRLS' GAMES.

Two games are scheduled in the Girls' League today. The "Y" Tigers will have a trip to Lakefield, while the Bonner-Worth and Auburns will clash at Central Park. Both games will be good ones, and with the girls all playing a good brand of ball will be worth going to see.

WILLS WINS BY K.O.

NEW YORK, August 30 (Canadian Press). — Harry Wills, New Orleans, heavyweight, last night knocked out "Tut" Jackson, of Washington Court House, Ohio, after two minutes and five seconds of fighting in the third round of their scheduled 15-round match at Ebbets' Field, Brooklyn.

FAST FOOTBALL GAME SATURDAY

Massey-Harris Team of Brantford Will Meet C. G. E. in Competition For the Ontario Cup.

The C.G.E. football team meet the Massey-Harris team of Brantford in the cup competition for the Ontario championship on Saturday at Riverside Park.

This competition is for all the different districts in Ontario where organized soccer is played. The various districts are required to stage elimination competitions, the winners of which play off the competition proper, which is drawn in round. C.G.E. being only entrant in the city are declared winners, and they are confident of proving their superiority over their visitors on Saturday. They have been training faithfully in preparation for this game, and barring injuries are certain to prove a very stiff obstacle to the ambitions of the more fancied club.

In this competition last year the C.G.E. met the Merritton club, winners of the St. Catherines district, and although weakened by injuries held Merritton to a 2-0 score. This year the team has been strengthened and now have an eleven from goal out which should be able to hold their own with the best.

In the City League they are unbeaten this year, having won seven games; in doing so scoring 21 goals, with but 2 scored against them.

Diamond Dust

The Lock Works tried out three pitchers against the Adanacs last evening, but none of them were very effective.

* * *

"Hap" Wilgar was knocked out when he got a bang on the head with a thrown ball, but he came around all right and finished the game.

* * *

The runs came in so thick and fast in the ock Works-Adanac game last evening that no two of the scorers or spectators could agree as to the final score.

* * *

Chicago strengthened her hold on second place in the National League and sent St. Louis down into a tie with Cincinnati for third.

* * *

Leaside still has an idea of winning the second half of the Central League schedule. To do so they must win their protest of the Port Hope game and then win seven straight on the diamond. Peterborough won seven straight in the first half, and Leaside gets the second if they can duplicate the feat.

* * *

The Oshawa game originally scheduled for September 13 at Riverside Park has been advanced and will be played tomorrow afternoon. This will allow the first game of the play-off to come on September 13 —if a play-off should be necessary.

* * *

If a play-off is necessary the Petes will meet either Belleville, Cobourg or Leaside. The other teams are definitely out of the running.

Treat the Battery Like the Rest of Your Car

Many otherwise careful motorists have not learned that a storage battery must be treated like the rest of the automobile of which it is a part. Like the oiling system, the tires and other parts, it requires frequent attention. The battery is a chemical thing, constantly changing its condition. It is easily kept in health and strength with a little care. But it may die long before its time if neglected.

Drive to a Willard Station Twice a Month

The "health" of your battery is so important that you cannot afford to neglect it. The safe way is to watch the dates yourself, and, every two weeks, drive the car to a Willard Station. There a trained and experienced service man will use the hydrometer test and report the strength of the battery. If it needs water, he will put it in. If it needs anything else he will give you an unbiased report. If you want to know anything about the use and care of batteries, he will explain and advise.

Do not hesitate to avail yourself of this service, no matter what make of battery you own. The object is to be so useful to you, at so little cost, that you will learn to rely upon the Willard Station for all your battery needs!

BIG LEAGUE TALENT IS SCARCE ARTICLE

Fancy Prices Asked For Recruits From Minor League May Force Majors to Develop Own Players.

Ball players capable of holding their own in the major leagues are all too scarce.

In an effort to maintain a high standard in the majors, this fact has become apparent to the club owners.

Nowadays when a minor league player shows unusual talent, there immediately starts a spirited bidding for his services, naturally it causes said player to bring a price all out of proportion with his real ability.

"untried minor league ball are worth a $75,000 or $100,- ance. And take it from me, it ong chance that a club owner when he pays a fancy price a recruit. A majority of them ver."

The scarcity of big league talent d the big prices that are asked for recruits, are certain to cause league owners to adopt tactics ent from their present ones in to keep up their clubs' play- dards.

of the minors to agree on rule, fancy prices that are ed for untried recruits, talent, sooner or later are ce all the major league lop their own players. heme will be made pos- ajor league club owning ling interest in a number league clubs of graded class- .

The St. Louis Cardinals of the Na- al League really are the first ajor league club to work along ese lines.

At present the St. Louis club owns the controlling interest in the Ft. Smith, Ark., team of the Western Association. It is interested in, and has a working agreement with the Houston club of the Texas League. It also owns the controlling interest in the Syracuse club of the International League.

Instead of combing the minor leagues for available talent for which they must pay a big price, the St. Louis National scouts pay close attention to the college, amateur and semi-pro fields.

Players who appear to have promise are signed, and after being looked over, are sent to the team where it is believed they will fit in. As a rule it is first Ft. Smith, next Houston and then Syracuse for the amateur who looks good to Rickey.

If his talents are such that he does not need so extended a schooling, he is brought to the majors the moment he shows signs of being able to go the route.

Unquestionably all the major league clubs sooner or later will adopt such a system. At the present time a number of them are interested in minor league franchises, but in most cases only one apiece.

The St. Louis club, since it has holdings in leagues of various classifications, is able to drop the promising recruit into an organization where he will feel at home and get the proper instruction.

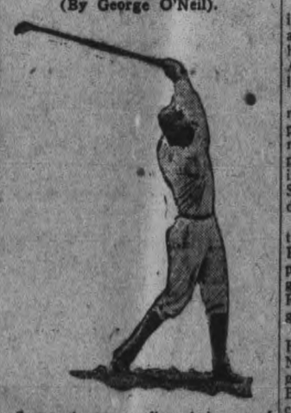
Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil).



Some players confine their use of the niblick almost entirely to bunker shots, but I use it for "cut" shots and very bad lies. I play the niblick in two ways—the high, dead-dropping shot, and the straight line cut shot with a low follow through. The high shot is a difficult one to judge, but the easier one to play. The cut shot gives a low trajectory and a complete back-spin, but it is a dangerous shot unless accurately struck.

J. S. Dean, of Atlanta, Ga., American intercollegiate champion in 1921, is America's duplicate on the field of Lord Charles Hope of England. Dean has a long, sweeping drive, with a full follow through, which gives him great distance without effort. The player must learn that when the drive is properly executed there is no effort in it; it is much like cracking a whip; the clubhead merely snaps away the ball as the whip would snap off a dandelion.

TRAMPED BAREFOOT OVER HALF GLOBE

American Vagrant Arrives in Bagdad, Mesopotamia

BAGDAD, Mesopotamia, Aug. 30. — (Associated Press). — Hippolyte Martinet, an American, who hails from Seattle, Wash., and who claims to have tramped barefooted over half the globe, arrived in Bagdad today, shoeless as well as penniless.

With long hair hanging over his neck to protect it from heat and cold, a beard that had not seen the shears for two long years, a kit weighing about 20 pounds flung across his back, and a sign pinned across his breast to proclaim to the world that he is a globe trotter, Mr. Martinet presented himself to King Feisul and told the following story:

"Tired of my profession as a cabinet maker and feeling that a tramp around the world would benefit my health, I set out from my home on April 19, 1920, encumbered by very little of things material.

"Walking on an average of 34 miles a day and resting at several places, I reached New York four months later and managed to get a passage across the Atlantic, reaching Southampton in the middle of September. After a tramp to London I embarked for Antwerp.

"From Antwerp I worked my way through the devastated regions to Paris. In Paris I tried to sell picture postcards representing myself in the garb of a globe trotter, but the French police mistook me for a beggar and drove me away.

"Quitting Paris I tramped to Havre, and thence to Nice. From Nice I crossed to Switzerland and gradually worked my way down to Brindisi. Leaving the Italian port I crossed to Albania and thence to Greece. Taking a boat I crossed to Egypt, reaching Cairo in December last year.

"After roaming about Egypt I struck towards Palestine and then to Damascus, where I joined a caravan, crossing the desert to Bagdad in 21 days."

Mr. Martinet is about 45 years of age. He plans to go next to Basra, then to Bombay, to Japan, China and San Francisco.

SISTERS DROWNED

FRANKLIN, N.H., Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press)—Gretchen and Phoebe Lyden, Rutherford, N.J., sisters aged 18 and 15 respectively were drowned yesterday in the Pemigewastet river. They were daughters of Frank P. Lyden assistant general manager of the International Paper Co.

TURKS AND GREEKS ARE STILL FIGHTING.

LONDON, August 30 (Canadian Press). — The morning newspapers comment with grave concern on the resumption of the fighting in Asia Minor between the Turkish Nationalists and the Greeks, and there is a good deal of condemnation of the British Government's Near East policy, which some of the newspapers variously describe as vacillating and evasive.

The question of why Prime Minister Lloyd-George and the Foreign Office are supporting Greece also is raised.

The whole situation in the Near East, which the Daily News says has long been an international scandal, is developing, that newspaper believes, into a serious menace to the peace of the world.

Says the News: "Not only is the fate of British rule in India deeply involved in this wretched struggle, but unless the principal European Powers abandon their mutual jealousies and narrow self interests, which have conspired to perpetuate the present Near Eastern tangle, and discover some basis of action, the final upshot must be another disastrous upheaval in the Balkans, with consequences impossible to foresee or to limit."

DEATH OF COLLINS STRENGTHENS STATE.

LONDON, August 30 (Canadian Press). — Michael Collins' death has strengthened the determination of the Provisional Irish Free State Government that there can be no settlement of the present rebellion except on terms of unconditional surrender, says the Daily Mail correspondent.

The writer adds that he learns there is not a member of the Government who would not rather resign office than be a party to any settlement with Eamonn DeValera which did not mean complete surrender.

Another decision tactically made is that no Minister shall hold two posts in the Cabinet

"TWO KINDS OF WOMEN"
FAST-MOVING STORY.

Pauline Frederick at the Capitol to-morrow in "Two Kinds of Women," Comedy, "Soring Sister Susie," Pathe Review. Other reels of quality. No advance in prices. The home of super specials. Starting next Monday, there will be Matinees Daily at 2.30.

"Two Kinds of Women," in which Pauline Frederick, famous R.C. star appears in the stellar role, is one of the fastest-moving stories ever written by that noted author of Western yarns, Jackson Gregory.

The story was published under the name of "Judith of Blue Lake Ranch," but underwent a change of title for the benefit of motion picture audiences. Incidentally, it is one of the greatest vehicles in which Miss Frederick has ever appeared and shows the star at her absolute best.

Judith, which role is played by Miss Frederick, is part owner of a great cattle ranch in the West and one day, in her fashionable New York home, she comes to the realization that she is being robbed by her foreman.

Judith hustles out West, suddenly appears at the ranch, discharges the foreman and takes the management of the big place in her own hands. From that moment on things happen with dramatic swiftness, and how Judith with the help of a mysterious cowboy checkmates the ex-foreman's attempt to ruin the ranch made an absorbing adventure story in book form, but a far more thrilling and interesting one as a motion picture.

R-C Pictures have made of this an epic of the great outdoors. The charm, romance, the color and the exhilaration of ranch life have never before been denicted with such realism. From the Rocky Mountains west, Miss Frederick was offered the finest cattle and horse ranches by wealthy owners who, aside from their personal admiration of her, were glad of the opportunity to assist in the making of a really big picture of the great outdoors.

And so the location men of R-C Pictures toured far and wide and picked the best not only in ranches but in scenic backgrounds, and ranch owners aided further by sending the pick of their cowboys to assist in the big round-up and riding scenes and furnishing many especially selected horses.

To say that Miss Frederick is enthusiastic about the story is putting it mildly, and her director, Colin Campbell, is just as enthusiastic as she is.

A WELCOME HARBINGER.

N. L. Nathanson, managing-director of Famous Players Canadian Corporation Limited, announces the second week of Capitol Entertainment, beginning on Monday, September the fourth in the leading theatres in Canada. At a time when thousands of people are turning their thoughts towards the Fall season, heralded in many Canadian cities by a great Exhibition representative of the country's resources — theatregoers, fresh from a summer spent in the out-of-doors, at lake or seashore, begin to make plans for the winter's entertainment.

To them, and to every Canadian, Mr. Nathanson's announcement of a second week of Capitol entertainment, comes as a welcome harbinger of the ensuing year's probabilities expressed in terms of motion pictures. The complete list of attractions for Canadian release is not available at the present moment—but the number of Paramount pictures alone is so large, so representative of the best in drama and comedy so replete with famous names, that it suggests a "milky way" of screen stars.

Paramount Pictures stands for splendid pictures produced at the Lasky Studios in Hollywood and at the Famous Players studio in Long Island by men who have become well nigh perfect in the directorial art. The works of the worlds most eminent authors and artists have been adapted to the requirements of the screen by men and women who understand to the minutest detail, their particular branch of the motion picture industry. And to complete the production, clever actors and actresses are engaged to interpret the roles, under conditions which make their work as pleasant as possible.

Scarcely more than a dozen years ago, Adolph Zukor conceived the idea which was responsible for the formation of the great company known as Famous Players, afterwards, (having collaborated with Jesse L. Lasky, becoming Famous-Players-Lasky,—that the idea was —"famous stories, of famous authors interpreted by famous actors"—the result has been Paramount pictures.

And that Canadians from Halifax to Vancouver, are privileged to see these great productions at the earliest possible moment, is due to the constant effort and business acumen of N. L. Nathanson, through the medium of Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Limited.

Capitol entertainment during the week of September the fourth will give people an idea of what to expect right through the year—a partial list of pictures and stars to be seen at the Capitol Theatre in Peterborough follows: "Blood and Sand," with Rodolph Valentino, "Manslaughter," with Thomas Meighan produced by Cecil B. C. DeMille, "Nice People," a William DeMille production, "The Old Homestead" with Theodore Roberts, "To Have and to Hold" with Betty Compson and Bert Lytell, "Notoriety," "The Dictation" with Wallace Reid, Valentino in "The Young Rajah" and "The Spanish Cavalier," "If You Believe it, It's So," "The Bonded Woman, "The Top of New York," "Her Gilded Cage," "The Siren Call," "While Satan Sleeps," "The Mysteries of India," "Pink Gods," "Burning Sands," "The Ghost Breaker," "The Cowboy and the Lady," "The Man Who Saw To-morrow," "On the High Seas," "Anna Ascends," "Clarence," "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew," "Ebb Tide," "Outcast," Singed Wings," "Back Home and Broke," "A Daughter of Luxury," "Kick In," "Thirty Days," "Making a Man," "Missing Millions"—all of them Paramount releases and "From Rags to Riches," "Main Street," "Brass," and one of the best comedies of the year, "Grandma's Boy" with Harold Lloyd, and Mae Murray in "Fascination," both of them released by Regal Films Limited.

Perhaps the picture that will prove most interesting of all, on account of Valentino, the popular idol of the hour, is, "Blood and Sand," which had its premiere at Rivoli Theatre, New York, a few weeks ago, creating unprecedented enthusiasm even among Broadway critics. It will be released in Canada on Monday, September the eleventh, in eight of the large cities of the Dominion, in theatres owned by Famous Players Corporation Limited—a complete list of whose houses follows—Capitol Theatre in Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Calgary, Peterborough, Kitchener, Regina, Victoria, the Regent, Toronto, the Temple at Brantford, Brock at Brockville, the Empress at Edmonton, Regent at Galt, Capitol-Regent at Guelph, the Savoy and Strand at Hamilton, the Strand at Kingston, Dominion at Nanaimo, Regent at Oshawa, Royal at Port Hope, Algoma at Sault Ste. Marie, the Dominion at Vancouver, the Broadway at Vancouver, the Dominion at Victoria, the Princess at Chatham, the Colonial at Port Arthur, the Orpheum at Fort William, the Gen at Nelson, and the following in Toronto, the Strand, Palace, Oakwood, Alhambra, Family, Teck and Garden.

AT THE GRAND.

On Monday next, (Labor Day) matinee and night, the famous Evans Musical Revue will open an indefinite engagement at the popular Grand Opera House, in a musical melange of novelties combined with elaborate scenery and costumes presented by a company of 25 performers of unusual ability in the art of singing, dancing, trio harmony singers, and headed by a comedian of note, direct from a summer season of 10 weeks in the city of Boston.

The opening revue is entitled "Miss Manhattan" and this production abounds in rich refined comedy with a chorus of 10 of the best procurable on the revue stage this season. Miss Grace Gould, the prima donna of the company possesses a voice of unusual range and power, while Mr. Jimmie Evans is a comedian of the younger generation who is just brimming over with rich refined humor, who will become a prime favorite in Peterboro in short time. The cast of principals includes the very best dancers on the stage today, and some of the finest harmony singing will be heard from a trio of male voices of superb sweetness. Mr. Joe Devine is a Hebrew comedian of high standing in the musical comedy field while Miss Florence Pippin is a violinist of the first water, her selections on her instrument have been mentioned as being worth the price of admission alone.

The sale of seats opens tomorrow morning, (Thursday) for any performance during the week, and as Monday is a holiday, would advise all to secure seats as early as possible for either Monday matinee or night. A complete change of revue is offered for the last half of the week starting on the Thursday night Popular pre-war prices prevail for the entire engagement with no advance for the holiday, viz:—20, 30 50 and 75 cents. Tax extra. All seats are reserved for both the matine and night performances.

AT THE ROYAL.

CHARLES RAY SCORES NEW TRIUMPH IN "SCRAP IRON" AT ROYAL.

For those who delight in a tense dramatic story, for those who love a good fight, for those who appreciate filial affection, and for all others who like strong, clean entertainment a treat is being offered by the Royal Theatre in the showing of "Scrap Iron," starring Charles Ray. It is a First National attraction and will be shown for the last time to-night.

Ray has done some of the most amusing stories that have ever been shown on the screen. In "Scrap Iron," however, he goes farther in portraying a role which abounds with strong pathos and tense emotional work. His performance of the role of John Steel is perfect, and between the dramatic situations there is enough of his peculiar droll humor to satisfy even the most ardent Ray enthusiast.

The John Steel part furnishes him with a role different from any he has ever enacted. An invalid mother is the person about whom his whole existence revolves. Unwittingly she earns him the scorn of his fellow workers when she wins from him a promise never to fight. The keeping of the promise also costs him his girl. Then he loses his job.

His fists are the only things left to him of value and he breaks his promise to the extent of engaging in one of the most thrilling fights that has ever taken place before the camera. It isn't the usual fight of the movies, for Ray takes a licking. He feels that he can't afford to do anything except protect himself until the money so badly needed by his mother is earned. After that—but it would be spoiling a big entertaining surprise to tell it.

(Stuart West.)

NEW YORK, August 30 (Special to The Examiner). — Again to-day, it was not so much any actual changes in the labour situation that influenced the market as it was the conviction that pessimistic expressions on the subject were largely for political effect, and were unwarranted.

Wall Street decided that while here and there during the next few weeks industrial plants might be hampered for lack of a prospective fuel supply, the bituminous mines are rapidly getting back to maximum output, and that any serious curtailment of manufacturing is unlikely. So far as the shopmen's strike is concerned, this has never been a matter for the investment community to worry about.

The latest statistics on car loadings covering the week ending 19th August, showed a substantial gain over preceding weeks, and an increase of 41,073 cars over same period a year ago. This gain could not be attributed to a larger haul of coal, for the union mines in the third week of August has scarcely had time to get under way. It was due primarily to the general merchandise movement, and besides emphasising how little the defection of the shopmen has interfered with things, it gave a further impression, in the comparison with 1921, of what the enormous strain upon transportation facilities would be when the huge coal shipments and the autumn grain traffic resume.

Railway shares, as a rule, came pretty close to equalling their previous high points; in some cases these records were topped. The rise in industrials was very general, and was accompanied by a larger volume of trading. Whether this indicated an increasing public interest in the market was a question. But it was certain that the way the security list has stood up against the test of the last few weeks, has inspired confidence both on the part of intending outside buyers and the Wall Street pools as well.

STEAMERS AND C.P.R.

DELIGHT LOCAL OFFICE

When Canadian Steamship preferred touched 58 today the local market followers realized the predictions that have been made by the house since the opening of the local office to the effect that "Steamers" had materially strengthened their position and would soon step into the lime light with other Canadian leaders. It has advanced from 53 last Saturday, and is reported to be exceptionally firm at this level.

Canadian Pacific showed more activity today than for weeks past, an the liveness was something of a reminder of C.P.R. in its palmy days. It has made 9½ points since its recent mark of 140 and this afternoon was five points above Tuesday low of 144½.

The feature of today's trading was the reflex of a noon hour raid on the steel stocks in the New York list. The entire group receded but U. S., Bethelem, Gulf State and some of the others recovered practically all the ground. Republican and Midvale were however disappointing, the former closing three points of the day's high.

Famous Players, Rubber and other specitlities made gains, and A. I.C. which hs been strongly tipped reached 97.

FRENCH REJECT PLAN OF LONG MORATORIUM.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Third Avenue Railway declared interest payment of 3 3-4 on adjust income bonds, making total for the year of 5 per cent.

Poincare reject the British plan of a long moratorium for Germany, again deadlocking the Reparations Commission, according to a Paris copyright to the Tribune.

Attorney-General Daugherty is to investigate the conspiracy against inter-state commerce in the rail strikes.

Congress is not expected to enact emergency legislation giving power to Harding to seize railroads and coal mines.

The anthracite strike may terminate at a conference of Pennsylvania Senators, miners and operators. Compromise eliminating wage arbitration to which miners object and long term guarantee of 1922 wage scale opposed by operators having been advanced on basis for settlement.

Cananea copper mining resumes operations.

The Government is informed that thousands of coal cars have been tampered with, the bulk on roads serving southern fields, and report of I.C.C. shows more than half of the locomotives inspected are in need of repairs.

BULL MARKETS SEEM CERTAIN

This concentrated buying means that big interests are practically certain that bull markets are not far away. They feel that it is just a matter of holding stocks until the present uncertainties are out of the way, and that soon thereafter, the public will be a big buyer of stocks on rising prices. This does not mean that immediately upon the settlement of the strikes, there is going to be big advances, but it does mean that at some time in the next month or two, there is every indication that most stocks will go very much higher. Therefore, any re-actions that may occur at this time or in the near future will almost positively be of small importance and short duration, and tbuse in a positon to buy should do so on all fair set-backs.

MANY ISSUES BADLY OVERSOLD.

While there was such a big demand for the rails, equipments, gas stocks and several other groups, in the last two weeks, the buying of the motors, tire issues, oils and shipping shares has been on a scale down, and only at receding prices was there any support met. This has fooled a lot of people into selling long stock and many more into going short. In several stocks in these groups, there is a big enough short interest to suggest some very big advances whenever they try to cover. The news on the motors, tires, oils and shipping shares has been unfavorable, if is true, but not nearly so bad as the declines in prices would indicate, or else where it really has been unfavorable as in the oil shares, it is a temporary development that will pass in the next few weeks. Thus crude oil prices will recover, and these stocks with them, just as soon as the overproduction situation is corrected. Sales of motor cars have continued large and there is a good outlook for earnings to hold up at high figures, therefore for not only recoveries of lost ground but new advances in these stocks. The tire business has been hurt by price competition, but the worst of this is over and at the least a recovery is in order, and some big advances might be seen if several important mergers actually go through. The shipping shares are in the midst of selling, due to ocean freight competition, but this also has seen its worst and an improvement is in sight. Better conditions are ahead in steel and copper and these stocks also ought to have a substantial improvement.—Industrial News.

THE SHORT INTEREST "IN A HOLE."

The news, lack of public buying, scattered selling of long stock and mid-summer absence from the market of many operators would seem to be ideal conditions for the bears. They have been firing away at the market, scoring a bit here and there, but missing the target entirely many times. The net result is that prices for most industrials in which the short interest is very extensive are not off much and the technical position of most stocks that they have been placing under fire is so strong that a speedy rally of all of the recent lost ground will probably quickly follow the first turn to the better in the news. Furthermore, in addition to the very extensive short interest in many stocks, there is a vast amount of buying of long stock being held back because of fears of the strikes. The market can be said to have more sold-out bulls in it at the present time than in many months. There are numbers of people who will gladly buy back stocks that they have sold and pay much higher prices for them if the news turns favorable. It looks very much as if the shorts are "in a hole" that they will not be able to get out of without material losses unless something so very bad occurs as to produce general liquidation. The outlook is against any news that is bad. We have had so much unfavorable news that the next change would seem to be in favor of better things. The strikes can be settled in a few minutes if certain parties get into the right frame of mind and are willing to compromise. Therefore, those short of stocks might find that unexpetcedly, a definite announcement might be made that would produce an about-face in the current situation in both the coal and the rail strikes.

THE CROPS MEAN BIG BUSINESS FOR ALL.

Whenever the strikes are settled, an immediate resumption of a number of important business activities will be seen. Besides this outlook, there is wealth for the whole nation in the big grain, hay and tobacco crops this year. From the railroad activity in moving these crops will grow better business in many other lines.

RIORDON AT $8 YET.

Steamers Pfd. had the first setback of the present upward movement to-day, the shares selling back th 56 after making a 1 point gain at 57. On a persistent demand Canada cement shares crept up to a new high at 73 1-4. The technical position of this stock appears very strong. In the paper group Spanish River was steady at 100 and Riordon sold at 8 again. As soon as the pressure of the liquidation of an old fool stock is finished a big rise is being predicted for the latter. This should not be very far away.

CANADIAN MINES.

Yetserday's strength in Hollinger became more pronounced to-day. The shares touching a high of $12.65 on buying by people close to the inside. Dome and McIntyre were favorably affected and advanced to 37.50 and 19.80 respectively. Preston was strong at 13. In the silvers Peterson Lake was up 2 1-4 cents at 16 —4. It is rumoured that an offer very favourable to the company is about to be accepted for the company's assets.—Bryant Brothers.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES.

The recent strength in mail order house stock—Montgomery Ward & Sears Roebuck—is a direct reflection of the decided improvement that has taken place in their earnings. Gross sales by bulk are far ahead of a year ago. This does not fully figure in the gross income, for in many places, prices for goods are actually below last year, and in other instances relatively lower. In gross income, however, increases have been shown for many recent weeks.

In net earnings, however, there have been good gains. This is a result of the cutting down of operating costs in many ways, and as the general prosperity of the whole country increases, there is every reason to expect that gross business will increase further and that even a larger increase in the ratio of net to gross will be seen. These prospects, outside of various merger plans, and changes of control, etc., warrant still further strength in the securities.—Industrial News.

FALL DRESSES A RIOT OF COLOR.

Oh, just the merest trifle of a dress! No elaborate trimming, no ostentatious frills! Just the simplest of frocks with a new pointed yoke and wide loose sleeves.

But the colors! Scarlet and gold and brown—brown chiffon velvet combined with scarlet and gold metal cloth to give the effect of an October landscape.

It is just one more example of the certain tendency of autumn fashions to stress simplicity of line with beauty of material and color.

Not for years have so many elaborate brocaded and figured fabrics been used for fashionable frocks.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Pte. Arthur Frost, killed in action Aug. 30th, 1918, also his brother, Pte. Tom Frost, died in England, 1916:
Only a wooden cross,
Only their name and number
May angels guard the sacred spot
Where our dear ones lie in slumber.

Now they are sleeping their last long sleep,
Their graves we may not see.
But some gentle hand in a distant land
May scatter some floweres for me.

MAKE FURTHER EFFORTS WITH BELGIAN PLAN

Slight Hopes of Compromise on Moratorium for Germany — The Commissioners Meet Today

STATES INTERESTED

PARIS, Aug. 31.— (Canadian Press.)—There was still some slight possibility, but no probability of a compromise for a moratorium for Germany as Reparations Commission gathered here to-day. Commissioners are prepared to make further efforts for agreement and according to the newspaper L'Oeuvre, Colonel James A. Logan, United States' observer, is contributing toward the movement and yesterday intervened to support the Belgian plan.

He indicated that while the United States was unable to intervene at present, she was preparing to make concrete proposals in November.

German delegates called on Belgian representative before opening of to-day's meeting and there is still hope that an accord will be reached through some modification of the Belgian plan, which remains the last hope.

M. Dubois, French delegate, went at once into consultation with Premier Poincare with purpose of bringing to the commission the French Government's decision as to whether it would accept or decline the Belgian compromise.

Allied Reparations Commission has decided to accept the Belgian compromise on German moratorium proposition as a solution of the present crisis, it was learned this afternoon. British, Italian and Belgian members are declared unequivocally to favor this settlement. Attitude of French delegate is not definitely known. Formal vote will likely be taken before the day is over.

Under the terms of this plan, brought forward by M. Delacroix, the Belgian member of the Commission, Belgium, in lieu of the remaining cash payments from Germany this year, to which she is entitled under a priority agreement, would accept treasury bills from the German Government, payable in six months.

These bills would total more than 250,000,000 gold marks, and Germany would offer further guarantees for their redemption when due.

Bared Dynamite Plot On a Chicago Road

CHICAGO, August 31 (Canadian Press). — With the arrest of Frank Hartman, J. J. Boyle, and E. A. Lagham to-day, the police here declared they had bared a plot to dynamite the "Western Express" on the New York Central at a point between Gary, Ind., and Chicago.

The wreck, they declared, was to have marked the beginning of a new reign of terror on the railroads throughout the United States.

Information was obtained by private detectives posing as strikers.

MR. R. R. HALL CHALLENGES SIR ADAM BECK'S RIGHT TO POSE AS A GODFATHER TO PETERBOROUGH

Would Be Glad to Meet the Hydro Knight on the ublic Platform Here—Something for the Taxpayers to Think About—What it Means to Obtain Power "at Cost."

The 14th Annual Report of the Hydro Power Commission of the Province of Ontario for the year ending 31st October, 1921, contains some surprises for the ratepayers of Peterborough.

You will find on page 172 of this report that the share capital cost of the Central Ontario District, on which interest and fixed charges are payable by the ratepayers of the City of Peterborough and for which the taxpayers of Peterborough are liable, is the enormous sum of $924,866.02. That is the huge and enormous sum that has been imposed upon this city by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission as its share of the capital cost of obtaining "power at cost."

On this same page you will find that the interest charges imposed upon this city by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission is $39,939.54, and that the city's share of the operative, maintenance, and administrative expenses is $40,810.98, besides providing for renewals, contingencies, and other charges, and on the same page of this report it clearly appears that the net cost of power delivered to the Peterborough Utilities Commission is $22.50 pr H.-P.

Had the City of Peterborough developed power on its own account at Dams Number Four and Five and Burleigh Falls, it would have had available more power than it now receives at less than one-half of what it is now paying to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and would still have had over 2,000 H.-P. of a surplus upon the sale of which every dollar received would have meant a clear profit.

Had the city developed Dams Numbers Four and Five and the Burleigh Dam on its own account, it would have had cheap power for its citizens, and would have made a clear annual profit on present Hydro prices of over $50,000 a year, but unfortunately the city now finds itself committed to a liability of $924,866.02 to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, to ever increasing costs of power and to find that the consumer is now paying on an average of $39.24 per horse power per year for power and light.

"Power at Cost."

When was this blunder made? In what manner did the city become committed to this liability? It was made in 1913 when on the advice of Sir Adam Beck the ratepayers of Peterborough voted upon a by-law to enter into an agreement with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to take "power at cost."

Sir Adam Beck, as reported in the Examiner January 3rd, 1913, on the eve of voting for this agreement, said: "The Hydro-Electric Commission will not manage your affairs, but act something like a godfather."

What a saintly godfather to entangle by an unrighteous agreement his trusting godson into making a yearly loss of $50,000. The fact is that this city has no control whatever over the liability of $924,866.02 it incurred. It has no control over the rates that are imposed either upon this city or upon other municipalities. Under its agreement the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has the power to increase the city's liability by hundreds of thousands of dollars without the tax payers of Peterborough having any more voice or say in the imposition of it than the Eskimos living in the Arctic Circle have any voice or say in the Government of Canada.

This agreement was clearly obtained by misrepresentation, because it was carefully concealed from the taxpayers of Peterborough that such a huge and enormous liability would be imposed upon them not for the benefit of this city, but for the benefit and advantage of the towns and villages and hamlets upon the lake front.

If the City Council, the Board of Trade, the Manufacturers' Association, the Merchants' Retail Association and the Trades and Labor Council and the citizens who use either light or power were to take this matter up in earnest on an application to the next Legislature, a case of misrepresentation and concealment could be made out so strongly against the Hydro-Electric Power Commission that no man of honesty and decency in the Legislature would vote against a measure to permit this city to develop electric energy on its own account from the water powers that are available—that are its natural birthright, its natural advantage and its former pride.

I would suggest that a public meeting be called by the Mayor of the city of Peterborough at an early date and that Sir Adam Beck be invited to that meeting to give an account of his stewardship, and I will be very pleased to attend that meeting and endeavor to convince the taxpayers of Peterborough that Sir Adam Beck is not fit to be either a steward or a godfather of this city.

CANADA'S TRADE BALANCE SHOWS BIG IMPROVEMENT

This Has Helped to Bring the Dollar Back to Par —View of the Wall Street Journal on Canada's Trade Position

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. —(Canadian Press.)—Discussing the return of the Canadian dollar to par, the Wall street Journal this morning says: "Canada has improved her foreign trade position and her financing operations abroad have been the chief source of demand for Montreal funds. From favorable trade balance in the final months of last year, the country exports declined sufficiently in January 1922 to bring an unfavorable balance. Thereafter trade improved until total figures for the four months ending July showed favorable balance of $7,011,000, exports for June and July having been heavily in excess of imports."

"Although Canadian financing in New York has not been excessive during the past few months, it has been sufficient to take care of Canada's invisible import items. July flotations abroad amounted to slightly over $9,000,000.

"Prospects of large demand for Canadian dollars in the late autumn has had its effect. Large internal Dominion issues are expected to be floated shortly and foreign investors will probably partake rather heavily.

HOTEL COMMISSION NOT JOY RIDERS MR. TOOMS ASSERTS

IN NEW ONTARIO

The commission appointed by the Ontario Government to investigate the hotel accomodation throughout Ontario is following as closely as possible an intinerary and schedule which have been carefully mapped out in order that the ground may be covered as expeditiously as possible, said Mr. T. Tooms, M.L.A., to the Examiner, in defense of the commission of which he was appointed a member from the floor of the Legislature.

He said he wished to make some reference to the letter signed by Peterborough hotelkeepers and published in the Toronto Star and the Examiner. He objected to the reflection that the commission was joy-riding around the Province, and said that this expression was unfair.

Not Commission's Fault.

"If there are any deviations from our schedule it is not our fault, but the fault of our hosts," said Mr. Tooms. "Everywhere we go we are cordially received and entertained by boards of trade, municipal councils and hotelmen, and it sometimes happens that their programme exceeds the time we allotted; as a result we may be late for the next place on our list. But I can assure you that it is no joy-ride. In many respects it is interesting and educational and pleasant, but we meet with such early calls as at Muskoka when we got up at 4 a.m. to catch our train, but we didn't get away until 7 a.m. So I don't think the Peterborough hotelmen should put all the blame on us for any disappointment that was caused here."

Mr. Tooms hadn't arrived home from England when the commission visited this city, but he understood that the local hotelmen were requested to meet the commission at 1 a.m., instead of at 10.30 a.m. It was regrettable that any disappointment occurred, but the commission had tried its best to follow its schedule to the letter.

Should Be Recompensed.

"I am in full sympathy with the hotelkeepers' complaint that they give a lot of service to the public for which they receive no financial return," Mr. Tooms said. "When we were at St. Catharines an hotelman told us that he had counted 540 women who had passed through his hotel on the previous Sunday, using the toilet rooms and otherwise taking advantage of a free service. It seems to me that a hotel is the proper place for such accomodation because of the privacy it affords, but the question is how are the hotels to be reimbursed. Exemption from taxation would certainly assist the hotelmen, but perhaps a lot of people might object to that assistance. It should be remembered that when prohibition came into force the value of hotel property declined from the thousands of dollars to the hundreds. The proprietors were conducting a legal business, but owing to a popular reform measure they suffered a serious financial loss. For these reasons I feel that it is time the hotelmen received some satisfactory allowance for the free service they render the public."

In regard to the Dominion tax which the local hotelmen complained of, Mr. Tooms pointed out that the commission's investigations served to bring this matter into the light, and in the possible relief that may eventuate the hotelmen might yet regard as a satisfactory investment the $50 they spent in entertainment.

Most modern hotelkeepers contend that their business should be self-supporting, and Mr. Tooms expressed the opinion that it should not have to depend on side issues, such as bars and billiard rooms. Providing comfortable accomodation for the travelling public deserved to be profitable.

A Great Asset.

"When you consider that $52,000,000 are spent in one year by tourists from the United States it is evident that the hotel business is a great asset to this Province, the beauty spot of Canada," said Mr. Tooms. "I am in full sympathy with the Peterborough hotelkeepers' complaint, and when I heard of the situation I called on one proprietor, got the particulars and laid them before the commission. But this commission cannot hurry up action on the part of the Government. Their duty ends after investigating hotel conditions and submitting a report. The report has to go before the Legislature, as this commission was appointed by the Legislature, and not by the Government; so complaints should not be laid against the Government. By the way, a little fair criticism is good for the commission, so long as it is honest and free from party bias.

Royally Received.

The cities we have visited have certainly done their best to entertain the commission, and have been enthusiastic over the work that has been undertaken and accomplished. Talking to a G.T.R. official about their advertising costs for one popular resort for one season I learned that their expense for advertising that place and hotel alone was four times more than this commission's tour can now possibly cost. If we went to all the places that were willing to spend from $50 to $100 on receiving the commission we would not be finished by next season. I mention this in fairness to the members of the commission. If towns were not so eager to seize the possibilities of using the commission to their advantage the commission could almost always be on scheduled time in their visits. We have not sought to meet and interview only hotelmen, but to make our enquiries from citizens of all classes, and we hope that our report may suggest to the Legislature recommendations that will be of benefit to the hotel industry in this Province."

Peterborough Prominent.

Mr. Tooms said that everywhere he went he was delighted to find the name of Peterborough prominently mentioned in one way or another. In many cities he was told that the Empress Hotel and the White House were models of their kind. Peterborough canoes, Turner's tents and other products of Peterborough were highly regarded, and in respect to the canoe industry Mr. Tooms said he had some impressions which he would be glad to communicate to the several canoe companies here.

He had seen the first showing of the motion pictures of the Kawartha Lakes which the Government had ordered taken for advertising purposes. They were exceptionally good, Mr. Tooms said, but some excellent beauty spots had been omitted and he had requested that they be included.

In New Ontario.

The commission is now touring New Ontario where they will spend two weeks. They left Toronto on Sunday night, arriving in North Bay on Monday at 6 a.m., where they remained all day. On Tuesday they were at Temagami, on Wednesday at Haliebury, Cobalt and New Liskard. Today they are at Timmins and the Porcupine Mines, Friday at Cochrane and on Saturday they leave for Kenora, Fort William, Port Arthur, Fort Francis, Sudbury and Port McNicholl, arriving in Toronto on September 9th.

BAND CONCERT SATURDAY NIGHT

Roller Rink Will Open With a Band of Twenty-four Pieces—The Great Fall Sport.

A fine programme will be given by the Peterborough Melody Concert Band at the corner of George and Brock street Saturday evening at 7.30 o'clock after which they will proceed to Brock street rink, where an excellent programme will be rendered by a full band of twenty-four pieces for skating.

The Roller Rink will open on Saturday evening, after having been fixed up and renovated for the fall skating. Roller skating is the popular sport for fall and arrangements have been made to have around six hundred pair of skates ready for use.

Don't miss Saturday night's opening, and skating morning, afternoon and evening of Labor Day.

OFFICERS ARE IN SEARCH OF A TYPEWRITER

OUT ON BAIL

After a 180-mile drive through the north country, Provincial Officer George Cookman, Inspector Joseph Stewart, and County Constable A. R. Moore arrived in the city at 9.30 last evening with Charles Vincent, of Harvey Township, in custody.

To-day he faced a charge of stealing a typewriter from Ross W. Ferren, a commercial traveller, and elected trial by jury. He requested a remand "to get his evidence," and asked for bail.

He was dubious about getting the four thousand dollars bail was set at, after Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., had urged that this be the amount, and not two thousand dollars as at first suggested.

The case was held over until Friday, 8th September.

Vincent, who came from Windsor about a year ago, and purchased a twenty-acre farm in Harvey for $35.00, was arrested on a warrant of apprehension secured from a Justice of the Peace in Bobcaygeon after a fine comb search on the place had failed to reveal the typewriter, and the search warrant with which they left Peterborough had proved useless. A run had to be made to Bobcaygeon to get this warrant, and in securing evidence that accused had the typewriter in his possession, a further trip to Fenelon Falls was worked in.

Vincent has the last farm on the road, it is stated, and when the purchase price for the whole place was 35.00, it needs no description, the officers declared.

It is alleged that the typewriter was stolen in July when Ross Ferren, who is seeking health in the north country, broke down with his automobile within half a mile of Vincent's house. The car upset, and Ferren left his equipment there all night. Next day he missed his typewriter and other articles of lesser value.

The machine was a portable one, and worth about one hundred dollars. It is believed that the machine was sold.

REDSKIN LEADED GUILTY AND WAS FINED FOR THEFT

Police Find Silk Socks Among Articles in Indian's Home.

As an outcome of investigations by Police Chief Newhall and Inspector A. Boyd int oKawartha Lake cottage breaking some weeks ago D'Arcy Knott, an Indian, who lives on an island in Stoney Lake, north of A. L. Davis', appeared in police court to-day charged with theft of a blanket from John Johnston, Young's Point. Knott was arrested on a warrant issued some time ago, by Constable Webster of Lakefield yesterday when the Indian came out of hiding and paddled to town. Detective William Meagher and Acting Detective W. Carey brought him to Peterborough. This morning he pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and ordered to pay costs of $13.

The favorable words of the police chief had an effect on His Worship's judgment. The Chief said his investigations had shown that Knott was not connected with the other Indian marauders and his record had been good. It was also urged that he is married and has a family dependent upon his work as a guide.

Knott admitted taking one blanket from Johnston, but denied that he had stolen others. "Mr. Langley, my father warned me before he died to be a good boy," fervently declared the Indian. "It's fortunate that you have a good record," said His Worship. "I'm going to give you a chance, but remember I've been punishing these men for stealing pretty severely. The people up there are good to you and you have to respect their property."

Silk Socks.

When the Chief and Detective Inspector visited Knott's island other articles of a suspicious nature were found, such as silk socks, linen cuffs, etc., and much of the stuff was embroidered with strange initials. Knott had a plausible explantion for some of it, but when it came to explaining where half-a-dozen grey, woolen blankets came from the police had him up a stump and Mrs. Knott made matters worse by telling an opposite story to her husband. The blankets were removed to Peterborough and Johnston identified one as his, but the investigation regarding the others is proceeding. A lumber company claims possession, but on account of there being no identifying marks it is difficult to take their oath as owners. The blanket identified by Johnston was taken from a tug operated in the lakes. Inspector Boyd has by no means relinquished the case and he is resolved to find out where the silk socks and other appurtenances of civilization came from. Arrests in connection with the innumerable robberies are not ended yet, the Chief intimates.

HAS CLAIM AGAINST POWER COMMISSION FOR LOSS OF POWER

French Fed Up on Georges Carpentier

PARIS, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press.)—That Georges Carpentier is not the ideal of old among fight fans here, is indicated in the slight interest manifested in the announcement from London that he will retire in six or eight months. He is charged with snobbishness and an exaggerated ego.

Referring to Carpentier's coming bouts with Battling Siki and winner of the Beckett-Moran fight, one caustic newspaper critics hints that he may be forced to retire before six months.

WOMEN MAKING A STRONG FIGHT FOR FRANCHISE

ODDS AGAINST THEM.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 31.—(Associated Press.)—The members of the first Egyptian parliament, under the new constitution, are to be elected in October, and already political interest, not to say excitement, is running high.

All men over 25 years of age are entitled to vote. Women, nevertheless, are in no sense idle. They are making a good fight for the franchise, even though the odds are greatly against them, for Egyptian men look upon their women kind as possessions rather than co-workers in life.

The president of the Mothers of the Future of Egypt is Madame Anecseh Hanum el Rasheedy. Speaking on the emancipation of her sex recentiy she said: "The women of Egypt should be allowed to vote because they are fit for it. We shall soon win our fight because the Koran and the world are on our side. The Koran says: 'The women ought to behave towards their husbands in like manner as their husbands should behave towards them, according to what is just.'

"It is absurd to allow a citizens to exercise the franchise merely because he is of the male sex, while highly educated Egyptian women, from Princesses downwards, are to have no say in legislation on questions that affect them equally with the rest of the population. The civilized nations already have adapted the principle of woman suffrage. Egypt cannot afford to drag behind and still maintain her prestige in the eyes of those nations."

The men, at the present time, are inclined to dismiss the aspirations of the women with the generality that the average woman in Egypt to-day does not possess the qualifications necessary to intelligent voting.

Political parties which have been dormant during the British occupation are awakening, and with them is coming the revival of old animosities. The followers of Zaghlout Pasha, the deported Nationalist leader, are particularly bitter against the present government.

The city vote will count large in the coming contest. To the poor peasants, or fellaheen, the new parliament means little or nothing. To them, all rulers and officials are pests, to be endured as well as may be. They are ignorant, and are interested in nothing outside of their village. Hence they offer opportunities to unscrupulous politicians. "To educate the people to some idea of their political responsibility," says a local daily, "is absolutely necessary if the future political power is not to find its way to the hands of men whose only itnerest is personal gain."

VERDICT GIVEN.

GARY, Ind., Aug. 31.—"Deliberate homicide" was the verdict of E. E. Evans, Lake County Coroner, who has been investigating the wreck which caused the death of two enginemen last Sunday. The Coroner said he found that "thirty-seven spikes were removed from the tracks by persons unfamiliar with the use of a crowbar."

About forty witnesses, including six members of the crew, testified that the wreck was not caused of defective equipment.

BRIDGE BLOWN UP.

Letter From the Canadian General Electric Company Suggests a Friendly Suit if Necessary to Decide on Points in Dispute.

COMMISSION MEET

A claim from the Canadian General Electric Company, involving $4,034.62, was received at a meeting of the Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon. The Commissioners did not discuss the matter, which has been before the Commission before. The matter was laid over until a later meeting when it will be thoroughly discussed. The communication from the Canadian General Electric Company, dated August 22, and signed by E. G. Patterson, the Works Manager, read as follows:

"Under a contract signed by the Canadian General Electric Company, and dated July 20, 1920, and accepted and signed by the Peterboro Utilities Commission on the same date, this company was supplied with electric energy by your Commission.

"This contract would have expired on July 30th due to the fact that we issued proper notification on June 21st, intimating to the Commission that the contract would be cancelled. On July 17th the Commission pulled our line switches on Simcoe street sub-station thereby ceasing to serve us with electric energy, or in other words not completing the contract that they signed with us.

"Under the clauses of the contract as signed on July 30, 1920, we were responsible for the maximum demand created for the month only. The Commission read into this contract other clauses whereby they charged us for a peak maximum demand whether we created that in the month or not. As we have signed no such contract we have paid this overcharge under protest. The amount overpaid to the Peterboro Utilities Commission by the Canadian General Electric Company for the months of March to December, 1921, inclusive, and for the non-completion of the contract by the Commission in July, 1922, amounts to $4034.62 and we would ask you to take the necessary steps to reimburse this company with this amount.

"If there is any reason that you are not prepared to carry out our contract as signed we would welcome a friendly suit in order that the courts may decide on the points in dispute between our good selves."

Objects to Charge.

In a long letter J. Graham Weir, 181 Romaine street, sets forth his complaint against the water charge made against him by the inspectors, who are now completing their work, and threatened if there was not a reduction to sink a well. The Commission foreseeing similar complaints held the matter over as it related to the Commission's assessment for taps and gardens. It was suggested that if Mr. Weir objected to paying in the ordinary manner he could have a meter installed.

Mr. Weir objected to his being charged for three taps that he installed in a hundred and fifty foot section of pipe leading to his garden. This long pipe was put in when garden hose was selling for 45 cents a foot, a price he refused to pay. To save money he laid the pipe and put a tap at one end, another at the centre, and another in the summer kitchen. He argued that this water system would not use any more water than the garden hose. However he was assessed for three taps coming to $1.98, and instead of one thousand feet of lawn he was set down for 4000 feet, increasing this assessment from $3.63 to $5.34. His total bill for the year was increased from $18.84 to $22.80. As there are only two people living in the house he claims the charge is exorbitant and concluded by a threat to sink a well.

Replying to a question by one of the Commissioners, R. L. Dobbin, Superintendent of Waterworks, stated that the citizens should have no reluctance about entering the grounds, for the property is open to the public at all times. It is advisable, however, he said, that one particular day be set aside for visitors and he recommended that it be made known that Saturday afternoon the plant is wide open for inspection.

FIRE DEPARTMENT TESTED THE NEW BOX.

The Fire Department put in a morning testing the alarms, and worked Box 113, which is located on Romaine Street midway between Park and Monaghan Road into the system. The new box was ordered by the Council, as the ratepayers in that vicinity protested against not being allowed fire protection for which they were paying.

The three numbers will be rung similarly to two, with a five-second interval.

Set Fire to Roof.

Just before noon an overheated chimney pipe at 214 Munro Avenue, the home of Mrs. Susan Smith, set fire to the roof, and a small hole was burned before the Fire Brigade arrived with chemicals.

PENSION BILL WORKED HARDSHIP ON SOME Long Wait For Peace to Be Declared Caused the Bill to Discriminate Against Some Men.

THE EVIDENCE.

OTTAWA, August 31 (Canadian Press). — That the 1920 amendments to Section 11 of the Pensions Act had been the means of unwittingly penalising certain ex-service men, was admitted to the Royal Commission investigating the Pensions Board charges by Judge Margeson, formerly a member of the Pensions Board.

Judge Margeson declared that this came about because the declaration of peace had been postponed for nearly a year after it had been expected, and the peace-time interpretation of the Act came into effect in September, 1920. There was, however, no conspiracy to bring this about, he declared, the Pensions Board and the Parliamentary Committee having expected that peace would be effective much earlier.

Dr. Hewitt was asked by Mr. MacNeil whether he would recommend a man for pension who was discharged with a 40 per cent. disability, if investigation indicated that the soldier had this disability prior to enlistment.

He said he would not.

Mr. MacNeil then asked if it was an indication that a disability had progressed if a man accepted as fit for service and performing his duties for some years in France, was discharged with a 40 per cent. disability.

Dr. Hewitt claimed that if a man was discharged with the same disability as when he enlisted, it should be assumed that the disability was in no way due to war service.

He also said that if a man incurred a disability when on service, whether due to duck-shooting or to actual war service, he would recommend the man for pension. This test was war service. He stated that he was in close co-operation with the G. W. V. A. officials in Toronto.

Answering Dr. Henderson, Dr. Hewitt said he never received any secret instructions from the Pensions Board, and had never been told to apply more stringency in his examinations. Whenever there was a doubt as to pension ability, the applicant was given the benefit of the doubt. He stated that in certain cases the head office had increased the award made by his office. The door was never closed on the applicant, and his case was re-opened if any new evidence was available.

Judge Margeson, a member of the Pensions Board for two years, was next called to the stand.

He said that he was a member of the Pensions Board when the 1920 amendments to the Pensions Act were made.

Judge Margeson was examined as to his evidence before the 1920 Parliamentary Committee when he and Dr. Burgess were questioned together. To Mr. Bowler he said he had stated that the proposed amendment to Section 11 would not affect former C.E.F. men as compared with the old Pensions Act. He had prepared the Pension Board memorandum on th proposed amendments. This stated that pension would only be payable on a basis of attributability of disablement to war service.

Col. Ralston: "Then if a soldier died one day before declaration of peace his dependents would be pensionable; but if after declaring of peace his dependents would not be pensionable?"

Judge Margeson replied that under the 1919 Act a man disabled or dying after discharge was not pensionable unless attributability was proven. After the 1920 amendmentss and declaration of peace disability or death must still be traced back to war service to be pensionable.

"I admit by our 1920 amendments we took away a certain right from some people," said Judge Margeson, "but we did it unwittingly. There was no conspiracy; it arose from the delay in the declaration of peace, and unintentionally penalised the men discharged between that date and the actual declaration of peace. Mr. MacNeil and the committee and everyone else thought they knew all about the declaration of peace at that time."

The Commission adjourned until 9.30 this morning, when Judge Margeson will again be examined.

Canadian Grain Was Worth $150,000,000

WINNIPEG, August 31. Canadian Press. — With an approximate value of $150,000,000, 116,000 cars of grain were handled by the Canadian National Railway from western points since September 1, 1921, to August 28, 1922, according to A. E. Rosevear, general freight agent.

He said the present season's movement had jumped from an average of 100 cars daily to 350, comprised mainly of shipments from Manitoba.

Prairie Monarchs Are Overcrowding Reserve Older Ones Must Die

EDMONTON, Alta., August 31. — Canadian Press. — There is no race suicide at the Wainwright buffalo park, according to the recent census. On the contrary, the former monarchs of the prairie have been increasing to such an extent that the vast tract of land set aside for their use is insufficient to accommodate them. An order has gone forth that a number of the older animals are to be slaughtered, the carcasses to be sold to northern trading companies to be converted into pemmican, which is considered a rare delicacy in the vicinity of the Arctic. The Dominion Government will retain the hides.

TRAPPERS GETTING READY FOR SEASON

Preparations Already Well Under Way For Winter Work — Expect a Big Catch and Good Prices.

THE PAS, Man., Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press)—Although actual trapping cannot commence for some weeks trappers are already outfitting at The Pas and preparing for journeys into the noth. It is anticipated that this winter will see a great many trappers out in northern Manitoba. Numerous applications for trappers and traders licenses have alerady been received and mny more will be granted before the freeze-up.

Many of the prospectors in the district spent their winter on the trapping line so securing grub stake for the next season's prospecting. While many of the men wait until winter and proceed out to the trapping fields by dog teams, others who inten to visit spots far removed from civilization, make a start in the fall in order to allow plenty of time to build a shack and prepare for the long winter. A large fur catch is anticipated next winter and indications point to fur being pleniful and prices good.

LIVELY MEETING FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Feeling of Unrest Throughout Europe Will Make the Third Meeting of the League Doubly Important Since Other Conferences Have Failed.

GENEVA, August 31 (Canadian Press). — Early arriving delegates to the third assembly of the League of Nations bring reports of pessimism throughout Europe owing to the failure of the Genoa and The Hague conferences and the London meeting of the Allied premiers. They declare with one accord that the time has come to speak out and call things by their right names, and fix the responsibility for the increasing demoralisation of Europe.

This promises for next week a lively opening for the assembly, which will take up first of all a report on the activities of the Council, after which the commissions will be given an opportunity to raise and discuss every question within the competence of the League of Nations and the Council.

Lord Robert Cecil and other delegates declare that the assembly is competent to discuss, and ought to discuss, every angle of the economic situation in Europe, including reparations. France, and perhaps Belgium, will plead that the assembly is incompetent to discuss this question, which is regulated by the Treaty, but certain delegates believe that nothing can prevent its discussion, as it is so closely related to the economic situation.

Some of the delegates seem inclined to turn the discussion of the report of the Council into a series of interpellations, as is customary in European Parliaments.

During such interpellations the Council would be questioned and asked to explain itself on all shortcomings in the work of the League during the past year. Failure to do anything for Austria would, it is pointed out, particularly furnish material for this kind of debate.

The possibility of the presence of Premier Lloyd-George largely increases the interest in the assembly proceedings. It is openly stated by some of the delegates that the British Prime Minister will take this opportunity for a strong effort to force action on the economic situation.

Committees and sub-committees continued their efforts yesterday to agree on the text of the Treaty for the reduction of armaments for submission to the assembly. They are taking as a bakis three propositions. The first, Lord Esher's for the reduction of land armaments; second, Lord Robert Cecil's, for regional agreements guaranteeing the security of signatories; and, third, the proposed extension of the Washington accords to naval armaments.

Lord Robert Cecil's plan is strongly favoured, as it is the first move to ensure security, the lack of which is the most common pretext for maintaining armaments.

CROP REPORT

Following is a summary of reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Prices for fruit and garden truck have been disappointing to growers so far this season. Norfolk says: "Farmers are complaining of poor returns for market garden crops, and state that while everything yielded well the cash returns are very disappointing. Tomatoes consigned to Toronto net the grower only five cents per eleven-quart basket."

Lincoln says: "The Niagara Peninsula Growers are shipping in car lots plums, peaches, and tomatoes to Western markets, and relieving the local market somewhat. There is, however, a large offering of all kinds of fruit, and the prices are just a little slow. The consumer would be well advised to can for the coming winter, and for the winter following, because prices are certain to be higher another year."

Th corn situation in the Province is well put by Dundas: "The corn crop has picked up remarkably well during the past three weeks, and instead of being a failure, will be quite up to the average, and in some cases above." Kent expects to start cutting this week.

Peel claims that some fields of alfalfa in that county are yielding six bushels, and more, of seed per acre.

Oxford says that considerable oats are still out, as many farmers have chosen to do their threshing in the field.

Speaking of tobacco, Kent says: "Flue-cured tobacco is coming on fairly fast in a number of places, and some kilns are already full. The early planted Burly is also reaching maturity now, and a considerable number of farmers have commenced harvesting."

Buckwheat, where grown, is a most promising crop. In many places it is so heavy in top that lodging is feared.

Hastings says: "A farmer in the township of Thurlow has five acres of sunflowers which he intends mixing with the corn n the silo. He followed this practice last year with excellent results. He claims that his milk records show an increase from feeding sunflowers over corn alone. When ensiling he puts a load of each alternately in the silo, and in that way has been enabled to test the two crops as a silage feed."

Lennox and Addington states that four pure-bred Holstein cows sold for $1,000 last week, and four others for $600. These cattle were all from accredited herds.

Middlesex says: "Live stock have done well on account of the good pastures. A few car loads of fat cattle have been shipped out during the past week, and some young stock have been brought in from the Stock Yards at Toronto."

Wellington reports that a cargo of fat stock was shipped this week from Fergus and Elora for Glasgow.

Frontenac states that a considerable number of cattle, chiefly cows and bulls, have been marketed during the week.

ODESSA THROWS OFF RUSSIAN YOKE.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press)—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Berlin says a report has been received in the German capital that the Odessa Soviet has purged itself of Bolshevism, proclaimed its independence of Moscow and called upon all citizens to unite against the "Communist usurpers."

The report alleges that the whole of South Russia has joined with Odessa and that the revolution has been attended by bloody encounters.

DEFEATS BRITISH GOLFER.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press.)—At the Oxford Golf Club yesterday, Miss Effie Nesbitt, Woodstock, defeated Miss Edith Leitch, British golfer, in an exhibition match.

LONDON HAS FAITH IN POLISH INDUSTRY.

Makes Payment of Long-Standing Debts Fairly Easy.

WARSAW, Aug. 31.—(Associated Press.)—Lodz, the textile centre of Eastern Europe, has owed English exporters £2,000,000 for raw materails since before the war. A committee from Lodz recently went to London to find a method of payment. It was finally agreed that the Lodz debtors are to liquidate in 20 installments, one every six months, but if conditions improve, the installments may be sent forward at shorter intervals.

The relations between Lodz and English dealers in textiles always have been close. Lodz bought its cotton and other rough materials in London. War and the German occupation, followed by German requisitions, and the failure to receive monies due from Russian customers, prevented the Lodz spinners from meeting their English obligations.

As a further evidence of British faith in Polish industry, the London bankers agreed to help the Lodz interests collect from Germany for materials requisitioned during the war, and also to extend to them new credits.

Robbers Get Much Larger Haul Than Was First Thought

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., August 31 (Canadian Press). — The Foremost bank robbers made a bigger haul than was at first reported, as is shown by later figures. Cash taken was $10,840; while the securities amounted to $123,960, making a total of $134,800. Of the bonds taken, $4,500 represented bearer Victory bonds.

But a meagre description of the men was secured.

MEXICO MAY HAVE ANOTHER CIVIL WAR

Troops Are Being Mobilized in Coahuila to Resist Movements of General Murguia.

MEXICO CITY, August 31. Canadian Press. — The government officially admits the recent crossing of the border from the United States by General Francisco Murguia, formerly of the Carranza government forces in what has been described as an attempt to overthrow the government of President Obregon.

The War Office says the crossing of the border took place "somewhere in Coahuila." An extensive mobilization of troops in Coahuila and Tamaulipas has been ordered under command of General Joaquin Amaro, who has been directed to give battle to the Revolutionists as soon as he comes into contact with them.

Murguia's threat against President Obregon, which was given substance by his official manifesto issued yesterday at Villa Zaragosa, State of Coahila, in which he brands Obregon as a usurper, is considered of slight importance in the Capital, where in official circles the general belief is he will not be able to secure sufficient forces to overthrow the central power.

IRREGULARS SEIZE AND CENSOR MAILS.

DUBLIN, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press)—If the free state exercises a censorship over mails and cablegrams the irregulars also have at least partial censorship working. This was instanced yesterday near Dublin, when a postman was held up and a mail pouch taken from him by irregulars. Two hours later the pouch was delivered at the railway station. Every letter in it had been slit open and the envelopes initiated by the irregular censor. The irregulasr are still managing to issue daily a foot-square bulletin.

U. S. SENATE TALKS TOO MUCH TO VOTE

Day of Wrangling and Wordy Debate Ends With Nothing Accomplished on Coal Bill.

AMENDMENTS KILLED

WASHINGTON, August 31. Canadian Press. — After rejecting all amendments to the administration coal distribution bill, the House ran into an unexpected storm of talk late yesterday and was forced to quit until to-day without reaching a vote.

Every change proposed was either thrown out on a point of order or decisively defeated. At the end of the all-day wrangle, Chairman Winslow of the inter-state commerce committee, who was in charge of the measure, predicted it would go through as framed.

As the house worked on the measure which its supporters claimed was all the legislation needed to meet the emergency caused by the coal and rail strikes word reached the leaders that attempts to settle the anthracite strike might succeed, and that the Senate was ready to take up house coal bills as soon as it was through with the bonus.

President Harding's original suggestion for creation of a buying and selling coal agency was put before the House by Representative Anderson, Republican, Minnesota, with a provision indirectly authorizing the seizure of mines if necessary in connection with agency activities, but it went out on a point of order.

With little ceremony the House voted down an amendment delegating the distribution powers to the interstate commerce commission in place of a federal fuel distributor.

TWO ARE ARRESTED FOR BOOTLEGGING

U. S, Authorities Lay Charges of Conspiracy to Smuggle Liquor Against N. S. Men.

BOSTON, August 31. — Canadian Press. — Frederick T. Quirk, of Sydney, N.S., alleged to hold the charter of the schooner Acadia, which was seized off this port about two weeks ago, with foreign liquors on board, and Michael Power, also of Sydney, were arrested late yesterday by federal officers charged with conspiracy to smuggle liquor into the United States.

Both men were arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes and pleaded not guilty. They were held in $2000 each for a hearing today.

The arrest followed a ten day investigation by Federal officers. According to the warrant Quirk and Power conspired to bring several hundred cases of liquor from St. Pierre to Massachusetts Bay.

R.M.C. TO RE-OPEN.

KINGSTON, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press)—The Royal Military College will reopen for recruits and N.C.O'S on Monday next and the general opening will take place a few days afterward. The number of recruits this term will be fifty one which is slightly less than the number entered last year. It is the intention of the football management of the Royal Military College to have a junior and intermediate team in the intercolegiate series this fall.

STRIKE STILL ON.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press)—The strike situation on the docks is unchanged yesterday. The strikers held a meeting Wednesday night and passed resolutions calling upon the city council to take a hand in the settlemen and protesting against the railways tarming out their freight shed work to a contractor. Some 35 new men were working in the sheds here and in Port Arthur. The strikers being merely a local organization with no affiliation with recognized unions, the company regards its as impossible to enter into a binding agreement with them.

HINTS AT CHANGE IN MOUNTED POLICE.

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press.) —Intimation was given by Premier King in his address at the Liberal banquet here that there will shortly be a radical change in the organization and jurisdiction of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He hoped the time would soon arrive when headquarters of the force would no longer be in Ottawa.

FAIR ATTENDANCE IS AWAY BEHIND.

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press.)—The Canadian National Exhibition had an attendance of ninety thousand yesterday, a gain of fifteen thousand over the attendance of the corresponding day last year. The aggregate attendance so far this year is still nineteen thousand behind the figures for the corresponding period of 1921.

ANOTHER RAILWAY?

For some time stories have been in circulation among the summer colony at Stoney Lake that the Canadian Pacific Railway, which already taps the Kawartha Lake system at Bobcaygeon, proposes to establish a Stoney Lake service, either by building a branch from Norwood to Crowe's Landing, or by establishing a motor 'bus service from Peterborough during the summer season. There has been no opportunity of verifying these humors; probably they are merely a case of the wish being father of the thought. But the fact that they are circulated at least focuses attention upon the fact that the present railway service to the lake, especially for week-end visitors from Toronto and more distant, leaves much to be desired. The Examiner has already referred to the inadequacies of this service. The advent of another railway line into the lake section would undoubtedly be warmly welcomed, for with competition would come an immediate improvement in accommodation and service.

UNREASONABLE PRICES.

More than one citizen has called the attention of The Examiner to instances of what they regard as profiteering on the part of local restaurant proprietors. Undoubtedly restaurant prices have shown a determined reluctance to drop in line with the general decline in food prices, and the people who find it necessary to secure their meals at such places have been more or less exploited. Several eating places at the present time are charging their patrons 15c for a small order of sliced tomatoes or cucumbers. Such prices, in view of the retail price of these vegetables in the stores, are nothing less than extortion, and if the police have any jurisdiction in the matter the proprietors should be asked to justify charges of this kind, seeing that eleven quarts of choice tomatoes can be purchased for 40c, and in many cases even lower than that figure. In other lines, too, the prices charged are unreasonably high. The business is in the hands of a few people, and they seem to have no hesitation in clinging to war prices when everything else has declined in value with the return to normal conditions. In many cases their charges are beyond reason, and that section of the public which has to depend upon them for meals has a just grievance which demands rectification.

THE EMBATTLED FARMERS.

Although Secretary J. J. Morrison, of the United Farmers of Ontario, has suggested that there be a truce with the Drury wing of the Farmers' organization until the whole question of political policy can be threshed out at the annual convention, it is evident that the truce, if one there be, will be merely an imitation one. The split has developed too far, there is a clear-cut issue between the Drury and Morrison factions, and unless some unusually potent and not at present visible form of political glue can be devised, the Farmers' political machine seems to be cracking wide open. One thing is apparently certain, and that is that this organization is not big enough to hold both the Premier and the Farmers' Secretary. Both cannot win out before the convention, and the loser may not elect to remain in harness. At all events, the situation is rapidly developing, in spite of the suggested cessation of hostilities into "a certain liveliness," and further moves of the political wheel in so far as the United Farmers are concerned will be watched with interest. The majority of those outside the Farmer fold appear to agree with Drury that the Farmers' party, to live, must "broaden out." Mr. Morrison, however, has the faculty of swaying Farmer audiences, and he may be expected to vigorously assail such doctrine and to convince his hearers that he is right.

SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED.

The drowning of a young boy in the Otonabee the other day once more calls attention to the services rendered by Mr. John Murphy, Smith Street, and the fact that his bravery in plunging into the river when the freshet was at its height last spring and rescuing a boy from death has never been officially recognized. As usual, Mr. Murphy was among those who helped to recover the body of the latest victim, and he has never failed to lend his assistance in cases of this kind. It is regrettable that no move has been taken to have his brave exploit of last spring recognized by the presentation to him of the Royal Humane Society medal. The risk to himself that was involved in entering the fast rushing river was enough to make the bravest spurt give pause; yet Mr. Murphy unhesitatingly went to the rescue. Several years ago his son saved two girls at Inverlea under circumstances that merited recognition, but the incident was allowed to drop without any action being taken. It would be a pity, indeed, if the heroism of the father received as scant reward as that of the son. The Examiner has several times brought this matter before the public, and has no hesitation in doing do again, believing that the proper authorities should have their attention directed to the rescue of last spring.

THE EVIL OF STRIKES.

Because of the strike in the coal fields, and the consequent shortage of coal 105,000 men and women employed by the Ford Motor Company, fo Detroit, will be thrown out of work on September 16. In addition, and due to the same condition, thousands of men will be deprived of employment in factories supplying material to Mr. Ford's plants.

Thus is answered the illogical contention of Mr. Gompers that there is a community of interest between all workers, that society is divided into but two classes — Capital and Labor — and that, consequently, the striking miners deserve the support of all those who work, says the Ottawa Journal.

The tens of thousands of men who are facing want and destitution in Detroit, the families who are dependent upon them, not to speak of the community which is largely dependent upon the prosperity of the workers, will have difficulty in understanding Mr. Gompers' logic. They will perhaps even realize that, taken broadly, strikes invariably visit more injury upon employees than upon employers.

As for the public, strikes for it are ruinous in their consequences. The modern industrial world is so wrought together in one single fabric, so interdependent, that anything that paralyzes the motion of one part of it threatens disaster to the whole. In the case of the coal strike, this fact is impressively evident. Not alone has there been tremendous loss in production and in miners' wages, but hundreds of thousands of men in other industries are affected, with consequent loss to them and to the production of the plants in which they were employed, and the whole country is menaced with a fuel famine of grave proportions.

Viewing the situation thus created, one is compelled to reflect that, somehow, without the world realizing it, our social order has outgrown our social discipline. In bygone years, before industry was so interdependent, a strike was mostly a local event, with purely local consequences. To-day, with the lives and the prosperity of entire communities dependent upon events thousands of miles away, a strike, tieing up production, is a matter of grave national consequence. Under such circumstances, surely, some effort should be made to make strikes less frequent. Otherwise we shall have to admit failure in dealing with a social condition already inflicting grave injury and threatening almost permanent ruin.

WILL EUROPE FIGHT OVER AUSTRIA?

Will Austria precipitate another World War?

Few things are more likely at the present moment. This time—if the tragedy comes—Austria will, however, be the involuntary and not the voluntary cause of the explosion.

Consider the position of the new Austria. She is the most tempting tit-bit in Europe, utterly defenceless, plunged deep in hopeless bankruptcy, her Premier practically hawking his country from capital to capital. On all sides of her are nations which would be greatly strengthened if they could add her territory, her people and her splendid capital to their domains.

Is it at all likely that any one of them would be allowed to make this big gain over its rivals without protests from these rivals? Take a look at the map, and add Austria to Czecho-Slovakia and see how that addition would enable the Czechs to impend over Central Europe. If Hungary went with Austria—as it well might under such circumstances—the new nation would be a colossus, not unlike the Austro-Hungary resurrected and re-constituted, with Prague as its capital.

Or add it to Jugo-Slavia and watch Italy squirm. Italy is to-day alarmed at what it believes to be the ambitions of Jugo-Slavia. We have a Rome despatch stating that "the concentration of Jugo-Slav troops along the Austrian frontier is causing serious anxiety to the Italian Government," and we are told that Foreign Minister Schanzer proposed at the London Conference that the Italian army should be permitted to intervene in Austria for the maintenance of order should the situation requre it.

People have not been thinking of the future of Austria in terms of its smaller neighbors—they have only been worrying about its possible union with Germany. Yet it was the conflicting interests of the patchwork of races which made up Austria-Hungary and the Balkans that launched the late war.

* * * *

There are conflicting reports as to what has occurred between the Italian and the Austrian Governments. We heard recently of a loan by Italy to Austria, but are told to-day that it has not gone through. We may learn to-morrow that it has. A loan is the classic road by which a strong nation acquires a legitimate interest in a weak. If Italy attaches a big loan to Austria, it will be very difficult for other European nations to keep her from protecting that interest by military action.

Italy is notoriously of the opinion that Germany should be allowed to get to her feet again. In this, she agrees with Great Britain. Italy, again, is the only neighbor of Austria strong enough to intervene in Austria without very much fearing the opposition of Austria's little neighbors. So it might be possible that Italy would take a wounded Austria under her wing, protect her from her other neighbors, finance her recovery and offer her an outlet for her trade. Trieste would become again an "Austrian port," her shipping would be restored and grass would cease to grow on her docks.

That would bring Italo-Austria into contact with Germany. If the spirit of this combination were favorable to German restoration—which we surely may take for granted—we would have here the basis for a re-creation of the old Triplice, with Italy as the powerful partner. We do not mean to intimate that this new Triplice would have any of the aggressive or Imperialistic qualities of the old or Prussian version; but it would constitute a very strong defensive union, lying right across Europe and cutting France off from the Little Entente. If such a union had the active support of Russia and the friendly neutrality of Great Britain, it would change the present diplomatic faces of Europe. —Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There is undoubtedly truth in the statement that promises will make poor fuel during the coming winter.

Why not invite your friends to come to the Peterborough Exhibition? There will be many features that will interest them.

A cynical fan suggests that a sight contest for Central League umpires might be made a feature of the holiday baseball field day.

Those Montreal girls who are starting a no longer skirt campaign have each of them probably a couple of good reasons for their attitude.

The clean-up deal is securing a lot of space from the Toronto papers that might more profitably be devoted to the Exhibition.

J. J. Morrison proposes a temporary truce with the broadening out group. A sort of lull before the storm as it were.

The city's fuel committee cannot afford to rest on its oars. The situation is serious enough to warrant grave anxiety.

Soap made by Romans in Pompeii

About 5,000 to 6,000 years ago there existed an ancient and highly developed civilization in the Island of Crete, whose chief city was called Cnossos. Our knowledge of early Cretan life and culture is very limited, due chiefly to the fact that the Cretan language, as represented in the sculptured writings left us, is one of the few languages that scientists have been unable to decipher But, in the ruins of this very old city there has been found a bath-tub, much like the kind that is used to-day, observes the Scientific American.

So, the belief that "cleanliness is next to godliness," has apparently an ancient and honored origin. Soap too, is of ancient lineage, but the very early civilized nations did not know it. They used instead the juices of certain trees and fuller's earth as cleansing agents. Fullers' earth is also called infusorial earth, and is the remains of minute diatom ceous animals. It is found in the earth at certain places. This substance was spread on the clothes and stamped in with the feet.

Soap was undoubtedly made by the Romans in Pompeii, for in the ruins of the city there is found the remains of a soap-maker's shop. During the Eighth Century soap was made in Italy and Spain. The first real soap works was established at Marseilles in France in the Twelfth Century, when olive oil was first employed for the purpose of soap making. Soap was introduced into England in the Fourteenth Century.

Bass Wanders About

The bass, both large and small-mouthed, is a roamer. He is always looking for the place where the most food is, and is fond of variety. You can fish for him night or day, as he is a 24-hour feeder, but early morning and late afternoon is the surest time to get him right.

He is an active rogue, and continually rising from the bottom to the surface, at times jumping above the water in pursuit of food. He changes his home and feeding ground as the season passes. In the spring he is found in shallow water in streams and rivers, below rapids and riffles, and as the water warms up he moves to deep pools sheltered by logs, weeds or ledges. During the summer he migrates to greater depths, where the water is cool.

The same is true of the lake bass, in the spring he frequents the shallow places, but later he goes into the weeds and lily pads. The small-mouth bass favors stony bars or shoals varying in depth from two to 40 or 50 feet, while the large-mouth prefers weeds and muddy bottoms.

Houseroom in Every Cottage for Silk Worm

In northern Italy huge plantations of mulberry trees are grown for the express purpose of supplying the well-to-do with silk. The silk-worm is as greedy as he is industrious, and he can not do his duty except upon an ample diet of tender, juicy mulberry leaves.

The silkworm is the caterpillar hatched from the eggs of the silk moth. The tiny spinner of fine fabric is reared in millions in many a darkened Italian attic and loft. For days he does nothing but digest mulberry green, and at last, when he has had his fill, he climbs up into a twig and begins to weave around himself a comfortable bed of sile. This takes him several days, and by the time his task is finished, he has completely hidden himself in a beautiful egg-shaped cocoon.

Every Piedmontese cottage offers houseroom to the silkworm.

Manufacturers offer good prices for cocoons, and they generally want more of them than they can get. Each peasant can supply thousands of the wonderful silken balls which have to be carefully unwound on to skeins, cleansed and passed through delicate combing machinery, until the egg of a moth and the leaf of a fruit tree are ready to be made up into articles of wear.

DEVIL-DEVIL DANCE CAUGHT BY CAMERA.

Gordon MacCreagh, Back From the Amazon, Describes Indian Torture Ceremony.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Returning on the steamship Polycarp from South America, where for eighteen months he had been a member of the Mulford Biological Exploration Expedition which explored the Amazon Basin, Gordon MacCreagh, ethnologist, brought back with him a detailed description as well as still and motion pictures of the Caapi, a Devil dance which scientists have thought extinct, but which still flourishes among Indians in sections visited by Mr. MacCreagh.

While three young wild cats played about and a macaw, gorgeously bedecked in many hues, shifted lazily from one foot to another, Mr. MacCreagh, in his studio at 21 East Fourteenth Street, related the story of the Caapi which he witnessed on the Tiqui River among the Indians who were conquered by the Incas on the Waupes, a tributary of the Rio Negro, in Brazil.

Dr. Henry H. Rusby, Dean of the Columbia College of Pharmacy, who headed the Mulford Expedition, returned some months ago from the Amazon because of illness, and Mr. MacCreagh, accompanied by Duval Brown, former Consul at La az, and G. S. McCarthy of Philadelphia, determined to follow the Rio Negro as far as possible and then go overland to Bogota, Colombia, but were caught by the rainy season and turned back in order to reach a tributary of theWaupes.

Women do not See Dance

"The Caapi takes its name from the drink which is used in the dance," said Mr. MacCreagh. "The drink is made from a vine which is cut down and boiled. It is then drunk and tastes like any drink made of green things. The Caapi ceremonial, which we thought was extinct, was found to be in full swing in the sections we visited.

"The dance lasts two or three days. The Indians appear in full regalia with many feathers and ornaments and after the first day those men who choose to go through the ceremony remain behind.

"Early in the second afternoon, the chief offers the caapi bowl to those who have elected to take part in the dance. The dancers sip from the bowl and this continues until dusk when the women are ordered to the barracks in which forty or fifty families live together. The chinks of the building are covered and guards are posted to prevent the women from observing the dance, for it means death to the women who see it.

"The dancers then settle down to a serious mood and at dusk each dancer gets a reed pipe which makes a sound like an owl. Then they begin the long rythmic dance. They take three steps up and down and stamp at the last step while each man toots his reed pip .

"Suddenly you hear the Devil-Devil in the distance. The Devil-Devil, as far as we could learn, is the only supernatural belief of the Indians in this region. It is the evil spirit called Jumpary. The Jumpary blows his horn with a penetrating sound. You cannot place it; all you know is that it comes nearer and nearer until suddenly you notice four or six men you have not seen before. They are the Jumpary men and carry long horns. One of these is the devil in disguise. Before coming to the dance the Jumpary men have gone through a secret ceremony which I was not able to observe, and during that ceremony the devil is supposed to have entered one of them.

"One of the dancers, braver perhaps than the rest, then taps one of the Jumpary men on the shoulder. The dancer continues tooting his instrument, raising his arms as high as possible, and the Jumpary man unloosens a long whip, which he swings with all the force he can command. The last whistles through the air and descends on the shoulders and body of the dancer who tapped him on the shoulder. The whip raises terrible welts on the dancer's body. If he flinches or winces, it means that the Devil-Devil will get him some day in the woods and that his life won't be worth a bead. If he does not flinch it is his turn, and he gets the whip, and the lash is then laid hard on the body of the Devil-Devil man. So it goes, and each man must feel the whip on his body, while the Jumpary men have to go through the terrible ordeal many times, for there are generally thirty or forty dancers in the ceremony. The dancers are proud of their scars.

"The natives indulge in the dance when they feel the need of propitiating the evil spirit, when there is a failure of crops, or when they believe the evil spirit is abroad."

Mr. MacCreagh was taken ill while on the expedition and had to travel five weeks to get a doctor. He lived for three weeks on four cans of condensed milk until he reached a rubber trader, who gave him six cans which had been on a shelf for eight years. Despite its antiquity, the milk was good, he said. Mr. MacCreagh brought back with him some of the caapi, which he sent to Dr. Rushby for analysis. He also brought other data and material which will take him some time to put are in the way of a report.

THE MYSTERY MIND

With no report from his detectives, no sign or hint of the gang, no word from Violet, he made a careful investigation of the employees of the building. From one night man he learned that two strangers had asked for Doctor Sutton, had ridden to the floor boldly, had started for the door of the studio, but had not been seen afterward.

By wholesale generosity with his tips, he awakened an interest among the taxi drivers at the stand around the corner. Just before noon they brought him a driver who had watched a limousine come up, who had noticed two men enter the building and return, carrying out a third—at least it seemed to be a man, and in the last stages of intoxication—but this chauffeur had not been sufficiently curious to note what direction the car had taken after it pulled away.

So there were no clues; there was nothing Dupont could do. Violet might be facing death, or torture, or dishonor. He was helpless.

At lunch, which Dacca insisted upon serving, Doctor Sutton made a suggestion with a great deal of trepidation.

"Do you—do you think, Robert, you could learn anything by clairvoyant means?"

Dupont settled back in thought. At an early stage of his occult studies he had attempted the cultivation of second sight. The results had not been satisfactory enough to suit the scientist in him. Though he had glimpsed a few colorful pictures, always they had been incoherent, foolish, and meaningless. hypnotism, and the use of mind in therapeutics, seemed so much more worth while as a field for his efforts that clairvoyance had barely interested him. But now Violet was in danger. No possible means of helping her should be neglected.

"I'll try," he said, not over hopefully.

First he attempted to achieve the necessary blankness of mind and impression while seated at the table. He lowered his head, clasping his hands in his lap, resolutely driving all thoughts and worry from his consciousness. But it was as though he tried to pump water from a sieve. Little flashes of her face and hands, little memories of her mannerisms, little snatches of her conversation would dart in, interrupting. Then Dacca travelled to and from the pantry, clearing the things. Deep despair radiated from the man. It was a cloud of gloom so thick that Dupont felt he could cut it with a knife. Even Doctor Sutton's anxiety, as the scientist leaned forward, intruded.

He went into the little den, drawing Nerva's heavy curtains and plunging himself in blackness. On the couch there he lay back, shutting his eyes, again striving desperately to clear his mind for psychic messages. It was useless. Something of Nerva's sordid clientele clung to the room. He caught strange, unrelated impressions, of petty impulses and trivial problems, of nervous irritations and empty suspicions—the effluvia of the people her cheap practice had brought to her.

Hurrying upstairs he found the quiet he wished in his own room. But even then he succeeded in conjuring up nothing but a few vague colors and dull clouds, only the veriest fringe of clairvoyancy. Disgusted, he remembered three brief lessons he once had taken from a Hindu. He recalled the Eastern postures, used by students in India to induce second sight. Stripping off his upper garments he squatted on the floor with head bent, his eyes in contemplation of his solar plexus. The results were as fruitless as the other attempts.

If only he possessed a crystal ball Finally he recalled that an ordinary glass of water to a considerable extent would serve the same purpose. Calming himself by a great effort of will, determined this time to succeed, he settled himself before a table, the tumbler clasped in both hands just before him, the only light in the room behind him, and very dim.

To his joy he sensed the vague currents up and down his spine, the chills of the sympathetic nervous system which presaged psychic sight. He began to see the swirling gray clouds, followed by the aimless flashing of the brilliant astral colors. Impressing upon his subconscious self his desire to learn the situation of Violet, he waited, very patiently.

Faint sounds of music struck his ears, then all at once a scene opened up before him, like the view through a narrow window at some distance in the darkness. First he saw a church, and recognized it, a deserted structure at the very outskirts of the city, a landmark upon the top of a hill overlooking one of the principal motor roads.

Then it was the as though first scene faded into a second, as in a moving picture. Now he viewed a close-up, a closer view of a top corner of the tower. Here the joints of the bricks were plainly distinguishable. The ivy, which climbed to the very base of the weathercock, waved around the corner of the window-like opening to the belfry. Swinging ever so slightly in a summer breeze was the old bell, rusted and coated with the floating dirt from the highway far below. Near the tower was a gigantic dead tree, left from the days when there was a forest on the hill, when it was a monarch rearing a proud head above its neighbors.

One branch reached the tower. Its stubby end, broken by the edge of the masonry in some past storm, was carried against the brick by the slight sway of the tree. As he saw the scene, so he heard the sound. With a quick, sharp snap the stump would slip beyond the edge of the brickwork. Then the back swing would drag it across the mortar with a crunching, dull sound, not unlike the gnawing of a rat's teeth. The ivy was torn by this constant friction over the same spot, over and over again. Once Dupont, by some subconscious psychic faculty, heard the snap and the dragging crunch. Then he heard a piercing, muffled scream. Violet

He threw the glass of water from him. He phoned desperately for a touring car. Resuming his discarded garments, leaving most of his buttons for attention in the machine, he raced downstairs, and drove madly to the church. Doctor Sutton he left to attend to other clues. He depended upon his weapon, his wits, and his hypnotic power, to rescue her. At his destination he ran to the front door of the old church, trying it; then he dashed around the side. At a spot shielded against observation from the road the ground suddenly gave way beneath him. As he fell, grasping frantically for support, he realized that it was a trap; that a second time he had displayed his folly in attempting to save her single-handed.

XX

THE RUTHLESS HAND

The pit in which Dupont found himself had been designed to furnish light for a basement window in the church. The window, however, had long been bricked up. The other three sides of the narrow space were neatly fitted slabs of rock, chiselled smooth and affording neither finger nor toe hold. In time, the seepage from the ground had given a fine coating of slippery moss-growth to the stone, while the bricks, with their particular tendency to absorb moisture, were covered with green slime. The top of the masonry was just above Dupont's reach. Although bits of the thin boards placed above the hole in the construction of the trap had fallen with him, there was nothing of sufficient strength or substance to be of any help whatever. He could find no way of clambering out.

What would be the result? The chauffeur, down at the bottom of the hill, waiting on the road, knew nothing of his purpose in coming here. Any member of the gang approaching the car could send the man away with a trumped up message, or at the least could pay, the bill and dismiss the machine. Doctor Sutton was only aware that his destination was an abandoned church near the outskirts of the city. It would be some time before the scientist would ask outside help; the task of locating a disused ecclesiastical structure in the outlying sections of metropolitan New York would be colossal

A Guide To What's Good To Get

SOME one has said that if bread and butter were new inventions they would have to be advertised before people would accept them as standard articles of food.

Even in this progressive age, folks are somewhat wary of leaving the beaten path. They stick pretty close to the things they know, when those things come up to their expectations.

That is why alert merchants and manufacturers strive to tell about their products and their services in the advertising columns of the daily paper. They want you to know what they have to offer, in the belief that when you do know, you will be interested, and perhaps inspired, with some of their own enthusiasm.

Thrifty men and women find that it pays to read the advertisements. It enables them to rest assured that they are not overlooking anything. It lets them know where to locate some desired product or service; where to go for "this" or how to get "that" to best advantage. Without its direction they would overlook much and consequently lose much. They would live in ignorance of many things that might add materially to their wealth, health and happiness.

Make advertising your guide to what's good to get.

Read it—reflect on it—it pays!

The Fife-Armour Nuptials Solemnized on Tuesday —News Paragraphs.

HASTINGS, August 31. — A wedding of local interest was solemnised on Tuesday, 29th August, when Miss Marguerite Armour became the bride of Scott, son of Mr. Duncan Fife, of Hastings. Promptly at 11.30 a.m., the bride entered the parlour on the arm of her brother, and took her place under an arch of evergreens.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. A. Thomson in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride looked charming in a lovely gown of white silk, and wore the conventional bridal veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. She was attended by her little niece, Kathleen Skinkle, who acted as flower girl, and looked sweet in her little gown of white, carrying a basket of flowers.

The wedding march was played by Miss Eva Martin.

After the ceremony and customary congratulations, the bride led the way to the dining-room, where a dainty buffet luncheon was served, and much enjoyed.

After spending a social hour with friends, the happy young couple motored to Colborne, where they boarded the train for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will reside in Asphodel.

The gifts were numerous and useful, and reflected the high esteem in which the young couple are held.

ONTARIO COAL FAMINE.

"FLU" NEARLY KILLED HER

"I was so weak that I had lost interest in everything."

Because Mrs. McGregor let herself become run down, read what happened. "Like a great many other people who got the "flu" a few years ago," she writes," it left me in a weakened, run down condition. Nothing seemed to bring back my old strength and energy. I was tired all the time. I had no appetite. I had dull pains all over my body. I suffered agony with headaches. I was despondent and took no interest in anything. I was nervous. I was irritable and was always looking for slights. I was losing weight. I was in such a nervous, weakened, run down condition, that last spring I got pneumonia. My family didn't think I would live and the doctor told me afterwards that it was only because I had a strong heart that I managed to pull through. By the time I was out of danger, I was so weak and tired that I had lost interest in everything. I tried several preparations to build me up but none of them did me any good. One day a friend who had been very ill called in to see me, looking the picture of health. I asked her what she had been doing with herself to look so well and fat. She said that Carnol had done wonders for her and advised me to try it. As the evidence of what Carnol had done for my friend could not be denied, I decided to follow her advice. Today I think Carnol the most wonderful preparation in the world. It has made me a happy, healthy, contented woman."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 8-122

The Girl Across The Street

The girl across the street came over at lunch time Wednesday to confide again in Daughter. Another of the mysterious love letters had reached her Tuesday typewriten and unsigned and pride so far triumphed over discretion as to persuade her to show it to the butcher boy when he called in the evening.

The butcher boy was wroth. "It's that Lawyer Davis" he growled. "The ole bal-headed skinflint. I know it's him because he's the only man in town that's got a typewriter and ain't married and he's the only one can use high-falutin' language. I'm a-goin' to bust him that's what I'm a-goin' to do."

"You'll do nothing of the kind, Hiram Fetchit" cried the girl; but her tone of voice was not convincing, for her heart beat fast with exultation.

How wonderful to be a Helen of Troy. To sit amid cushions, innocently out of harm's way, while strong men do battle for the honor of kneeling at one's feet.

Well, well; if battle there must be, it will be worth the seeing. The butcher boy had an advantage in weight and youth, but Lawyer Davis carries a stout stick and there is a spring in his step despite the years that have taken away his hair.

The girl tries to be neutral. "Of course I love Hiram and like to kiss him and everything" she confessed; "but Lawyer Davis is so distinguished and it's so thrilling to be loved from afar by a man like that. I hope they don't fight about me—I mean, I hope they don't hurt one another."

FIELD DAY AT HASTINGS WAS HUGE SUCCESS

Speeches By Public Men Held Undivided Interest —Town Clerk Officiated as Chairman.

CLEAN SPORT.

HASTINGS, August 31. — One of the most successful field days Hastings has had was held on Wednesday afternoon.

The Alderville Brass Band started the fireworks with a few selections, followed by speeches.

Alex. Wilson, the clerk of the town, acted as chairman, and in a few words thanked the Hastings A. A. in bringing him on the paltform, as it was a good shady place.

Rev. Mr. Belford, of Brighton, the Conservative candidate, was next called, and was pleased to see such a fine type of young men as were taking part in the afternoon's sport.

W. P. Plant was the next speaker, and he, while not wishing to dwell on political affairs, did not think the working man was getting a square deal. He did not see where the cost of living had gone down, as wheat was 85c a bushel and bread 11c a loaf. While in Toronto recently, he found that cattle were only selling for 41- cents a pound, yet dealers were charging 61 cents a pound for tenderloin. He closed by saying that if a party ran a black dog for Parliament, some people would vote for it.

Hastings Won Ball Game.

At 2.30 Warkworth and Hastings lined up for a league game of baseball, in which Hastings were the victors by a score of 12 to 2.

Clean Lacrosse.

Immediately following the ball game Campbellford and Hastings crossed sticks in one of the cleanest games of Canada's national game seen on the Hastings field in a number of years. Campbellford brought along the strongest team they could secure, as they had on five of this year's Intermediates, including Paul Thomas, one of the niftiest stick handlers Canada has produced.

The ball was faced at 4 o'clock, and in a few minutes of play Hastings scored the first goal, and had all the play on the Campbellford net when the quarter ended. Hastings 3, Campbellford 1.

The second quarter was very tame, and Hastings notched 2 goals. Hastings 5, Campbellford 1.

The third quarter was entirely different, as Campbellford seemed to take on a new lease of life, and ran in 4 goals. Hastings 5, Campbellford 5.

In the last quarter both teams settled down and kept the crowd on their feet all the time.

The score ended 11 to 9 in favour of Campbellford.

The Hastings Juniors are deserving of much credit, as the Campbellford management claim they are the fastest Junior team they have seen in action.

R. H. Cole satisfactorily acted as referee.

Messrs. J. Loukes, D. Douglas and J. Birmingham, of Campbellford, attended the field day in Hastings on Wednesday.

MINERS ARE STILL IMPRISONED IN MINE

JACKSON, Cal., Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press.)— Fire in the shaft of the Argonaut mine in lowest reaches, of which 47 miners have been imprisoned since Sunday, is out, but that fact brought no nearer the hope for releasing the men alive. Heat in the shaft is so intense that flames may break out at any moment and at the earliest it would be five days before entrance to the mine could be gained.

UNIQUE SHOWING OF JAPANESE ART.

Was Brought to Canada Especially For Toronto Fair.

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—The exhibits at the Toronto Exhibition this year include a remarkable showing of Japanese art, which has been brought to Canada especially for exhibition here. It is partly made up of a very fine collection of water color paintings representing the best of the modern school of Japanese painters, those who have to some extent forsaken the more conventional style of Japanese painting in favor of the western method expressing the natural beauty of their country.

This collection of paintings has created a great deal of interest in Toronto's art circles, and it is hoped that art lovers in other parts of Canada will have an opportunity of viewing them after the close of the Exhibition. They combine the rich colorings we have learned to associate with the work of the more advanced school of Canada's painters with the amazing skill in drawing and composition that seems to be natural to the Japanese artist. This exhibit is at present housed in the C.P.R. building, which has been very successfully decorated for the occasion after the Japanese manner. The ceiling is covered with lattice work, from which hang counless wisteria blooms, while branches of cherry blossoms shroud the upper walls. To carry out the Japanese idea more fully one wall of the building is covered by a large full colored electrically operated working model of Yokohama and Tokio harbor, up and down which pass models of the new Canadian Pacific Empress steamers that run from Vancouver to the Orient. On the hills of the foreground are many beautifully constructed models of Japanese homes, varying from the cottage of the peasant farmers to the home of the aristocrat, and tiny Japanese carvings of exquisite finish give an excellent representation of the varied types of the Japanese people themselves. Colored transparencies in all parts of the building present the most noted of the country's points of scenic interest and give further representations of Japanese life.

On another wall the St. Lawrence route to Europe is featured with a working model of Quebec harbor, thus typifying with its companion picture the great trans-Canada route from Europe to the Orient. As though seen from the deck of a passing steamer the rock of Quebec stands radiant in the sunshine. At its base working models of the Empress ships as well as other vessels pass up and down, and rising from among the steeples and spires of the old city is the new twenty-storey tower of the Chateau Frontenac.

In somewhat similar fashion the West Indies are depicted as though seen from the stern of the steamship Empress of Britain, which will again this year be one of the C. P. liners making a winter cruise of the southern seas.

To the east side of the machinery hall stands the fully equipped train, which is visited by an unending stream of people from daylight to dark. This train represents the latest in all steel rolling stock, and is first-class evidence that Canadian workmen in the C.P.R. shops are the equal of any in the world. The train includes diner, colonist sleeper and compartment car. It stands with its crew as though ready to move, the tables are set in the dining car, the berths are made up and altogether it is an excellent object lesson of the wonderful spotlessness and comfort of C.P.R. equipment.

CANADA'S DEBT MUST BE PAID

Premier King's Message to the Canadian People—Can Have Too Much Government.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—"There is such a thing as too much government and we have had our share of it of late, in common with the rest of the world. With a national debt of over two billions, three hundred and forty millions and a population not yet nine millions, the less we have of government that can be avoided and more of immigration that can be obtained, the better for State and every taxpayer in the State."

With the above message to Canadian people Right Hon. Mackenzie King, Premier of Canada, last night concluded his address at a banquet tendered him here by the Liberals of Ontario. Motive above all others which had guided him, he said, in an endeavor to have fortunes of Liberal party and larger destiny of Dominion, conform to Liberal aims and aspirations, was the "spirit of unity and good will, of which the Liberal convention held in Ottawa in August 1919 was so outstanding an expression."

He said that this spirit, the spirit of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, beloved and honored in life and death was the guiding star by which he sought to direct the fortunes of party.

One criticism the Premier had to make "of my distinguished adversary, the present leader of the Opposition in Parliament, is that his whole attitude appears to be one of ill will. His sarcasm, never too refined, has given place under disappointment of defeat, to pregnant bitterness. He is, as Sir Lomer Gouin said of him, a poor loser."

Referring to co-operation between Liberals and Progressives in last session of Parliament, Hon. Mr. King said he thought experience disclosed that neither Liberals nor Progressives had anything in common with Tory opposition, and that it had helped to demonstrate greater relative advantage of closer union, in seeking to work out the aims we have in common.

Door Still Open.

He gave intimation that the door was still open for merging of Liberals and Progressives. History of politics in Canada, he said, pointed to the fact that third parties were always born during Conservative rule. So it was with the present Progressive party. Advances were made when the Liberals formed government to secure co-operation in government of leaders of Progressive party. Though negotiations were not successful, he said, it would be the fault of the Liberal party if it did not prove broad enough to make the third party unnecessary in Canadian politics. The Premier paid a feeling tribute to his parents and his early life in Toronto, also to his Alma Mater, Toronto University.

The banquet in honor of the Premier was given by Ontario Liberal Association and Ontario Women's Liberal Association. Hon. A. C. Hardy, of Brockville ,and Mrs. H. H. Carpenter, of Hamilton, presidents respectively of the two organiaztions, were joint chairmen. Madame Belanger of Ottawa, vice-president of Eastern Ontario Liberal Association, G. N. Gordon, M.P., Peterborough, and a number of members of the House of Commons and the Ontario Legislature, were seated at the head table.

Wellington Hay, M.L.A., leader of the Liberal Opposition in Ontario House, declared that the province had obligated itself very heavily in regard to the Chippawa power development and it must be made to pay. There was no occasion for more steel rails in the province at present, he said, but present roads in many cases should be electrified.

NO END OF TROUBLE IS CAUSED BY WOMEN

Such Is the 'Plaint of Railway Baggagemen.

Women may be the slaves of fashion, the faithful worshippers of fads, but their burdens will never oppress them. The burning sun of a sweltering summer day may beat down upon them but very few will collapse on account of their burden of dress.

So the baggage agents of the railway companies and head porters of the various hotels aver after analysing the situation. While a number of them believe that Miss 1922 carries more bags and fewer trunks than heretofore they cannot understand why they still carry so many bags when they take a squint at what they wear.

"The Fenian Raid Miss and the Miss of thirty years ago, in mother's day, carried on her important person a dozen petticoats and several dozen ruffles," said a porter of one of the principal hostelries of the city. 'She also wore hoop skirts six yards around, but when she went travelling all she took with her was a single bag or trunk."

"I canot for the world see why the flapper of 1922, with bobbed hair, who is dressed in about three pieces of clothing, a pair of shoes and a beauty mark under the left eye needs ten bags and half a dozen boxes.

No End of Trouble.

'There is no end to the trouble they cause us, and I cannot see where the justification lies. Of course they are up-to-date and vary like the weather but admitting that—why, you could put all some of them wear in Pandora's box."

"To-day the average dress amounts to very little. In fact you could put it in your fist. The girls of years ago carried about two dresses, a pretty bonnet and plenty of undergarments. Now the modern miss, or the flapper, as you may call her, takes along fifty or sixty of those sleeveless half-skirtless dresses, and blouses and hats and stockings—they form a very important item, you know, as there seems to be a lot more stockings now than there used to be. She may buy just as much material for her clothes as the old fashioned girl, but she makes several dresses out of it. I don't know whether the idea is economy or not, but it is very simple and transparent."

A baggage man at the Grand Trunk station, intimated that the modern girl took along with her on her pilgrimages a great deal of unnecessary accessories. For instance she had to bring along a hat for each dress and that meant a lot of extra bags or boxes. "We get a great deal of these things, you know," he said, "marked 'breakable,' 'with care,' 'must be handled carefully,' 'easily crushed.'"

Very Little Friction.

The baggageman of the railways and hotels are well able to cope with the vagaries of the debutante, however. Very little friction is caused and scarcely ever is a bag lost or a trunk smashed with its precious contents.

"To please them at times is a big proposition," said one hotel man, "but we are able to do it. The summer season is especially trying when so many are travelling, and this year we had a very busy time."

But as to the necessity for the great number of bags, none could find a solution, and none volunteered to suspect any of the travellers to be bootleggers. The best answer given was that the bag had replaced the trunk to stay and the baggagemen seemed satisfied.

Old-Time Dance Due For A Comeback--and Why

BY MARIAN HALE.

The revival of the cake walk is the outstanding result of the annual convention of the American National Association of Dancing Masters.

Everyone will be doing it before the season is over.

And that isn't all. We'll shed our troubles, beautifully and naturally. The landlord will be forgotten and the bills will lie unopened while we go on with the dance.

Obviously, the interest in this old step, popular some 20 years back, has been fostered by the coloured revues which are thick on Broadway

But if you care for a more high-brow, psychological explanation, you may have that too. I got it from Valodia Vestoff, who introduced the cakewalk at the convention. Says he:

"Dancing reflects the mental attitude of a people. In calm, leisurely times we had the beautiful waltz, in formal days the stately minuet.

"Recently we have been going at a terrific rate and have danced wildly and recklessly. That's because life has been driving us too hard.

"Now, as a nation, we are tired. The strain of high rents, unemployment and disillusionment generally has brought on a need for relaxation so that we may regain our poise. And here is where the cakewalk will be our able ally.

* * *

"You can't be worried about business, or full of complexes, and dance the cakewalk. Or if you start out that way the music and the dance will change you.

"The cakewalk will restore our balance and our dispositions.

"Scientists say music has a decided influence on the pituitary gland. Military music excites it and sends an extra helping of its secretion into the blood.

"This peps up the heart and gives you that feeling of exhilaration that causes you to straighten up your shoulders and mark time with your feet.

"Slow, sad music puts the brakes on the pituitary gland, and almost makes it forget to function. The heart action decreases and with that comes depression and sadness.

Of course, other dances are scheduled for the winter. The tango, for instance, Dancing-masters love that because it affords so much teaching walk just pleasantly exhilarates and relaxes at the same time, which is exactly what we need at this time, material. You may teach yourself to toddle and shimmy, but not to tango. You can take lessons on that indefinitely.

And we're going to have lots of fancy, twinkle steps, simple in themselves, but giving an effect as complicated as those achieved by Irene Castle.

But pin your faith on the cakewalk. That's where the knowing ones placing the big bets.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GREY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.

RHINESTONES.

Rhinestones are a popular trimming for black velvet gowns. Sometimes they are scattered over a frock with a certain casualness and other times make a decidedly fine and conventional design that trims the panels, neck and sleeves.

CATSUP WILL KEEP.

Catsup is easy to make and sure to keep when you make it with Parke's Catsup Flavor and Preserver. No additional spices required. 35c bottle. At Bond's Drug Store, cor. George and Hunter Streets.

Third Tube in Super-Regenerative Set Is Audio-Frequency Amplifier

By PAUL F. GODLEY.

A combination of three tubes may be used in the super-regenerative receiver circuit.

The third tube acts as an audio frequency amplifier and is coupled to the plate circuit of the controller or oscillator tube through an audio frequency transformer.

Where this arrangement is used, the filter circuit becomes essential, for the received signals are very powerful. Any of the high pitched oscillations generated by the circuits of the tube O will be amplified to the point where they may completely mar the voice or music.

It is not easy to construct the filter circuit.

The resistances, R1 and R2, should be non-inductive and have a value of 10,000 to 15,000 ohms each. They may be purchased from a supply store in the form of carbon resistance rods, or they may be one of the several special types of resistance units such as the lavite units used by the Western Electric Company.

The inductance, L5, is an iron core having a value of approximately one henry, and may be ordered from any established manufacturer.

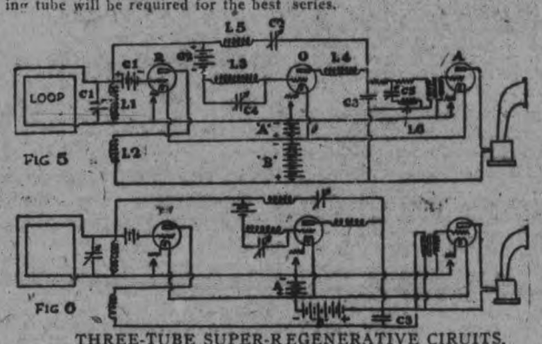
Figure 6 shows a compromise circuit using three tubes. The results with the last circuit will compare very favorably with those of the circuit in the other figure. It is amply suited for use in conjunction with the loud speaker. The advantage gained here is that little, if any, of the audible oscillation of the circuits of the tube O will be apparent.

Four Tubes.

With either of these circuits a fourth tube may be added. If this is done, a tube of somewhat larger capacity than the ordinary amplifying tube will be required for the best results. For example, a five-watt transmitter tube such as Radotron UB202 will serve. This tube will require upward of 150 volts on the plate.

Attention is called to the grid battery in the grid circuits of tubes R and O. This is a refinement which tends to give stability to the circuits, and to induce distortion of voice and music.

This battery will range from 1.5 to 6 volts, and may be changed 1.5 volts at a time, thus enabling the use of three of four dry cells in series.



THREE-TUBE SUPER-REGENERATIVE CIRUITS.

Working Force on a Monday

(By H. I. PHILLIPS)

Saphronia, Mister Fish's stenographer is asleep in her chair with her mouth open wider than a Windsor speak-easy. She will come out of her trance in time for lunch, but suffer a relapse immediately after. Saphronia spent the week-end in the mountains. She feels as if the mountains had rolled over her. She went up by machine with the Gwarts, met a McGill boy at the hotel, and dance her bobbed head off.

"What's the sense making the help come to the office on Monday?" demanded Saphronia. "Nobody's in shape to do anything but mull around like an ectoplasm."

She would be rebuked by Mister Fish for sleeping, but the truth is, Mr. Fish spent the week-end at the Highland Fling Country Club golfing, and is asleep in one o the vaults.

* * *

Citronella, Mister Muggins' stenographer, is putting in the day rubbing olive oil on her face and arms. She spent an eight-hour day on the beach Sunday. Under a quick glance she looks like the Aylmer fire. She seems about to go "bamm" and scatter sparks at any moment.

Citronella could wear two Pyrene extinguishers as earrings and seem appropriately bedecked. If the boss ask her to put "Dictated but NOT RED" on any of her letters this week she'll murder him. Presen ly Mr. Muggins will come in and ask her to take a letter.

"Oh, I can't take a letter to-day, Mr. Muggins," she will say.

"Why not?" Mr. Muggins will ask. Muggins thinks everybody on the pay-roll should do something on Monday.

"Oh, I'm too sunburned." Cirtonella will explain. "Look, I'm all covered with oil."

"When do you think you will be in shape to take a letter?" Mr. Muggins will ask. One has to handle the help—particularly the oiled help—with gloves.

"Aw, cancher wait till autumn or early winter?" she will plead. As a matter of fact Muggins spent a strenuous week-end, what with house parties and gin and one thing and another, and he is not any too anxious to press a point of work.

* * *

Magnolia, Mister Dumdum's stenographer, is sitting with her feet on the windowsill. Magnolia has a bad case of sunburn, too. She has begun to peel. She looks like the title page of a treatise on Scarlet Fever. She spent Saturday and Sunday canoeing and swimming and lying around the beach. Mr. Dumdum would like some correspondence attended to, but Magnolia is practically useless while peeling. She peels throughout August, Mr. Dumdum hates to sit near her while she peels. It gets on his coat.

He pretende to be very indignant at Magnolia's indisposition, but he is just in from a week-end motor-trip during which he spent eight hours in line waiting for his turn to board a ferry, and he is none too anxious to work. Inwardly he says "Let 'er peel."

* * *

George Grudd, the chief clerk, is going through the business of looking over a mass of correspondence, but he is thinking of the wonderful girl he sat with on the hotel porch until nearly sunrise. He's awfully tired. Monday's a rotten day to work. Tomorrow he must ask for a raise.

* * *

In his mahogany-equipped office marked "PRIVATE" Mister Desbroughs, boss of the whole works, is asleep on his desk. He has made a pillow out of a brief case. The door is locked. Mr. Desbroughs put in Saturday and Sunday in the golf tournament. Let the staff attend to things to-day. Monday's a light day anyhow.

THE FALL BLOUSES ARE VARICOLORED

The new costume blouses to accompany fall suits are already making a shy appearance. One by one they dot the shop windows.

Combinations of colors seem to be very good and since brown and green are expected to be the most fashionable autumn shades it is this that is seen oftenest.

Combinations of materials are modish, too. Crepe de chine is rimmed with silk duvetyn to excellent effect and net is combined with thin silks, such as georgete.

These new blouses are mostly casaque style with low girdles that either encircle the waist or begin at each side, leaving the front line smooth and unroken.

OPENING OF THE NEW HIGHWAY

The Highway will be declared open in the presence of a large number of people, among whom there will be many Peterborough motorists.

The committee which has been in charge have taken steps to make the affair a success.

Hon. H. C. Nixon, the Provincial Secretary, will be one of the leading speakers.

Mayor W. H. Taylor entertained a number of those taking part at a luncheon at the Empress Hotel at noon. There were present Hon. H. C. Nixon, E. N. McDonald, M.P.P., East Peterborough, S. S. Staples, M.P.P., F. W. Bowen, M.P., West Durham, F. G. Sandy, M.P.P., Victoria, G. A. Gillespie, ex-M.P.P., and H. B. Cowan.

Following the luncheon before leaving for Springville, the party were driven about the city and shown points of interest

DREAM AND SUCCEED.

Dreams are made of star dust, we are told, but a better recipe is suggestion and imagination. Those who can look at a brick and see a castle are builders of a bigger and better world. To be serviceable an imagination must be exercised. Do you want a suggestion? Look about you; a weed becomes an industry. If you want more encouragement turn to the classified advertisments and there you will find an ever changing department store full of them.

The business manager advises you to read classified advertisements when you want a job, an auto...obile or a candlestick, but these things are all at the main entrance of the store. Visit the bargain basement and the upper floors where great treasures are stored; uncensored news of human activities, relative values in parallel columns, heart-throbs and character studies to educate and entertain. Best of all, however, is the stuff that keeps dreams alive.

Suppose your ambition is to own a farm. The classified advertisments will remind you of it every day, force you to think of it, and lead you to concentrate your attention and energy on plans to accomplish success. When your dream has grown from a chance idea to a concrete possibility you will find the farm itself described among the classified advertisments.

There are only three kinds of dreams: those that are forgotten, those that never change and those that come true. Mount your wishes on thought and effort and they will ride to realization.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

If a dinner guest breaks a glass, or spills any food on the cloth, the gracious hostess makes light of the matter and introduces a new topic of conversation.

DIARRHOEA IS DANGEROUS
To Teething Babies
DURING HOT WEATHER

Hot weather is a dangerous time for the babies when cutting their teeth, and all mothers should watch very closely for any sign of diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum or any other bowel trouble.

There is no remedy so safe and effectual for diarrhoea as Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and all mothers who have used it speak of it with the greatest of confidence.

Mrs. James E. Green, Vermilion, Alta., writes under date of Aug. 18th, 1921, as follows:—"A week ago my baby boy, just one-year and four months old, started cutting two stomach teeth, and was so sick he couldn't eat or sleep, and had the diarrhoea most terribly bad; his rectum was raw and bleeding, but after giving him Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry regularly for three days he was as well as any boy could be. I wouldn't be without your grand remedy for untold gold."

"Dr. Fowler's" is for sale at all dealers; price, 50c. a bottle; put up by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE GATEWAY OF THOUGHT

"A man will remain a ragpicker as long as he has only a ragpicker's vision."

Why go through life exhibiting the traits of an underling? If you are a real man, don't go around looking like a beggar, talking like a beggar, acting like a beggar.

Only by thinking prosperity and abundance can you realize the abundant, prosperous life.

Prosperity flows only through channels that are wide open to receive it. Doubt, fear and lack of confidence close these channels.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN THE SECOND HALF

Play Off With Lakeviews To-Morrow For Final Juvenile Honours of the City.

The Maple Leafs won the right to play off for Juvenile City League honors with the Lakeviews when they defeated the first half champs., 7 to 2, in a fast game played at Riverside last evening. The heavy hitting and good fielding, except for the second innings, gave the Leafs the victory.

"Chuck" Bradley did the heaving for the winners and had rather an off day as far as pitching went. He walked five and struck out four, but he did some good work with the bat.

Cameron pitched the first three innings for the Lakeviews and was followed by Young. Young in his three innings walked one, struck out four and allowed one hit.

The Lakeviews got their two runs in the second, when Young scored on Shadgett's single and Baird scored when the Leafs began throwing the ball all over the infield.

The Leafs got six of their seven runs in the third innings on a bunch of hits.

Ken. Shadgett turned in a nice game at second for the Lakeviews.

The teams were:

FOOTBALL NOTES

An important meeting of the Lindsay Town Football Club was held last evening when the club underwent a process of reorganization. It was decided to try to enter for the fall series for the Gordon Cup, open to teams in the Peterborough and district league. The first round for this cup opens next week, so the Lindsay entry will be a little late, but the attempt will be made nevertheless as the locals feel that they would be able to give a good account of themselves. The call is out for a practice at the grounds tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock, and it is urgently requested that all players be present.—Lindsay Post.

Soccerites will provide the week-end entertainment at Riverside, when Brantford is due here for an Ontario Cup game. Baseball fans will relish a good game of football.

HASTINGS HELD BIG FIELD DAY

Ball Game Won By Hastings, While Campbellford Was Victorious in the Lacrosse Match.

The athletic meet held yesterday afternoon by the Hastings Athletic Association to raise funds for the organization was a decided success in every way. Sufficient money was raised to be of material assistance in financing the association and an excellent brand of sport was witnessed by the large number of spectators who turned out.

In the baseball game, which was a scheduled game in the Intercounty League, Hastings defeated Warkworth, 10 to 1, which sends Warkworth back into a tie with Havelock for first place in the league. The players were:

Warkworth—Corkery, p; Drumm, c; Armstrong, 1b; B. Thompson, 2b; M. Thompson, 3b; Oliver, ss; Leonard, lf; Baker, cf; Henry, rf.

Umpires—Curtis and Hess.

The lacrosse game was won by Campbellford, which team defeated Hastings by the close score of 11 to 9. The game was fast and exciting from start to finish, with the final result in doubt to the last minute.

The players were:

Campbellford—Garrison, Copperwaith, Thomas, Holmes, LeBarr, Cowell, Harte and Heagle.

PORT HOPE EASY FOR COBOURG NINE

Horse Show Boys Romp Around the Bases at Will —Two Home Runs Hit.

COBOURG, Aug. 31.—(Special to Examiner).—Cobourg defeated Port Hope here yesterday in a game that made the home team look like real champions, while Port Hope played a very poor brand of ball. The final score was 20 to 2. Turpin and Higginbottom both hit home runs for Cobourg, while the infield played the best game they have put up this year. Yackel at shortstop was a treat to watch and he handled hard hit balls like a veteran. Derry pitched for Cobourg, but did not extend himself at any time, letting the rest of the team do the work.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Port Hope	000100001—	2	5 9
Cobourg	432201530—20	14	1

Batteries—Port Hope, Dear, Friar and Hall; Cobourg, Derry and Tyson.

Umpires—Kay, at plate; Butler, on bases.

Home runs—Turpin and Higginbottom.

TWO FAST GAMES FOR JAKE'S BOYS

Double Bill With Port Hope on Labor Day Will Be Worth Watching.

The Petes start on the final week of their scheduled games in the second half of the Central League schedule on Monday when they and Port Hope will see who can hang the greatest number of counters on the score-board. The locals will celebrate the occasion with a double-header, Port Hope being the other half of the battle for each game.

The first game will be the regular league game and will be played in the morning, starting at 10.15. Though the Port Hopers are trailing along in the rear, as far as the league standing goes, they have always been ready to give Peterborough a good battle in any game, and the Labor Day morning attraction will be no exception to the rule. Boundy and Butler are slated to do the umpiring.

The afternoon game will be an exhibition affair, and the visitors are planning to spring some surprises on the locals for the occasion. Just what the surprises will be they do not say, but there is a joker in the deck somewhere and only time will tell just what it is. This game will start at 2.30, and Alex Kay will be behind the plate to call the balls and strikes. Just who will assist him by looking after the base runners has not been decided yet.

Al. Heckman will be on the mound for the locals in both games, and with the Petes playing at the top of their form it looks as if two lively contests were in prospect.

Charles Thorpe.

BOYS ORGANIZE HARRIER CLUB

Charles Thorpe Elected to Head New Organization — Will Start Practice Immediately.

The Peterborough Harrier Club was organized last night and will get down to work at once with a run on Friday evening from the Y. M. C. A. over a short limbering-up course. Charles Thorpe was elected President, and the club starts with an encouraging membership, which should begin to increase at once. The boys and young men who were present evidently appreciate the fact that in Mr. Thorpe they have a valuable guide and trainer. To foster the sport in which he won many prizes, he is giving a night a week this fall to the Harrier Club, and it is hoped that all the young men who are interested in road work will get into togs at once.

It is the intention of the club to invite several doctors to address the members on questions that should prove instructive and beneficial to them, and it is hoped that other benefits may be derived from membership before the season is far advanced. There is no membership fee charged, but this fact should not depreciate the value of the club to all those who join it.

Other arrangements will be made from time to time, but the first consideration is getting the boys on the road. For Friday night's run every one is invited to meet at the Y.M. C.A. at 7.45. It will not be a long jaunt, but will give the beginners an idea of the pace they should adopt for the present, and which they may follow in their own workouts on any other nights during the week.

Diamond Dust

The Ontarios of Port Hope have been booked for a double appearance here on Labor Day, the league game having been shifted from Wednesday, Sept. 6, to the holiday. A whole day with Port Hope, including Finnigan Hills, ought to bring out a Barnum-Bailey-Ringling Bros. circus crowd.

* * *

On Saturday, Sept. 9, Riverside Park will be used by the junior and juvenile finalists for local baseball honors.

* * *

Cameron for Lakeviews and Bradley for Maple Leafs will do the pitching in the juvenile contest this evening. Players are reminded that they are expected to be on hand to start the game at 5.30 o'clock.

* * *

The Keene-Otonabee game scheduled for this week has been postponed to Thursday, Sept. 7.

* * *

Manager Walter Gerowm, Pitcher Mullen, Catcher W. Mills and Third Baseman Jack Williams of the Belleville Central League team went in to Toronto to see the Detroit-Toronto game on Monday and got a few pointers from Ty Cobb.

* * *

Cobourg and Peterborough are now on even terms and in number two position for the second half of the schedule.

* * *

It is going to be Peterborough and Belleville for the final game of the Central League with the boys of the Quinte town as favorites. But with Al. Heckman travelling at top form, Belleville will not have any pink tea party.—Port Hope Guide.

BONNER-WORTH WON FROM AUBURN GIRLS.

The Bonner-Worth girls trounced the Auburn girls by the score of 22 to 16 in a Girls' Softball League game played at Central Park last night. BOWMANVILLE LOST TO GRAND TRUNKS

BOWMANVILLE, Aug. 31. Special.—The entire proceeds of yesterday's central league game here with Belleville were given to the local Chamber of Commerce band to assist in defraying the expenses of new uniforms. The largest crowd of the season was in attendance to see the home team bow to defeat at the hands of the high and mighty leaders of the second series, by the score of 13 to 6.

Belleville stepped into the lead in the first innings with two runs and got another in the third. Bowmanville took so kindly to Mellow's pitching in the third, when four runs were recorded that Williams started to warm up, but he was not required after Belleville corralled six runs in the sixth inning. Errors were quite frequent on both sides and helped to pile up the runs. Mallow had 8 strike outs and Chambers fanned 7.

The line up:

Belleville: Meagher 2b; Weir ss; H. Mills 1b; W. Mills c; Ross cf; Williams 3b; Casey rf; Hagerman lf, Mallow p.

Bowmanville: Stark 3b; L. Minge and 2b; Corden 1b; Bales c; Mills and Muirhead lf; Chambers p; A. Piper, ss; McMurtry and F. Piper cf; Colwill rf.

COLBORNE DEFEATED WARKWORTH G.A.U.V.

Colborne defeated the Warkworth G.A.U.V., 13 to 12, in a fast game of ball last evening, and are now in the running with Brighton and Roseneath for first place in the Northumberland County League. The Warkworth boys took an early lead, and at the end of the third inning the score stood 8 to 3 for Warkworth. Colborne came along strong in the fourth to tie the score, and from then on it was a battle royal.

The players were:

Warkworth—A. Zufelt, p; Armour, c; K. Zufelt, 1b; Richardson, 2b; Miller, 3b; Eggleson, ss; Ingals, lf; Dawson, cf; Hume, rf.

"Y" TIGERS SWAMP LAKEFIELD GIRLS.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 31.—The "Y" Tigers of Peterborough visited Lakefield last evening and defeated the local girls' team, 23 to 8, in a good game, which, though not as snappy as the last Girls' League game, was a good one from start to finish.

The players were:

"Y" Tigers—H. Jackson, p; E. Drury, c; G. Kirn, 1b; G. Gimblett, 2b; K. Holmes, 3b; I. Vincent, ss; M. Fortin, ss; B. Vincent, rf; A. Vincent, lf; "Babe" Vincent, cf.

C.M.E. LOOP NOT IN O.B.A.A. RACE

Delay in Application For Membership Puts League Outside the Fold.

The Cavan-Manvers-Emily League has been refused admittance to the O.B.A.A. The league executive delayed their application for membership, and to admit the league now might cause endless trouble, the O.B.A.A. sub-committee say. The East Peterborough League champs. are therefore out of luck, and some other opposition will have to be found for them. The O.B.A.A. might not object to a series of exhibition games between the two "U.F.O." loops.

SNUB POLLARD COMEDY

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil).

Don't let the nose of your niblick slide away from you. Stand more nearly square, if you please, and don't loosen hands at point of contact. In bunker shots the thing to do is to hit down into the sand instead of sweeping through it. It is a mistake not to let the clubhead push right through the sand as if it were a ball. Stand close to the ball. Be bold with the shot. Use a firm grip. Possess a mastery over the club.

Here is one of the rising amateurs of the country, Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, of St. Paul. He drove a ball nearly 400 yards in last year's western amateur championship. Johnston has been chosen as alternate, with Max Marston, of Philadelphia, on the All-American team of amateur golfers who meet an All-British team in New York late in August.

SOLVE PERPETUAL MOTION PUZZLE.

The perpetual motion puzzle may yet be solved.

Through the use of radio.

This is the ray of hope that may light inventors to realiation of their fondest dream—a machine that, once started, would continue to operate forever, on its own energy.

Mechanical engineers have discouraged the invention of such machines. None that has ever been produced has proved successful. Either friction would intervene, or there would be some other cause for a waste of energy which would mean a gradual decline in the instrument's motion.

The U. S. Patent Office has stopped even considering perpetual motion machines for its approval and protection. Still, there are some who are secretly striving to complete an instrument which would prove to the world that perpetual motion is possible.

For these, radio comes forth to assist them. The idea is free to all who care to take advantage of it. It is this:

Static has been bothering radio fans ever since they put up an antenna to receive signals. It is a grating, grinding noise that spoils many a radio concert and makes life miserable for the amateur. From a scientific viewpoint, static is nothing but an atmospheric disturbance.

Ah, there's something in the air that causes this noise! And a radio antenna is what collects it.

Do you get the idea?

There's the solution to the perpetual motion puzzle.

There may be friction. There may be other waste while the perpetual motion machine is running, but so long as it derives its energy out of the air, it might be made to keep going forever, in spite of this waste.

So long as the earth revolves, this supply of energy will be at hand.

Why not use it.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

The honeymoon isn't as conspicious as it used to be and modern couples pride themselves if no one can tell they are newlyweds.

However, the Thascalians haven't a chance of being inconspicious. Part of the marriage ceremony is the shaving of the entire head of the bride and groom. That tells the world.

JACKSON GREGORY WROTE FINE STORY.

For Miss Frederick's Latest Starring Production—"Two Kinds of Women."

A story that bristles with thrilling incidents and glows with the warmth of romance gives Pauline Frederick a splended vehicle in "Two Kinds of Women," her current R-C production "Two Kinds of Women," based upon Jackson Gregory's novel, "Judith of Blue Lake Ranch," is a Western story and one of the most engrossing that ever flowed from the facile pen of Mr. Gregory, who has to his credit a long list of notable stories laid in Western settings.

'Two Kinds of Women" introduces Miss Frederick in a role that fits her as snugly as a rubber cap fits the head of a bather. She is the virile, efficient, wholesome type without losing a bit of the feminine charm that makes her beloved of motion picture audiences the world over. She finds for example, that the welfare of the big ranch her father has left her is jeopardized by a group of culprits headed by one of the employees, and the plot revolves chiefly about her fight to outwit the gang.

Through the story of adventure that moves swiftly from the outset is woven a romance that does much to heighten the dramatic appeal of this most interestig narrative.

Among those who appear in support of Miss Frederick are Tom Santschi, who is also a star in his own right; Charles Clary who has appeared in many notable photoplays; Eugene Pallette, Jack Curtis, Billy Elmer, Clarissa Selwynne, Jean Calhoun, Otis Harlan, famous as a musical comedy star several years ago and still a mirth-provoking power on the screen, Tom Bates, Dave Winter, James Farley and Joseph Sinington.

AT THE GRAND.

When the popular Grand Opera House opens its doors on Monday matinee next (Labor Day) its patrons will receive several surprises not only from the stage but in he numerous renovations and appointments. The lobby alone will appear extra inviting under its new coat of white and grey and the seats have been thoroughly overhauled throughout, so that no broken or loose chairs will be found. The curtains in the boxes have been done away with, on account of the numerous complaints caused from their obstructing the view of the stage, so that now eveyone seated in the boxes can see the stage perfectly, and enjoy the performance in comfort, no matter where your seat may be in the box.

The Evans Musical Revue, which open the house for an indefinite run will be found to be an attraction worthy of the best patronage Peterboro can give it, and all lovers of good wholesome comedy, singing, dancing and refined entertainment, will be more than delighted with the class of show offered by this splendid company. The scenery and effects, are particularly lavish, and the costumes are beyond comparison in richness and color blending.

All we can say is the old adage, "The Proof of the Pudding etc" and the best way to find out is to see for yourselves and be satisfied Seats are now on sale at the box office for the entire week, the program being changed in its entirety on Thursday evening. Popular pre-war price of 20, 30, 50 and 75 cents should prove capacity houses for the engagement.

BIG SOCCER GAME HERE ON SATURDAY

Fast Game Promised When Brantford and C.G.E. Clash For the Ontario Cup.

The indications are that a bumper crowd will be present at Riverside Park on Saturday to see what will be the event of the year in the local soccer circles. Both teams are determined to win, the C.G.E. to prove that local football is not to be despised by outsiders, while their visitors, Massey-Harris of Brantford, declare their intentions of avenging the defeat inflicted on the Brantford eleven in last year's Plenty Cup games.

The C.G.E. outfit are all in grand trim and eager for the game. They had a splendid work-out on Tuesday night in an exhibition game with the C.P.C. team, and every one on the eleven showed up well.

The problem of the defence positions caused by the departures of Parkins and Davis has been satisfactorily solved—Bishop of last year's G.W.V.A. team will be partnered by Frank Dyer, who is no stranger to the position.

In the centre forward's job Alf. Mander is keystone of a line which will cause a lot of trouble to any defence, no matter how good they may be.

The goal is in the safe keeping of Charlie Griffin, and the shots that get past this agile custodian will have to be of the unsaveable order. Charlie shines against good opposition, as the members of the Brantford eleven will no doubt be aware—he held them scoreless before now.

Williams, McMillan and Mann comprise a trio who are hard to beat both in attack and defence. McMillan played in both games with Brantford last year and knows just what is wanted.

As a final preparation the players are having light training in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight.

All that is needed now is for the fans to get right behind the team and support them in their endeavor to put Peterborough in a prominent position on the map of Ontario through the doings of the C.G.E. Football Club.

Football

The following notice speaks for itself:

Editor Sporting news:

"The C.P.C. players regret very much that they will not be able to comply with the date set Monday, September 2 to play the Comrades. The draw was for the 9th and our players had made their plans before we got notice that we had to play, and as the Comrades insisted on playing it on that date the only course that we can take is to forfeit the game, and as this is the first game of the Gordon Cup, it will put us out of the Cup games entirely, unless some future date can be arranged."

J. CLARK, captain.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

DO WHAT IS FAIR.

Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Being interested in sport, I would like to know if it is not fair to give the Crescent Lacrosse Club the city championship and hand them the cup. They were in the lead of all other teams by two games when the league was broken up two months ago by the heads of the league trying to handle too many leagues. And now the other teams claim they haven't players enough for a team unless they amalgamate together.

This is very unfair to the Crescents, who still hold the same players; and if the schedule was played out, as it was proposed, the City League would have ended about July 28. The Crescents were always on hand to play their games, but their opponents would not turn out. I thiuk Mr. Goodfellow should be only too pleased to hand them the cup.

Yours.
A FOLLOWER.

LINDSAY WINNERS IN LEASIDE GAME

"Micky" Murray Helps to Even Things Up for Lea. side by Hitting a Homer

Lindsay defeated Leaside at Leaside last night, in a Central Ontario League fixture, by 10 to 8. The visitors drove Shaw to the showers in the fourth frame. McGuire, who relieved him, pitched good ball for the balance of the game, but his support fell down at critical times. Allen, for Lindsay was very wild, giving nine bases on ball, and coupled with the locals six scattered hits, kept Leaside in the running until the last frame, when the winners put over two necessary counters. McGuire fanned nine men in four and two-thirds innings while Allen got the same number for the entire game. Allen was the big noise with the bat, getting a homer and triple. Coombs, H. Cummins, Brownscombe and Dillon each had a brace of safeties. Murray also supplied a homer. Hoose stole home in the first stanza.

Score by innings:

Lindsay	104000302—10	9	2
Leaside	200202110— 8	6	3

Batteries—Allen and H. Cummins; Shaw, McGuire and Hoose.

LACROSSE GAME.

LONGED FOR OBLIVION.

The superintendent of a penitentiary was one day escorting a party of women visitors through the building. They entered a room where three women were busily sewing. As they turned to leave the room, one of the visitors said:

"What vicious looking creatures! What are they in for? They really look capable of committing any crime."

'Well,' replied the superintendent, "you see, they have no other home. That is my private sitting room, and they are my wife and two daughters.'

THE PAIGE CO. OPENS A CANADIAN BRANCH.

Dealers to Be Supplied From Windsor With Paige and Jewett Cars.

Another automobile industry has located in Canada. The Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co. long an important factor in the automoile business in this country has opened a branch in Windsor to better serve Canadian dealers and owners.

For the past five years Paige sales have been growing rapidly in Canada, and with the coming of the Jewett light six, built by the same company, Canadian business shows every indication of requiring a Canadian plant to take care of it.

President Harry M. Jewett of the Paige company said, when interviewed. 'The establishing of Canadian headquarters at Windsor is one of the most important steps this company has taken in some time. Our Canadian business has been growing greater every year. We have felt for sometime that our Canadian distributors, dealers and owners were entitled to the advantages of having a Paige branch located in Canada. Then the Jewett six open a wide and new market for us. It brings the highest type of motor car performance within reach of the man of moderate means. The man who heretofore has had to be content with a four can now have the smooth, flowing power, speed, acceleration of a very powerful six."

POINTS ON ADVERTISING.

By the Adman.

The only kind of a store which may "get along" with an advertisement a week is the store which is only open one day a week, and even that store would be better off if it advertised two days a week. The store which is open six days a week should advertise six days a week.

An advertisment in The British Whig presents its proposition to prospective customers when they are in a good mood to be enlightened and interested.

A business that is not worth advertising is not worth running.

Anybody can cut prices, but if one has to cut the price to sell, is the commodity worth the price?

A STRIKING DISPLAY BY THE GRAND TRUNK SHOPS OF STRATFORD

It is becoming more and more difficult to introduce an entirely new exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition. This has been accomplished this year in the striking display in the new building by the Grand Trunk shops at Stratford— part of the City of Stratford display.

A huge illuminated alternating electric sign of "Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways" first attracts the visitor. Along a hundred feet of space, an artistic background throws into effective relief a striking exhibit having as a centre piece the boiler head of a locomotive, of the latest Mikado type, carrying the most modern effects and devices of railway construction.

Flanking this great boiler-head is a one-fifth size model of a Mikado locomotive with tender, with full size parts of an engine in the foreground. Everywhere one turns something of interest is revealed. One table, for example, carries samples, and drawings of the work done by the one hundred and twenty-five apprentices in this big Ontario repair shop of the line where technical education of a high grade is given in mathematics and mechanical drawing. The samples of apprentices' work, in tools, bolts, screws, etc., place the young workers in the ranks of the most efficient

Two first aid trophies are another feature of this exhibit. The Wallace Nesbitt and the Montizambert trophies, open to competition among the railway men of Canada. The men who represent the Stratford Grand Trunk Shops achieved a double honor in winning both trophies in the same year.

To the left of the big centre-piece of the exhibit is a model of the Grand Trunk Railway Station at Stratford, one of the newest and most attractive on the System. When illuminated it looks real and inviting enough to enter. A model rest room, with "comfy" chairs and settees, writing tables, etc., placed in front of the model station, for real use by exhibition visitors, gives an idea of the comfort features of a new station like the Stratford one.

Nor is this catalogue of the Stratford-Grand Trunk Exhibit yet exhausted. An illuminated headlight makes a bull's eye of penetrating light, an illuminated map shows the Stratford division of the Grand Trunk System, while an air-operated bell and fire-hole door indicate the latest appliances that make easier the work of the engineer and firemen. The whole exhibit is a revelation of the advances being made in details of locomotive and railway construction along every line.

The credit of this unusual and suggestive exhibit is due to the Grand Trunk executive and to J. C. Garden, General Superintendent of the Motive Power and Car Department, Montreal; and J. Roberts, Superintendent of the Motive Power, Stratford; W. C. Sealy, General Foreman of the Stratford Shops, and the hundred of men who had a part in its construction.

It is satisfactory, too, for the public to realize that the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways are in the forefront in Mechanical equipment, with all that means to successful railway operation, and this exhibit is a striking evidence thereof.

THE GREEK ARMY IS FALLING BACK AGAIN.

(Stewart West.)
(Special to the Examiner.)

NEW YORK, August 31. — The over-night announcement of the Chicago and Alton receivership was followed by renewed collapse in the bonds and stocks of that company. This brought about some scattered selling in other railway shares particularly in certain of the low priced non-dividend payers.

The news had little effect on the market generally because it was fully realized that the Alton was a special case, that it had no significance for the railway situation in the main. No doubt, as the accompanying statement in explanation said, loss of revenues through the coal and railroad strikes was an immediate cause of the troubles of the road. But this only served to bring matters to a head. The outstanding fact has been known all along, namely, that Alton's capital account is excessive in comparison with earning power.

Another downward turn in the foreign exchanges suggested clearly enough that the recovery at the start of the week in francs and marks was due to the closing in of part of a much extended short position and did not mean any change in the situation itself. The impression that feeling in banking circles was more hopeful on the subject of German reparations was either never warranted or has been destroyed by developments within the last day or two. The decision of the Reparations Commission is now rather expected to be unfavorable to Germany's request for a moratorium, or if it is not, then the idea is that France will ignore the verdict and carry out her threat to collect the indemnity alone.

It was hard to detect any evidence that the European financial situation was a factor in the security markets of to-day some rather notable losses occurred in a few minor rails, obviously an effect of the Alton incident. Rubber and tire stocks for specific trade reasons, long understood were offered down and realizing sales made themselves felt in some of the telephone and gas stocks which have recently had such a remarkable rise.

On the other hand fresh buying came into the oil stocks, into Amer. wool, Crucible Steel and a variety of pool specialties. These upward moves were numerous enough to take away any appearance of reaction from the general list.

LOCAL MARKET GOSSIP.

C.P.R. crossed the 150 mark this morning, going strong and fetched up at 151 5-8 ,a new high for the year. Purchasers who got in around $140 are confident that this Canadian leader will go at least $175 and they are inclined to the opinion that it may reach $200. Its low yesterday was 147 1-2, to-day's movement showing a gain of more than four points.

Union Pacific lagged behind it most of the day, but closed strong and refused to yield the higher price, closing at 152 5-8.

Famous Players, which has its own following, touched 99 1-2, fulfilling all the promises that it would soon reach par. Studebaker was dull around 128, but Mexican Petroleum was the big leader of the day, spilling over into eight column of the board. It opened around 187, sagged to 182 and then began to climb steadily until it hit 197, a gain for the day's trading of 15 points. Its satellite Pan-American Petroleum, also swung up into high ground, and most of the other oils were also active.

Riordon paper declined several points to-day, but this recession has not shaken the faith of those who believe that it is good for a long pull.

ORDERS 100 LOCOMOTIVES

STEELS WERE STRONGER

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Prices in whole list strengthened around noon Steel common, R.B.C. and L.K. rallied fractionally leading to conclusion that effect of Federal trade commission report on Steel mergers had been pretty fully measured. Wall street evinced great curiosity as to how knowledge of commission's expected opposition to proposed combines had been made known before recommendations were submitted to proper authority.

INFLATION NECESSARY TO GET ADEQUATE PRODUCTION

The attitude is being taken in prominent circles that the only way to get production back into normal large volume and ultimately bring selling prices of goods down to reasonable levels is to have a period of secondary inflation.

It is pointed out that high costs have checked replenishing of stocks of goods in the hands of consumers, who have evidently been waiting for complete wage liquidation to reduce prices. The result is, there has accumulated a great potential buying power which will have to become active in the near future.

It has become apparent now that labor liquidation has ended for the present at least; that this cost has begun to recover—which means that it is useless to wait for lower selling prices, especially in view of the fact that fuel costs, as the result of the coal strike, will be sure to add to production charges.

To correct this situation, it is believed that it will be necessary for the United States to overproduce again. To bring about such a condition extraordinary stimulation is held to be essential. A period of inflation would, it is said, have that effect on production because of the inducement of higher prices.

That a secondary deflation will follow another inflation, is regarded as certain—but it may not come for a year or two; and in the meantime, a higher stock market is expected to measure rising prices elsewhere.

MARKET NEWS AND ITEMS.

From Banking and Stock Exchange Circles.

Confidence seems to be growing that the steel industry, now that an increasing coal supply is appearing, will again begin to expand operations, and that the steel stocks should receive bullish consideration.

"We should remember that the railroads are now entering that period of the year when the best earnings are usually made because of a seasonal increase in traffic," says a well-known firm.

Different parts of the Street are reacting to the Ford shutdown in a mixed manner. In some quarters it is declared to be merely Ford petulance; Ford opportunism; in others it is said the climax of Ford marketing possibilities has been reached for the present; in still others it is pointed out that the effect of the shutdown will be widely felt, especially among non-essential industries.

"The rank and file of professional operators who are fighting advances do not seem to realize that we are in the first stages of a period of inflation," says a prominent house.

The northwestern rails are expected to receive a good deal of bullish consideration during the rest of the year from conservative investment channels.

In some quarters it is declared that American Tobacco (AT) is still many points behind the market for other tobacco leaders notwithstanding the present advance.

U. S. Steel (X) is declared in some quarters of the Street to be in a position to advance several points very easily from current levels.

Wage, fuel and other high costs combined with keen competition, are reported in important financial circles as operating strongly in promotion of mergers. In other words, in order to continue in business many concerns will have to consolidate forces and cut down production and marketing expenses, trying for volume output, according to these sources. This is expected to make for an active market in merger stocks soon.

"It is now quite evident that the period of deflation has come to an end and a period of secondary inflation has set in," says a leading Stock Exchange house. "Probably this will be rather temporary; history shows that after every great war, with its inevitable inflation, there is a succession of waves of inflation and deflation, each wave with a lower crest than the preceding, and with a tendency over a period of years toward a lower level of prices."

Conservations in influential circles draw out information to the effect that it has been made plain to Washington in the railroad strike situation that the union leaders have been doing their best to make the public disgusted with railroad service in the hope that it will finally throw up its hands and exclaim "turn over the roads to the government and be done with it." But the Administration has had its attention recalled to the fact that at the last election the public in no uncertain tone voted against Government ownership.

The Suit Seeks to Restrain Strikers From Interfering With the Operation of the Railways in the States.

THE UNION'S REPLY

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press)—Suit for an injuction against all striking employees of the railroads of the United States and their union officials was filed in the United States district court by Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty here today.

The suit was filed shortly after the arrival of Attorney General Daugherty in Chicago this morning. The plea for injunction named the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor, the six striking shop crafts and 120 system federations.

The suit to restrain all strikers from interfering in any way with the operation of the railroads. It was filed before United States District Judge Wilkerson.

Beside the railway employees department the six international unions International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, International Association Association of Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, International Brotherhood of Boiler Makers and Iron Shipbuilders, International Association of Machinists as well as 120 system federations were named as the objects of the injunction.

Leaders of the striking shopmen will not abate their attempts to make their strike effective whatever action is taken by the court in Chicago, as a result of injunction proceedings instituted by Attorney General Daugherty, it was said here today by W. H. Johnston, President of the International Association of Machinists, on the largest striking groups.

REGATTA HELD CHEMONG PARK

A Feature of the Programme Was a Pillow Fight—The Results.

A New Boiler House For Brinton Carpet

The Children's Regatta held at Chemong Park yesterday was a decided success from every standpoint. The children themselves entered into the event with keen enthusiasm and the contests were thoroughly enjoyed by a large crowd of parents and spectators. So great was the interest shown that the Children's Regatta will likely be a yearly fixture, rivaling in interest the big annual Chemong Regatta which always attracts great crowds of contestants and spectators. The feature of the programme best enjoyed was the pillow fight, the bouts of which were staged on the bathing beach log. The scout punt race also caused much excitement. Two of the smallest of the contestants, Douglass Smaill and Billy MacPherson, carried off a large share of the honors and the way in which they handled their craft was a revelation to the grown ups.

After the events the prizes were presented by Mrs. Fred Roy and Dr. MacPherson. In the evening the youngsters had a happy time at a marshmallow roast, winding up with a sing-song in which they showed wonderful lung power as well as appreciation of music. The results were as follows:

Open Sailing, Model Yachts—1 Alan Henderson, 2 Gordon Roper.

Scout Punt Race, 8 Years, Under —1 Douglas Smaill, 2 Billy MacPherson.

Girls' Tandem Canoe, 15 Years—1 Frances Ackerman and Jean McFarlane, 2 Violet and Isobel Davidson.

CAMPBELLFORD MERCHANT HAS SOLD BUSINESS

W. E. Carnahan Disposes of Dry Goods Store to McIntosh Brothers of Belleville.

OLD ESTABLISHMENT

(Special to the Examiner.)

CAMPBELLFORD, September 1.—McIntosh Bros. of Belleville have purchased the block, stock and fixtures of W. E. Carnahan, one of the oldest dry goods establishments in Campbellford, having been in business for the last 50 years.

This is one of the biggest real estate deals transacted in Campbellford in years and will effect quite a change in the Front street personnel. Mr. W. E. Carnahan has been an aggressive and successful merchant, and any change that will result in his removal from active business will leave a large gap in Campbellford's retail section.

Mr. Carnahan is well known throughout the district, and has quite a number of friends in Peterboro, especially among the curlers and bowlers whom he has met in tournaments and inter-club games.

A WALK IN THE COUNTRY.

Dear Sir: A few days ago I read an interesting little editorial in The Examiner about the pleasures of a country walk, and lamenting the discourtesy (to call it by the mildest term I can think of) of the average automobile driver in monopolizing all the road. As one of the few remaining members of the shank's mare clan, and one who takes his Sunday afternoon stroll in the country on foot, I am sorry you did not draw attention to the supreme indifference of 99 autoists out of every 100, to offer a pedestrian a ride. There are a few who still remember they are gentlemen when they grasp the wheel of a car—but they are not many. If a man with a horse and buggy overtakes a pedestrian he will almost invariably proffer a lift.

There are a number of good walks around Peterboro where the pedestrian will not be troubled by dust clouds, and the fumes of oil and gasoline. One is over the old Cobourg Railway roadbed to Chemong Lake, and the other south over the right-of-way of the same railway to Rice Lake. What if there are a few fences to climb! If it were not for the fences you would hear the discordant honk-honk of some speed-fiend behind you. Good walks can also be had, as soon as the crops are safely harvested, from one concession to another across fields of stubble and pasture. True, you may perhaps encounter an infuriated bull or a male member of the sheep family, but on the whole they are less dangerous than the ordinary autoist. They will at least give you a run for your money.

Walking is the best form of exercise a man (or woman) can take. It is better even than the bicycle. But it seems that it is becoming a lost art. A few years ago it was a common sight to see A. St. A. Smith, Charles McClelland, and others, taking their regular "constitutional" to Chemong and back; but they left few successors. Let us in the coming beautiful fall days that are ahead embrace every opportunity to take a walk along some little-travelled country roads that radiate from the city on all sides, enjoy the scenery, imbibe the pure, fresh air, and store up health and strength for the coming winter months.—W. P.

Jacobs Disagrees With Government Policy on the Immigration Question

WINNIPEG, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—"I am distinctly out of sympathy with the government on its immigration policy, and if it becomes a question of sacrificing party affiliation for issue of Dominion importance, I am quite prepared to do so," declared S. W. Jacobs, K.C., Liberal member of the Dominion House for Etienne Cartier, in addressing a meeting of the Winnipeg Hebrews here last night.

"I will vote for any party, Liberal, Conservative, Farmer or Labor, that would relax the present immigration restrictions, and until some concrete legislation is enacted in that direction, I will continue this campaign of criticism against the policy which is not in the interests of Canada or the Canadian people," Mr Jacobs said.

THRESHERS DO BIG BUSINESS

Rates Have Been Cut to Thirty and Thirty-five Dollars.

Hopes of the farming community that threshers would reduce their rates for day services from $35 to $25 have not materialized and there are no prospects of the outfits falling in line with the idea, however popular it may be to the agrarians. The prevailing charge for mill and engine is $30, a five dollar cut from last year, and in addition the farmer has to secure labor to operate the machinery. The threshers are doing a booming business, it is reported, on account of the big crops, and there is little likelihood of them choosing the present time to reduce their rates. The fall wheat is panning out much better than the spring, but all the crops are of such a generous nature that the farmers are in a pleasant frame of mind. The sunny days are bringing the corn crop along nicely and ensilage will be better than was at first expected.

THE CANADIAN NATIONAL GRAND TRUNK RAILWAYS

Demonstrate "The National Way" at Canadian National Exhibition.

The position the Canadian National-Grand Trunk System occupies as "The National Way" from the Atlantic to the Pacific, entirely through Canadian territory, is plainly depicted in their exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Most Modern Methods Employed.

The exhibit is installed in two compartments of the Railway Building. One compartment is given up to a topographical map of Canada, forty-five feet in width, which shows the outstanding physical features of Canada in bold relief, across which is placed a model of "The Continental Limited," the Canadian National's "Across Continent" train. In order to impart to it a realistic appearance, the wheels of locomotive and cars are kept revolving, which, with the artificial light effects, give the impression of the train being in motion. To the left of the map is located one of the units of the train despatcher's telephone system, such as is used by the railway. Both the sending and the receiving equipment is shown, and as demonstrations will be given, visitors will be able to obtain a grasp of the mechanism of the most modern train despatching system extant. At the right of the map is another interesting equipment in the shape of the multiplex printing telegraph system, such as is used by the Canadian National Telegraphs. It embodies the last word in telegraphy, both in respect to speed and limitation of errors in transmission, while the operator, in sending a message, merely operates the keyboard similar to that of a typewriter, and a machine at the receiving point automatically prints it. The instrument shown is of the two-channel type, permitting four messages to be transmitted over the wire simultaneously. On the wall immediately opposite to the map is a painting of about 25 feet in width of Jasper Park Lodge, the new hostelry which the railway has established at Lac Beauvert, with the Colin Range, crowned by Old Man Mountain, standing out clear and bold in the background.

Interesting Motion Pictures.

Motion pictures showing various points of outstanding interest and beauty on the transcontinental route of the railway are a feature of the exhibit. The visitor is given particularly realistic views of the mountains, valleys, rivers and waterfalls to be found in Jasper, Mount Robson and Algonquin Parks, and of the magnificent scenic effects the famous "Inside Passage" which follows the Pacific Coast from Vancouver to Prince Rupert, the Portland Canal and Alaska.

A Great Pictorial Exhibit.

One hundred transparent photographs showing in sequence noted points of interest in each of the nine provinces from the Atlantic to the Pacific, form the basis of the second compartment's exhibit. An-

A MARKED EFFECT ON MONEY MARKET

Reparations Decision Rendered in Paris Yesterday Strengthens Finance.

LONDON Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press)—Although considered only in the nature of a respite the Reparations decision rendered in Paris yesterday had quite a marked effect upon financial London indicating the sensitiveness of money interest and the amount of speculation that has been going on recently.

Quotations on the mark on the foreign exchange market which yesday ruled around 7,300 to the pound sterling, ruled 5,700 at noon today. Paris exchange strengthened to 57.50 as agaist 58.38 yesterday.

The French cabinet holds that in as much as no moratorium had been granted to Germany it could only 'recognize" situation, but it insisted that conference should be called attended by all Allies without exception at which question of inter-allied debts and reparations should be fully considered.

COAL BILL PASSED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.) — The United States' Administration Bill for the control and distribution of coal during the mining and transportation (emergency was passed yesterday by a House vote of 214 to 61, and sent to the Senate with the assurance of early consideration.

WIDESPREAD PLOT.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Widespread plans uncovered to wreck United States' train services.

ALD. HOLLOWAY ORDERED 1,000 TONS OF COAL

Twenty Cars To Be Delivered Next Week--School Board Will Take 750 Tons.

PRICE FAVORABLE

Alderman (Dr.) Holloway broke the news to Mayor Taylor this morning that he had bought 1,000 tons of coal in Toronto yesterday. Of this quantity 750 tons will be taken by the Board of Education, the Fire Hall and the City Hall will also be supplied, leaving a comparatively small quantity to be disposed of to the public.

This coal is known as Pittsburgh three-quarter lump, and it was bought at a price one dollar a ton less than the best quotations of the local dealers. As chairman of the Special Fuel Committee of the council, and with the general authority of the committee, Ald.Holloway decided that action had become imperative, and that the continued delay in receipts was merely protracting a risk that might be carried too far. Hence, while in Toronto on Thursday he made the purchase of twenty cars which will probably reach Peterboro next week and be immediately delivered.

Ald. Holloway intimated that from his sensing of public opinion he believed the people of Peterboro were anxious to get coal, and he felt that he was only doing his duty in making a move at this advanced stage of the year. The investment in the twenty cars now on order will be quickly turned over and will likely be followed immediately by larger orders for the general public.

This afternoon Mayor Taylor and Ald. Holloway had a conference with Mr. F. G. Young of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company for the early delivery of 150 cords of mixed wood which it is expected will be sold immediately. Dr. Holloway has been informed that all the wood in yards of the fuel retailers has been ordered, and consequently he is anxious that some provision be made for extending the supply. The next purchase, which may be made soon, will be clear hardwood.

FORTUNE TELLER'S TIP.

One of the attractions at the chuch fete was a fortune teller's tent.

A woman took her ten-year-old red-headed boy inside. The woman of wisdom bent over the crystal ball.

"Your son will be a very distinguished man if he lives long enough," she murmured, in deep, mysterious tones.

"Oh, how nice!" gushed the proud mother. "And for what will he be distinguished?"

"For old age," replied the fortune teller slowly.

Another Car Lost On Chemong Road

Another automobile succumbed to the flames early this morning on the Chemong Road and the taxi drivers of the city are perturbed over the tendency of their cars to burn up. J. Fontaine is the most recent loser but only a few nights ago Dr. J. P. Pulkinghorn lost a closed car. Fontaine's auto was being driven to Oak Orchard by J. Lawrence when it is believed ignition started fire. The loss, which could not be estimated, is covered by insurance. The auto was a seven passenger car in use several years, but a good taxi vessel. The remains of Dr. Pulkinghorn's sedan repose in the back yard of the livery, a mournful example of the damage a small spark can do in an advantageous spot.

Present Situation in Toronto Precipitated by Sir Adam's Lust for Power, Declares Toronto Star.

A BITTER ATTACK

TORONTO, Sept. 1—(Canadian Press)—Special meeting of the Toronto city council which opened Tuesday last to consider the adoption of an agreement giving six track right of way along waterfront for provincial Hyrdo Electric Radials adjourned at 1.15 this morning without coming to decision.

The meeting will continue this afternoon.

Toronto Star today comes out with bitter personal attack on Sir Adam Beck chairman of the Hydro Electric Commission. Contending that it has hitherto been an "unwavering backer" of Sir Sam Beck in his "long fight for establishment and development of Hydro power" it says that the affairs of Toronto have reached a crisis which demands straight thinking and plain speaking "author or that crisis is Sir Adam Beck" it declares "and it has been precipitated by Sir Adam's lust for power. It is fruit of insensate desire to prove that he can force monstrous agreement down Toronto's throat—that he can do this with all public bodies against him and despite every adviser to whom Toronto naturally should turn when such a bargain is proposed."

NEW FIRM READY FOR THE OPENING

Modern Machinery Being Installed in Plant of Coco-Cola Company.

In a few weeks another industry will be operating in this city, employing local labor and advertising Peterborough over a wide area in the Province. The newcomer is the Cocoa-Cola Company, the 23rd branch of this large concern to open in Canada this year. The company is optimistic over busfness prospects in the Dominion and has shown its confidence by developing plants in Ontario towns and cities. A plant was opened in Belleville yesterday, and another will be opened in Kingston shortly. The local works will be located in the building on George street, formerly occupied by the Peterborough Hardware Company.

The most modern machinery is being installed and no pains are being spared to make the Coca-Colo product meet the high standard of the company and the other soft drinks will be of quality satisfying to the fastidious. The plant will be a credit to this city. Particular attention has been paid to sanitary arrangements and the product will be manufactured under conditions that will stand inspection at all times. The equipment and materials are arriving daily and C. F. Roland, sales and advertising manager for Canada is responsible for the successful launching of the new plant. An interesting feature of the organization is the company's policy of maintaining its own advertising force, including sign painters and artists who have in mind an etxensive campaign to cover the district.

Bert. Shoobert, the local manager, comes from Winnipeg office highly recommended, not only on account of his thorough knowledge of the business, but on account of the interest he will take in clean sport. He is a keen follower of all games, but has particularly distinguished himself in football. In 1903 he played with the Norwood Wanderers, who won the Connaught Cup, and he played on four teams that figured in championship series. He served overseas in the 19th Battery, C.F.A. and has been four years with the Coca-Colo Company in Winnipeg. He is enthusiastic about the company's prospects in this city which has appealed to him as a busy industrial centre enjoying prosperity and noted for its splendid residential districts and its adjacency to the Kawartha lakes and Trent district, now coming into their own as the playground of Ontario.

Today's Blunder Corrected

By Arthur C. Lueder.
Postmaster, Chicago, Illinois.

One of the many annoyances that the postal service has to contend with is the receipt of bundles of carelessly sealed letters, many of which are stuck together. Since letters can be run through the cancelling machines only one at a time, all those stuck together must first be pulled apart by some postal employee. This may result in mutilation of the addresses or in placing the letters to one side until other mail has been handled.

NEW RAILWAY HEAD MAY BE ANNOUNCED AT MEETING TODAY

Premier King Will Call Cabinet Together For First Meeting in Two Weeks.

IMPORTANT MATTERS.

OTTAWA, September 1 (Canadian Press). — With the return of the Prime Minister from Toronto, this morning the Cabinet Council will meet for the first time in two weeks, when, it is understood, there are many important matters to be taken up. One of the questions which is expected to come before the Cabinet at to-day's meeting is that of the new national railways board of management.

It is understood that matters have not progressed far enough that the Government is about ready to make its promised announcement as to the personnel of that body. Ordinarily such an announcement would await the return to Ottawa of the Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways and Canals, but indications now are that the Cabinet will deal with the matter, and probably announce the board before Mr. Kennedy is sufficiently recovered to return to his office.

Interest attaches to the name of the probable chairman and executive head, but while the Government is understood to have in sight a man for the position, his name remains a secret outside of actual Cabinet circles.

It is understood that there is no change in plans with regard to the rest of the board, the idea being to have all parts of the country and the different classes given representation.

TO MEET PUBLIC NEEDS FOR COAL.

If Demand Comes in Form of Public Mandate.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Anthracite opertors, upon adjourning their conference yesterday until Saturday, gave out the statement that "if public necessities for coal on an urgent request of public authorities are such as to induce us to continue old wages beyond April 1, 1923, this demand must come in the form of public mandate.

"We will conform our action to such a mandate," the statement continued, "but no other reason would impel us to enter into an agreement which will continue for longer than the present emergency coal prices to which an emphatic objection has already been made."

Trade Revival Is Well Started in Gt. Britain

MONTREAL, September 1. — Canadian Press. — "The trade revival has actually begun in Great Britain, although its progress is slow. It is, however, none the less certain," said Major Gordon B. Johnson, the Canadian trade commissioner for Scotland and Ireland, who arrived here yesterday.

Major Johnson is in Canada under the system by which th department of trade and commerce brings back every two years its commissioners from their various posts and sends them through the country to obtain first hand information as to conditions.

CANADA NEEDS THE AVERAGE SETTLER

Lord Shaw Says Immigration Authorities Should Not Seek Either the Worst or the Best.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press)—A recommendation as to British immigrants that Canada should seek in Great Britain, neither the best nor the worst, but the average settler was the point o an address by Lord Shaw of Dunfermline yesterday to the Canadian Club at a luncheon. "The commone sense of the matter is," said Lord Shaw, "that, if Canada gets an average as Great Britain has, she will make men of them and they will all thrive."

"In my travel through the western part of the American continent, what has impressed me is the great difference betwen the middle part of the western states and he middle west of Canada. In the United States that district seems to have given over to the genius of desolation. In the middle of Canada," Lord Shaw said "it seems to have been given over the genius of fruitfulness."

U.S. LAWS WOULD BE AGAINST BRITISH

Sir Fredrick Lewis Says Legislation Is Pending That Will Destroy the Mercantile Reciprocity.

LONDON, September 1. Canadian Prss.—Lggislation is now being considered in the United States would entirely destroy the principle of reciprocity on which the present relations between the mercantile marines of the British Empire and the United States are f unded, according to Sir Frederick W. Lewis, the President of the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom speaking last night at the annual meeting of Furness, Withy and Company, the shipping concern he heads.

According to the Times, Sir Frederick said that the legislation "appeared to be inconsistent with the spirit of the Washington conference."

Sir Frederick pointed out that British ship owners claimed no right to express an opinion on the direct subsidy proposals which were contemplated for the benefit of the United States mercantile marine, but when these proposals were extended to the point of discrimination against British and other shipping in United States ports, then "different considerations arose."

LEFT FOR OTTAWA

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press)—Mayor S. H. Adams left Calgary yesterday afternoon for Ottawa to end the joint federal-provincial conference on unemployment in that city on September 5. Other Alberta cities will be represented as follows:

Edmonton, Mayor D. M. Duggan, Lethbridge, Mayor W. D. L. Hardie; Medicine Hat, Alderman Bellamy.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS WILL TAKE CENSUS IN THE SAAR REGION

Matter of Sale of Arms and Ammunition By Private Parties Is Also Under Discussion.

DISARMAMENT PLAN.

GENEVA, September 1 (Canadian Press). — The Council of the League of Nations yesterday concluded that it was necessary at the present time to take a census of those who will be entitled in 1935 to vote on the question whether the Saar Valley is French or German.

It was also decided by the Council that a report by a financial committee would be necessary before a decision could be taken regarding the question of lending aid to Austria.

The remainder of yesterday's session was occupied in a discussion concerning the protection of the interests of the various sects in the Holy places of Palestine.

The Sub-Committee on Armament during the day approved a plan of Lord Robert Cecil for regional agreements, or continental pacts, for mutual guarantees of security and simultaneous reduction of armaments. The probable acceptance of the plan by the full committee made Lord Robert optimistic over the prospect for effective action on the proposal by the forthcoming assembly of the League which begins next week.

The refusal of the United States to ratify the convention signed at St. Germain for the restriction of private traffic in arms and ammunition was brought to the attention of the sub-committee. It was decided that this refusal had created an entirely new situation, and that therefore it woud be necessary to begin all over consideration of the possibility of controlling private trade in arms.

It was regarded yesterday as most likely that the sub-committee would suggest another International conference on this subject, with the United States represented.

Lord Robert Cecil suggested such a conference last year, but he was outvoted on the ground that it was an inopportune moment, as the United States was arranging the conference on armament and Far Eastern affairs.

Members of the sub-committee yesterday pointed out that the non-ratification of the clauses of the St. Germain treaty leaves the question where it was at the end of the war, with the likelihood of war material falling into the hands of tribes or bands in Africa or other countries where turbulent elements always exist or finding its way into the hands of rival factions in countries like Mexico.

FOUR WILL ATTEMPT TO SWIM CHANNEL.

DOVER, Eng., Sept. 1.— (Canadian Press.)— With the wind and the rain having slackened somewhat last night the prospects seem fairly promising for a start this evening by the four United States long distance swimmers in an effort to cross the English channel from Dover to some point on the French shore.

The United States torpedo boat destroyer McCormick arrived here this evening and Charles Toth and Sam Richards of Boston agreed to take to water some time today, with the destroyer acting as an escort. Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., and Walter Patterson of Bridgeport Con., also plan to start about the same time.

EPIDEMIC OF VIOLENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(Special to the Examiner)—An epidemic of violence sweeps the country in outgrowth of the railroad shopmen strike. The situation has been placed before the president and his cabinet.

PETERBORO TO PORT HOPE ROAD WAS OPENED BY HON. H. C. NIXON

Many Men Prominent in Dominion and Provincial Life Took Part in Official Opening at Springville — Good Roads Are Commended.

FINEST IN ONTARIO.

Although there is still a great deal of work to be done on the Provincial Highway from Peterborough to Port Hope, the complete section between Peterborough and Kendry was officially opened at a ceremony at Springville yesterday afternoon. Hon. H. C. Nixon, the Provincial Secretary, did the honours in the absence of Hon. F. C. Biggs. He pulled down the barrier of flags that crossed the road between two cedars and declared the road open.

The occasion was honoured by the presence of many visitors from this city and from all parts of the country. The gathering took place on Springville Presbyterian church lawn, which was decorated with streamers and where later on supper was served by the Ladies' Aid. Music was furnished by the Melody Concert Band, which was early on the job, and the feature of the musical programme were solos by Kenneth McCannon, boy soprano, son of Herbert McCannon, of Peterborough, who secured the quilt that was auctioned off at $18.

The members of the Legislature and Ottawa house who were present were entertained at luncheon by Mayor W. H. Taylor at noon in the Empress Hotel, and the Mayor acted as chairman at the opening ceremony. He took occasion to congratualte the people of the country on the splendid road that has been built from Port Hope to Peterborough. About 3.30 the barrier was removed by Hon. H. C. Nixon, after which those who were connected with the ceremony posed for the photographer.

Wide Road Approved.

When completed the highway from the Lakeshore to Peterborough will be one of the finest and most beautiful stretches of road in the Province. Various speakers commended the decision to have an 86 foot road instead of a 66 foot, so that on account of protection from snow drifts it will be open for traffic twelve months of the year. Trees will be planted along the road and the drive from Port Hope north will be as attractive as it is possible to make it. All dangerous curves will have been eliminated and grades reduced. It is expected that all ditching, draining and gravelling or macadamizing between Port Hope and Peterborough will be completed this season, together with 71 culverts and two bridges. Last year the macadam proceeded 4 1-4 miles from the city and so far another three miles have been treated this year, while a contract is under way for another two.

This highway is part of the 1812 miles planned by the Ontario government, Hon. Nixon stated in his address. These highways are caring for a heavier and more extensive traffic than was dreamed of a few years ago and in their construction attention has also been given to providing for power and telephone lines and protecting the road from snow invasion. The criticism against the government's good road policy is dying out, the Minister declared, although the "dear old Globe" criticizes the government for not making more speed in laying permanent surfaces. To this Hon. Nixon said that 125 miles were laid last year and the proposal is to lay a certain section each year as conditions warrant.

Dividing the Costs.

Hon. Nixon explained the division of cost in the construction of the various roads and went on to impress upon his auditors the fact that "in a few years the tourist business will only be second to that of the basic industry of agriculture," and it is necessary to provide good roads to ensure that Ontario gets 87 per cent of the traffic as she has to date. He urged the people to maintain their interest in the programme of good roads, which he characterized as the "hall mark of civilization" and the "avenue of progress."

F. W. Bowen, M.P. for Durham, dwelt upon the importance of proper highways and he emphasized that the roads must be built with regard to the future and with due consideration of the demands of commerce and pleasure. He eulogized the work done on the road and he trusted the interest in the movement would be sustained.

S. S. Staples, M.P.P., West Durham, predicted the road's completion by the end of the year. He described good roads as related to a community's prosperity, and he said the building of roads was more important "than shall I say Hydro radials." Ontario has led all other provinces in the construction of good roads, he claimed. He paid a singular tribute to the early pioneers such as John Stewart and John Deyell, who early settled in the district and and who cut one of the first roads through the bush.

F. G. Sandy, M.P.P. South Victoria, related meeting with a commercial traveller on the train to Toronto, and to Mr. Sandy, whose identity he did not know, he objected to the government as it was "desperately extravagant." He found particular fault with the Hydro radial proposal, remarking 'it' was high time Sir Adam was checked up." Mr. Sandy himself said the tendency was towards good roads rather than Hydro radials. "I think we may congratulate ourselves we escaped Hydro radials," he said.

E. N. McDonald, M.P. East Peterborough, expressed the hope that the highway might be extended into his constituency and he commended such roads on account of their low upkeep. "We all know and appreciat the value of good roads" said R. R. Hall, ex-M.P. He continued to commend the "broadening out" of the roads so they nor the government would not be "snowed under" or "snowed in." The highways nowadays, he said, are the handmates of the railways and enable the more extensive developmest of the natural resources of the Dominion. Mr. Hall espoused the St. Lawreace Development scheme and while on the subject of power declared it had been demonstrated that electrical power was the dearest kind the farmer could use and he disapproved of Hydro radials as impractical where distances are vast and population sparse. He drew the attention of the Provincial Secretary to the need of a fish hatchery at the Kawartha lakes and congratulated the government on its initiative in encouraging tourist trade.

G. A. Gillespie, ex-M.P., declared the prosperity of the farm and city were independent and good roads make for more advantageous marketing of produce. H. B. Cowan, publisher of Farm and Dairy, and J. J. Duffus, President of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke along the same lines. In reply to the criticism of the expenditure on the roads, J. C. Campbell, South Monaghan, pointed out that labor is not "what it was."

NEWS FROM THE OTHER SIDE

Interesting Letter From Woman in South Africa

Johannesburg, South Africa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and because I felt run down. I tried a lot of medicines before I tried yours. One day I was standing on my stoop when a boy came up to me and handed me one of your little books. I read the book and the next day my husband went to the chemist's and bought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel quite strong and well now as I am on the sixth bottle. I have written to my sister and told her all about the wonders it has done for me, and I am quite willing for you to use my name as I can not thank you enough for what it has done for me."—Mrs. W. F. Rush, 128 6th Ave., Mayfair, Fordesburg, Johannesburg, South Africa.

It is this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by letter or verbally, one woman to another, that ought to commend this splendid medicine to you.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women's ailments (in use nearly fifty years), and the fact that it has helped thousands of other women, should cause you to give it a trial now. It can be safely taken by any woman—young or old.

FREE TO EXHIBITION VISITORS

An exhibit which every man from this city attending the National Exhibition at Toronto should see is that of the Regent Tailors, which will be found in sections numbered 81 and 83 under the Grand Stand. This company was warmly complimented last year on the excellence of their display of Clothing, and this year their showing is the most complete and up-to-date line of Suits and Overcoats that can be found anywhere in Canada. Every man from this city calling at the booth will be presented with a souvenir.

Despite the quiet period in the tailoring trade, the Regent Tailors have forged ahead during the past twelve months, and their exhibit shows the wonderful progress they have made in the designing and making of men's clothes. The number of men who are finding out that Regent Tailors' values are the greatest in Canada is surely and steadily increasing. 2d-25-1

FORMER PREMIER SOUNDS WARNING

Hon. Arthur Meighen Says Serious Thoughts Should Be Given to the Present Unrest.

REGINA, September 1. Canadian Press. — Superstructure of present civilization is being supported by an ever-narrowing column of intellectually poorer individuals, declared Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, in an address to the Regina Canadian Club and Women's Canadian Club yesterday.

The former Premier sounded a warning that serious thoughts should be given to the present wave of unrest sweeping over the world, if present civilization is not to be swept downward into ruins of former ages. He did not touch on political questions.

ADELARD DELORME TO FIGHT AGAINST BEING INTERDICTED

Says He Can Manage Family Affairs in Spite of Being Found Mentally Unfit to Stand Trial.

MONTREAL, Sept 1.—(Canadian Press)—Although hearing of the petition asking court to interdict Adelard Delorme as being insane was adjourned until today, the lawyers engaged in the case do not expect it will go. All other business of the practice court has precedence over this case and as the roll is already over-burdened it is regarded as a foregone conclusion that the Delorme case will not even be called today.

PROHIBITION MEN MAKE A BIG HOWL

Claim Is Advanced That Biggest Bootleg Ring in U. S. Has Been Smashed By Arrest of Two Men.

NEW YORK, September 1 (Canadian Press). — One of the biggest bootlegging rings in the country was smashed yesterday, Prohibition Director Appleby declared, with the arrest of Mannie Kessler and Morris Sweetwood in connection with the illegal withdrawal of more than half a million dollars' worth of liquor.

The arrests came hard on the heels of the capture by Aquatic Prohibition Enforcement agents of an excursion steamer with a floating bar, a rum-laden British trawler from Halifax, N.S., and a rum-running motor launch.

Mr. Appleby said a third man was involved in the big land bootlegging conspiracy, and that he was expected to surrender to-day.

The two men arrested did business ostensibly as real estate brokers.

WEDDING BELLS

ELLSWORTH—WILSON

YOUNG'S POINT, Sept 1.—On Wednesday, August 30, at 6 p.m. a very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Aidan's Church, Young's Point, when Mary Hilda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson, was joined in the bonds of matrimony to Leon Chester Ellsworth of Windsor. The ceremony was performed by Rev J. L. Hughes.

The pretty young bride who entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrins Wedding March played by Mrs. (Rev.) J. L. Hughes was daintily attired in gown of ivory crepe de chine with veil and bridal wreath. Her boquet consisted of Ophelia roses.

The young couple were unattended. During the signing of the register Mrs. Hughes rendered Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

After the ceremony the bridal party and the immediate friends of the family motored to the home of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous wedding supper was served.

Shortly afterwards the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes on their wedding trip to Toronto, Detroit, and the border cities.

The bride travelled in a suit of navy wool tricotine, with hat to match. She was one of he most popular young ladies in the community, and was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from her numerous friends.

THE EXHIBITION.

The prediction that this year's Peterborough Exhibition will be notable for a splendid showing of made-in-Peterborough products is gratifying. The growth in this department of the Exhibition has been remarkable, and the showing this year is expected to surpass all similar displays in the history of the Exhibition. Peterborough people are not sufficiently acquainted with the extent or nature of Peterborough's manufactures, and in that connection the exhibits to be made this year will prove a revelation to the majority of Exhibition visitors. In other departments too this year's Exhibition will reach a new level, and complete success is assured if the public does its share by bringing the attendance figures on a level with the general excellence of the Exhibition. The necessity of visiting the Exhibition two or three times during the four days in order to get full advantage of the many features of interest should not be lost sight of — one visit is not enough.

SLICING UP CANADA.

American public men continue to misunderstand Canada's status within the Empire and to misjudge the attitude of the Canadian people. Every now and then some legislator on the other side comes along with a proposal that involves the slicing up of Canada and the switching of part of this country under the American flag. Representative MacGregor, of New York, is the latest offender. He calmly proposes that Britain's war debt to the United States be paid by taking that section of Ontario containing the Great Lakes and handing it over to Washington. He believes this would be a splendid thing for the people of Ontario, to be brought under the benign rule of the United States Government. At first, when such suggestions were made across the line, Canadian newspapers published the news in the joke column, a quite proper place for it to appear. But the constant repetition of such fatuous proposals from men in public positions who might reasonably be expected to know better are very annoying. The plain fact is that Canadians are quite satisfied with their presnt status, and they resent the constantly brought forward slicing proposals.

FACILITIES FOR CANOEISTS.

The necessity of improved facilities for canoeists along the Trent Canal is brought forward by the Oshawa Reformer, and our contemporary does a good service in bringing this matter to the attention of the Canal authorities. The Reformer declares that several canoe parties have gone from Oshawa this summer, the majority of them visiting the Trent Canal, while they have gone home enthusiastic over the scenery along the Canal and at the hospitality generally met with there is one point on which they unite in their criticism. That is the lack of facilities at the numerous locks for the benefit of canoeists. At a few odd locks there are rollers that permit of an easy portage, but generally it is necessary to carry canoe and contents several hundred yards, and in most cases there are not suitable landings at either side of the lock, it being necessary at times to lift the canoe a distance of three or four feet from the water. There is no reason why this could not be remedied at comparatively small expense by the construction of special canoe landings. Any paddler who has done much travelling along the Canal knows that the Oshawa complaint is justified, and that the conditions could be greatly improved if the rights of canoeists for consideration were recognized.

TALKING TO MARS.

With the persistence worthy of any upright cause, Mr. Marconi is once more making efforts to get into touch with the Martians, says the Montreal Star. Seriously convinced that for years they have been endeavoring to make effective signals to this planet, he is now busy perfecting his arrangements to establish a rapport with them.

It is not beyond the bounds of possibility that Mr. Marconi will succeed. But if he did, would there be any satisfaction for the inhabitants of this world? It would be a sorry thing if we found the Martians so greatly our superiors mentally and scientifically that we should be compelled to admit ourselves very poor creatures, indeed. What a humiliating situation, to be compelled to signal back, in reply to a query: "Have you had any wars down there for the last million years?" something like this: "We regret to state that we have just pulled off our first Armageddon, and we are now engaged in quarrelling to see who will come out on top with the spoils." Or, should some supernal Martian helioscope or some other scope up to the effect that they of Mars have abandoned books, food, clothing, entertainment, drink and speech, in order to perfect themselves for the highest form of intellectual life, what a sorry figure we should cut when we found ourselves compelled to answer (for such a Martian would be able to compel the truth, of course, or he would not be supernal) that we, for our part, still adhered to the disgusting habit of imbibing strong liquor, chewing the meat of slaughtered beasts of the field, covering our bodies with cloth and other shapeless stuff, laughing inanely at stupidities performed by clowns, reading sensational literature, and exchanging unoriginal remarks about the weather and our neighbors' bad habits.

Would it not be infinitely better for us to remain in our present state of blissful ignorance of the Martians and their ways, admiring the reddish hue of their world, speculating as to its various differences from our own, and never getting any nearer the truth? It is all very well for Mrs. Asquith and a few other philosophers to misquote apostles to the effect that the truth shall make us free, but there are conditions under which the truth only succeeds in making us feel uncomfortable and humiliated. Decidedly we had better continue to speculate as to Mars. Let Mr. Marconi do what he will, so long as he does not tell us anything that will upset our present equanimity and pride in the huge success of the League of Nations, The Hague Conference, radio, the Quebec Liquor Law, and the world-supremacy of Canadian fish. After all, Mars is a long way off, and we are a young nation yet.

WORTHY EFFORT.

Quite removed in almost every sense from the usual run of government report, comes the annual statement of the mothers' allowance commission of the Province of Ontario. The commission is composed of Rev. Peter Bryce and Mrs. Minnie Singer, of Toronto; Elizabeth Shortt, M.D., of Ottawa; A. J. Reynolds, Hampton, and Major T. J. Murphy, of London.

This commission is going at the work of caring for children from a different angle to that followed for a number of years in this province. It has long been the custom where children were not cared for at home to send them to an institution and leave them there until such time as they were able to go out and care for themselves, or have them placed in foster homes. No matter how good the intentions may have been, the result was the same—homes were being broken all the time instead of being assisted in the fight they should have been making toward a stronger and better position.

In all, 2,600 widowed mothers were assisted in their fight to keep the home together, and some of the actual instances explain the work better than can be done in any other way. In one home the mother has one side paralyzed, and is wholly dependent on the mothers' allowance. In this house there was one child with badly diseased tonsils. The child was attended to and returned to school in good health. One little four-year-old girl was a cripple from knock-knees. She was taken to a specialist, and her legs were straightened by operations, and the mother at home is able to care for her and follow the directions of the doctors. Investigators of the commission find that in many cases there are diseases and ailments which the mothers were ignorant of, or did not know how to deal with. In all these cases care is taken to get proper treatment at once. Then the effect of the allowance on the mother herself is a great thing for the children. The burden of having to fight for a living is partly taken from her back, and she has more time to devote to the building up of a home, and giving proper care to her children.

Perhaps one of the most touching phases of the work is the reunion of families that have been broken up simply because there was no money to keep the home together. All sorts of advice and charity may help, but it does not take the place of some ready money paid intelligently and well. Mothers in hundreds of cases are willing to bear testimony to the fact that if it were not for the allowance received they would be forced to part with their children. Almost every district shows numerous cases where homes were about to be broken up, when the payment of the allowance saved the situation. One mother writes, bringing out a point that may have been overlooked many times before. She says that she needed the children as badly as they needed her; that when the children were taken away from her she seemed to have no anchorage, and, relieved of responsibility, she was in danger of drifting. One mother, after struggling for eight years to support herself and two very young children, collapsed. The children were placed in an orphanage. When the allowance was explained a burden was lifted from the mind of the woman, and her recovery was rapid. Friends looked around and found a small house. The mother now has work three days a week in a nearby hospital and lives with her children—a happy little family. Another mother was advised to leave the city and take her children to a small town, where she is now living. She writes: "It is indeed a great blessing to have my little boys with me after being separated nearly four years, and God knows how grateful I am for it."

The figures presented in the annual report for 1920-21 shows the occupation of husbands of widows now needing assistance to have been:

Laborer	1,002
Clerical	675
Business	151
Trades	675
Professional	25
Farmers	288
Not given	254
Miscellaneous	123

The cost of the work is shared equally by municipalities and the province. Where the beneficiary has been a resident for a year before making application for payments, that municipality is charged 50 per cent. The Province in the year under review, paid $416,152.50, and the municipalities $358,514.50. There can be no question about the desirability of the work, nor of the ability of the commission to handle it. If the spending of this amount of money makes us poor, then let us be poor, for it's a mighty blessed poverty. — London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The big Exhibition is only two weeks away. Don't forget to invite your friends to come to Peterborough.

A new attendance record is possible if the weather man does his part.

Most of Peterborough's business community will regret that the half-holidays are gone for another year. The system has been a great success.

Montreal is to have a special coal reserve of 50,000 tons of coal. What does Peterborough's reserve consist of?

LITERARY GEMS

So long as we form a portion of the British Empire, we shall have the example of her free institutions, of the high standard of the character of her statesmen and public men, of the purity of her legislation and the upright administration of her laws.—John A. Macdonald in Confederation Debates, 1865.

TRAINING UP TO VIRTUE.

It should not be claimed that there is no art or science of training up to virtue. Remember how absurd it would be to believe that even the most trifling employment has its rules and methods, and at the same time, that the highest of all departments of human effort—virtue—can be mastered without instruction and practice.—Cicero.

The Opening of School

again brings to the front the vital importance of providing the proper pen for every student and scholar.

Every attention is paid to having text books easy to read, in order to avoid eye-strain.

Too often, little attention is given to the choice of a pen—with the result that the wrong size or shape of the ordinary pen tires the hand, writing becomes irksome, and the handwriting grows more and more illegible.

Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen is an education in smooth, easy, effortless writing.

The steady, uninterrupted flow of ink allows the pen to keep pace with the student's thoughts.

It provides a size to perfectly fit every hand, from boy and girl just entering the graded schools to those attending college and university.

There is a point to suit every style of writing, including the point recommended by Boards of Education, fitted to three distinct types of barrel—regular, safety and self-filling.

See that your boy or girl has the right pen to do his or her best work at school.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

All at once Dupont detected footsteps. He drew his revolver. Grim lines of determination settled about his mouth. He backed against the bricked-up window so as to cover the three sides of the pit away from the building. He heard the stpes come close to the edge of the opening; then halt, cautiously. He waited, determined, watching alertly for the first sight of the other.

Instead of a head, or a living figure, there appeared very slowly the rounded edge of some small object. With disgust, almost despair, he grasped its nature. A mirror. A small pocket mirror so held as to give the person above a view down into the pit.

"Drop the revolver" came the command in a high-pitched wheezy voice. "Drop it at your feet and keep your hands up"

Dupont complied with ill grace. Then he waited.

Slowly, cautiously still, a man's face appeared over the edge. It was a fat flabby face, wihi bright curious eyes set in tiny piggish sockets. An involuntary wink betrayed his identity to the hypnotist, who remembered Violet's description. The hunchback, and a member of the gang.

"Who are you?" asked the little man. "What have you to say for yourself?"

Dupont smiled very slightly. The hunchback had not been warned against his hypnotic power by those of the band who had learned to fear it. From the moment the head appeared above his eyes had fixed the eyes of the other.

"I was just looking around," he said. While his lips framed the answer his glance carried the message of his mind. "You are in my power" he exulted, inwardly. "Independence of action is impossible to you. You are prepared to obey my wishes. Answer me Speak Tell me you are ready to do exactly as I dictate"

"What—what do you want me to do? quavered the hunchback, his eyes now dilated and his mouth agape.

"Drop down here by my side"

With a distinctly ungraceful scrambling awkwardness, precipitating a cloud of dirt, the little man obeyed instructions. Dupont stooped, pocketing his own weapon. Then he searched his captive, finding a knife and a small caliber revolver of archaic design which he also pocketed.

"Where is Miss Bronson?" he asked. "You are entirely subject to me," he added, in mind. "You can only answer truthfully."

"She is a prisoner in the church."

"Is she guarded?"

"She is guarded by Lydia, my wife."

"Is the rest of the gang in the church?

"Vera Collins, and Paul Noyes, the artist, and"—even in a hypnotic state the hunchback lowered his voice—"and Evil Eye"

"Where are the others?"

"Renard, and Dupree, and Kali went into the city."

"Is that all?"

"There are no other members of the gang, now."

"Is Miss Bronson in danger?"

"No."

"How is she guarded? Where are those in the church?"

"Does anyone besides you suspect I am here?"

"No."

"Then I will be able to rescue Miss Bronson?"

GOOD PROGRESS ON BAILIEBORO HIGHWAY

Rapidly Nearing Completion—U.F.O. Club Attend Church Sunday.

BAILIEBORO, September 1. — Good progress is being made on the Provincial Highway between Bailieboro and Centreville. The foundation is completed, and the teamsters are busily engaged drawing the gravel to put the finish on the road. The culverts have all been built, and the road is all in good condition, with the exception of one bridge over the creek known as Deyell's Creek, which has not yet been finished. It was thought best to change the course of this stream, and build the bridge farther to the north of where the present bridge is situated. By so doing, it will be a long while ere the structure is completed.

Sunday Services.

On Sunday, 3rd September, the local U.F.O. Club will attend Centreville Church in a body. This day has become an institution at Centreville. Various clubs are represented on these occasions, and the usual good attendance is looked for next Sunday. Rev. A. H. McConnachie will preach.

Shipped Wheat.

Mr. W. D. Moncrief, of Frazerville, shipped about 2,600 bushels of wheat on the steamer Rainbow to the Peterborough Cereal Company on Tuesday last. This is the first load of wheat shipped on Rice Lake this season. Mr. Moncrief shipped another load on Thursday at Bewdley, and expects to ship two loads a week throughout the season.

Exterminating Monkeys for Fashion's Freak

The Picturesque Long-Haired Colluvus, or Horse-Tailed Monkey, Which Is Being Slaughtered by Thousands to Supply Monkey-Fur Trimming for Women's Gowns.

Revealing the Ruthless Slaughter of the Harmless "Horse-Tailed" Colluvus That Has Followed the Latest Craze for Dress Trimmings

Abyssinian Natives Armed with Bows and Poisoned Arrows, Assembling for a Monkey Hunt.

The Fur of Eight Monkeys Was Required to Trim This Gown. Note the Monkey Fur at Hem of Skirt, at Knees, on Draped Scarf and at Shoulders.

MILADI OF FASHION is killing millions of monkeys.

She isn't exactly slaying them with her own jeweled hands. Queens—like kings—when they make war seldom do any killing themselves. But it amounts to the same thing.

She issues the commands. Others execute—the monkeys.

Armies of African and Abyssinian natives are shooting them with poisoned arrows, killing them with spears, catching them in nets, snaring them with nooses, sniping them from tree tops with modern rifles supplied by the whites.

So fast and furious has become the slaughter that British, French and Italian colonial officials are co-operating with the native authorities in many African territories to restrict the hunting immediately in order to save certain long-haired species of monkeys from complete extinction.

American Consul Cross, stationed at Aden, Arabia, has just reported to Washington that the restrictions are about to be rigidly enforced in Abyssinia, and that monkeys henceforth are to be rigorously protected—from the women.

What's it all about? Why should seventeen million monkeys die to please the whims of lovely woman?

It's as simple as A B C. The monkeys have a curious idea that they have a right to wear the fur with which nature clothed them. "But you can't," says fair Helen, "Your fur amuses me—for the moment—and I propose to wear it myself!"

Now there is this peculiar thing about monkey fur—that a woman can manage to live—though doubtless discontented and unhappy—without it; whereas the monkey can't live without it at all.

And as woman insists on having it, the monkey, unwillingly, yields up his life and his hide together.

Hence we have an extraordinary double phenomenon characteristic of modern civilization—Abyssinian and African forests cluttered with the bones of millions of monkeys who have lost their fur; Parisian boulevards, New York avenues and a thousand "Main Streets" thronged with fashionable women tricked out in the furs the monkeys have lost.

Why the sudden rage for monkey fur? Ten years ago nobody ever heard of wearing monkey fur. Now every fashionable woman is wearing it. Previously, woman had worn the fur of practically every other known fur-bearing animal, from skunks and alley-cats to royal Bengal tigers. But she had "laid off" monkeys—perhaps because they looked so nearly human. Maybe the war did it. Everybody got so used to the idea of killing real human beings by the millions that it seemed a small matter to slaughter a few million more creatures that merely looked human.

Inquiry among leading furriers and fashionable dressmakers concerning the reason for the monkey fur fad elicited some interesting replies.

"Monkey fur isn't really fur at all," pointed out one of the biggest Fifth avenue furriers. "It is really monkey hair. One chief reason for its popularity is probably the fact that it is 'different.' Very little of it is used for cloaks or wraps, or even fur collars. It is used almost exclusively as a decorative trimming, in the same way you would use lace or beads or ribbon.

"Most of it is sold to the dressmakers and to the retail trade not by the pelt or by the garment, but by the yard, just like lace. It is a sort of hairy fringe, and it is used to decorate almost every article of feminine apparel from dancing frocks and street clothes to intimate boudoir wraps and even pajamas."

What kind of monkeys yield this fashionable fur, where and how they are killed, were questions on which the furriers and dressmakers were almost wholly in the dark.

Books failed to yield the information, for the industry is comparatively new and no books have been written about it. Even Dr. William T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological Park, one of the best wild animal authorities in the world, was unable to give complete data on the subject.

To begin with, the average monkey, the kind you usually see on top of a hand-organ or in a cage at the zoo, is—luckily for him—of no value as a sacrifice on the altar of feminine vanity. His hair is short, not of a particularly attractive color, and usually he is flea-bitten to boot.

It is only the long-haired monkey, seldom seen in captivity in this country, which is sought for its fur. This monkey, whose scientific name is Colluvus, is found chiefly in the mountainous regions of East Central Africa and in Abyssinia. He is of moderate size, neither large nor small, usually about two feet high. He is an arboreal ape—that is, he lives in trees as distinguished from the gibbon or ground ape.

The Colluvus Guereda, one of the most-sought types, is covered with long, silky hair. The bottom of his body is whitish, the back or saddle is black. His face is black, surrounded by a white fringe. His tail is long and covered with long black hair, with a beautiful white tuft at the end. The legs are also black and fringed with white.

Occasionally these pelts are used in their natural black and white, but usually they are dyed black all over. Other types are naturally black, or black and brownish gray.

How are these monkeys caught or killed? A few are trapped in nets, some are caught in snares—nooses set with triggers in the trees, fastened to a branch which springs back and hangs the monkey, usually by the neck. But monkeys are highly intelligent and not easy to trap. The great majority of monkeys taken for their fur are shot by African natives with bows and poisoned arrows—the old primitive weapon they have used for thousands of years.

The natives go out in bands, which separate and go stalking through the mountain-side forests or jungles in search of a monkey tribe or group.

When one stalker locates a company of monkeys he sets up a peculiar bird cry, which notifies his companions without apprising the monkeys that human enemies are at hand. When the band is gathered together, near a tree or group of trees where the monkeys have taken refuge, they hide as carefully as possible in the brush surrounding the spot and begin to discharge their arrows.

Thus the slaughter begins. Monkey after monkey, transfixed or perhaps merely grazed by a poisoned arrow, topples out of the tree, shudders for a moment on the ground and dies. For a little while the others are puzzled and amazed at what is happening. The arrows are coming from all sides at once, so they do not know in what direction to flee.

When the survivors do attempt to escape, by swinging themselves from tree to tree, the natives pursue on the ground, and only a few of the victims finally escape. The dead monkeys are gathered up, strung on long poles, carried to a camping place, where they are immediately skinned and the skins pegged out to dry.

The carcasses are thrown away. The poison from the arrows would make them dangerous to eat. The skins, after they have been partially dried, are carried back to a trading post, where they are sold to white traders, sometimes for money, but usually for copper wire, with which the natives make bracelets and ornaments, or for beads, utensils, knives and trinkets.

The wholesale value of a monkey skin, after it has reached the trading post in Africa, is from forty-five to ninety cents. Prices when the products reaches civilization in its finished form, usually of narrow monkey fur fringe, range from $5 per yard up, depending on the length and silkiness of the hair.

How long the fad for monkey fur will last—whether women will want to continue wearing this trimming when they have learned of the wholesale slaughter it entails—whether the restrictions against the slaughter can be made effective—are questions which only the future will tell.

In the meantime, apparently at least from the numbers of furs which are still reaching this country, and from the increasing frequency with which the trimming is seen on all sorts of feminine apparel, the extermination of monkeys for fashion's latest freak is still going on despite the efforts of various governments to have it stopped.

Horatio Bottomley

Writer in News of the World Professes to Give True Story of "This Jekyll and Hyde of Modern Life" —Question of Parentage Settled.

Henry J. Houston, O. B. E., who describes himself as "confidant and secretary to Horatio Bottomley for 13 years," has published in the London News of the World a series of articles on The Real Bottomley, a Jekyll and Hyde of Modern Life, which purport to present his character in a way only possible for one who had enjoyed a long and intimate association with this extraordinary man. Of especial interest is the portion of the narrative dealing with Bottomley's parentage, which effectually clears up the absurd rumor that he was "the natural son of Charles Bradlaugh and a certain well-known lady of advanced views." In the account printed in the News of the World facsimile reproductions are given of Bottomley's birth certificate and of the entry in the official register relating to the burial of his father. In the birth certificate it is stated that Horatio William Bottomley was born on March 23, 1860, at 16 St. Peter street, Bethnal Green, London, the son of William Bottomley, tailor's foreman, and Elizabeth Bottomley, formerly Holyoake. There is also a facsimile copy of Bottomley's marriage certificate, in which his father is described as William King Bottomley, deceased, clothier. We reprint the following extracts from this candid biography:

"The Mask Off."

I propose to lay bare the inner life of the man with the mask off; his life at home, his generosity and meanness, his courage and cowardice, his love of luxury and his abstemiousness, his cynical scepticism and his religious emotionalism, his vanity and modesty, his wide knowledge of his amazing ignorance, his seriousness and his austerity. . . .

It is not my object to present to the public one particular conception of the man, or even any definite conception of him. I want simply to present the whole man as I knew him, and let the public form what judgment it will.

Truth to tell, "H. B." is as much an enigma to me after all these years as he is to those who never met him. In contrast to the sybarite "H. B." who could not live beyond eleven without champagne, there is the "H. B." of simple tastes, who hated big dinners, disliked new clothes, and never had need of gloves unless I bought them for him. The smallest portion of food always sufficed him, and he preferred it served plainly. The sight of a lot of food nauseated him. He would take a suite of rooms at a Paris hotel and live at the rate of £1 a minute, but he would steal away from the fashionable dining-room to a quiet "tavern" and eat a simple chop for his dinner.

High life and club life he loathed. He is not and never has been a member of any club; yet he has a dread of being alone. . . .

Let me present another strange contrast in his character—his modesty and his inordinate vanity.

No man was more free from "side." If, when travelling, he had a short wait at any station, he would approach a railway porter or guard with the cheery remark: "I'm old Bottomley. How are you?" and held out his hand to be shaken.

Of his personal appearance he was neglectful. He would never give a tailor five minutes to measure him for a suit of clothes. The whole business of dressing was irksome to him.

As a Public Speaker.

His first remarks after a meeting at which he had spoken were always "How did I go?" and even if the reply was justified, he hated to be told that he was "off color." On such matters he embraced the flatterers and resented the candid friend. "I thought you spoke magnificently, Mr. Bottomley!"—that was the verdict he loved to hear. . . .

Then the money obsession reached a stage when he felt that he could not go on the platform until he knew "how much was in the house." It was the attitude of the showman. If there was a big "gate," he would make his best efforts. If the receipts were comparatively small, the "performance" had to be adapted to suit the fee. . . .

People of a religious turn of mind will read this with horror, but there is no use disguising the fact that "H. B." at no time in his life had the slightest sensitiveness on the subject of religion. He would use name of the Deity in his articles and speeches when it suited his purpose, and adopt a religious pose, as he did during a period of the war, but it all meant less than nothing to him, and he was never conscious of profanity. . . .

His Parentage Established.

I had heard, as thousands have done, the rumor that he was the natural son of Charles Bradlaugh and a certain well-known lady of advanced views.

It was always a foolish rumor, and never had any more basis than a rather striking facial resemblance between the two men. If Bradlaugh had been "H. B.'s" father he was the type of man who would have looked after his son and not left him to struggle with the world as he did in his early days. . . .

As for Mrs. Annie Besant, "H. B." met her for the first time in 1875, the year of her first public speech in London, and it was probably the only occasion on which they met face to face, though "H. B." frequently went to hear her lectures. . . .

In my various searches I have discovered that "H. B.'s" mother was a barmaid in Birmingham before marriage.

I set out on my search for his father's grave, looked up the records of every cemetery I could find in East London from Shoreditch to Ilford. At some of them I found that burials had ceased before 1863, others had become recreation grounds, and several new ones did not exist in 1863. At none of them could I find a record of the interment of William King Bottomley.

Just when I began to fear that I should have to abandon the search, my attention was called to a cemetery that I had overlooked, although it was only two or three streets distant from the house in which I was born, quite close to the board school where I received my early education and within five minutes' walk from where I was actually living at the time.

So accurately did it correspond with the description "H. B." had given me of the cemetery that I realized at once I was on the trail. The superintendent, I found, was the father of two old schoolfellows and choir chums of mine. I explained my mission, and he offered every assistance. We went through the old records together, and there we found the name of William King Bottomley.

The search in the cemetery for the actual grave offered some difficulty, as slight reconstructions had been carried out, but with the aid of a dusty old plan and a 60-foot measure we eventually located the spot. With a garden fork, I dug up the ground, and about 18 inches down we came across a slate slab, about 10 inches by 6 inches, with the number of the grave, K. D. . . upon it.

I knew I had c[illegible] the site of the grave of "H. [illegible]ave and later on his mo[illegible] to establish many facts a[illegible] B.'s" early life. I found that he was born at 16 St. Peter street, Bethnal Green, and was named Horatio William. His mother was formerly Miss Elizabeth Holyoake, a niece of George Holyoake, the founder of the co-operative movement.

The home of the Bottomley's in St. Peter street is in the area of the worst slum habitations of the east end, and I am credibly informed that it was not much better in 1860.

"H. B.'s" father had, at some time prior to 1860, been confined in a well-known London asylum as a mental case. I am unable to give the details, as the authorities inform me that only relatives can be permitted to inspect the records, but I have evidence of the fact that "H. B.'s" father died in a "fit of mania." "H. B." always told me that his father died of consumption.

On the death of his mother, very shortly afterwards, "H. B." and his sister passed under the care of their uncle, George Jacob Holyoake, the author of Sixty Years of an Agitator's Life. It was a case of the poor helping the poor. Mr. Holyoake had eight or nine children of his own, and he was finding that agitation, however sincere in its inspiration and beneficial to humanity in its results, produced a very precarious livelihood for the father of a large family.

As the best course possible in the circumstances, Holyoake endeavored to secure the admission of his nephew and niece into the orphan working school and Alexander orphanage, Hampstead. That effort failed.

The next effort, this time successful, was to get them into Sir Josiah Mason's orphanage, Erdington, a suburb of Birmingham. George Jacob Holyoake was a personal friend of Sir Josiah Mason. Children admitted to the home had to be orphans and born in wedlock.

Some few years back, when I was in "H. B.'s" library at the Dicker, his country place near Eastbourne, I opened a book on secularism. On the fly-leaf was the signature of George Jacob Holyoake, and as I turned its pages there fluttered to the floor the faded yellow handbill, much folded and soiled. It read:

"Your votes are earnestly solicited behalf of Horatio William Bottomley aged three, the son and daughter, respectively, of hard-working and respectable parents."

It was the appeal to get them into Mason's orphanage.

"H. B." remained at Mason's orphanage until he was 13 years of age. He ran away from the school, but was recaptured. At the latter end of 1874 he left for good, and he once told me that his first day of liberty was the most glorious he had ever experienced. His life there was far from an unhappy one, and he always preserved the tenderest memories of the place . . .

Bottomley's Marriage

At that time he was living in another mean street at Notting Hill. Certain people, however, were still taking an interest in him, and before long he was sent down to Brighton, where he was provided with a small garret bedroom over a chandler's shop in East street, and it would appear that he was there for the purpose of learning Taylor's shorthand, and he mastered it thoroughly.

From Brighton he returned to Battersea, and there he became violently attracted to a little girl who used to call at his lodgings. That little girl was destined to loom large in his future life.

He moved, however, to the house of an aunt, who is still alive. There was a temporary eclipse of his affection for the little maid, whose position was usurped by a girl, a friend of his aunt's family. It was love at first sight, but "H. B." was such an ardent lover that his aunt forbade the girl the house, and as "H. B." was not in a financial position to defy his relations and marry the girl, the episode came to an end.

Though an ardent lover, "H. B." was not inconsolable at the mere loss of one beloved. He promptly transferred his affections back to the little maid, whose name was Elizabeth Norton. That lady is now Mrs. Horatio Bottomley, his wife. Their courtship was secret; so was their marriage. Even his sister, whom he loved devotedly, only knew of his intentions two days before the event.

"H. B." was 18 when he married, and he once protested, when I told him that I had married at 26, that I had left it too late.

"I got married at 19 and had the brokers in within a fortnight," he told me. "We bought our home on the hire system. Because I didn't pay the money when it was due, the company suddenly placed a man in possession. I got rid of him, and ultimately became a friend of the proprietor. I well recollect meeting him on the morning when he told me joyfully that he had become the proud possessor of a son, and we straightaway adjourned to the Horse Shoe in Tottenham Court Road and celebrated the event in Guinness.

Sparkling Eyes and Sparkling Wine

Now I come to two curious phases of Bottomley's character—his love for sparkling eyes and sparkling wine.

His stratagems to obtain champagne and his wiles with the women were both characteristic of the man . . .

After every big physical and mental effort, whether in finance, the law, public oratory, journalism or politics, he turned with unfailing regularity to the fair sex for solace oblivion and refreshment.

Few men took more genuine delight in the society of women, and it is impossible to understand the character of the man without a knowledge of his attitude toward them. In practice, if not in theory, he exemplified the Neitzschean philosophy that "man shall be educated for war, and women for the recreation of the warrior . . .

I hope I shall be believed when I say that I can lay my hand upon my heart and declare in all sincerity that never once, during my 13 years of closest association with him, night and day, did I see him in a situation that would have compromised his honor as a husband and a father, or as a public man. Whatever "H. B." may have been as a young man—and of that I have no very great knowledge, except that which he had told me, he never by word or deed betrayed himself to me as a voluptuary. That was certainly not the mainspring of his love of feminine society.

He was very happy in the society of his wife and daughter, and it was frequently to them that he flew for solace and recreation. Unfortunately, the health of Mrs. Bottomley has never permitted her to live for more than a few weeks at a time in England, but often after a specially arduous period he would make a quick journey to Paris or the south of France, to spend a few days, and sometimes only a few hours, in the bosom of his family and be at peace from the clamorous calls of his affairs. He was, and still is, passionately fond of them both.

When this was rendered impossible by time or distance, almost any feminine society was acceptable as a substitute. His women friends ranged from those who followed the calling of the footlights to the humblest waitress in the grill-room of an hotel, and he was equally at home with both types . . .

Powers Deteriorate

Wine, indeed, was something of an obsession to him, and in later years it did not improve him as a house of Commons man. In the 1909-12 period, legislators would flock into the chamber when it was known that Bottomley was "up." After his first two or three speeches in the 1918-22 period, his orations created hardly a ripple on the pool of parliamentary life. The change in the man was palpable, and I attributed his deterioration as a parliamentarian to three things—popularity, prosperity and Pommery . . .

Failure at Failure

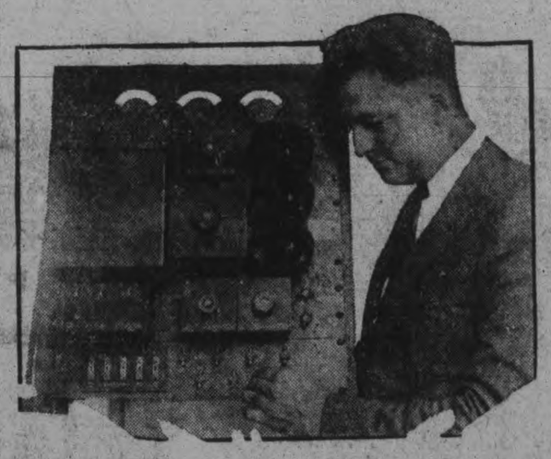
I must now say a few words regarding one of the fundamental traits in "H. B.'s character. He loved champagne; he loved women; he loved popular applause he enjoyed his oratorical triumphs; he loved gambling on the race course; but above all he had a passion for manipulating those mysterious creations of the Companies' acts—stocks, shares and debentures. They attracted him as jewels attract a woman. He loved to handle them and to play with them. Company after company he formed, amalgamated, reconstructed, merged and wound up. He has described himself as the pioneer in West Australian mining. What a pioneer. What a record.

Failure after failure. Liquidation after liquidation. The same remark applies to all his other ventures. Their tombstones will be found in the companies' winding-up division at Somerset House. "Shareitis" is not an uncommon disease. There are many men who have no interest in sound business or in making concerns, commercial successes. Their only desire is to manipulate the shares. "H. B." was one of this class. He was incapable of "steady, persistant business effort, but he was a brilliant joint stock demagogue. That he induced the public to part with upwards of 20,000,000 pounds is the outstanding fact in his remarkable career. He could not keep away from the form of gambling he loved so well. It magnetized him and mad him what he is to-day. Let his fate be a warning to others.

COLORS.

For street wear this fall, the colors that have most promise are navy, copper, beaver, cocoa—and black, of course.

Low Speech Received Strong



It is no longer necessary to put any more street men talk to be broadcast by radio than is used in ordinary conversation. The new speech input amplifier, shown above, takes care of that. This apparatus amplifies the voice before it enters the transmitting apparatus. Not only is it easy to send the voice broadcast, but the transmitting operator is enabled to hear the voice directly, so that he may supervise the broadcasting.

Can you see yourself twenty years ahead?

TAKE any baseball player that you know of—any of the famous league pitchers for example. How many years back does he date in the big league? How many more years has he coming? Whether in sport or business the years when life and strength are at the top-notch are few.

Mutual Endowment Insurance gives a young man "a big lead" in the game of life. Mutual Endowment insurance is the best, especially for those desiring to accumulate capital.

It is a compulsory savings system.

It protects one's family for a specified term.

It is also a very good investment.

But it is particularly a good form of insurance for young men. The average young man has life, energy and money enough to carry such a policy. Twenty years later, the average man won't have life, energy or money to spare.

Talk to our agent about the profit participating endowment policies in the Mutual Life. Under the participating plan you pay a little more in premiums at the start but less in the end, for the profits reduce the cost.

Remember—there are no stockholders in the Mutual Life. The entire profits are allocated every year among the profit-participating policyholders—either in cash or reduced premiums or increased insurance, just as they prefer.

CAPE BRETON MINES ACCEPT AGREEMENT

Vote of Five to One in Favor—Troops Will Be Withdrawn and Work Will Be Resumed Immediately.

ORDERS GIVEN.

SYDNEY, N.S., September 1 (Canadian Press). — At 9 o'clock last night United Mine Workers' headquarters conceded the acceptance of the Sydney agreement by the men on a vote of not less than five to one, and with probably only one small local showing a majority against it.

SYDNEY, N.S., September 1 (Canadian Press) — The total referendum vote at 9.40 last night was 7,029 for the agreement and 1,783 against.

OTTAWA, September 1 (Canadian Press). — Official circles here expressed satisfaction on learning of the Cape Breton miners' vote to accept the Sydney agreement. The acceptance is expected to lead to an early resumption of work in the mines, and also to a request for the withdrawal of troops from the affected area.

Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Militia, who arrived in town last night from Brockville, where he has been confined to his home through illness for the past week, stated last night that the officer commanding the troops in the strike area had been given authority to remove his men from the district as soon as he was requested to do so by the local authorities, who are in charge of the situation. The commanding officer will not need to await instructions from Ottawa, Hon. Mr. Graham declared, but can place his men aboard trains as soon as the local authorities—in whose hands the power lies—say that they are ready to have the troops depart.

Other members of the Government who were in Ottawa last night expressed equal satisfaction at the outcome of the vote and the hope of work being resumed at an early date.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, September 1. Some Ontario shippers are asking as high as 30 f.o.b. for straight gathered. The Chicago market is higher, as is also the market for refrigerators. Some are of the opinion that there will be a considerable reaction in refrigerators, the market appearing top heavy at present prices.

The hog market was steady with selects quoted at $13.

Top lambs were quoted around $11 and good light mutton sheep at $6.00. There were no sales up to noon.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, September 1. Canadian Press. — Wheat values held within relatively narrow limits early but towards the close, end of the month liquidation in the September delivery carried all deliveries down grade. September breaking below a dollar for the first time in a number of days.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press)—E. McQuirk of Montreal has been chosen chairman of the Board of conciliation appointed to inquire into the dispute between the Macroni Wireless Telegraph Company and its employees, some 300 men being directly affected and from 100 to 200 indirectly. The employees are represented on the board by Thomas Taylor of Toronto and the company by Melville P. White, also of Toronto. The dispute arises from proposed wage reduction and changed working conditions.

REMOVES DANGER EUROPEAN CRISIS

British Press Welcomes Reparations Commission's Decision.

LONDON, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press.)— The British press accords the heartiest welcome to the Reparations Commission's decision. The fact that it was unanimous makes it, in the words of the Times, great news which all true friends of the Entente and European peace will read with deep and real relief.

This sentiment inspires comment of morning newspapers generally. Even the Laborite Daily Herald, which terms the decision the sham settlement that leaves Europe still drifting to economic ruin, applauds it for stopping further invasion of Germany and for giving real peacemakers in Europe one more chance of bringing the French people as apart from their government to reason.

The Daily News terms the agreement a sort of moratorium which removes immediate danger of a first clash European crisis. The News and Westminster Gazette believes the decision's outstanding importance lies in the opportunity it gives the Allies, particularly France and Great Britain, for further reflection. Both newspapers want the Balfour note forgotten.

A Peep at the New Millinery

will reveal a wealth of feathery models of coque and hackle feathers. These fit snugly to the head in delectable little turban shapes. Velvet, duvetyne and other fabric numbers assume most any shape, sporting wide brims or narrow brims that turn up sharply in the front and earn the name Tiara Toques. Firefly hats derive their name from the feathery mounts that adorn them—in formation it much resembles the beauty of a descending sky rocket. Nut brown and black are prime favorites in all sorts and sizes and cherry red and heathers are not far astern in the race for popularity.

RELIEVE GERMANY CASH PAYMENTS IN REPARATIONS

This Decision of Reparatins Commission Holds Good For the Remainder of 1922.

PARSI, September 1. (Canadian Press. — The Reparations Commission has relieved Germany of making any further cash payments in reparations for the remainder of 1922 but defers its decisions on the question of the moratorium until radical reform in Germany's finances are carried out. These include the balancing of her budget, reduction of Germany's foreign obligations, currency reform and issue of formal foreign and internal loans.

The decision came as a surprise in some circles wheer it was expected that M. Dubois, the French delegate, would vote against any solution other than one complying with the demands of Premier Poincare.

As accepted the settlement constitutes a modified form of the Belgian compromise, and Belgium is given the honor of bringing about a last minute agreement.

TOOK COGNIZANCE.

The French cabinet to-day simply "took cognizance" of the decision of of the Reparations Commission on the German moratorium question — neither approving nor disaproving of it. It specifically reserved, however, entire liberty of action in case later developments made other action necessary.

AN ELECTION IN THE OLD COUNTRY

Two Pronouncements Herald the Opening of Political Campaign.

LONDON, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—Two pronouncements heralding the opening of political campaign in view of next election have appeared from opposite camps. First pronouncement has come from Lord Salisbury to Unionist Clubs throughout the country in which he says:

"We have good news from all parts of England and Wales. Feeling against coalition is general and our friends are beginning to see that with little effort the Conservative party can, in the next Parliament, regain its freedom."

The second speech made by Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, secretary of the Labor party, predicting that election could not be long delayed.

"It will be an election with more far-reaching consequences for this country," he said, "than any previous parliamentary election in the history of the United Kingdom."

ALLEGED BRIBE FOR RAILWAY CONDUCTOR

MONTREAL, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press—The first prosecution undertaken in Canada under the amendment to the Criminal Code passed in 1920 against the bribing of railway conductors by persons wishing to get cheap transportation resulted in the committal for trial of Ike Leiter and Abram Mayoff, both of Montreal, here this afternoon. Evidence was to the effect that the two men on different occasion had promised o "fix" conductors on the C.P.R. line between Montreal and Ste. Agathe, so that various persons could ride to Montreal for $1.

Voluntary statement was set for September 8.

PREDICTS SETTLEMENT OF IRISH TROUBLES

QUEBEC, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press)—Sir Thomas Grattan Esmonde, former M.P. for Wexford, Ireland arrived here yesterday on his way to Canadian Rockies to hunt for mountain sheep.

Sir Thomas, who is a great traveller and President of two Irish railways and National Bank of Ireland, would not discuss present political situation in Ireland, further than that the trouble would be ended by Christmas as the National army had rebellion well in hand.

New Free State leader Alderman Cosgrave, he said, is highly educated and cultured statesman and man of determination and courage. Mr. Mulcahy was all also strong man.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Is quite common, gradually becoming more severe, and if prompt action is not taken, serious results will follow. The symptoms are headache and pain in the back, sleeplessness, ashen complexion, white coated tongue and frequent urination. If a puffy swelling is noted in the feet or ankles the disease is well established and you must give the kidneys all the help possible by stirring the liver and bowels into action. Take Henderson's Herb Tablets every night according to directions, watch the digestion carefully, drink plenty of cold water between meals.

Mrs. T. Bevington, 303 Wilton ave., Toronto, Ont., says:

"I wish to express my gratitude for the great benefit I have received through Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. I suffered for a number of years with kidney and liver trouble and at times could scarcely do my work with the pain in my back, and cramps in my muscles. I am now 67 years of age and after using one box of Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment I feel like a new person.

The First Fall Styles

Many are the changes which Fashion has made in line, style and coloring—in these newest of fall modes which we now give their earliest showing.

Growing out of the peasant type of design but retaining its simplicity, draped effects are relieved with straight lines at the sides running from shoulder to skirt hem—while colors have changed away from the blacks of the past season to vividly contrasted hues, making these new types at once strikingly simple and marvellously becoming.

Coats, Suits and Dresses in all their alluring new shades and styles are now on display in our Ready-to-Wear Dept. on the 2nd Floor. See these on Saturday.

The New Fall Hats

The New Fall Hats may be seen now. They are on display in our Millinery Parlor, 2nd Floor. They hold second place to none of the previous season's creations. Fashion has certainly excelled herself in the new Suit or Dress Hats—yes, and even in the early Fall Felt Sport Hats. Metallic cloths of all descriptions are being used in most attractive ways. We invite your inspection on Saturday.

ONE HUNDRED PER CENT. WHOLE WHEAT BREAD AVAILABLE HERE

The Porter S. White Company Follow Up the Advice of Local Doctors Witn One Hundred Per Cent. Results.

On Tuesday of this week Dr. Graham Macdougall addressed the local Kiwanis Club on the health giving advantages of whole wheat bread with the result that the Kiwanians have instructed their commissariat committee to include whole wheat bread on the menu of the weekly luncheon. Appreciating the merits of Mr. Macdougall's address and realizing an ever growing need for real 100 p.c. whole wheat bread in Peterborough, the Porter S. White Company, George street, have made special arrangements to supply this product commencing on Friday and Saturday of this week. To this end they have secured the local agency for Browns' Bread Limited, Toronto, manufacturers of 100 p.c. pure whole wheat bread. This bread is sold under the trade name of Community bread. It is wrapped in wax wrappers which ensures cleanliness.

Real Whole Wheat.

This bread should not be confused with brown bread, graham bread, vitamine bread and various other concoctions that appear on the market to-day in the form of bread. It takes more than a handful of bran or a dash of graham flour to make 100 p.c. whole wheat bread. One hundred per cent. whole wheat bread is just what the name implies. It is the pure whole wheat used as the good Lord intended it should be used and not put through a million dollar milling and refining process. In Dr. Macdougall's address it was stated that whole wheat bread contained the sixteen elements necessary for the rebuilding of the microscopic body cells. White bread only delivers about half of this number to the body.

Peterborough is about two laps behind in the use of whole wheat bread as compared with other cities. This is chiefly because the real product has not been available here. Those who would use it say: 'I know its good, but where can I get it? As demonstrated in other cities if is a fact that restaurant customers will take whole wheat bread in preference to white whenever they can get it, but you will seldom find a restaurant man who is not as blind as a bat to that abundantly proved fact.

The war bread was the best bread the people of this country have had in my time, one miller said recently. "Our white bread is mostly starch with the protein and other valuable elements removed in the milling."

English women are said to smoke much more than do Americans.

Special to the Examiner.

NEW YORK, September 1. — The financial markets received the news of the compromise in the German reparations case as a better solution of the matter than was looked for in the pessimistic atmosphere of a week ago.

Belgium, having priority on all cash payments for 1922, agrees to waive the gold requirement provided Germany is able to put up an acceptable guarantee. In effect this amounts to the recognition of German inability for the remainder of the year to pay in gold, although not actually, is virtually a moratorium which she has been seeking.

The reparations problem is not disposed of by any means but the immediate strain is relaxed. No real improvement in German finances can occur until the budget has been balanced and a stop put on paper note inflation. But sufficient relief was afforded by the Commission's decision to check the pressure upon German and French exchanges and bring about a substantial upturn. French government and municipal securities participated in the recovery of the franc.

Inasmuch as the home security market has at no time been seriously perturbed over the weakness in the continental exchanges, it could scarcely have been said that improvement in the foreign situation was much of a factor to-day. Still it did bring in some fresh buying from the other side and this helped the other and more important forces making for higher prices.

It was a day of expanding activity on the stock exchange, of good trading in bonds and in the main of advancing prices in both markets; there were a few notable exceptions especially among the low grade railway issues. Erie bonds and stocks broke badly for a time and there was active selling of the Seaboard air line and the stocks of one or two others of the so called weaker roads. Apparently, however, this was merely an experiment on the part of professional operators to see how far confidence could be shaken in this class of stocks as an aftermath of the Chicago & Alton collapse. Neither on Erie nor in any other instance did the weakness have any vital significance. But it did draw attention to the fact that the coal strike has in some instances made the difference between bare covering and not covering interest charges.

BARING'S, "I TOLD YOU SO."

In his morning letter to-day Charles Baring said: "Mexican Petroleum sold up to 197, the exact figure I predicted several days ago, and in fact ever since it was down to 155. If you followed these letters, you should have taken forty points' profit near to-day's close as I did myself.

"I do know of at least one man who, following my letters, took over 40 points to-day on several hundred shares bought around 155, and there is no reason why all of you shouldn't have done the same.

"I think it will sell still higher to-morrow, and then start on quite a set-back, but I prefer to wait a day before advising new commitments."

UNITED STATES SENATE PASSED SOLDIERS' BONUS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Boston—American Woollen Co. declared regular quarterly dividends of 1.75 on Common and Preferred, payable October 16, stock record September 15.

Standard Oil of Kentucky declared quarterly dividend of $1.35, payable October 2, stock record September 15. This is an increase of 25c over former rate.

New York Federal Reserve Bank ratio declined from 86 to 80.6 per cent.

Reparations Commission relieved Germany of making further cash payment for remainder of 1922, but defers action on moratorium request. Poincare agrees to respite.

Senate passes Bonus Bill and measure now goes to conference committee of two houses. House passes Winslow Bill to prevent profiteering in coal and control distribution during emergency.

Public Service Commission orders ten cent gas cut throughout New York City, and substitutes British thermal unit for candle power standard.

Penna R.R. inteids to fill places of all strikers and will increase its repair shop forces by ten thousand men this fall, according to Vice-President Atterbury.

If President Harding insists anthracite operators will accept Senator Pepper's compromise plan for settling strike, but with the understanding that he and not they must assume the responsibility for continuing present prices of coal; final decision to-morrow.

"Keep in mind the difference between slowing down in business for want of fuel and slowing down for want of order," says a prominent house.

Predictions are being made in influential circles that during the next few weeks there will be great activity and strength in the oil group.

"Before the end of the week we anticipate activity and strength among the merger steels," says a private message from a well known source.

THE DUCK HUNTERS HAUNT THE MARSH

The season for duck shooting opened this morning and reports indicate that the gunners were out in the feeding grounds in the Otonbee river and in Rice Lake in as large numbers as ever. A heavy fog that hampered operations early cleared away and the morning was ideal for gunning. Arthur Mitchell and Arthur Jr., Howden Morriss, Ernest Reynolds and Milo Heath were out bright and early at Bensfort Bridge and returned to the city with a good bag. According to these gunners the ducks are plentiful and today at any rate were not afraid of the hunters. The number of the later have by no means decreased and guns were sticking up all through the rice beds, the hunters said.

CHANGE IN PRICES.

On September 5th the Ontario Government Dispensaries will put into effect a revised list of medicinal and other non-beverage liquors, revision having been necessitated by the recent increase in Sales Tax, and other factors which are unavoidable. Among the changes made may be cited: Canadian Whisky, Imperial quarts, $4.50 and $4.80; Irish, $5.85 and $6; Scotch, $5.75, $6.25 and $6.50. Brandy, Gins and Rums have also received increases.

SMILIN' THROUGH BEAUTIFUL STORY

So Says Conan Doyle, Creator of Sherlock Holmes.

Conan Doyle, with Lady Doyle, on his lecture tour in America, attended a showing of "Smilin' Through." After viewing the production he said: "We greatly enjoyed the beautiful story, it is true to life and—to death."

Of interest to the theatre-goers of Peterborough is the announcement that the Royal has secured this phenomenal attraction for a three-day presentation here. Mr. Pappas outbid several large city theatre managers for the privilege of showing "Smilin' Through" to his patrons, and incidentally paid the highest price ever offered for any attraction. On top of this comes his own announcement that he will not raise the price of admission, although top prices ranging from 50c. to $1.50 have been secured to see "Smilin' Through" in other cities. At regular Royal Theatre prices, there is no doubt whatever that large crowds will attend. "Smilin' Through" will be presented for three days, starting Monday.

One of the most interesting features of Manila industrial life is the wonderful skill of its women lapidaries and gem-settlers, whose tastes and workmanship have far surpassed the powers of the men.

other realistic scene is a section of the Algonquin Provincial Park and the "Highland Inn," with bathing beach and lake dotted with boats and canoes in motion. The scene is typical of Algonquin Park in September, and by the working of automatic lights is alternately turned into day and night views. At one end of the room is a large case containing specimens of such small wild animals and wild fowl as are common to the backwoods of Canada.

An All-Steel Train.

The comfort, not to say luxury, of present-day travel is strikingly illustrated by the magnificent all-steel standard passenger train which the Canadian National Railways has on exhibition at the Dufferin Street entrance. As well as bearing witness to the progress and enterprise, it also is evidence of Canada's progress generally. Another special feature is that this splendid train de luxe represents skilled workmanship employed in Canadian National shops, the respective units having just come from C. N. R. shops in Eastern and Western Canada. A new observation car, specially designed for service in the mountains, attached to this model train, is the very latest in observation cars in the mountains. Its special feature is what may be described as double-decked windows by means of which travellers will be enabled to view all scenic vistas from both sides, while sitting at their ease. The two cars now ready for commission have been namely respectively "Mount Edith Cavell" and "Mount Robson," after two of the notable scenic objects on the Canadian National Railway route through the Rockies.

New Types of Cars for Branch Lines.

Illustrating another development of Canadian National Railway service in Canada is an exhibit of self-propelled motor coaches, intended for better and more economical passenger service on branch lines. There are three types of these coaches, the electric, with storage-battery power, the gasoline and steam. Though small, compared with standard coaches, they are well designed to meet requirements for their particular field of traffic. The Canadian National is the pioneer of this line of public service improvement.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

How the Right Diet Makes Strong Teeth

IT is estimated that there are one billion decayed teeth in the mouths of Uncle Sam's 110,000,000 nephews and nieces. And each decayed tooth is recognized as an invitation for disease to enter. Scientists have found that the initial cause of dental decay is due to incorrect eating, so it logically follows that the right diet makes for sound teeth.

Thus, as C. Houston Goudiss points out in the Forecast Magazine, there is within the reach of the modern dental hygienist a broad field of human helpfulness.

"In a majority of cases," says Mr. Goudiss, "the dental hygienist can do more with what he puts into a patient's stomach than what he puts into a patient's teeth. By simply urging people to avoid over-indulgence in soft foods, which ruin the teeth by 'saving' them, he could do more to upbuild three billion efficient teeth than in any other way.

"In this matter of food advice, the dental hygienist should begin with the children. He should be equipped to guide the boy or girl into food paths that will make for mouth health—for strength and endurance of the grinders which are—so far as the welfare of the body is concerned, the real 'mills of the gods.' For mastication is the first process in digestion, and it not only prepares the food material for proper handling in the stomach—but at the same time prepares the teeth for continuing this invaluable service."

The average present-day dinner table, according to Mr. Goudiss, is the cause of 99 4-10 per cent. of all tooth decay. It also assists in the propagation of appendicitis and cancer—but if it did nothing more than lead to decayed teeth—the charge against it would be serious enough to warrant every well-wisher of humanity in looking into the matter and helping others to see the light.

For years—under the leadership of eminent dental practitioners sugar and starch were viewed as the arch offenders against good teeth. All this time the hog—the common garden variety of pig—was maintaining a matchless outfit of masticators on a diet of highly fermentable foods—and never using a toothbrush or toothpaste!

"Now we are beginning to learn the facts," says Mr. Goudiss. "We are beginning to learn that a large part of existing decay is due to two main causes—insufficiency of foods that are hard and that properly exercise the teeth when chewed, and deficiency of vitamines in the diet.

"I shall not attempt to tell you what vitamines are—because neither I nor anyone knows. But many of us do know that without these indispensable food elements—or life guards as I like to call them—no diet will sustain the body or lead to normal growth and development. And everyone knows that vitamines abound chiefly in milk, eggs, green leaf vegetables and fruits.

"Of course every patient should be shown the value of lime-foods, for the teeth are built of lime. How many people know the five leading lime foods? Milk, eggs, the cereals—especially rice, carrots, spinach and all the leaf vegetables are rich in lime and other minerals. Unless the diet provides a sufficient amount of these minerals to maintain the chemical balance of the body the teeth are robbed of their substance in an attempt to correct the lime starvation of the body. Decay naturally follows—and further derangement of the system is a result of tooth decay. Endless trouble comes from faulty diet.

"How many people know that foods which stimulate the flow of saliva are invaluable aids to mouth hygiene? Yet there are in this world—in regions where a dentist would starve for lack of patients—millons of people whose flawless biters and chewers are the logical result of just such foods."

Scientists who have studied the condition of the teeth in young rachitic dogs, fed on diets that were poor in vitamine A, found that the following changes were visible:

1. Delayed failing out of the milkteeth.
2. Delayed appearance of permanent teeth.
3. Disarrangement in the position of the teeth.
4. Lack of or defects in the enamel.
5. Diminished calcium content.

In children whose teeth grow too quickly the defects were even more pronounced. Experiments showed that vitamine A—in the form of cod liver oil or butter—exerted a very favorable influence in such cases.

Guinea pigs and monkeys fed on a scurvy-producing diet showed a fibroid degeneration of the tooth pulp. These changes occur very early—often before all other scorbutic symptoms.

When a baby is born, its body contains the beginning of all its later development. The teeth are there ready to push their way to the surface at the proper time. From the mother's milk come the vitamines and the mineral salts, lime and all other elements needed to build the tiny body to its full development. When this curious process of growth is recognized it is not hard to understand why scientists have found that 98 per cent. of prospective mothers show decaying teeth—the lime which ordinarily would keep their own teeth in repair is often withdrawn for the baby's use. That is why precautions for the good conditions of the teeth of the child must begin with the prospective mother who should receive the best possible nourishment.

Good teeth are all a question of food. There must be in addition to the lime needed for the tooth structure, the fluorine-bearing food needed to make a perfect enamel so that the soft inner tooth will be protected. Fluorine is a chemical which is present or absent in cereals, according as whether the earth in which they are grown contains it or not. Fluorine is also reported to be present in carrots, potatoes and other root and tuber crops grown in fluorine-bearing earth. It is also present in sea water and in all sea foods. Possibly a way will be found to introduce it in the form of fluor spar, which is calcium fluoride, into the commercial fertilizer later to be taken up in the cereal and root crops to be grown on land fertilized in this way. At present our diet leaves much to be desired in the enamel-building element, since the enamel wall often gives way and tooth decay promptly follows.

"We are justified in pointing with pride to the fact that we are now able to formulate a satisfactory working hypothesis as to what constitutes a satisfactory diet," says Dr. McCollum, reporting on his laboratory experiments in diet. "By applying this to the solution of practical problems we can interpret in any given case the cause of failure or success with a diet, the exact nature of which we know. A diet in order to be satisfactory must supply (1) an adequate amount of protein of good quality. (2) A suitable amount of some utilizable source of glucose. This may be starch, cane sugar, malt sugar, milk sugar, the dextrins, or glucose itself. (3) A satisfactory content of nine inorganic elements in suitable combinations. These are calcium, magnesium, sodium, potassium, chlorin, iodin, phosphorus, iron and sulphur. All of these except sulphur can be utilized by an animal when supplied in the form of suitable inorganic salts, such as the chlorids, phosphates, or the alkali and alkaline earth metals. Sulphur must be furnished to the tissues in the form of the organic substance—cystin, a sulphur containing amino-acid. (4) A suitable amount of each of three, and possibly four organic substances, the chemical natures of which we know nothing. These have been collectively designated in many instances as vitamines—'fat-soluble A and water-soluble B'—later was added 'water-soluble C.' These terms designate respectively the dietary factor, the absence of which from the diet leads to the development of a severe and fatal opthalmia—kerato-malacia; a substance protective against a peripheral neuritis known as beri-beri in man; and a substance protective against scurvy."

"A HOT Sun COOLS the Earth and Rain DRIES the Atmosphere"

IF you were told that a rain dries the air; that the hotter the sun is the colder it makes the earth, or that the sun rises before it is up and sets after it is down, you would think you were justified in questioning the sanity of your informant. Nevertheless, these statements are all true, as Dr. W. J. Humphreys, quoted in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution which was recently made public, explains all of them. They are perfectly well known to scientists, if not to laymen.

As everyone knows, Dr. Humphreys declares, water evaporates and is taken up in the air as vapor. This action is continuous all over the earth and the atmosphere would soon become very soggy if it weren't dried out. Rain is the collection, or condensation, and precipitation of these moisture particles, consequently the more it rains the less water there is left in the atmosphere, or the drier the air becomes.

The second of Dr. Humphreys's paradoxes seems flatly to contradict the old saying, "Whatever goes up must come down." However, as the writer expresses it, vertical circulation in the atmosphere is only gravitational action, consisting in the sinking of relatively cold and therefore dense air, and rising of warm and light air. Contracted air descends, expanded air ascends. Therefore, mass for mass, the volume of ascending air is always larger than that descending. In terms of mass, also, Dr. Humphreys says, descending air is less than ascending, for air while rising contains immense quantities of water in suspension, which does not return to earth with that air, but as rain, hail or snow. The air that rises from the land surface is greater in mass by at least 20,000,000 tons per second, the measure of world precipitation, than that which descends, he says.

The third paradox is merely a way of stating that the warmest part of the day is not at noon, when the sun is at meridian or overhead and should seemingly be pouring down greater heat, but several hours later in the afternoon. That is because the surface of the earth and the lower layers of air continue to absorb more heat from the upper layers for some time after the latter have been receiving the maximum amount of heat radiation from the sun.

While it is not yet universally conceded that the next puzzler, "the hotter the sun, the colder the earth," really is true, Dr. Humphreys states, the evidence in favor of it is already very strong. There are several explanations offered. The first is that increased radiation from the sun causes earth's air currents to flow more rapidly, bringing down a greater quantity of cooler air from high latitudes to lower. He rejects this explanation, however.

The temperature of the sun itself varies and sun spots are eruptions caused by heat activity. It is shown, he continues, that earth's temperature varies with spot activity; that the more spots there are on the sun the cooler the earth temperature becomes, and vice versa. Also, that the sun's corona, in large measure only so much dust, must interfere with passage of radiation through it. Hence: Hotter sun, more spots; more spots, denser corona; denser corona, less radiation received on the earth and warmer climate ensues.

Another explanation is the heat-absorbing quality of ozone, which exists in greater quantity in the upper air. He concludes that the denser corona stops passage of some per cent. of the ultra violet rays, some of which acting on cold dry oxygen in the upper strata form ozone. In times of maximum spots there must, then, be less ozone. But ozone absorbs a great amount of earth radiation, therefore if the earth should be receiving an increased amount of heat at this time it might nevertheless grow colder because of the coincident depletion of the heat-conserving ozone blanket.

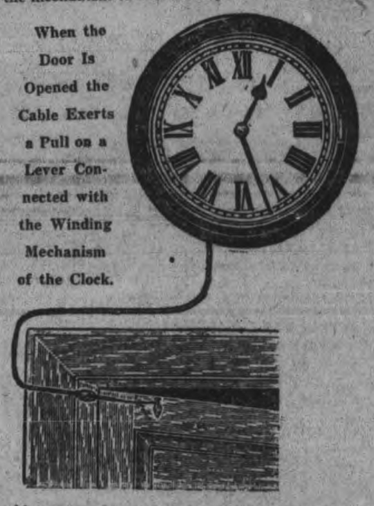
The paradox of the sun rising before it is actually up and setting after it has actually gone down is explained by the sending of light waves when passing through the air. A stick when placed in clear water seems to bend; a light ray when sent through the air does actually bend. The rays from the rising sun are bent when they strike the air envelope. This angle varies according to well-known laws, but on the average the light from the sun is bent 34½ seconds of degree, so that the upper limb of the sun when first seen is actually half a degree below the horizon. As the angular diameter of either sun, moon or star is less than this fraction it follows that when the sky is sufficiently clear the whole of either may be seen before even its topmost portion is geometrically above the horizon.

While the reverse is not absolutely correct astronomically, it is added, when sun, star or moon set, because of the slight modification of refraction due to earth rotation; nevertheless the difference is exceedingly slight. Consequently, as the light rays are bent upward by earth's atmosphere the sun has actually gone down before it is seen by a terrestrial observer.

Winding a Clock by Opening the Door

SOMEBODY is always forgetting to wind the clock, especially if it is a wall timepiece and a one-day one at that. Thinking of this, doubtless, a firm in Hamburg, Germany, has put on the market a clock which is kept perpetually wound up merely by the opening and shutting of the door above which it is placed.

The movement of the door is transmitted to the mechanism of the clock by means of a Bowden cable. When the door is opened the cable exerts a pull on a small lever connected with the winding mechanism of the clock.



When the Door Is Opened the Cable Exerts a Pull on a Lever Connected with the Winding Mechanism of the Clock.

A special device prevents too tight winding when the door is opened too frequently—on the other hand, three or four openings of the door each day, the inventor of this device says, will suffice to keep the clock properly wound.

How Glass Gets "Sick"

UNTIL recently glass was thought to be the most enduring of all substances. Iron, steel, and other metals are destroyed by rust; rocks crumble away under the action of weather, but glass was affected by none of these destroying forces.

But not long ago an alarming discovery was made. The glorious stained glass windows of York Minster, England, many of which are six centuries old, were found to be in a sad state.

Some unknown disease had attacked the glass, causing it to flake away until it became as thin as paper. Prompt measures were taken, and the old windows were saved by covering them with protecting sheets of plain glass.

Then it was found that other cathedrals were suffering in the same way. The mysterious disease was rapidly eating away their old windows.

No one knows for certain the cause of this outbreak of glass disease, but it is probably due to the action of the acids contained in soot, of which the air of many cities is always full.

The "WATER MOLE" a Freak MAMMAL That LAYS EGGS

ONCE when a countryman visited a circus and for the first time saw a giraffe, he exclaimed in gaping wonderment, "There ain't no sich animal!"

Perhaps the average person may be similarly affected upon visiting the Bronx Zoo in New York City and seeing a specimen of the water-mole or duck-billed platypus, a strange Australian mammal that lays eggs, is fur-covered and barks. Indeed, as Prof. W. P. Pycraft narrates in The Illustrated London News, the first specimen of this "freak" creature sent to England was pronounced a "fake"; a fit companion for the "mermaid" produced, for the benefit of "curio-hunters," by joining up the fore-part of a monkey with a tail of a fish. What else could be said of a creature clothed in a mole-like fur, with a curiously flattened beak resembling that of a duck, and covered with a delicate skin; short, webbed fore-feet, with the web projecting beyond the claws; short hind-feet, armed with a spur—highly poisonous, by the way—and a long tail, ridiculously small eyes, and no ears! Yet examination proved that this paradoxical creature was indeed a product of nature, and an indubitable mammal.

Head of the Water Mole or Duck-Billed Platypus, Showing the Sensitive Beak with Which It Finds Food by Touch in Soft Mud.

"Many years later," says Prof. Pycraft, "yet further surprising discoveries were made. To wit, that though a mammal, it laid eggs, like a bird or a mere reptile. Later still, it was found that its bird-like toothless jaws, in the young animal and in the embryo, were armed with large, curiously tuberculated teeth. But these represented the molars only. And presently even these, worn down to the roots, were shed, giving place to horny plates, marked by deeply sunk hollows answering to the sockets of the lost grinders.

"Those who would find this animal in its native wilds must haunt the rivers of the southern and eastern parts of Australia and Tasmania, during the very early hours of the morning. Then, by good fortune, an object looking very like a log of wood may be seen floating at the surface. Make but the slightest movement or sound, and the 'log' vanishes. After laborious search it will be found that, like the water-vole, it lives in burrows in the banks of the stream. But no water-vole ever made such burrows. For they extend from 10 to 50 feet in length, and, sloping upward, end at last in a small hole above ground. The course of the burrow is not merely upward, it is also tortuous, and provided at intervals with lateral pockets, while at the end is a large pocket or nest chamber for the eggs. The lateral pockets are, so to speak, an accidental feature, since, when entering the burrow or leaving it for the water, it takes the precaution of barring the way by means of a barricade of earth scooped from the side of the burrow; hence the pockets. How the task of driving such tunnels is performed has yet to be discovered. It obviously cannot be done with the fore-feet, so we must assume that the beak or the hind-feet, or both, must be employed—and very remarkable tools they seem to be."

Prof. Pycraft says that even in its manner of eating the water-mole contrives to be singular. "Its favorite morsels," he says, "are grubs and small shell-fish. But its staple diet seems to be furnished by a small, hard-shelled mollusc. Its fondness for this creature, whose shell is hard to crack, has apparently brought about the suppression of the teeth and their replacement by horny plates. Its captures are not swallowed immediately, but are stowed away, monkey fashion, in capacious cheek-pouches. When these are full there follows a period of pure enjoyment. The industrious fisherman, rising to the surface and drifting leisurely along, forces the contents of the pouches under his teeth and crushes them into pulp.

"Although it had often been asserted that the duck-bill laid eggs in a nest, like a bird, it was not until 1884 that this almost incredible fact was established. Although these eggs—which, as is the rule with eggs laid in burrows, have white shells—are commonly compared with the eggs of birds, they are really more like those of many reptiles, since the shells are soft. Two, and even three, are laid at a time. And where this is the case they adhere to one another, as with the eggs of snakes."

Is ELECTRICITY in ALL LIFE?

EXPERIMENTS conducted by scientists seem to indicate that all living things have the power to produce electricity. For example, Prof. D. S. Harris explains in Scientific Monthly that to know whether an egg is alive (impregnated) or not, send a strong (electric) shock through it; if it produces an electric response it is alive. Not only has Waller used the electric response as a sign of life, he has also made it a quantitative measure of the degree of vitality. He selected a number of seeds of Phaseolus from one to five years old and tested one of each age for the production of electric current. The responses in fractions of a volt were for five years respectively—0.0170; 0.0052; 0.0043; 0.0036 and 0.0014—a very remarkable demonstration of the statistical aspect of livingness. The older the seed the less the response; it is what one would have supposed, but it could not be taken for granted.

These seeds were dry, they were to all intents and purposes dead; they were lying in a pill-box doing nothing vital, but they were not dead, they were in latent life; they could germinate and they could produce electric current. Drying is an excellent method for sending many living things into la vie latente. It used to be asserted that wheat found in mummy cases could germinate. Mariette, the Egyptologist, definitely denies that this wheat can do so; placed in water it becomes a clayey pulp. It is true, however, that seeds of the gorse have germinated after being thirty years in latent life; seeds after 87 years in a herbarium have sprouted and seeds kept for 200 years have actually produced plants. Becquerel, the French naturalist, submitted the seeds of wheat, mustard and lucerne to the following drastic treatment: Having perforated the seed-coats, he dried the seeds in a vacuum at 40 degrees C. and sealed up the seeds in a tube almost exhausted of air for one year, submitted them to the temperature of liquid air (minus 198 degrees C.) for three weeks and of liquid hydrogen (minus 250 degrees C.) for three days and then placed them on moist cotton wool, when they germinated!

Do FLIES Spread SMALL POX?

FLIES are recognized as the carriers of many diseases, but until recently they have never been suspected of being spreaders of smallpox. Because of the extremely contagious nature of this malady from person to person, not much attention has been paid to the possibilities of transmission through contaminated objects, including insect life. If a man develops the disease in the absence of any known exposure, it is usually assumed that he has been in contact with a very mild, so-called walking case of the disease or with a patient who has recently recovered from the same; or, if this fail, with a so-called immune carrier, who may harbor the cause of the disease in some of the secretions.

In a recent issue of the Schweizerische Medizinische Wochenschrift, Drs. Hunziker and Reese of Basel report their experience with a minor epidemic of the disease in that city in 1921. The number of victims was 16. In at least 21 cases there was no history of exposure to contagion. The flies in the hospital came under suspicion.

The idea is by no means new, for 15 years ago Terni in performing the usual inoculation test on the rabbit in suspicious cases, used incidentally a pulp of flies which had frequented the hospital wards of smallpox cases. The result was positive, even after the flies had been kept for some days isolated from the wards. It readily appeared that the infectious matter did not merely cling to the feet of the insects but was eaten and voided by them.

Hunziker and Reese repeated Terni's experiments and confirmed his findings. It is of course known to bacteriologists that the ulcer which follows this experiment is not absolutely indicative of smallpox, simply because the exciting cause of the latter has never been isolated; but it is sufficiently decisive to be in common use by health officers in many parts of the world. The efforts ordinarily made to keep insects out of wards sheltering patients with contagious diseases will doubtless be redoubled as a result of the experience of the Basel pathologists.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., September 1.—Canadian Press. — The Steamer General Garretson, which grounded at the upper end of Rock Cut West, Neebish Channel, during a heavy fog early yesterday morning, was released after lightering seven tons of ore cargo, and got away yesterday afternoon apparently without damage.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is aching; if what you eat sours and forms acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before eating more food.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate, which is inexpensive and almost tasteless.

Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast.

BY THE WAY

Interesting stories of the late King Buno of Swaziland are told in "Adventures in Swaziland." The author is Dr. Owen Rowe O'Neill, who in spite of his Irish name is a South African Boer.

King Buno was a savage of the old school. He preferred gin which he could drink, to gold, to which he could only look at. He drank the gin all at once, as soon as he got it. In one occasion, when he had also come into possession of a Mauser rifle and cartridges, he had his whole army paraded in front of him, and began a sort of shooting competition into the motionless ranks. The savage king slipped a clip into his Mauser, the metallic click intensified by the silence. He raised the rifle, sighting down first one line of warriors and then the other. The next instant a shot rang out and a plumed Swazi pitched forward and lay writhing in the sunlight. "Four more shots rang out," says Dr. O'Neill, "and at each a plumed head came down."

Dame Partington Respectable Old Lady.

The original Dame Partington was a respectable old lady who lived at Sidmouth, in Devonshire, Eng. Her cottage stood on the beach and during a severe storm in November, 1824, the sea rose to such a height as gradually to invade the old lady's residence.

Mrs. Partington with such help as she could secure with mops and brooms, as fast as the water entered the house mopped it out again until at length the waves had the mastery and she was compelled to retire to an upper story. The first public allusion to the circumstances was made by Sidney Smith in a speech on the reform bill wherein he compared the Conservative opposition to the effort of "Dame Partington and her mop who endeavored to mop out the waves of the Atlantic."

Time-Ball Means of Marking Passing Hours.

In the Middle Ages the time-ball as a means of marking the passing hours was popular. For the convenience of the men and women of the various courts of Europe a great ball was dropped from the ceiling of the palace throne room at certain intervals. Today, many cities have time-balls in prominent places which drop at noon to warn the citizens of the time. Many harbors, Montreal and Quebec, for instance, still use the time-ball to mark noon and other hours.

But it remained for a little country in South America, Uruguay, to inaugurate a really modern and efficient system for sending broadcast over the capital city, Montevideo, the time at exactly 8 o'clock at night. At that hour every electric light in the city grows dim for a few seconds, and the residents set their clocks and watches.

Ore Deposits Are Revealed by Plants.

In the proceedings of the Australian Mining Institute, E. Lidgely summarizes several remarkable examples where beds of ore were revealed by plants growing on the surface above.

The Amorpha canescens shrub indicates the presence of galena, the lead sulfide ore, in Michigan and Wisconsin, while in Missouri a plant belonging to the poison sumach family serves the same purpose, as a lead ore indicator. Beech trees often indicate that limestone beds are to be found in the neighborhood. In Spain a sort of bindweed, known as Convolvulus athaeoides, is deemed of high value in betraying the presence of underlying deposits of phosphate ore. The plant Erigonum ovalifolium discloses the existence of silver ores in Montana. The calamine violet, which grows in Upper Silesia, Westphalia and Belgium, is a sign of the existence of calamine, the zinc ore, in the neighborhood.

Zangwill Tale Related by G. H. Burgin.

In his new book of memoirs, G. H. Burgin tells a good tale about Zangwill. It seems that the well-known novelist is not in the least sensitive with regard to his appearance. When he was staying in New York he received a letter saying that it was the writer's one wish in life to meet the great author. The man wrote so often that at last Zangwill consented to see him.

At the very chiming of the appointment hour there entered an enthusiastic German Jew, who talked and talked and talked, "till he most took root." Zangwill had many other appointments, and at last gently insinuated as much. Still the visitor did not depart. Even Zangwill's patience gave way. "I'm afraid I'm very busy. What can I do for you?" "Ah-h! You haf done for me. I haf seen you," was the unexpected reply.

How Verses Called "Limericks" Got Name.

The limerick is probably of English origin. Edward Lear, the writer of nonsense verse, is commonly credited with having first used the rigid verse form that later became so widely known; in fact, the form came into wide use as a medium of humorous expression chiefly because of Lear's great success with it.

A name was necessary, and at about this time—the middle of the Nineteenth Century — one of the songs in vogue, somewhat resembling in form the new five line verse, has as its refrain, "Will you come up to Limerick?"

The tradition is that by vague association with the popular song of the day, these new verses began to be called limericks. But this is mere tradition.

Cold Corn Beef

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Whenever possible save dishes by putting combinations on one platter or plate. Cold meat is always better when accompanied by a good salad or some appetizing relish.

Corn beef after being cooked should stand until cold in the water in which it is cooked. Remove from the water and press under a weight. Cut in thin slices and serve around a mold of jellied vegetables made as follows:

1 cup chopped cooked beets
1 cup thinly shaved cabbage
½ cup peas (canned or fresh cooked)
1 cup boiling water.
1 tablespoon of gelatine
½ cup cold water
1 tablespoon of vinegar
½ tablespoon of sugar.
½ teaspoon of salt
1-8 teaspoon of pepper

Soak the gelatine in the cold water. Add to boiling water with remaining seasonings. When cold and beginning to stiffen add the vegetables. Turn into mold which has been wet with cold water. Put in a cool place until time for serving. Unmold as directed above.

BRANTFORD HERE FOR SOCCER GAME

C.G.E. Footballers Will Meet the Massey-Harris Team at Riverside To-Morrow.

Tomorrow will be a big day for the local soccer fans, for the game at Riverside Park in the afternoon will decide whether or not the local C.G.E. players are to get a chance at the Plenty Cup emblematic of the amateur soccer championship of Ontario.

Their opponents will be the Massey-Harris team of Brantford, who carried off the honors in their home town and are now looking for other fields to conquer. It will be remembered that this team was the one to meet Peterborough last year, and they met a defeat on that occasion. They are now coming here with a determination to avenge the blot against their playing ability, but will find that they will have a hard job cut out for them, for the locals have been putting up a good brand of soccer during the summer and can show the best of them how to score. The C.G.E. players have been kept in constant practice and are now at the top of their form, every one of the eleven showing up well.

A., the group will comprise Peterborough, Lindsay Toronto and possibly Cobourg. The age limit of seventeen years will permit Lakeviews or Maple Leafs, the Juvenile finalists, to place a strong team in the championship race.

Heckman Pitched No Hit Game Against Oshawa

Petes' Ace Should Also Have Had a No-Run Game But His Team-Mates Went to Pieces in the Ninth — Score 4-2 For Petes.

ALTHOUGH weird fielding by his team mates deprived Al. Heckman of a shut-out yesterday, the Petes' ace entered the hall of baseball fame in the game against Oshawa, at Riverside Park, by failing to allow the motor town crew a safe hit. The final score was 4 to 2 in favour of the Petes, Oshawa getting two cheap couhters in the ninth innings on five misplays by the Solomon gang.

Not only did Heckman pitch a hitless game, but he failed to issue a pass, and so far as he was concerned not an Oshawa man should have reached the base lines.

Peterborough's outfielders had a bad day, five of the nine errors chalked up against the Petes being made by the gardeners, a quintette of misplays being charged in the final inning, when a dose of whitewash for Oshawa seemed certain.

In spite of the short notice, a big crowd turned out to see the old rivals meet, and until the Petes cut the ropes in the ninth, the home fans found the engagement very enjoyable. Heckman has rarely been in better form, and it was tough going that he could not have been credited with the shut-out he earned.

Features of the game were a one-handed running catch by Kirn off Rowden's fly to right, and some fine catching of foul flies by Swanston, who roamed over wide territory back of the plate to gather in three difficult chances. Holyman's timely hitting was another notable feature, the Petes' shortstop driving in three of the counters scored by the home talent.

Peterborough got away to an early start. Wolfe first up walked and Johnston sacrificed. Swanston drew a pass. Heckman rolled to Rowden, who forced Swanston at second. When Ovans threw to centre field trying to stop Heckman stealing, Wolfe scored. Holyman singled to right, scoring Heckman. Holyman stole second. Long rolled to Saunders.

The Solomon aggregation added another in the fifth. After Wolfe had fanned, Johnston poked a single past Saunders and was sacrificed to second by Swanston. Heckman walked. Holyman's fly to right, which Hall dropped, scored Johnston In an attempted double steal Heckman was thrown out at the plate.

The Petes made it 4 to 0 in the seventh. Wolfe was safe on Saunders' fumble and stole second. Johnston fanned. Swanston beat out a tap to third and Wolfe was out Pellow to Evans when he tried to score on the play. Fair made a fine step of Heckman's single down the third base line, but could not recover in time to make a perfect throw. Holyman burned a single through short, scoring Swanston Holyman tried to go to second on the play and Heckman was nailed between second and third for the third out.

Oshawa did not get a man to first at all until the fifth, when Rowden first up was safe on Bergoine's muff, and Saunders got a life when Long fumbled his roller. Heckman caused Gallagher and Hall to pop up easy flies and struck out Pellow. Paton was safe on Kirn's miss to open the sixth, but was tossed out in fine style by Swanston when he tried to steal. The next two were easy.

Saunders got on on Collins' fumble with two out in the seventh, but Gallagher's best was a high foul to Swanston.

The visitors went out in order in the eighth, and Legge, the first man up in the ninth struck out. Fair drove a fly to centre, and Wolfe, after a run, dropped the ball, a very unusual stunt for him. Fair reached second on the play. Then Holyman let Evans' roller get away, Fair scoring the first run and Evans reaching third on the shortstop's high throw to the plate. Rowden popped to Johnston for the second out, but Saunders hit a fly to Bergoine which got away from the left fielder, and Evans crossed the plate. Gallagher hit to right centre, Kirn dropping the fly after a run, and Gallagher was thrown out when he tried to reach second on the error.

A GOOD WORK-OUT FOR SOUTH ENDERS

A Well-Attended Rugby Practice Was Held Last Evening — Out Again Next Tuesday.

The South-End rugby team had a good turn out last evening at the Sacred Heart grounds and were put through a stiff work-out under the supervision of Coach Bill Meagher. With over twenty aspirants for the team, it looks as if this organization should have plenty of material to pick from and should put a strong aggregation of players on the field. The nex practice will be held Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at the same place, and any other rugby enthusiasts who wish to try out for the team will only have to be on the grounds to get an opportunity to show what they can do.

Among those who turned out yesterday were: L. Brown, B. Simms, L. LeBarr, J. Ashmore, H. Rudkins, W. Meagher, Jr., R. Picard, J. Corsey, I. Gordon, T. Gordon, W. Sanger, F. Collins, J. O'Toole, A. DARK HORSE MAY SHOW UP MONDAY

Petes Have Two Games Scheduled With Port Hope For Labor Day and Expect a Hard Battle.

The Petes are finishing up the season with a whirlwind of games. With a victory over Oshawa tucked under their belts yesterday, they will attempt to repeat the performance in Oshawa tomorrow and will follow this up with two games on Monday with Port Hope. This makes a strenuous week for Al. Heckman, slated to do the mound work on all four occasions. Al.'s no-hit game yesterday was a sample of what he can do and showed conclusively that he is just about the best twirler in the league.

He will take on the Port Hope aggregation on Monday morning for a league game at 10.30 o'clock, and Finnigan Hills and company will have the battle of their lives if they are to come up at all from their lowly position at the bottom of the league.

This game will be followed by an exhibition affair in the afternoon, and it is expected that the visitors will have one or two players to augment their line-up who do not appear in their regular batting order. This may mean that the second game will be a tough one for the locals, for there is no telling just who the Port Hopers may have in hiding as a dark horse to be sprung on the unsuspecting Petes at the last moment. At any rate, "Jake" is looking for a hard battle and laying his plans accordingly, so that a fast game is assured.

The second game will start at 2.15 o'clock, and on this occasion Alex Kay will officiate behind the plate.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil).

In the long run it is best to try to get out of the bunker with the niblick. Many a stroke has been lost by trying to get too much distance. It is a question for the judgment of the player. However, circumstances must dictate the action. The greatest trouble in a bunker shot is that the sand flies up into your eyes making you dizzy, and you quit on your stroke. Never quit. In the fairway you must be careful not to drag on your shot, and you must take turf.

Francis Ouimet, the Boston amateur star, has been playing tip-top golf in Massachusetts this summer, and is coming on with his best game at this year's National Amateur championship in Boston, 2nd to 9th September. Ouimet has attained perfection with all his clubs, from driver to niblick, which is the aim of all golfers—making golf interesting to so many thousands. This finish of his drive shows the finest of form. The player who follows these articles sould strive for the ease Ouimet shows. Above all else, avoid conscious effort, or "pressing" in the golf shot.

Capitol Entertainment

The Capitol was well filled last night and the feature picture with Pauline Frederick in "Two Kinds of Women" is one of the best seen at the Capitol in some time. It has plenty of action and all sorts of thrills.

Anyone at all familiar with moving pictures knows the highlights of that career; knows how Miss Frederick has established herself as the greatest emotional actress in films; knows that for sheer dramatic ability and human appeal she is not excelled on the stage or screen.

But in this photodrama, which is a screen adaptation of Jackson Gregory's famous book, "Judith of Blue Lake Ranch," one sees a different Pauline Frederick, a girl in whose character cuture and delicate refinement are blended with the fiery, conrageous independence of a hardy woman of the frontier. Miss Frederick as Judith Sanford, a city reared girl from whom higher education has not taken the dauntless spirit of her pioneering father, gives an amazing revelation of her adaptability to almost any kind of character delineation.

Miss Frederick rides a bucking horse without being a tomboy. She manages a big business enterprise and does a man's work without losing any of the sweet womanliness that has endeared her to the motion picture public. The part of Judith portrayed by anyone of less ability would fall flat. As it is, Miss Frederick is revealed in a new light—if that were possible after her long list of previous screen successes. "Two Kinds of Women" is a swiftly moving drama that makes one want to seek surcease from the noise and bustle of the city in the beauty and grandeaur of the California Sierras, where much of the picture was filmed. The majesty of the mountains and sheltered valleys, the wholesomeness of this outdoor story, is like a breath of fresh air in a stifling room. There is not a dull moment in the entire production. But analysis of the picture's appeal is hardly necessary.

There is also a very funny comedy entitled "Soving Sister Susie," a Snub Pollard comedy and a Pathe Review.

AT THE GRAND.

On Monday next (matinee) the popular Grand Opera House will re-open its doors for the regular theatrical season with an offering worthy of the occasion when Evans Musical Revue a company of 25 people coming here direct from a summer season of 10 weeks in Boston Mass. The reputation of this well known attraction is phenomenal in the Eastern States and the Maritime Provinces of Canada, and this is their first venture in Ontario.

Mr. Evans is a comedian of the highest repute in New York and Boston, and has surrounded himself with a excellent company of high class entertainers, with a picked chorus of 10 of the very best dancers and singers on the revue stage today. The particular style of show offered by these revue companies is so entirely different that it is hard to describe, and the best idea we can give our patrons is that it is a little bit of everything.

The comedy is rich in dialogue and the most refined sort that cannot but be enjoyed by everyone, the singing and dancing and harmony numbers are real gems. One of the outstanding features of the Evans' Revue, is the elaborate stage effects and scenery, while the costuming of the production is said to be particularly gorgeous, and are all entirely different for each revue. The opening production is entitled "Miss Manhattan' while on Thursday night the elaborate Oriental tid-bit is entitled "A Night in Chinatown". Popular pre-war prices in which a real $2.00 attraction is offered af 20, 03, 50 and 75 cents should be the cause of capacity business during their engagmet. Seats are now selling fast, and as Monday is a Holiday would advise all securing seats as early as possible.

AT THE ROYAL.

WILLIAM RUSSELL IN WALL STREET ROMANCE

In "Money to Burn," the Fox picture in which William Russel opened yesterday at the Royal Theatre, this rugged and popular star once more gets away from Western hills and ranches, and is found in a Wall street office, in the role of a young speculator whom fortune favors at every turn, despite any invitation his adventurous spirit gives for a wallop at his bank account. The story is a fascinating one, as every one will recognize who has read Sewell Ford's "Cherub Divine," on which the picture is based. The love theme is mostly cleverly developed, and the photoplay should prove an unequivocal success on the local screen.

Sylvia Breamer, an excellent actress of very attractive personality, is Russell's leading woman and Hallam Cooley, long a favorite in Fox pictures, also is in the cast.

The story opens in New York's financial district, with the young financier suffering from ennui, and is suddenly transferred to an estate on Long Island which he has just bought "for the fun of the thing," and which he now visits to look over his purchase. There he finds a charming girl grieving over the prospect of being forced out of her childhood home because of her father's misfortunes.

At this point the romance of the story is born, and it moves forward with speed—as does everything he touches—and is well sprinkled with delightful comedy.

Also Fox comedy, Al. St John in 'Special Delivery." Fox News, Mutt and Jeff, Larry Semon in "A Pair of Kings."

The following letter has been received in reply to one published yesterday, and speaks for itself:

Sports Editor, Examiner.

In reply to J. Clark's letter in last night's edition, it appears to be a vain effort to raise public sympathy. These cup ties are arranged by the Board of Directors of the P. & D. F. A., not by ballot or individual clubs. Secondly, the Comrades F. C. did not insist on the game taking place on Monday. The C.P.C. representative was asked if he could find a suitable date to play this fixture. This he could not do. so the directors came to the decision that the game must stay as arranged.

The Comrades are ready to meet the C.P.C. any old time. They don't want games by default, only they are sports enough to abide by the P. & D. F. A. decision.

OIL NEWS.

There is a great deal of activity on the properties of the Hyde Production Co., in Texas, in which a number of Peterboro people are interested. The following wire from the field will give an idea as to the operations under way

Drilling on Gibson No. 2 on Tuesday. Rigging up on Kittrell No. 1. on Leggitt No. 4. Building derrick on Wisdom this week. Gibson No. 1 showing about the same. Leggitt No. 2 pumping better than one hundred barrels per day. Leggett No. 3 rigging to pump production the same. George Hyde, president of the company, an experienced oil man, and very conservative, is quite enthusiastic over this field.

ALBERTA HARVEST PROGRESSING WELL.

CALGARY, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press)—No rain has been reported from any part of the province for several days and everywhere harvesting is progressing. This is the news which the Canadian Pacific Railway received yesterday from its agents throughout Alberta. Threshing is beginning in some parts, but is not yet very general. Threshing gangs are reported moving into the field, however, and lining up their season's business.

A very pretty wedding took place at Mark Street Methodist Parsonage on the afternoon of Wednesday last, when Mr. Alexander Nelson Sage, of this city, was united in marriage to Miss Edna Mabel Evelyn Stewart, of Peterborough.
The groom was ably supported by Mr. Richard N. Stewart, brother of the bride, while the latter was attended by Miss Esther A. Sage, sister of the groom.
The young people are well-known, and are held in highest esteem by the whole community. A large circle of friends and acquaintances join in wishing them every blessing for a happy future.

SOWARD—MINTO.
A pretty wedding took place at 330 Shaw Street, Toronto, on Wednesday, August 30, when Catherine Dey, daughter of Mrs. William Minto, was married to Mr. Frederick H. Soward, of 54 Wells Street, Toronto, Rev. Canon Skey officiating. The bride, who was given away by her eldest brother, Mr. Alex. Minto, looked charming in a gown of ivory Duchess satin, with veil of old Limerick lace, caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses, lily of the valley and maiden-hair fern. Miss Betty Minto, who acted as bridesmaid, wore a pretty frock of shell pink crepe de chine with picture hat to match, and carried Ophelia roses and sweet peas. Mr. H. G. Stapells supported the groom and Mr. Wm. Manson played the wedding music. A reception was held after the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Soward left for their home in Vancouver, where Mr. Soward has an appointment on the staff of the University of British Columbia. The bride travelled in a costume of tete de nyre Canton crepe, with shoes, hat and wrap to match.

OBITUARY

MRS. ISABELLA HAULTAIN.
This morning the death occurred in Toronto of Mrs. Isabella Haultain, aged 88 years. Deceased was well known in Peterborough, where she resided for many years and was a widow of the late Major-General F. M. Haultain. She was born in India and was a daughter of E. B. Thomas of the Indian Civil Service. In 1873 General Haultain returned from India and after two years spent in England came to Peterborough with Mrs. Haultain and family of three sons and one daughter. The General died in Peterborough in 1904 and Mrs. Haultain continued to reside here until twelve years ago when she removed to Toronto. Mrs. Haultain is survived by two sons, Arnold now in London, England, and Herbert of Toronto.
The funeral will take place on the arrival of the C.P.R. noon train on Sunday to the chapel at the Little Lake cemetery. Interment on Monday. Rev. W. Harold Young will conduct the service in the absence of Rev. Robert Pogue.

FRENCH REPLY TO BALFOUR'S LATEST NOTE

The Government's Official Note-Writer Still on the Job—Newspaper Comment.

MAKE GERMANS PAY

LONDON, Sept. 2.— (Canadian Press.)—French reply to the Balfour note reached London so late last night that only a few of the morning newspapers find the opportunity to comment upon it.

"We gladly recognize," says the Times, "that the reply indicates fresh movement in the French mind in a genuinely constructive direction, and this movement must be warmly encouraged on the British side.

Real difficulty of French position must be fully recognized and British government, instead of thwarting cooperation by such measures as the Balfour note and maintaining a negative atttiude in relfion to reparations, must set itself firmly to make Germany pay what she can pay.

GOVERNMENT PROPOSALS.

LONDON, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—Criticising the government's proposals for dealing with unemployment, Labor party has put forth a programme which suggests steps to check the flow of juveniles in the labor market; forty-four hour week; five year programme of house-building; increase road making and repairing; re-organize land cultivation, and putting into effect railway and waterway repairs that are overdue.

DECLARES WINTER WILL BRING RUIN TO GERMANY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. J. F. Coar, professor of political economy at the University of Alberta, returning from Europe yesterday, declared that the winter would bring an utter financial crash of Germany. Hugo Stinnes, Siemens, Deutseh, Duisberg and other capitalists and manufacturers were hopeless, he said, and Germany, with factories humming and her products selling abroad at low prices, was slowly bleeding to death. The moratorium would give no help; it might stabilize the mark, but when the latter went back to its proper place, sales abroad at bargain prices would be over and twelve million Germans would be unemployed.

HOUSES STILL NECESSARY IN THE OLD LAND

Sixty Per Cent. of the Population of Glasgow Are Housed in Not More Than Two Rooms.

ELECTION THUNDER

LONDON, September 2 (Canadian Press). — "Making the country fit for heroes to lve in" is a phrase of Premier Lloyd-George's, made during the last election, which has been hurled back at him as frequently as any of his catchy sentences.

Sir Charles Ruthven, Director of Housing for the Ministry of Health, in an endeavour, apparently, to justify the Government's housing achievements, announces that since April, 1921, 107,000 houses have been built and tenanted. This output, he declares, is the largest ever known in a similar period in the country's history.

This may be so, but what the Government promised was 500,000 houses in three years, whereas only 176,000 have been built in four years.

The medical officer of health for Glasgow reports that over 60 per cent. of the populaton of that city are housed in not more than two rooms per family, quite irrespective of the size of the families. Glasgow was grossly overcrowded long before the war, but it is worth noting that its death-rate at present is one of the lowest ever known there.

JIMMIE EVANS TO BE HERE MONDAY

A Musical Revue Will Open in the Grand on Monday.

Two large audiences, afternoon and evening, witnessed one of the best popular priced musical shows at the Colonial Theatre yesterday that has played here for several years when Jimmie Evans and his musical revue opened a week's engagement.

The show was an exceptionally clean one, with plenty of good singing, dancing and comedy. Mr. Evans has surrounded himself with singers of real merit who are away ahead of the ordinary show of this kind, in fact every member of the company had a good singing voice. The show was interspersed with several fine specialties, one noteworthy being that of the youngest female member whose violin and vocal selections made the hit of the evening.

Mr. Evans in the Irish comedian role kept his audience in an uproar, and by the way he has a splendid tenor voice. The dancing and costumes were both far above the average and the clean comedy that trickled through the revue was all that could be desired.

The show was indeed a wholesome surprise and one that the theatre goers will be quick to appreciate.

The revue, which will be here the rest of the week with a change of bill Wednesday and Friday, deserve, and undoubtedly will get, the patronage of the Portsmouth theatre-goers.

A Local Admirer of John Gilpin Issues Forth With a Suggestion

Would Like to Have His Hero Dissected in the Pulpit—Approves of Series of Sermons Preached by Rev. Harold Young on "Whose Name Was John"

Editor, The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I am glad, with your kind consent, to take of space to express in print, approval of the series of Sunday evening addresses concerning several "Whose name was John," as made by the pastor of George Street Church to the congregation of that church and of St. Paul's during the interval of pulpit vacation.

Possibly the old English word of discourse might apply. The selection made to be the subject of comment was confined to too few. But those so treated were most acceptable. The historical incidents related, the analysis of character and traits illuminative, the deeds and doings, and where applicable, the unflagging energy in ministration bounded by no national confines, was all broadly informative, and to the man in the pew most interesting.

Many will agree—indeed affirm—that it is quite within the province of the pulpit to discuss and draw lessons and inspiration for all from the lives of men, notable in the field of religion, in science or letters, and in public life as well.

Leaving service at St. Paul's the evening when John Wesley had been the theme, a friend said that he had read carefully the life-story of the eminent and accredited head of the Methodist denomination, but had gathered more of insight and information both as to personal characteristics and the events of his life by listening to the able analysis as set out by Rev. Mr. Young. I am sure that the impression of having shared in a helpful hour remained with many as it did with myself.

But may I make suggestion? That among the innumerable Johns who have furnished material to adorn the pages of action, history and narrative is one, John Gilpin. Most worthy of being recalled. As we have been advised, a citizen of credit and renown, and captain of a training band in famous London Town. In short, in the militia of those days. The source of inspiration for a poem-relation that has lived, and which we all read in and learned from the old Third Reader. John Gilpin was a man of parts. And a model husband in the matter of marital obedience. For is it not set out when the law was laid down for him:

"My sister and my sister's child,
Myself and children three,
Will fill the chaise, so you must ride
On horseback after we."

Now John admitted, in effect, that he was no great shakes of a horseman, but that he would try anything once. The conveyance was a untutored nag. And in the carrying of certain drinkables John committed the blunder of dangling glass bottles of beer from his manly waist. The horse, under boisterous public approval and urging, exceeded the speed limit, we are advised, and disaster overtook the package freight. Might we not have great truths set out and lessons drawn, to guide us, and especially the transportation end of the country. In diligence, carefulness and real concern for the safety of goods and chattels, to say nothing of human beings committed to its care. — Yours anxiously,

Francis Hincks.

GRAPES REACH LOCAL STORES

Prices Lower Than Last Year--Tomatoes Plentiful--"Hands Off" Signs Posted.

The first shipment of blue grapes have arrived in the city and are selling in the stores at 60c a small basket. This, however, is a price considerably lower than the opening last year when they sold at 90c, and the price will not be long in working down to 25c.

The fruit stores are jammed full of fruits and vegetables and space is at a premium. Again, at this time of year the proprietors are called upon to suffer heavy loss through the thoughtless habit of customers picking over fruit. One dealer on Charlotte street has tired of meekly giving in to having his goods mauled over and has posted signs in conspicuous places with the warning "Keep hands off the fruit!" set forth in big type. This man claimed that he has lost baskets of peaches through the wanton habit of persons pinching the fruit to see if it is ripe, when from appearances it is obviously so.

seeing it at all, but some people not seeing it at all, but som people not only want to see everything but feel the stuff as well," declared this fruit man." I think these signs are all right," he said, standing off and gazing at the cardboard signs, as a great master might gaze upon the product of his brush. At any rate he says that the signs are having an effect.

There has been a brisk movement in peaches due to the reduction in prices over recent years. Large oepn baskets are selling at $1, and smaller ones all the way down to 60c. Pears are freely offered at 75c a basket up. A stiff market is prevailing in oranges and grapefruit, and cantaloupes are high. Fruit men say they can hardly give tomatoes away but the demand for fresh stuff like celery is good.

Another Attempt to Rescue the Miners

JACKSON, Calif., September 2 (Canadian Press). — Another attempt to construct a platform for heroes to live in" is a phrase of to-day in an effort to establish an air relay from the adjacent Kennedy workings to the Argonaut Gold Mine to aid in the rescue work and to force fresh air into the lower levels of the Argonaut, where 47 men have been entombed since Sunday at midnight.

While there was no let-up in the rescue efforts, it is generally believed that the imprisoned miners have perished.

COTTAGERS AT LAKES SHOULD POLICE HOMES

Enough Property at Stake to Justify the Employment of a Caretaker—Police Would Co-operate

LOSSES ARE HEAVY

In view of the extent of the vandalism at the cottages of summer residents in the Kawartha Lakes district, Police Chief S. Newhall suggests that the cottagers engage an officer to patrol this district in the same way as the policeman in the city watches his beat. A capable man he suggests could be engaged as watchman. This year some thousands of dollars worth of goods were stolen or destroyed beyond redemption and the value of the goods lost would justify having a caretaker on the job all the time. However, as pointed out, an efficient man could also be on the watch for fires and would have such a knowledge of the waters that he would be able to give expert advise to summer visitors in regard to the channels.

Would Co-Operate.

The importance of the matter has been brought home to Chief Newhall who has this year made more than one trip into the north country in connection with the cottage burglaries. If an officer were properly equipped with a boat an efficient jurisdiction over a wide territory could be easily maintained. Such an official would be sworn in as constable and he would be able to cooperate with the local and provincial police. On the other hand if he desired assistance such cooperation would be forthcoming and the hundreds of cottagers who place a value beyond dollars upon their summer places, would be able to rest secure in the knowledge that all was well at the lakes. In the winter time the officer could make his rounds of the cottages on skates or snowshoes. That the various cottagers' associations should take some action at once to ensure protection this autumn and winter is the counsel of the Police Chief and his advice is supported by Inspector A. Boyd of the Department of Criminal Investigation, Toronto, who has played an important part in rounding up the Indians and others who pleaded guilty to entering many summer homes.

Lower Death Rate During the Month

During August the death-rate in the city was lower than in June or July of this year, or in August last year.

There were six more brides led to the altar than in the previous month, but a decided falling off in the number of births.

The statistics are:

	Births	Mar.	Deaths
August, 1922,	45	16	25
July, 1922	54	10	33
August, 1921	57	16	32

A PRESENTATION TO MISS TRANTER

Bride-to-Be Honored by Her Sunday School Friends.

A very interesting event took place at the home of Mrs. James Tranted, Chamberlain street west when a committee representing the Park Street Baptist Sunday School Teachers and Officers, waited on Miss Lillin Tranter (a bride to be) and Mr. O. S. Matchett read the folowing illuminated address and at the proper moment Mr. Neal Porter presented her with a beautiful cut glass fern casserole.

Miss Lillian Tranter, City.

Dear Miss Tranter—It is with deep regret that we have learned of your early removal from amongst us, and we cannot let the ocassion pass without in some way showing to you our deep appreciation of your work as a teacher in our Sundy School and other church work.

SPLENDID EXHIBITION OF SWIMMING AT "Y"

Prizes Presented Successful Girl Contestants at Year's Meets.

A very good attendance of visitors thoroughly enjoyed the excellent exhibition of swimming by girls at the local Y.W.C.A. last evening.

E. B. Fowler officiated as chairman of the interest-holding programme. He spoke appreciately of the work being done, and results accomplished by this commendable institution, and heartily congratulated Miss Smellie, the swimming instructress, on the remarkable success attained by her pupils. Mrs. Gardener also conveyed to Miss Smellie the board's appreciation of and thanks for her efforts during the summer, and she was presented by her pupils and swimmers with a handsome silk umbrella, together with a box of delectable candies. At this juncture a unique and amusing feature of the proceedings was when the little Misses Dunlop made Miss Smellie the gift of a bouquet of roses, little Margaret swimming across the tank on her back, carrying this beautiful testimony of she and her sister's admiration for their painstaking instructress.

Mrs. Gardener here presented prizes to the successful swimming contestants; they consisted of sterling silver spoons awarded by Mrs. (Dr.) Harvey to those earning the highest number of points at the swimming meets during the year. The winners were: Ruth Sutton, 70 points; Matilda Dunlop, 60 points; A. Morrison, 56 points; and M. Dunlop, 46 points.

PERMANENT CLERK FOR THE ASSESSOR

Engagement Authorized by Finance Committee

City Assessor Henry's request for a permanent clerk was approved by the Finance Committee last night and will be recommended to the council. In urging this change he said that temporary clerks appointed from time to time impede the work of his department until they are taught their duties, and then when they become helpful they have to be dismissed after eight or nine months, when the rush of business is over.

Got Proof of It.

"Have you ever taken a flyer in the market?"

"Yes," replied the rueful citizen; "that's where I learned that riches have wings."—Boston Transcript.

PRICES LOWER AT THE CLOSE LOCAL MARKET

TODAY'S PRICES

The farmers' market was again impressive to-day in the amount of produce offered for sale, and there was such an abundance that prices tumbled towards the close, and stuff sold much lower than at first. The waggons and cars were packed closely together, and in the basket market the congestion was as apparent.

Potatoes were exceedingly plentiful, and those who got one dollar for them were fortunate. Onions wer more apparent, and went at 50 and 60 cents a basket, beets at 50 cents or by the bunch, 5 cents. Lettuce, radishes, parsley, etc., was 5 cents a bunch, and cabbages and cauliflower were in every cart nearly at 5 and 10 cents. One gardener asked to have the fact reported that he had Chinese cabbage for sale at 10 cents.

Pickling onions sold at 25 cents a quart, and cucumbers at various prices around 50 cents a basket. Gherkins of the cucumber family were a novelty sold by one gardener at 40 cents a basket.

Tomatoes were down to 20 cents a basket, although many asked 25 cents, and by the bushel they sold at 75 cents. The crop is an immense one, the truck gardeners say, and it is hard to sell all of them. Some of them lament loudly that there is no cannery here to take the supply.

St. Lawrence apples made an opening at 25 and 30 cents a peck, and the last offering of Duchess was made at 20 cents. According to fruit growers there will not likely be many Duchess next week, but St. Lawrence are coming on nicely. All apples are plentiful like other varieties of fruit.

Plums sold at 10 cents a quart, and ther were generous quantities of pears selling at 75 cents a peck, or 25 cents a small measure.

Eggs were not able to meet the demand, and by 11.30 there was not a basket in the upstairs market. They opened around 25 cents, and went to 28 cents.

Butter was down to 37 cents and fowl was more freely offered. This year's birds sold as low as 25 cents, and at the close ducks were selling at 25 cents, although early in the morning the farmers' wives would not take this price.

The busy auctioneer had to fight to hold the crowd to-day, for a ventriloquist, who stood on top of a buggy, proved to be a big opposition. Between the auctioneer and the ventriloquist, there was no dearth of attractions on the square.

ALL-IRISH CONFERENCE WOULD BE FRUITLESS.

DUBLIN, Sept. 2 — (Canadian Press)—An all-Ireland conference in an endeavor to bring about peace, as suggested recently by Rotcommon County Council, could not hope to at the present time, in the opinion of Commandant General Brennan, of the National Army. As chairman of Clare County Council, he has issued the following reply to an invitation to participate:

"I am firmly convinced that there is no hope for peace in Ireland until the will of the people is accepted by everybody as the first court of appeal in all matters concerning the nation, and not gun and bomb. The Government is the people's and we stand by the Government in its efforts to bring peace and order to our country."

NO COAL, NO WORK.

SAULT STE. MARIE, September 2 (Canadian Press). — The plant of the Algoma Steel Corporation here closed down to-day for an indefinite period because of the coal shortage. Fifteen hundred workers will be thrown out of employment.

CLERGYMAN MAY GET LIFE SENTENCE.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., September 2 (Canadian Press). — A verdict of guilty of first degree murder, with a recommendation for a sentence of life imprisonment, was returned last night by the jury in the trial of Herbert Wilson, former clergyman, for the murder of Herbert R. Cox.

STEEL WAGE INCREASES.

SYDNEY, N.S., September 2 (Canadian Press). — Wage increases running from 10 to 15 per cent., and affecting al classes of workers at the Sydney steel plant, were announced last night by General Manager E. P. Merrill, of the British Steel Corporation.

Today's Blunder Corrected

BY ARTHUR C. LUEDER
Postmaster, Chicago, Illinois.

Postal regulations require that the enclosures of window envelopes must be folded so that they will not shift around, obscuring all or a part of the address. It is also required that the return address in the upper left corner must include the street address of post office box number of the sender. Much annoyance results when window envelopes do not conform to these requirements.

France Wants Conference To Consider All War Debts

Note to Great Britain Points Out the Necessity For a Conference at Which All Nations Would Be Represented.

TO CANCEL DEBTS.

PARIS, September 2. Canadian Press. — The French Government in reply to the recent circular note sent out by the Earl of Balfour, as acting secretary for foreign affairs, dealing with an international cancellation of inter-allied indebtedness and a reduction in German reparations, points out the necessity of a conference for general consideration of war debts, at which will be represented all nations, without exception, interested in the settlement of such obligations.

Until such conferences is held, France it is declared in the note forwarded to the British Government last night will be unable to give definite indications to the creditor powers as to the payment of the debts she contracted during the war.

The note which is signed by Premier Poincare, draws a distinction between the debt to Great Britain, and that owed to the United States. After explaining that part of the debt to the United States was contracted after the armistice through the purchase of surplus war stocks, and therefore regarded as a purely commercial transaction, the Premier continues:

"Without doubt, for the remainder of the debt to America, the same reasoning applies as for the other war obligations of France. But it cannot be forgotten nevertheless that the United States entered the war without her existence being directly menaced, to defend with her honor the principles upon which civilization is based, while Great Britain,like France, fought to safeguard not only the independence of her territory but the property and the means of existence of her people."

The note declares that the reparations problem can never be permanently disposed of until there is agreement of war debts and without mentioning the United States specifically in this connection, plainly indicates that the United States should participate in a general understanding. France was only prevented from initiating such an agreement, it is added, by the publication of the Balfour note.

The war debts were not contracted for the profit of separate nations but in the common cause of liberty, the note continues, and from the point of view of morality, general cancellation is quite justified. On the other hand the German indemnity is placed in a totally different category, since it was imposed for destruction caused by Germany, for the most part unwarranted, and France was forced to make heavy advances for the reconstruction of her devastated regions.

Finally it is declared impossible for France to discuss payment to those countries she owes unless she is paid directly by Germany or through some other means.

VALUABLE CROPS AND BARN FELL VICTIM TO THE FLAMES

Spontaneous Combustion Believed to Be Responsible For Disaster at Downer's Corners Last Evening.

NO INSURANCE.

A large and well built barn at Downer's Corners, owned by William Roberts and leased by William Withers, was totally destroyed by fire last evening, together with the greater part of Mr. Wither's crop for the season and some valuable stock.

The conflagration was discovered by Mr. Withers at about 9.30. He had finished the work about the farm for the night about an hour previous, and was sitting outside the house resting when he noticed a tongue of flame burst out near the centre of the roof. He immediately rushed to the barn, which is some distance from the house, and on arriving there found the whole inside a mass of flames. He managed to reach a valuable team of horses which were stabled in one part of the barn and turned them loose. They escaped up the road, but they were the only things he was able to save, with the exception of a couple of wagons which were standing outside the building.

His stock which perished in the flames included ten pigs, two calves, a dog and two pups. Mr. Withers made a desperate effort to save these animals, but the flames had spread with such surprising rapidity that he was unable to reach them.

His entire season's crop of hay, together with a large part of his grain crop, also fell to the flames, and none of his loss is covered by insurance. Speaking to a representative of the Examiner last evening, Mr. Withers said: "It was only yesterday I was saying I would have to take out some insurance in case anything happened, but I put it off until too late." No accurate estimate could be made of the loss last evening, but it will run into several thousands of dollars.

The Fire Department was notified of the conflagration by 'phone and immediately responded, but before they could arrive on the scene the entire building was a mass of flames both inside and out and was past saving. As the barn stood well off by itself and there were no houses in the immediate vicinity to be endangered by the flames, it was seen that the Fire Department could do nothing, and they were sent back to their quarters.

The fire apparatus experienced great difficulty in returning from the fire, for every road leading to the scene of disaster was blocked tight with automobiles from the city, and it took the combined efforts of both the Police and the Fire Departments about twenty minutes to clear a way for the apparatus.

As there was no wind the flames carried straight up and could be seen from all parts of the city. As a result, hundreds of persons rushed to the scene by auto, jamming the roads so that nothing could get by, and if a fire had broken out in another part of the city at the time the Fire Department would have been absolutely helpless to do anything to stop the course of the flames.

It is thought that the fire started by spontaneous combustion, for the building was packed to the eaves with hay and grain, and it would have been practically impossible for anyone to have set the fire in the position in which the blaze was first seen, for it broke out near the middle and almost at the top of the roof. The dry hay and grain burned like so much tinder, and within a very few minutes of the time the fire was discovered it had enveloped the entire building. The combustion proceeded with such rapidity that the roof fell in within fifteen minutes of the time the alarm was given.

The building stood just within the city limits, but was in an isolated position, and there are no fire hydrants anywhere in the vicinity. If there had been any danger of the flames spreading it would have been necessary to pump water from the river, some little distance away.

WORRIED WOMEN NEED RICH BLOOD

If the Blood is Not Kept Pure Health Will Break Down.

It is useless to tell a hard working woman to take life easily and not to worry. To do so is to ask the almost impossible. But, at the same time, it is the duty of every woman to save her strength to meet any unusual demands. It is a duty she owes herself and family, for her future health may depend upon it.

To guard against a complete breakdown in health the blood must be kept rich, red and pure. No other medicine does this so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This medicine strengthens the nerves, restores the appetite and keeps every organ healthily toned up. Women cannot always rest when they should, but they can keep their strength by the occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among those who have found benefit from this medicine is Mrs. Cora Conrad, Broad Cove, N.S., who says: "My system was very much run down, and my blood poor and watery. I suffered a great deal from headaches and dizziness; my appetite was poor, and I tired easily. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and have every reason to be glad that I did so. Soon I felt better, and under the continued use of the pills the headaches and dizziness were gone, and my blood seemed in a better condition than before. For this reason I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ABANDONMENT OF RAILROAD IS RECOMMENDED

J. B. Sullivan Says Railway Will Cost British Columbia Two Million Dollars a Year.

FOR TEN YEARS.

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press)—Unless the people of British Columbia are prepared to continue paying from two million to two and a half million dollars a year for ten years on the investment already made in the Pacific Great Eastern Railwy, the whole system should be abandoned. J. B. Sullivan, asserts in his report to the provincial government.

Mr. Sullivan strongly advises against extension of the line and urges abandonmet of the section from Quesnel to Prince George. Under no circumstances he stated, should the line be built nor of the Grand Trunk Pacific at Prince George, nor should the line be terminus in Vancouver.

built from Squamish, its present

He recommended abandonment of the line from Clinton to Squamish a stretch of 166 miles and using salvage money to build a link between Clinton and Ashcroft. The posibility of selling the southern section to lumber operators, however, is suggested.

Mr. Sullivan dismisses the possibility of handing the road over to a private concern as impracticable. None of the large privately-owned companies would take it, he said.

He recomends that the government do as hundreds of other small railroads are doing—abandon the operation of steam trains for passenger and express business and replace them by gas driven motor cars.

Other recommendations made by Mr. Sullivan were cancellation of mail contracts on that section of the line where snow trouble occurs in the winter; freight trains must be operated only when sufficient business offers; passenger and freight rates must be raised to all the traffic will bear.

The report shows that the railway from Squamish to Prince George measures four hundred and six miles and all but 45 miles has been completed.

W. P. Hinton and Col. J. S. Dennis, who also made an exhaustive investigation of the railway, made reports for the government which, in the main, agree with Mr. Sullivan's recommendations.

Twenty-five Hundred Barrels of Real Beer Seized by Government

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press.—Twenty-five hundred barrels of real beer valued at $62,500 have been seized by the Saskatchewas Liquor Commission since the first of the year, according to figures given out yesterday.

Most of the beer was captured by enforcement officers in August, it is stated, officials referring to the period as the beer month.

The 2,500 barrels or 37,000 gallons do not include small seizures from soft drink vendors. All the beer has been destroyed and the sale of the bottles recoups the commission for the work of destruction.

TRADE CONDITIONS NOT UNFAVORABLE

Little Unemployment in Eastern Canada

WINNIPEG, Man., Sep. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—The Canadian Creditmen's Trust Association's weekly trade report is briefly to the effect that general conditions are not unfavorable

One good feature in the extreme east is that around Halifax there is very little unemployment. In Quebec and Ontario, manufacturers and wholesalers are finding a slightly increased business though as regards the retail is a little on the slow side but the expectation is that with the end of the holiday season approaching that retail conditions will be better.

As for the provinces west of the lakes, the past week there seems to have been some little easing off in shipments amougst the wholesalers. Retail business, in some lines is a little better than formerly but in others it is quiet.

Money is moving a 'ittle more freely in the east than it is in the west.

Just now one's eyes are turned on the western crop and as the weather has been fairly good this past week, the farmers have been busy.

WEST IS SELLING MORE GRAIN THIS YEAR THAN LAST

An Increase of Fifteen Per Cent. Is Noted Over Sales of Last Year at This Time

GRAIN MOVES FAST.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—An increase of 15 per cent. in the quantity of grain marketed by farmers adjacent to the Canadian Pacific lines in Western Canada, during the last ten days of August over the quantity marketed during the corresponding period last year was reported by local offices of the railway yesterday. From August 22 to 31 this season there were 4,660,975 bushels marketed as compared with 3,955,185 in 1921. This average of 518,888 bushels per day as against 439,465 bushels last year.

Loadings also show an increase over last season. Cars loaded totalled 2,887 or more than 321 per day as compared with 2,621 cars or 280 a day in 1921.

During the past week grain has been moving through Winnipeg at the record rate of 1,205,710 bushels per day, the Canadian Pacific and National railways between them handling in seven days, the enormous total of 8,446,975 bushels.

Approximately 75 percent. of the marketing and loading was in Manitoba. The amount of grain handled daily is increasing rapidly, however, in each province.

The Canadian Natfonal lines handled 3,780,000 bushels conveyed in 2,708 cars during the last ten days of August.

ESTIMATE BIG YIELD

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press)—Exceeding all previous figures of various authoritative bodies this year, the Manitoba Free Press in its nineteenth annual crop estimate for the three prairie provinces, published this morning, estimates the wheat yield this year at 371,910,000 bushels from a total acreage of 21,471,000 acres.

WOOD CUTTING.

Several Ontario cities are endeavoring to solve the fuel problem, and to some extent the unemployment problem at the same time, by engaging in wood cutting operations. A proposal that Peterborough should adopt such a plan was dropped some time ago owing to the difficulty of locating a suitable wood lot. The danger of a fuel famine did not at that time enter into the case, but now that it is evident that a reserve supply of hardwood may be of decided use in the emergency, another effort should be made to secure a wood lot from which supplies of fuel could be attained and employment given to a large number of those who may find themselves without work when the winter comes. This is a matter that should not be taken up half-heartedly, for the time is short, and immediate action is necessary if definite results are to be obtained. Other cities do not seem to have found it impossible to secure wood, and Peterborough should not abandon the idea without a serious attempt to solve the problem.

THE HARRIERS' CLUB.

The formation of a Harriers' Club in Peterborough is an important development in sporting circles, and thanks are due to Mr. Charles Thorpe for the interest he has taken, and is continuing to take, in this healthful pastime. The long distance running game, if it is taken in moderation, and the participants are trained according to proper methods, develops endurance and stamina in those who take part, and it has the advantages over other sports, that it does not require any expensive or elaborate equipment, so that its benefits are within the reach of everybody. Mr. Thorpe can be counted upon to see that the members of the local club have the benefit of intelligent coaching, and the new organization promises to be a great success. The Harriers should produce some dangerous candidates for the Examiner road races which will be held on Thanksgiving Day. Runners should lose no time in identifying themselves with the Harriers so that they can get full advantage of the training that will be done.

THE PORT HOPE-PETERBOROUGH ROAD.

Many nice things were said at Springville the other day in connection with the formal opening of the Provincial Highway from Port Hope to Peterborough about the splendid road that is being constructed and the compliments on the whole are deserved. Some people venture to declare that the cost of the work is too high; it is possible that such may be the case, but the work is evidently being thoroughly done, the road has been widened, dangerous curves have been eliminated so far as possible, and grades have been reduced, with the result that when completed there will be few stretches of better roadway anywhere in the Province. This is, of course, of great importance to Peterborough, for the Port Hope road is the artery along which passes much of the motor traffic in and out of this city, and the improvements that have been made should result in many more visitors coming to Peterborough. The Drury Government has been attacked for extravagance in its road-building programme, and the criticism in some instances may be justified, but so long as roadways such as the link between Port Hope and Peterborough are being produced, the Government need not worry very much about changes of that kind. If the goods are being delivered, the people are not likely to worry very much about the cost. And the highway opened the other day, if it stands up to the traffic that will flow along it, is good enough to satisfy the most captious critic.

SPEED CRAZINESS.

The increasing number of fatalities on the highways, in which autos figure so prominently, is impelling the thought of what will have to be done in order to make the highways safe for auto traffic as well as that of other vehicles. Even the most careful driver nowadays is not certain when he starts out that he will return without being involved in some smash-up, not of his own making, says the Brockville Recorder and Times.

The vast majority of automobile drivers are as anxious to avoid striking pedestrians, as the latter are averse to becoming hit.

They exercise due and proper care at crossings and give the warning note when some one thoughtlessly attempts to cross a road, without looking. Caution is also exercised with regard to speed upon the streets of more or less populous centres.

There are others, however, who, the moment they get their hands on a driving wheel, seem to lose all sense of their responsibilities with regard to the lives and the rights of others. In their hands is a vehicle capable of causing injury and death, yet in violation of all rules of humanity and safety they plunge right ahead and seem to consider that no one else has any rights in comparison with their desire for speed and "get there."

What to do with these latter is the great problem that will have to be solved before long. It is bad enough to have to put up with the blundering of the incompetent drivers, who should not be allowed to handle a car, but when to that class is added those who seemingly do not care whether they cause a mix-up or not, it is apparent that something of a drastic nature will have to be done.

Experience has shown that fines do not constitute any efficient deterrent, and the feeling is growing that imprisonment ought to be the penalty in all proved cases. Not only that, but also the cancellation of any license to drive in the case of anybody shown to be a menace to their fellows, the moment they get into a machine.

THE NEW GRAECO-TURKISH WAR.

The lightning flash of the guns has again revealed the true relations of the manoeuvring nations of Europe. Kemal Pasha strikes; and immediately the London and Paris press drop all pretences and frankly discuss the new situation on the basis that France is behind the Turks and Britain behind the Greeks. It would be more accurately stated, perhaps, if it were said that Great Britain was behind the Greeks when they went into Anatolia, thinking that then promising diversion the best way to prevent a dangerous alliance between the Kemalites and the Bolsheviki; and thus, having become more or less involved in that adventure, she still feels in honor bound to help the Greeks out of it with a minimum of loss.

France is openly and even joyously with the Turk—for the Turk has proved to be the winning horse. Moslem resentment in India and Egypt quickly taught the British that they could not afford to be identified with what looked like an anti-Mohammedan campaign. The British Empire is still the world's greatest Mohammedan power. French statesmanship undoubtedly scored a real success when it was far-seeing enough to be the first to rally to the Turk—though it is having a most unpleasant time of it in Syria. The American outcry over the Turkish outrages on the unhappy Christians in Asia Minor—a direct consequence of the Turkish victories over the Greeks—did not greatly disturb France, for French opinion is not closely enough in touch with American sentiment to feel its movements. The British were disturbed, however, and promptly proposed a joint Commission of which we have heard nothing since.

But it is perfectly plain that the Greeks must be rescued from the unfortunate position into which they have fought their way deep in Asia Minor—rescued with as much saving of the Greek face as possible—for it is equally plain that the Turks are still to virile a force and have too many powerful friends to be imprisoned as a hill tribe in the mountains of Anatolia. This means that the Greeks must at least retire to Smyrna; and there is only too much reason to fear that a permanent Greek occupation of Smyrna means perpetual war.

The British practically acceded last spring to the French policy of the entire evacuation of Asia Minor by the Greeks. But there have been signs since then that a compromise might be supported. That was apparently one of the purposes of the coming Conference of Venice. King Constantine's sweeping, but abortive, gesture toward the occupation of Constantinople with a view to putting an end to Turkish resistance, seems to have been wholly his own idea. The British immediately vetoed it. They knew only too well what the recapture of Stamboul by the Greeks would mean to Moslem opinion all over the Empire.

The British memory is long and British gratitude is a real international force. The Greeks may be very sure that it will never be forgotten that they went into Asia Minor under British encouragement — indeed, under Allied encouragement. They went partially at least to serve Allied interests which were then very genuinely frightened at the thought of a Moscow-Moslem alliance. The best will be done for them now that can be done. But Europe is in flux. It will be exceedingly hard for any European nation to undertake serious military responsibilities in the Near East or anywhere else. And even if such responsibilities were undertaken, it might be impossible to carry them through.

While Germany is still crying "non possumus"—while the rumble of French preparations to exact further guarantees by military occupation is quite audible at this distance — while the future of Austria is so serious and imminent a problem that Lloyd George may rush over to Geneva in a forlorn hope of finding some respite in the futile League—while the fat may be finally in the fire any day now—it is idle to talk as if any European nation had strength to spare for disciplining so truculent a force as the Kemalite Turks in their own territory. We must all do just the best we can—and even then so conservative and well-informed an observer as Col. E. M. House thinks that we may not escape disaster.—Montreal Star.

A THOUGHT FOR LABOR DAY.

The Labor Union that is erected on the Labor principle of collective bargaining thereby implies a certain guarantee that appears to be seldom invoked by employers, and too lightly esteemed by union men themselves.

Under ideal circumstances, according to Labor's theory, and perhaps in many cases its practice, a union on its part agrees to render a specific service, for which it demands specified wages and working conditions. In such an equation Labor assumes the dignified position of entering into a solemn covenant, which, if strictly observed by both parties, would probably be a potent influence for industrial peace and progress.

The phrase "collective bargaining," which Labor leaders have reduced to a shop-worn condition by frequent repetition, too often stresses the word "collective," and to that extent emphasizes the protective features of a trades union. This phase of unionism is obvious enough to the general public, but perhaps it must be magnified and harped upon by Labor leaders in the seemingly necessary drudgery of building up and maintaining the union itself.

But while keeping its fences up, a union may neglect its fields. A union's strength is not only in numbers, but also in quality, in the skill and proficiency of its members. Any union might be considered as an illustration, and the musicians' probably serves the purpose as well as any other. Hence it would be pertinent, on the strength of the implied contact to ask whether the Musicians' Union demands of all its members a certain standard of ability before they are admitted and are furnished with a union card, which must be accepted as a pledge or guarantee from the union itself. Or is the union more concerned about its numerical strength, in the mistaken attitude that it can secure for the poorly equipped the standard wage that is also paid the more proficient members?

Do the Carpenters hand out union cards merely to unionize a job completely, or do they exact of every man they admit credentials of apprenticeship and ability? Or do they maintain the position that carpentry is an ancient craft of high traditions for which only the fully qualified are eligible?

The same questions might be asked in regard to the iron moulders, the masons, the printers, and so on, without suggesting that any of the unions are failing in their duty to employers, private, corporate or public, and to themselves. If all unions are as exacting as several that might be mentioned, and in some respects even these appear remiss, and adhere to thir constitution they should be in a position to guarantee the ability of every one of their workmen. Such a guarantee would be known to the public and should be recognized by employers. The union card would be an unquestionable badge of proficiency everywhere, and such members would be most insistent upon the proper training, even selection, of apprentices.

On Labor Day organized labor should seriously examine itself in regard to this phase of the contract involved in collective bargaining. The organized professions are raising their bars against new applicants. Why shouldn't the organized trades consider whether their methods of selecting members, if indeed they have exercised their selective privileges, have been careful enough?

In this respect the future of organized Labor in Canada is largely in its own hands.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

"No."

"Why?"

"You cannot enter the basement except in back. Vera Collins has an electric warning button. At its flash Evil Eye will call Miss Bronson to him. She will be killed."

"Killed?" Dupont felt a sudden chill of apprehension. The hunchback had said before she was in no danger.

"No one can see the face of Evil Eye and live. The girl is safe until Evil Eye solves the mystery of the map of the route to the treasure of the Devil God, but she shall never escape alive."

For a moment the hypnotist hesitated. He knew that in these questions and answers he was simply availing himself of the mind of the subject under his control, a mind more intelligent and possessed of more reasoning faculty than he had anticipated. He knew, also, that the hunchback, after the spell was broken, would carry no recollection of the dialogue whatever. Yet there was something uncannily strange about this consultation with one of the gang against every will and wish of the man's normal self. It was a fearful tribute to his power.

"If I came with a force of police," Dupont went on, "and broke in from several sides at once, so that Evil Eye and Vera and Noyes and your wife were all caught at once, then wouldn't I be able to save Miss Bronson?"

"Yes."

"And no alarm will be given, nothing will happen to frighten them or make them change their plans or be in any different situation by the time I get back with the police if I prevent you warning them—that is right, isn't it?"

"Yes, that is right."

Dupont prepared to plunge the hunchback into a state of cataleptic sleep when another thought struck him.

"Why did Renard and the two others go into the city?"

"To get the portrait of Steele."

"To Doctor Sutton's studio?" This was a sudden menace to Violet's guardian he had not expected. Again he felt the chill of apprehension.

"Yes," was the answer in the colorless, matter-of-fact, disinterested tones of his subject.

"Is—is there any chance of harm coming to Doctor Sutton?"

"If he does not reveal the secret of the portrait, or of the map, Renard has been instructed to kill him."

In an instant Dupont made up his mind. Violet was in danger, but no immediate danger. Sutton's peril was pressing. He would prepare to raid the church, but first he would flash the alarm into the city, would hurry to make sure of the safety of the scientist. That, he knew, would be the wish of Violet.

Fixing the eyes of the little man huddled closely to him in the cramped quarters of the pit, he plunged him first into a state of unconscious sleep, then fixed his body in a state of cataleptic rigidity which would baffle all the skill of science. Looking at his watch he addressed the hunchback in a low voice, impressively, repeating the instructions three times.

"You will remain in this condition until midnight. You will remain in this condition until midnight. You will remain in this condition until midnight."

It was now late afternoon. Dupont clambered to the shoulders of his victim, who might have been made of stone. Stealing around the corner of the crumbling church, he skulked half down the hill, then ran at top speed to the car still waiting.

"The nearest police-signal station," he gasped.

Through the police exchange, he got in touch with the officials with whom he had planned his last raid. It was arranged to have the church surrounded immediately, but to have the men lie back and await the return of Dupont, only stopping anyone who should arrive or leave. A squad, meanwhile, was dispatched to Doctor Sutton's studio.

Dupont found them there upon his own arrival. The sergeant he knew, with a long face, greeted him at the elevator.

"Sure and we were too late," he muttered, a smoldering anger evident beneath his sympathy.

"What—" Dupont suddenly broke into a run, distancing the sergeant down the hall, breaking in past the policeman at the door.

The studio was an utter wreck. Curtains, hangings, ornaments, were down, strewn this way and that. Not a piece of furniture but was broken and split to kindling wood, deliberately, and in apparent pursuit of a definite purpose. The rugs were thrown aside. In several spots the floor was ripped up, ruining the magnificent parquetry.

A hasty glance showed Dupont no signs of Sutton or Dacca. He looked in the kitchen and pantry, the den, and Dacca's quarters. Everywhere was the same vandalism. He sprinted up the stairs, and in Doctor Sutton's own room found the scientist stretched upon the floor, lifeless.

As Rugged as the Mountain Roads

"GUTTA PERCHA" TIRES

"Enduring as Bronze!"—the old Romans used to say. It might apply to a "Gutta Percha" Tire. Endurance is the quality tire makers try to get and motorists insist upon having. Roads rugged with rocks will put the "third degree" on most tires. Here is where the "Gutta Percha" Tires show the stuff they are made of. "Gutta Percha" Tires give a prodigious amount of wear. Little perfections in skill and science and art too, perhaps wholly undiscovered in most factories, have been the secret of making "Gutta Percha" Tires so good. The unusual respect shown to "Gutta Percha" Tires by motorists and the Trade in general proves that we have found the way—and we mean to keep on.

PRICE: What a tire costs depends entirely on the service it gives. "Gutta Percha" Tires are the "Tires that Cost Least."

A COMMUNITY SPORTS DAY WAS HELD AT IDA, CAVAN TOWNSHIP

Two Baseball Games on the Programme—A Huge Bonfire Started in the Evening. Millbrook News

MILLBROOK, September 3.—The community "Sports' Day" held at Ida on Thursday, August 31, under the auspices of St. John's church, drew a fairly large attendance, and proved a most enjoyable affair. Doubtless the official opening of the Provincial highway at Springville had something to do with lessening the attendance at both events, it being unfortunate, considering the rather close proximity of the two neighborhoods that they were arranged for the same afternoon.

Two baseball games formed the main attraction after the crowd had gathered, the line up for the first, between Ebenezer and Mount Pleasant being:

Ebenezer: H. McGeep; W. White c; J. White 1b; P. Stewart 2b; T. McCamus 3b; C. Johnston ss; E. Baldwin rf; W. Guest lf; H. Bryce cf;.

Mount Pleasant: N. Fee p; H.Gardiner c; A. Hayes 1b; W. Downer 2b; J. Boyd 3b; J. Fee ss; H. Best rf; G. White lf; C. Thexton cf.

Score 18 to 16 in favor of Mount Pleasant.

The Second Game.

Millbrook and Cavan fol'owed with a game which aroused plenty of enthusiasm. The players were:

Cavan: Doughty p; Hardell c; McDowell 1b; Touchbourne 2b; N. Fee 3b; Brown ss; Lough rf; J. Fee, lf; Harkness cf.

Millbrook: F. Russell p; A. McCorry c; G. W. Sayles 1b; E. C. Richards 2b; H. Nattrass 3b; C. Larmer ss; R. Hutchinson rf; W. Budd lf; H. Lancashire cf.

Score 15 to 5 in favor of Millbrook.

John Cathcart of Cavan, handled both games as umpire to the satisfaction of all.

Community Singing.

A splendid supper was served by the ladies of the church to which full justice was done, and afterwards a huge bon-fire previously built in the field, a safe distance away from tables, trees, etc., was lit, and all gathered around the mounting flames while community singing was heartily entered into and enjoyed. This is the first time such an evening's programme has been attempted in this neighborhood, and its success will doubtless lead other organizations to follow along similar lines. The sports were held in Mr. E. Touchbourne's field just west of the village, and proved a very suitable location for the various events.

A District Meeting.

The financial district meeting of the Methodist church will be held in the Reid street hall, on Friday Sptember 8th, the ministerial session being at 10 a.m. In the afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, there will be a missionary conference to be addressed by Rev. G. R. Clare, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and also by J. M. Greene, of Peterboro; this meeting is opn to the public, and all churches in the district are urged to have as many delegates present as possible. At the quarterly board meeting held in the Methodist church here on Tuesday evening F. W. Fallis was appointed delegate with W. G. Hetherington as alternate. Rev. S. T. Tucker, of Millbrook is chairman of the district and Rev. J. F. Chapman of St.James church, Peterboro, Financial Secretary.

The Hills Resounded With Song and Laughter By Happy Folks.

KEENE, Sept. 2.—A very pleasant evening was spent on Tuesday evening when the annual corn roast of the community was held on Bryce's hill, overlooking the river. About 150 people gathered for the event.

At 9 p.m. the merry-making began and the hills resounded with songs and laughter. The evening's entertainment consisted of violin selections and solos by Misses Garrow, Bryce and Mrs. (Dr.) Harrison, followed by numerous stories and jokes from the gentlemen. One especially pretty number on the programme was the Spanish dance, in costume, by little Miss Bryce and the Highland fling played by her grandfather, Mr. Archibald Bryce, who is 84 years of age. After all had partaken of the generous supply of corn provided, those who wished to remain were invited to Mr. Walter Bryce's cottage, where dancing was indulged in by both young and old.

Soak the Dirt out.

THERE is such a simple easy way of washing rompers, school ginghams, play clothes etc., that you won't mind how many there are—thanks to Rinso.

First, make the wonderful Rinso liquid. Take half a packet of Rinso, thoroughly dissolve it in cool water, and add two quarts of boiling water. Then lay your clothes to soak in the tub of cool or lukewarm water. After one, two or three hours or in the morning give them a thorough rinsing and the dirt just runs away. No need to rub on the wash board so that holes come and colour goes.

Rinso is a wonderful product, scientifically made to wash clothes by soaking — different from soaps, chips and washing powders, and used differently.

Do not put Rinso into the tub from the package, but make the Rinso liquid first.

IF YOU USE A WASHING MACHINE

Follow directions as above. After soaking the clothes wring them into machine, add enough fresh Rinso liquid, operate and rinse, and you will have the sweetest, cleanest clothes you ever saw.

UNABLE TO WALK FOR A YEAR

Paralysis Entirely Relieved by "Fruit-a-tives"

The Wonderful Fruit Medicine

Paralysis is a break-down of the Nervous System and affects the victim in various ways. Sometimes, nervousness makes itself known by hysteria, insomnia, constant headaches, or it may be so bad that one is partially or completely helpless in some part of the body, just as Mrs. Heacock was.

SAULT STE MARIE, ONT.

"When I was twenty-eight years of age, my doctor advised me to have an operation, which I did and it proved very serious, leaving me weak and unable to walk for a year. Seeing your "Fruit-a-tives" advertised in the papers, I decided to try them. I continued to use them regularly, and today I am able to go about my home duties and care for my family".

MRS. J. W. HEACOCK.

Any form of Nervousness is often caused by, and is always aggravated by, Constipation, which poisons the blood, irritates the kidneys and inflames the nerves. "Fruit-a-tives" stimulates the action of liver and bowels, kidneys and skin—tones and sweetens the stomach—keeps the blood pure, and builds up the entire nervous system.

In a word, "Fruit-a-tives" has proved that it is the most scientific and effective remedy in the world for Nervousness or a disordered condition of the nervous system.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

"DR. FOWLER'S" Saved the Lives of Four Children

Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and summer complaint are responsible for more deaths, especially among children, during the summer months than any other form of disease. According to statistics, in the City of Toronto alone, in the past five years out of 1008 deaths of children, from diarrhoea, 757 died during the four summer months. It therefore behooves every mother to look after her children on the first sign of any looseness of the bowels by using Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, a remedy that has been on the market for the past 77 years, and has been proven to be the best there is.

Mrs. Harold Sellers, Pennfield, N.B., writes: "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry saved the lives of four of my children when all other remedies failed. It stopped the vomiting and terrible diarrhoea with which they were troubled. I will always recommend it, and now always have a bottle on hand in case of emergency."

Japanese girls have taken to short skirts and silk stockings, but they will have nothing to do with the bobbed hair fad.

CAMPBELLFORD IS STOCKING UP WITH A SUPPLY OF WOOD

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 2. — Alfred McKeel arrived in port with another cargo of cordwood from Burnt Point. This will make 16 scow loads, which average from 20 to 25 cords that have arrived this season. It is an odd sight to see the little 2 cyl. 12 h.p. motor boat "Ada," towing the big 14 x 45 ft. scow. Mr. McKeel still has 100 cords to deliver and with the scarcity of coal is always a welcome visitor at Campbellford.

At the Flour Mill.

For the first time since taking over the mill here things are quiet at the Peterboro Cereal Co's plant. This is not due to lack of orders but owing to the breaking of the big wheel on the main drive shaft. An order was sent to Toronto for a new one which is being rushed through, and it will be a case of overtime for a few days to catch up. This break does not affect the chopping mill, where the sign is "Business as usual."

Campbellford Cheese Board.

At a meeting of the board held in the Farmers' Club Rooms, Ferris Building, on Thursday evening there were 9961 boxes offered, and all were sold, Mr. Cook getting 593, Mr. McCreary 260 and Mr. Ivey 108. THE LAST TRIP OF THE STONEY LAKE

Thursday Afternoon's Trip to Gore's Landing and Back—A Delightful Afternoon and Evening's Sail.

The last "Stoney Lake" trip to Gore's Landing on Thursday afternoon gave pleasure because the day was simply perfect, and regret on account of its being the last trip of this season. For this fact showed that summer—which has been such a lovely one—was drawing to its close.

The weather was simply ideal, a clear azure sky, a brilliant but not too hot a sun, a gentle zephyr-like breeze, an atmosphere so clear that smoke from the industrial chimneys rose straight up to the heavens, all tended to make it one of the—if not the most—perfect of the many days on which I have taken in this most pleasurable trip. The country looked just magnificent; there were no signs anywhere of a fast approaching fall; in fact some of the foliage had quite a spring-like appearance.

The start was effected about 1.35. A fair number of passengers being aboard. A call was made at Asburnham wharf, and yet another at the Street Railway wharf, each adding its quota to our number.

We steamed down the river to Wallace's Point, where a stop was made to allow a few to land until the boat called again on the return journey. Then we steamed on to Gore's Landing, where we had an hour on shore. Most of the trippers made a pilgrimage to the pretty Anglican Church, many being disappointed to find it locked up.

The return journey was begun at six and a delightful sail back it was too. The shades of night were falling fast when the boat approached Wallace's Point and re-embarked those of the number who landed there on the outward journey. The moon had risen early, so we had a delightful moonlight trip back to town.

On this return journey a desire for dancing was expressed and thanks to Miss Bernice Hall, who sat down to the piano and played plenty of dance music, the lovers of the light fantastic were gratified.

Home Again.

At 9 p.m. the boat was moored alongside the Government wharf on George street to land the passengers every one of whom had evidently enjoyed the delightful afternoon and evening's trip. Then the "Stoney Lake" proceeded to Lakefield to take out an excursion party of Orange followers to Chemong Park the next day.—

Frank Russell.

PAINTED FROCK.

Something new in costumes was introduced at a recent garden party where one guest wore a white gown painted with scarlet geraniums with a painted hat to match.

(By Stuart P. West.)
(Special to Examiner.)

NEW YORK, September 2.—The action of the stock market at the start to-day showed clearly Wall street's indifference regarding the threat of a general strike throughout the country. This threat was made by the head of the Federation of Labor in answer to the blanket injunction secured by the Government against the Unions, intended to prevent them from interfering in any way with the operation of the railroads.

With the exception of Studebaker which moved ahead rather sharply, and Mexican Petroleum, which lost some of the ground gained earlier in the week, prices held rather steady throughout the short session.

There was not quite so much activity as on previous days because many traders had left town for a three day holiday, the stock exchange not being open on Monday. Taking the day's operations as a whole it was a typical pre-holiday market. Taking the list as a whole price changes were fractional.

There was as little doing in the other market as in the stock market. The foreign exchanges held around their Friday closing figures while trading in bonds was about equally stagnant.

Towards the close of the stock market several specialties became active and got to new high ground. Among these May Department Stores, which made a new high record for the year. This advance helped the other chain stores to advance fractionally. Another to move ahead was Chicago Pneumatic Tool.

STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS SHOWN IN FRIDAY MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. — I refrain from rehashing the oft-repeated phrase, "I told you so," but there seems no other sentence quite so trite, therefore I will repeat the fact that I did advise you to buy C.P.R. when it was 140 and hold same until 175 was reached. Well, about C.P.R., this stock may have occasional set-backs, but I do not look for much, if any, and it will surely sell very very much higher. Why? Because the company is worth more than any figures available shown the public. The Londoners know this, and as they sold all their holdings during the war, or before it, they are coming in daily buying the C.P.R. stock back that they sold probably at 275. Do you think they will care very much for a few points while taking their favorite stock back again into the fold? If the North American public had the same faith in this immense corporation that the Englishman has, they would fall over themselves trying to buy it. Another great road that will sell much higher in the next month or so is Chicago North-Western. In fact this road is in somewhat the same category as C.P.R. as far as the Englishman is concerned. The London market is very short of the stock, and as it is one of the favorites you will see a good demand for it at increasing prices. These stocks look remarkably cheap when I compare them to times when business prospects were not as bright as at present, and stocks were from 30 to 100 points higher. Buy good stocks either on re-actions or at market prices and don't be afraid to abide by your purchases—they will reap you a good profit.—Spencer.

SAYS GENERAL STRIKE MAY FOLLOW INJUNCTION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—A general strike of American organized labor may follow in retaliation against the Government for its course in obtaining temporary injunction against the striking railroad shopmen and their union officials. With President Harding acknowledging that the injunction is the most sweeping ever obtained in this country, and expressing determination not to stop at this, if further steps are necessary to maintain railroad transportation, the American Federation of Labor has decided to consider the question of calling a general strike. Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation, last night declared the injunction to be in violation of the law, and announced that his executive council would consider the situation in Washington on September 9.

MODERN SYSTEM OF TAILORING TO CUSTOM MEASURE

CUSTOM SUITS $25 TO $50.

The tailor who would guarantee that he would finish every suit within four days after he took the customer's measure would soon be much sought after. If the quality of his work were equal to his promptitude he would be inundated with orders.

In the biggest and best wholesale tailoring house in Canada, the four-day schedule on all suits made to custom-measure has been carried out for eighteen years.

In 1905, the total sales of Special Orders in the Semi-ready shops in Montreal amounted to $30,000, and it was a minor feature of their business. To-day in the same shops there is a well-organized department doing a business in custom tailoring alone of $500,000 a year.

The growth of the Special Order department is ascribed to the prompt four-day schedule, whereby suit or overcoat orders received before noon on Monday are cut, tailored and parcelled ready for shipment on Thursday evening. Even at holiday rush time there are few delays, and then only when the orders received required special patterns to be made for them.

There are over 400 Semi-ready stores and Special Order merchants in Canada. In the larger stores, a full stock of Semi-ready clothes, tailored to the try-one stage, is carried for inspection. The Special Order is always a useful adjunct, for it gives the customer a choice of a million-dollar stock in patterns and styles should he not find just what he fancies in the garments already tailored.

Each Special Order is given individual making from the web of cloth carried in the warehouse. Within an hour after the Photo-type measurement form is received the order is properly on its way through the shops and in the hands of cutters and specialized tailors.

A Special Order outfit has been described as a "Complete Tailor Shop in a Box." It carries sample swatches cut from a stock of fine woollens valued at $750,000. For the Special Order patterns include also the cloths from which all the big Semi-ready stores order their stock goods.

In Peterborough, in Kingston or in Quebec City an order for a custom-tailored suit is delivered on the morning of the fifth day, whilst in London, Galt or Kitchener the garment is only delivered about noon on the fifth day.

In Winnipeg and other Western cities, as well as in Peterborough, one just figures the time taken by a letter order to reach Montreal, and the quick return by express or parcel post.

Many customers find that the parcel post charges are much more reasonable than are the express charges. "We never have any trouble with our Special Order tailoring," said one man who has sold thousands of these custom-made garments, "and we never look for any, for the Semi-ready Company guarantee that each order shall be made up exactly as designated on a photo-type form which is akin to the Physique-type system that has made Semi-ready tailoring so much sought after."

The Special Order department of the Semi-ready Shops does not compete with the larger department of stock goods, but is rather a useful reinforcement.

Some of the best tailors in Canada advocate and use the system for its uniformity of quality, its same price everywhere and its ever-satisfying guarantee.

"We stick to quality, to pure wool weaves and good weavers and leave the cheap materials severely alone. A good suit cannot be produced and sold for less than $25 to-day," said the President of the Company in a letter to his customers.

SECOND SEASON OF Capitol Entertainment OPENS IN THE LEADING THEATRES OF CANADA MONDAY SEPTEMBER 4

One Year Ago and—TO-DAY

ONE YEAR ago, the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Limited, owners of the finest theatres in Canada, introduced a new diversissement known as Capitol Entertainment. It was announced that this modern amusement would be a happy combination of the best photoplays, music and, frequently, stage novelties.

AND IT WAS stressed that wherever Capitol Entertainment was presented, the prices of admission would be no higher than necessary to provide this particular kind of programme.

THE IDEA instantly struck a popular chord. From Montreal to Vancouver, thousands of people in the leading cities of Canada, flocked to the theatres where Capitol Entertainment had been advertised. These "first nighters" were impressed with the sincere attempt of the big theatre enterprise to present 100 per cent entertainment at popular prices.

CAPITOL Entertainment became a household phrase almost over night and to-day theatre-going legions throughout Canada will attest to the fact that wherever you find Capitol Entertainment featured you will see "the best show in town in the finest theatre in town."

MONDAY, September 4, will bring the opening of the second season of Capitol Entertainment—a season of forty weeks—during which the greatest motion pictures ever made will be exhibited. These wonder photoplays are the finest productions released under the Paramount banner and by the big Canadian distributing organization, Regal Films, Limited.

AMONG the well-known stars who will be seen in these productions are Harold Lloyd, Rodolph Valentino, Thomas Meighan, Wallace Reid, Conrad Nagel, Jack Holt, Theodore Roberts, Bert Lytell, Theodore Kosloff, Gloria Swanson, Viola Dana, Bebe Daniels, Betty Compson, Dorothy Dalton, Mae Murray, Agnes Ayres, Clara Kimball Young, Ethel Clayton and Pauline Frederick. The foremost writers of the world will provide the stories for these pictures. Geniuses such as Cecil B. De Mille and Rex Ingram will personally supervise their production.

OF ALL the fine pictures listed for the new year, perhaps none will win such universal popularity as "Blood and Sand," from the novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, with Rodolph Valentino as the star. Watch for this one!

"Capitol Entertainment is presented in Peterboro at the Capitol Thearre, where an exceptional program has been arrange for next week."

Virle Paramount Star Has An Excellent Role in "The Man Unconquerable."

Jack Holt, virile Paramount star, has been seen in many unique roles during his screen career, but none has equalled in general interest his impersonation of Robert Kendall, a pearl fisher in the South Pacific island, in his laesa Paramount picture "The Man Unconquerable" which according to Manager Abbey of the Capitol is one of the strongest photoplays he has booked thus far this season.

The scenes of the new picture, founded on a story by Hamilton Smith, are laid in the pearling grounds of the South Sea Islands, where authorities conspire with thieves and the only law is the law of might. This condition provides ample opportunites for a story chock full of tense situations, and two-fisted, red-blooded action.

There is a fighting Swede character, played by Clarence Burton who engages in several pugilistic encounters with Mr. Holt, the star. Rita Durand, a French girl played by Sylvia Breamer, whose father owns a pearl island concession, supplies the love interest.

A magnificent pearl which is stolen, causing the murder of its owner and which is later recovered, figures in the story. There are many colorful scenes along the coast and in the interior of the island, striking scenes aboard pearling schooners; in the native quarters, and the like. Edwin Stevens, Ann Schaefer, Jean De Briac, William Louis and others in the cast. The picture which comes to the Capitol Theatre was made under the direction of Joseph Henabery.

The second anniversay Capiaol Entertainment opes Moday with the above picture and matinees daily at 2.30.

AT THE GRAND.

Monday (matinee and night) will see the opening of the ever popular Grand Opera House for the coming season, when the Evans' Musical Revue, a really high class attraction, and something novel in the form of refined entertainment. This Company holds an enviable reputation in the Eastern States, and the Maritime Provinces of Canada, holding a record for the longest run in St. Johns, N.B., where they completed a 42 weeks engagement, then went to Halifax N.S., for a run of 34 weeks, and are coming direct from a summer season of 10 record weeks in Boston, Mass. The opening revue of "Miss Manhattan," is said to be one of the best musical offerings on the stage today, and the company of 25 artists carried with the Company has been personally selected by Mr. Jimmy Evans himself for their Ontario engagements, and include such well known performers as Miss Grace Gould, Miss Florence Pippin, Miss Kitty Fraser, Mr. Joe Devine, Mert Ryan, Mr. Harry Goff, and Jimmie Evans (himself) with a chorus of the best dancing and singing peaches on the revue stage.

Mr. Evans is acknowledged to be one of the most refined and entertaining comedians in Boston, and has been with the biggest musical comedies out of New York. The company is here for an indefinite engagement changing their revues on Mondays and Thursdays, and the scenery, costumes, and electrical effects are said to be very elaborate and gorgeous in the extreme.

This style of entertainment is so entirely different that we feel sure the theatre-goers of Peterborough will welcome the engagement of this high-class company, and the management of the Grand enthusiastically guarantees this attraction to the Peterborough audiences. Popular pre-war prices prevail for the entire engagement, with no advance for the holiday on Monday, viz.: 20, 30, 50 and 75c, and are now selling fast for both performances Monday, so would advise all to secure seats as early as possible and avoid disappointment.

AT THE ROYAL.

BIG NEWSPAPERS PRAISE "SMILIN' THROUGH" IN EDITORIAL COLUMNS.

Press From All Parts of the Country Comment on Its Beauty and Artistry and Say It Lifts Standard of Screen.

Chicago Tribune Urges All Its Readers To See Picture and Tells Why It Is Proving a Big Box Office Attraction.

Seldom has a picture been made the subject of so much editorial comment as "Smilin' Through." Not only has it won universal praise in the reviews, but newspapers all over the country have been so struck by the remarkable beauty and character of this picture that they have devoted long editorials to it.

Such papers as the Chicago Tribune, the Omaha World-Herald, the Dallas Dispatch, the Sioux City Tribune and newspapers in other cities have taken pains to praise the picture editorially as not only a box office attraction but one that lifts the standard of the screen to higher levels. Here's what the Chicago Tribune says:

"'Smilin' Through' was here with Jane Cowl last year. Norma Talmadge does it for the movies with the advantages of the movies. On the screen the influence of the spiritualized love story can go into every town in the country. Ten thousand people can see Miss Talmadge where one could see Miss Cowl.

"This is a tremendous increase in influence and a reason for commending the exercise of a good influence. The drama itself is one which forces the belief in the sublimination of human emotions, purposes and character. It insists to many people who have lost some of their belief in the possibility of romantic good that human life can be developed into forms which are beautiful, clean and spiritual. It says that men and women may have ideals which are not lost in contact with realities, that they may be well bred, tenacious in their love, simple in their lives, and clean in their thoughts and emotions.

"Their minor sins of some movie productions are lacking in the screening of 'Smilin' Through.' Charms of simplicity are not so often sought by a producer. Out in Hollywood they generally think that if wealth is indicated in the characters it must be represented by bathing girls jumping into marble pools in the blue moonlight and by doubling up the butlers as the de luxe Uncle Tommers double up the Topsies.

"The producer of 'Smilin' Through' has kept it in the garden where it belongs. Wealth is indicated, but there is only one servant, the housekeeper. Good breeding creates the atmosphere, and there are no offences against it.

"In the charming garden the story is unfolded with the miraculous power of the camera, to produce effects. The two love stories reveal the steadfastness of the lovers to sustain affection above the shock of tragedy and the shock of time. That, if only an illusion, is one which people want to cherish and one which gives them inspiration to try to cherish.

"The old lover who loses his bride by the shot of a jealous rival carries his sublime romance into eternity with him. The young lover who nearly loses his girl through the passion of hatred the old man has for the family of the assassin and again through the maiming he suffers in war and the consequent self-depreciation, is, you knok, as durable in fealty and fine in emotions as the older man.

"People in their stumblings through life try to keep their eyes fixed on a star. We do not believe that in realistic plays they should be deluded, but we believe that a tonic of romance does the spiritual man good. We believe that people will go into a spiritualized world in 'Smilin' Through' and that they will return from it with an inspiration. They may have been looking into a mirror deceiving them with a grace and beauty and worth which is not to be found in their mirror of life.

"Even as an illusion it is good. Man should be noble if only in his dreams."

"Smilin' Through" will be shown at the Royal for three days only, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with a special matinee daily.

On account of the high price paid for this big production the admission for the holiday only will be: Matinee 15c-25c; Evening 25c to all; war tax included.

Jimmie Evans, Who Heads His Show at the Grand on Monday Next, For an Indefinite Engagement, "EVANS' MUSICAL REVUE."

"SMILIN' THROUGH" IS COMING TO THE ROYAL

"Smilin' Through," Norma Talmadge's screen version of fAllen Langdon Martin's famous stage play, will be the piece-de-resistance at the Royal Theatre, beginning Monday.

According to all advance reports, this is the biggest screen achievement of Miss Talmadge. The production has been filmed on a lavish scale under the direction of Sidney Franklin.

A cast of unusual excellence appears in support of the star and includes Wyndham Standing, Harrison Ford, Alec B. Francis, Glenn Hunter Grace Griswold Miriam Battisa and Eugene Lockhart.

Miss Talmadge plays a dual role in a dramatic story of great heart interest. She is seen as the beautiful Monyeen, who is killed by a rejected suitor on her wedding day and as Kathleen neice of Moyeen, who falls in love with the son of the man who caused the death of her aunt.

The role, it is said, gives Norma a great opportunity to exercise her extraordinary talents as a wonderul emotional and dramatic actress.

The production is a First National attraction.

SUCCESS OF THE CAPITOL THEATRES

Reflected in the Second Annual Season of Entertainment.

Three years ago, a movement was set on foot in Toronto, to inaugurate a system of moving picture houses throughout Canada, which would rival if not surpass anything of the kind on the continent. The result was the formation of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation Limited, with head jfices in Toronto, and affilatons with all the large producing and distributing agencies and companies in America— thereby providing the public with the best and latest productions in the motion picture world.

In order to give Canadians the best that artistic judgment could devise, to bring into this country, the latest achievement of the master producers in an industry which ranks fourth in an industry, which enterprises, the men responsible for this big Canadian business concern determined to combine the individual talent of the theatrical and musical experts, with financiers in order to give the deisred service. A chain of theatres from coast to coast, owned and operated by this corporation, was the means of obtaining the best results.

Last year, N. L. Nathanson, Manging-Director of Famous Players Canadian Corporation Limited, inaugurated throughout Canada, a season of Capitol Entertainment. During the first week of the season the luxurious Capitol Theatres in Montreal Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, Peterboro and Kitchener the Regent Theatre, Toronto, the Algoma in Sault Ste. Marie, the Savoy and Strand in Hamilton the Regent in Oshawa, Temple in Brantford, Regent in Galt, Capitol Regent in Guelph the Strand in Kingston and many other associated houses, all provided special entertainment, feturing Paramount pictures.

So complete was the success of the venture that Mr. Nathanson is pleased to annuonce the second annual season of Capitol Entertainment starting September 4 to 9, theatres owned and operated by Famous Players Canadian Corporation Limited

The Capitof Theatre in every city in the Dominion is the moving picture house de-luxe and attracts the most desirable playgoers. Assured of nothing but the latest and biggest pictures, most of them labelled "Paramount" patrons are always delghted with the entire program consisting of clean comedies special News features, and superior musical presentations.

EXPLANATION OF FOOTBALL FIXTURE

September 2, 1922.

Sport Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Jackson's letter re fixture with the C. P. C. football team, may I state we do not seek for public sympathy, but a square deal. May I remind Mr. Jackson that a draw was made to decide which teams should meet in the first round of the Gordon Cup, with the following result:

1st—Owls vs. Woollens.
2nd—Comrades vs. C.P.C.
3rd—Quaker Oats vs. C.G.E.

First game to be played September 4, 2nd September 9, 3rd September 16.

In my opinion, no change should be made once a draw or ballot is taken, unless the teams are mutually agreeable. Most of our players had made arrangements previously to be away for Labor Day, making it impossible for us to put a team on the field of sufficient number or merit to test the mettle of the Comrades' team, or to do ourselves full justice. May I remind Mr. Jackson that we have consented to at least two league games being brought forward, to meet the wishes of other teams and the P. and D. F. A. officials. Also we turned out a team to give the C.G.E. team a practice game for their Ontario Cup fixture with Brantford. We do not wish to see games go by default, but have no choice on the date set. The next move is in the hands of the P. and D. F. A. Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

R. Butler,
Secty. and Delegate C.P.C.

Disputing the Umps

One hears yarns of baseball players becoming hot under the collar when decisions go against them, but it remained for a player on a semi-pro. team in Laurel, Del., to take every prize for letting off steam during a game. According to report, the player in question was on duty behind the bat, and as each decision of the umpire went against him he began to growl, then to fret and fume. Suddenly his clothing burst into flame and time had to be called while the "hot" backstop was doused with water. Matches in his pocket are said to have been the cause, but the umpire believes otherwise.

CUBS PURCHASED A SNAPPY SHORTSTOP

Earl "Get-Two" Adams Cost Chicago Two Players and Ten Thousand in Cash.

Two pitchers, an outfielder and $10,000 cash is what the Chicago Cubs management paid for little Earl "Get-Two" Adams, shortstop for Wichita Falls in the Texas League.

Outfielder Art Weiss and Pitchers Keene and Freeman were sent to the Wichita Falls club as soon as the deal was closed. So was the $10,000 cash.

Adams, however, will not report to the Cubs until the opening of the 1923 season.

Adams was purchased from the St. Louis Cardinals shortly after the Texas League season opened. Since reporting for duty he hasn't missed a game.

He's 5 feet 6 inches tall, he weighs 163 pounds and his lightning speed on the defensive, as well as his effective stick work, have attracted the attention of many of the big league scouts.

Up to and including Aug. 5 the Texas League official statistics on Adams are as follows:

AB, 443; R, 88; H, 146; TB, 204; 2B, 23; 3B, 15; HR, 0; SH, 16; SB, 19; BB, 55; HB, 11; RB, 61; CS, 10; SI, 14; BA, 330.

At the same time Adams was fielding for an average of .961. His speed in the field and his zeal for double plays have won for him his nickname of "Get-Two."

Helpless.

"Dad, one of the chaps said I looked like you."

"An' what did you say?"

"Nothin'. He's a good bit bigger than me."

C. G. E. DEFEATED LAKEFIELD GIRLS

The C.G.E. girls defeated the Lakefield team, 20 to 12, in a fast game last evening at Central Park. The game was a good one from start to finish, but the electrical girls managed to pile up thirteen runs in the second and third innings, which was too much of a handicap for the visitors to overcome. M. Millard, who did the pitching for the winners, turned in a good game and received excellent support from her teammates. The players were:

Lakefield—Mrs. Millage, p; H. Burgess, c; C. Doidge, 1b; Mrs. Blewett, 2b; V. Payne, 3b; J. Ridpath, ss; M. Nixon, ss; G. Manning, lf; I. Windsor, cf; H. Watson, rf.

C.G.E.—M. Millard, p; C. Stapley, c; C. Taylor, 1b; B. Adams, 2b; A. Reynolds, 3b; T. Vass, ss; E. Greenhaught, ss; E. White, lf; M. Redmond, cf; L. Blondin, rf.

Score by innings:

Lakefield	420213—12
C.G.E.	167303—20

Game called at the end of the sixth on account of darkness.

Umpires—LeBarr and Morphet.

Plenty of baseball next week. Two games with Port Hope on Monday and the final games in the Junior and Juvenile Leagues, scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday, Saturday's affair being another double-header.

* * *

Brooklyn's victory over New York made three in a row and rather upsets some of the dope.

* * *

Chicago Americans ousted Cleveland from fourth place yesterday, defeating them 2 to 0.

* * *

Phil. Douglas, banished pitcher, is ill with nervous trouble at his home and legal efforts to get him a hearing from Commissioner Landis have been temporarily suspended.

* * *

Walter Hagen, American winner of the British open golf championship, was once a well-known ball players on the Rochester team.

* * *

Manager Duffy of the Red Sox has ordered his men to quit playing golf in the mornings. It's too bad. Golf is one game most of them can play well.

* * *

The St. Louis Browns are the premier double-play artists of their league. Recently they made a record of at least one double killing in 12 straight games. Three were made in each of five games during their home stand.

* * *

Manager Lee Fohl's shift of Ken. Williams to centre field probably will be permanent, for Williams has done wonderful work in his new position, making catches and throws that the critics say never have been equalled.

GIRLS ARE INVITED TO ATTEND GAME

Members of Girls' Soft Ball Teams Will Be the Guests of Petes and Baseball Committee.

All the girls who are members of the various teams of the Girls' Soft-ball League will be the guests of the members and management of the local Central League team and the Baseball Committee of the P.A.A.A., consisting of Frank Convery and Alex Kay, for the exhibition game between Peterborough and Port Hope on Monday afternoon. All the local girl players as well as the members of the Lakefield team, which is included in the local Girls' League, are expected to be present for the occasion to give the Petes vocal cheer and encouragement for the battle. Seats have been reserved in the grand-stand to accomodate the guests.

In addition to the exhibition game in the afternoon, the Petes will play the regular league game with the Port Hopers in the morning. This game is the one originally scheduled for Wednesday, but has been brought forward to give the local fans a chance to see two fast games on Labor Day.

The morning game is scheduled to start at 10.30 and the afternoon game at 2.15.

ANOTHER NEW TWIRLER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press)—The Brooklyn National League club yesterday announced its purchase of the release of Pitcher Paul F. Cchreiber from the Saginaw club of the Michigan-Ontario League. The Dodgers took the twirler south with them on the training trip last spring. Up to August 20 last he had won 13 and lost 10 games with Saginaw.

C.G.E. LEADERS IN GIRLS' BALL LEAGUE

Electrical Girls Have Not Been Defeated—Colonial Weavers Are a Close Second in Race.

Contrary to what seems to be the prevailing opinion, the Girls' Soft-ball League will play a single and not a double schedule. The C.G.E. girls are now at the top of the league standing with six victories and no defeats to their credit, while the Colonials are close behind them with five victories and one defeat. The other teams range all the way down to the Brintons, who have yet to win their first game. The Brintons have had one game a tie with the "Y" Tigers, and this game will not be replayed unless it is necessary to the standing of one of the teams, which is hardly likely. The standings of the teams with the games yet to be played are as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.	To Play.
C.G.E.	6	0	1000	1
Colonials	5	1	.833	1
"Y" Tigers	3	2	.600	1

There are seven distinct types, comprising tugs, lake freighters, a model of Scott's Antaretic exploring ship, brigantine model of Royal yacht, ocean freighter and ocean liner. "Then be content, dear heart,
God's plans, like lilies pure and white, unfold;
We must not tear the close shut leaves apart,
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold;
And if through patient toil we reach the land
Where tired feet, with sandals loosed, may rest,
Where we shall clearly see and understand,
I know that we will say, 'God knew the best.'"

Are You Getting the Most Out of Life?

This is a pertinent question. You may think you are enjoying life, and chances are you are, after a fashion. BUT you have headaches occasionally; your meals do not agree with you; you suddenly realize that you are getting old and that you do not have the endurance and staying power you had a few years ago.

A Man is as Old as He Feels

The truth is "there is still hope for you." It is very probable that you are suffering from some form of nerve pressure—that somewhere along your spine a vertebra has slipped out of alignment and is causing pressure upon one or more nerve fibres. This could result from a twist, strain, fall or any other abnormal movement.

ADDRESSES TO LABOR MEN BY LABOR LEADER

Samuel Gompers Objects to the Action of the United States Government--Holiday Events

AT EXHIBITION

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5. — (Canadian Press.)— Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor in an address, declared that injunction against railroad shopmen last week was a violation of the constitution and laws of the land and characterized the action of Attorney-General Daugherty as "exercising power never dreamed of in the history of the republic." He held that the injunction was a confession that shopmen have nearly won the strike and urged unions to furnish the money for support of those dependent upon strikers. Mr. Gompers also criticized President Harding and said that the party of Lincoln, which freed the slaves was now trying to force compulsory labor on the white and blacks.

At the Exhibition.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.— (Canadian Press.)-- Message to the effect that the workers of Canada will not tolerate revolution, but that they will gain what they believe to be their rights through ballot, rather than through violence, was delivered at a luncheon of the Exhibition directorate yesterday by Bert Mason, President of the District Trades Council. The gathering was in honor of labor's annual celebration when unionized workmen paraded and had their innings at Canada's big fair. In making a plea for the closed shop Controller Gibbons declared that the workers were asking no more than an applictaion of principle which manufacturers have already put into effect in their own business.

R. J. Tallon, of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, said he hoped there would never be a strike among the shopmen of Canada as there had been in the United States. Hon. W. R. Motherwell declared that the only way Canada could pay off her war debt was for people to get down to hard work.

MUST REFOREST OR COME TO CANADA.

Warning For Americans of Coming Lack of Paper.

The future of the newsprint industry in the United States depends in good measure on replenishing depleted pulpwood areas near the mills, according to the National Bank of Commerce in New York. Production of newsprint has been at a standstill for some years, and the economic effect of having to ship raw material over long distances is beginning to be felt.

"In the East, where the principal mills are located, it has been estimated that present supplies of pulpwood will be exhausted within twenty or thirty years," the bank says in the September number of its magazine, Commerce Monthly. "Already the pulp and paper mill of some states are importing more than half of their supply of raw material. While considerable quantities of pulpwood are imported into the United States from adjacent freehold lands of Canada, the newsprint manufacturing industry in the United States is beginning to feel the economic effect of having to ship raw material over long distances.

"More than eleven and a quarter billion copies of daily newspapers are now printed annually in the United States. The gravity of the position of the newsprint industry in the United States in relation to pulpwood supplies is emphasized by the fact that the production of newsprint in the United States for some years has been practically at a standstill, while production in Canada has trebled. Only two newsprint plants have been established in the United States since 1909.

"Apparently the most feasible plan for protecting the source of raw material for the newsprint industry established in the Eastern and Lake states is to adopt a policy similar to that of many European countries in reforesting cut-over and waste areas, and conserving present supply. More than 60,000,000 acres of potential forest lands accessible to the present established pulp and paper mills in the United States are now producing nothing. A production of one-third of a cord of pulpwood annually per acre on the waste areas would yield 20,000,000 cords, or three times the present consumption requirements in the United States."

RADIO PRIMER.

SKIN EFFECT—Non-uniformity of surrent distribution in the cross-section of a conductor. This is apparent in aerial wire where the amplitude of the high frequency current is largest at the surface and decreases as it nears the axis of the wire. To reduce skin effect, antenna wire is often built up of fine strands.

UNION LEADERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Expect an Early Ratification of the Coal Strike Settlement.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5. — (Canadain Press.)— Union leaders were confident to-day that they could put through the ratification of the agreement arrived at between representatives of the mine workers and anthracite operators for a settlement of the coal strike and in event that their forecast is fulfilled, mining is expected to resume next Monday. They left this morning for Wilkesbarre to prepare for convention of delegates from three districts of United Mine Workers in the hard coal regions which opens to-morrow afternoon to vote on compromise proposals.

THE GREEK ARMY IS ON THE RUN

Government Has Applied to the Powers for an Armistice-Badly Beaten

LONDON, Sept. 5. — (Canadian Press.) — General opinion in well informed quarters to-day was that disaster to the Greek army is complete and there seemed little prospect that anything could now save it from total debacle.

The Greek government has applied to the Powers to obtain an armistice with the Turks. Instructions have been sent to the Allied High Commissioner at Constantinople to discuss joint measures for bringing about suspension of hostilities.

FOUR CLAUSES BIND THE COMMISSION AND TWENTY-FIVE CLAUSES BIND CITY

What a Perusal of the Hydro Power Document Reveals—When the City Sold Its Birthright—Charges Against the Hydro Power Commission and Sir Adam Beck.

It is on record that when Prince Bismark first visited London and beheld its vast wealth and riches he said: "What a splendid city to sack?"

When Sir Adam Beck visited Peterborough on the 28th of December, 1911, and saw for the first time, the large amount of electrical energy consumed in this city and heard the enthusiastic applause that greeted him as the uncrowned Hydro King, in the pride of his heart, he must have said: "What an easy city to soak."

In 1913 he unfolded his scheme to the ratepayers of this city to take a block of 1,000 H.P. or more "at cost." He produced his agreement to take "power at cost," and by guarded misrepresentations and careful concealments, it was approved of by the ratepayers, and before the ink was dry on the agreement he had it ratified by the Legislature as well.

This agreement is a jug handled one. It gives the Hydro Electric Power Commission an exclusive monopoly for 30 years to sell electric power in this city at such price and on such terms as it may see fit, but "at cost."

It is a long document. It contains four indefinite clauses pretending to bind the Commission and twenty-five definite clauses conclusively binding this city to sell its natural birthright for a mess of German sausage. It binds this city to give away the benefit of its water powers for the benefit of the cities, towns and villages and hamlets on the lake front.

This agreement remained a dead letter for three years, and in the meantime the Hydro-Electric Power Commission performed not one single obligation on its part.

In 1916 the Ontario Government bought out the Electric Power Company for $8,350,000, and became the owner of 22 electric power companies, together with generating electric power plants in Central Ontario, and "the Ontario Government is still the owner" and not the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. The Hydro Commission, however, has been appointed trustee for the Government to manage this great undertaking.

Now here, in 1922, is when we find the wood chuck in the stone head. Sir Adam Beck, as head of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, is seeking to form a partnership among the municipalities in Central Ontario for the purpose of unloading on these municipalities, the liabilities and obligations of the Ontario Government which ran up into the millions.

Down to date, the following cities, towns and villages have refused to join in an agreement, similar to the one that Peterborough entered into in 1913, namely, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Orono, Millbrook, Port Hope, Lindsay, Cobourg, Colborne, Brighton, Trenton, Belleville, Napanee, Deseronto, Kingston and other villages and hamlets.

Down to date, these places have wisely refused to become partners in this enterprise and to permit Sir Adam Beck to load them up with liabilities at his own sweet will and pleasure, without their having any more voice or say in the matter, than a prisoner has in a common gaol.

I charge that, in the 14th annual report of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Sir Adam Beck has attempted to prostitute and use the city's agreement that was made in 1913 for the benefit of the Ontario Government, and not for the benefit of this city, nor for the purposes that the electors of this city intended. He has attempted to use this agreement to fasten upon this city a liability of $924,866.02 as our present share of the capital cost of the Hydro system in Central Ontario, without giving any information whatever to the City Council showing how this enormous amount has been arrived at. The Hydro King demands it like tribute.

In his 14th annual report, he has put forward the claim that the Hydro Commission holds what amounts to a first mortgage upon the exclusive right to collect electric light and power rates in this city, and has not even the common courtesy to notify the City Council that he asserts this pretended claim.

He has used this agreement to raise the power rates that are charged to this city from $17.50 to $22.50 per horse-power without even taking the slightest notice of the City Council or giving any reason why the rates should be raised. The Hydro King has decreed and that ends it.

I charge that the Hydro Commission is wrongfully attempting to prostitute the 1913 agreement, in order to force this city to enter into partnership with other cities, towns and villages, that can give no reciprocal benefit, and to deprive this city of the natural advantages of developing electric power in this city, at about one-half the capital cost and at less than one-half the cost per horse-power now charged by the Hydro Commission.

The first duty of the City Council is to notify the Hon. the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines that an improper use is being made of this agreement, that the city repudiates it, and will ask for power to develop water powers in this district on its own account and for its own use and benefit.

Unwelcome Visitor to Peterborough Home

The Waterworks Department Provides Both Meat and Drink to Consumers.

Mr. M. Boyce, of 540 Park street, received a surprise when one of the water taps in his house divulged an unexpected occupant in the way of a small leech, one of those fresh-water denizens that are supposed to have a liking for water pipes, but to whose eixstence most people prefer to turn an unseeing eye. However, this specimen was probably on its way to a secure lodgment in the interior of some member of the household, when chance interrupted its journey. When viewed by the Examiner this morning, it was encased in a small fruit sealer, and was very much alive, having received sufficient rations since its arrival to keep it in this condition. Its possessor expressed herself as being grtaeful that this unlooked-for seasoning had not found a harborage in the family porridge.

CONFIDENT THAT PROPOSALS WILL BE ACCEPTABLE

Senator Reid Looks for Early Resumption of Hard Coal Production.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press.)— Confident that the agreement reached in Philadelphia Saturday night will be ratified by the anthracite miners' convention to-morrow in Wilkesbarre, was expressed to-day by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania in conference with President Harding. The production of hard coal will be well under way by the end of next week, Mr. Reed predicted. During his talk Senator Reed gave President Harding first hand information as to present status of affairs in anthracite fields. Nothing, he declared, has developed which might block the ratification of the agreement.

BOY GOT CHANCE FROM MAGISTRATE

Sentence For Vagrancy Suspended—He Will Have a Chance to Work With Farmer.

This morning may have marked the turning-point in the life of a bright-eyed boy who stood in the prisoners' box at the Police Court before Magistrate Langley this morning, pleaded guilty to vagrancy, and listened attentively to His Worship's homily on the straight and narrow path, and why it should be followed.

"I'd like to see a boy like you make good," said the Magistrate. "Every Canadian boy has a chance to make his way in the world if he will take it. You want to be respected and get along?"

"Sure I do," replied the lad, with an expression some might have interpreted as forwardness. It was simply an earnestness expressed with emphasis.

Sentence was suspended, and the boy will be placed with a farmer this afternoon, where it is understood he will be given every encouragement to become a useful citizen.

Watch For the Style Number

On Wednesday The Examiner will publish as a supplement to its regular edition a Fall Style Number of ten pages, devoted exclusively to the new fall styles. The supplement will contain articles on the fall styles in women's and men's wear, written by New York authorities and the advertisements of local merchants announcing their fall openings.

The scope and reliability of the information carried by the supplement make it valuable as a guide in fall buying, and many people, no doubt, will preserve it for this purpose.

The supplement forms the second section of your paper to-morrow evening and costs you nothing extra. Watch for it, read the articles on styles and the advertisements of local merchants, and you will be forearmed for selecting your fall and winter raiment.

NATURAL DIET PROVIDED FOR KIWANIS CLUB

Many of the Kiwanians Have Long Been Accustomed to Eating Whole Wheat Bread.

TODAY'S SESSION

On account of the visit of the Kiwanis club to Lindsay to-morrow, where Rev. Hay, District Governor, will address a joint meeting, the programme at the noon luncheon to-day was short and snappy. From the showing made it is likely that there will be a large representation at Lindsay. The majority leave on the noon train but others are motoring later in the afternoon. The Peterborough club has arranged the programme and some unusual stunts will come off.

The luncheon was featured to-day by the presence of whole wheat bread upon the hotel tables, the opening made with canteloupe and the final item of milk in place of coffee poured from individual bottles. The result of Mr. MacDougall's address upon right eating delivered one week ago was apparent. For many of the members it was an introduction to wholesome, energizing bread, but the fact was revealed, however, that a large number of Kiwanians have used it for years with beneficial results. The canteloupe met with Dr. MacDougall's favor and the milk was so enjoyed that extra supplies had to be rushed up from the base.

Charter Night.

President Frank Whitehouse impressed upon the members the importance of a large representation at Lindsay and on a standing vote it was shown that practically all the members intend to go. Letters read by the secretary reminded the club that on September 12th, Riverdale, Toronto, have their charter night, and the following evening Barrie enters the Kiwanis family. District Trustee John Allen told the club today that Barrie has opened with 50 charter members, considered to be an excellent showing for one of the smaller towns. Jack McNab reported upon the progress Kingston is making and he brought their best wishes to Peterborough. They were pleased to learn how their son had grown and expanded into virile manhood.

Growth of Club.

President John Crane of the Rotary Club, congratulated the club on its growth and enthusiasm. "Our aims and our objects are much alike," he said. "Our work is about the same and I do not know that there is much I can say. You have gone ahead here and Rotary has had a good season with its Boys' Camp." Rev. J. G. Bousfield of St. Luke's church, was a guest to-day, and Jimmie Evans, who is playing at the Grand delivered a recitation that Josept Wearing remarked "made him think he was a preacher and not a comedian." The menu was augmented to-day by generous supplies of chocolates won by Martin Roche, W. Lawson, Douglas Grant and E. Hensley through Leslie Stevens, who was the booster. The boxes were at once set in motion and attention was drawn to the superior quality of the product in this way and by the eulogistic remarks of C. R. Widdifield, who introduced the representative of the wholesale confectioners.

CONCILIATION BOARD BROUGHT IN REPORTS

Recommend a Reduction of Five, Seven and Nine Cents an Hour for Shopcraft Employees on Canadian Lines.

MINORITY REPORT

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press).—The majority report of the Board of Conciliation investigating differences between the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railway, Grand Trunk and other lines included in the Railway Association of Canada and their shopcraft employees' recommends.

1st—Parties should confer as soon as conditions permit with regard to permanent rates of pay.

2nd—That a reduction of five, seven and nine cents an hour, of which railways gave notice, be effective temporarily from August 15th, but when definite rates are agreed upon they be effective from July 26. The award affects approximately 35,000 employees. It is signed by Alex. Smith, of Ottawa, chairman of the Board, and Isaac Pitblado, K.C., of Winnipeg, representing the employers. James Simpson, of Toronto, has presented a minority report.

The majority report, while not laying down the principle that United States conditions should always prevail in every detail, says the board is impressed with the bearing which United States wage adjustments have had on Canadian railway wages during the last five years, and particularly with the class concerned in the present proceedings. The fact that a large majority of the membership of men organizations have expressed willingness to resume work at reduced rates in the United States subject to re-hearing by the United States Railway board, is an argument for the same class of employees on Canadian railways continuing work under the same scale. In his minority report, James Simpson declared that acceptance of the tentative proposition, an issue before the board, did not ensure industrial peace on the railways, but only delayed the reaching of an amicable understanding between employers and employees, based upon the conditions existing in this country.

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press).—If the wage question for Canadian railwaymen has to be determined in the United States then they will have to participate in the efforts exerted by shopmen of that country, is the view of Frank McKenna, vice-president of No. Four, Railway Employees' Department, American Federation of Labor, in commenting on the findings of the conciliation board on the question of wage cuts for railway shopmen.

Had the Board performed its duties in dealing with the issue upon which application for appointment on board was made, said Mr. Simpson, the railways should have submitted evidence to justify reductions in wages which they were desirous of putting into effect. Without this evidence it was impossible for the Board of Investigation and Conciliation to report on the question of wage reductions either tention of wage reductions either tenmitted that the issue before the board had not yet been dealt with.

LABOUR HAS MADE GREAT ADVANCES IN THE PAST YEAR

Secretary Davis of U.S. Labor Department Says Present Wages Will Continue in Force.

DECRIES VIOLENCE.

MOOSE HEART, Ill., September 5 (Canadian Press). — Labour has made great strides in the United States during the past year, Secretary Davis, of the Labour Department, declared yesterday in a Labour Day address. In spite of unemployment, he declared, it has fought off all attemp' to decrease wage levels set up during the war, and safely passed a war crisis. Working men, "grown accustomed to comforts in life not tasted before," he asserted, "will now find them preserved throughout the future."

"Despite the pressure of a tremendous mass of unemplayed, despite the efforts of a few reactionary employers who selfishly sought to take advantage of the distress of labour and the nation, we have kept the general level of wages up," he declared.

"I am safe in saying the average compensation of the man who toils to-day is within a few per cent. of what it was a year ago, and some have received an increase."

Continuation of high wage levels, Mr. Davis predicted, would bring prosperity in the United States, because it would increase the nation's consuming power. There have been industrial conflicts, he said, referring to the mine, rail, and textile strikes, which have meant "incalculable loss" —and loss that "will reach every man, woman and child in America."

One great prerequisite there is to continue on the path of prosperity, he continued. That is industrial peace. Employer and worker must join forces if the campaign is to be completely successful.

After condemning instances of violence in the rail and mine strikes, he said:

"We must, and will, find a way to end this fratricidal strife in industry. We must and will find means to settle these industrial disputes without recourse to the futile arbitration of forces.

"We must see to it that the worker is guarded against the loss of wages; the employer against the loss of profits; and the public against the loss of service which comes through these suspensions of work. We must put an end to the suffering and privation, the bitterness and hatred which these conflicts engender, and which tend to poison our whole industrial situation."

A man who probably knows, says there never was a meal so expensive as the free lunch.

Miners Entombed A Week Believed To Be Still Alive

JACKSON, Calif., September 5 (Canadian Press). — The night crew of rescuers working the Kennedy Mine in an attempt to reach the forty-seven entombed men in the Argonout Gold Mine, declared on coming to the surface yesterday that when two signal blasts were fired on the 3,700 foot level, they were positive they were answered by five explosions coming from the Argonaut.

The miners declared that the sounds could not have been caused by falling rock. It would have been impossible to hear such sounds through the thick walls of stone that separate the two mines.

All Jackson is rejoicing over the report, for a feeling of certainty that the men still live now exists.

Officials refused to comment on the statements of the miners, or to give out anything official on the report.

CONFIDENCE MEN ARE BUSY AGAIN

Two Men Robbed in Montreal Over the Week-End.

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Confidence men have been very active over the week-end. Fred Dubault, of St. Paul, Minn., and A. Knox of Saskatoon Sask., were among the victims.

Mr. Dubault was relieved of $650. He met two strangers yesterday afternoon, who informed him that they were official entertainers of the Montreal. He being a stranger they invited him to take a ride in a motor car with them.

On a street unknown to Dubault his two new-found friends got out of the car and began an argument. He got out of the car. Immediately he told the police, the two men attacked him and stole from him $650 which he carried in a pocket book. When he came to the police to lay his complaint he bore marks of the encounter.

Mr. Knox, Saskatoon, had a similar experience, losing $450, the "entertainers" grabbing his wallet as he was making change.

JUSTICE RESIGNS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press)—The resignation of Associate Justice Clarke of the Supreme Court has been received by President Harding, it was announced yesterday at the White House. The president, it was stated, will accept the resignation, and intends to nominate former United States Senator George H. Sutherland, of Utah, to take Mr. Clarke's place on the Supreme Court bench.

BIG LABOR PARADE

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press)—More than 2,000 union workers took part in the Labor Day parade here yesterday morning. Unusually attractive floats featured the march. Yesterday afternoon field day and track sports were held at Lansdowne Park.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS HAS OPENED THIRD SESSION IN GENEVA

Meeting Will Last Three Weeks and Many Important Matters Will Come Up.

FOR DISARMAMENT.

GENEVA, September 5 (Canadian Press). — The third assembly of the League of Nations was called to order yesterday morning by the chairman, Domicio Da Gama, of Brazil, before a large gathering of spectators.

The most important subjects expected to come before the organisation during its three weeks' session are those concerning the Austrian financial and economic crisis, and disarmament. It appears that the League is about to take its first real step forward on the latter question, with the adoption of Lord Robert Cecil's plan for continental groupings.

The assembly also will elect four non-permanent members of the Council to succeed Belgium, Brazil, Spain and China.

A movement in favour of Dr. Eduard Benee, Premier of Czecho-Slovakia, for president of the assembly, gained ground during the morning as the result of a division of the South American delegations, but when the meeting opened Augustin Edwards, Chilian delegate, remained the candidate of the League.

There was much talk among the delegates of a report circulated last night that the Peruvian delegate, Dr. Mariano Cornejo, who is also Minister to France, had received instructions not to leave for Genoa until after the president is elected, and to cancel his trip is Senor Edwards is chosen.

The report caused only a mild sensation, however, as Peru was absent last year, and the movement in favour of Senor Edwards was so general that this action was not expected to affect his election.

Citizens of Geneva, who, as usual, invoked benedictions on the League in the churches on Sunday, and chose interest in the annual gathering of the assembly seems unabated, were on hand in great numbers to salute the various delegations as they arrived.

The municipal authorities are arranging the customary water festival and fireworks display in honour of the visitors, to be held to-night.

Despite the defection of several members, the floor was more animated than ever before when Senhor Da Gama called the assembly to order.

After his opening address and the Credentials Committee had been elected, the assembly adjourned until four o'clock.

Senhor Da Gama, in his opening speech, dwelt upon the permanence and greatness of the League, declaring its mission would go on without fear of it becoming a super-state and usurping the nations' rights. He closed the address with the statement that he was purposely making a short one, as the world was too full of long speeches.

"You will soon hear in this assembly," he said, "so many speeches, necessarily long, that you will pardon the briefness of my words in opening the Third Assembly.

"Three years' existence is short in the life of such an institution, but the enthusiasm of those serving the League is a recognition such that we may declare that it will become a definite part of the world's political system and a necessity to the world's normal life. It is true that certain of its adversaries state that the League is dead, to which assertion we have only to point out the results of the League's work, saying with the classic poet:

"'The dead you have killed have wonderful health.'"

RIOTS NEAR BERLIN.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.— (Canadian Press)—Serious rioting occurred in Charlottensburg, western suburb of Berlin, Sunday afternoon, folowing the arrest of a Communist leader when bands of young Communists atacked the guard of the police station in an endeavor to liberate him.

The fighting lasted upward of an hour, and the rioters only dispersed upon the approach of strong police reinforcements.

Several on each side were injured, and a shop near the police station was wrecked.

Many Acts of Violence Are Attributed to Rail Strikers

The Labor Leaders Express Bitter Resentment Against Federal Injunction—Threat of General Strike.

WRITS NOT SERVED.

CHICAGO, September 5th. Canadian Press. — The dawn of Labor Day and the 66th day of the railway shopmen's strike, found United States marshals mobilized to enforce the government's strike injunction, and prepared to keep a close watch on labor demonstrations throughout the country.

In Chicago, union leaders said no organized programme had been made for the observance of the holiday. Arrival of the annual holiday brought with it new acts of violence, and further expressions of bitter resentment on the part of labor leaders against the federal injunction. Many union chiefs against whom the injunction was issued, declared that they had not been served with writs. The whereabouts of B. M. Jewell, the leader of the shop crafts strike, remained unknown early yesterday.

The threat of a general strike as labor's reply to the injunction appeared less serious to-day. A despatch from Washington yesterday morning stated that confidential telegrams from a majority of the members of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor show that unless a much more serious condition is shown in the evidence that may be laid before them in support of the demand for a walkout of all labor than has been made public the Council at its sessions beginning next Saturday will not approve the demands.

Central labor bodies in various cities adopted resolutions dealing with the railroad strikes. The Boston Central Union pledged full moral and financial support to the striking shopmen and adopted a resolution calling upon President Harding to seize the roads and to restore strikers to their old jobs.

The resolution also denounced Attorney General Daugherty for his action in obtaining the injunction.

In Chicago, where one of the first arrests for violation of the injunction was made, the Chicago Federation of Labor, authorized a campaign for funds to aid the striking shopmen. The resolution was adopted following speeches by William Z. Foster, one of the foremost radicals, and former United States Senator R. F. Pettigrew of South Dakota.

Foster, advocate of a One Big Union for railroad workers, criticized the leaders of the rail unions for lack of unity in failing to make the rail strike general. He attended the meeting as a delegate from the carmen's union.

Former Senator Pettigrew said nothing could be expected from a Congress composed largely of lawyers.

"A lawyer," he said, "is the only man who can take a bribe and legally call it a fee. Their training makes them unfit to represent the people."

Investigation of Sunday's disastrous fire in Pittsburgh, Pa., where seven car repairers were burned to death and a number injured when a Pennsylvania Railroad bunkhouse was destroyed, had resulted yesterday in the arrest of one man.

At Louisville, Ky., the failure of alleged train wreckers to remove a derail device prevented the head on collision of a Louisville and Nashville train into a string of cars loaded with stone. The locomotive, baggage and mail cars were derailed but the coaches remained on the tracks and there were no injuries.

Seven men were under arrest at Gretna, La., a suburb of New Orleans, charged with having beaten and slashed the throat of a 15-year-old negro, a round-house employee.

At Carbondale, Ill., an Illinois Central employee, was attacked and beaten.

Two trains were stoned at Greycourt, New York, and the state police went to the aid of railroad detectives in dispersing the crowds in the Erie Railroad yards at Port Jarvis, N.Y., where a workman was injured by the stones thrown.

Other incidents included attempts to wreck trains at Trinidad, Col., and Montgomery, Ala., and the burning of freight cars and buildings at Denison, Texas.

Several strikers were arrested at Memphis, Tenn., in connection with the killing of a Frisco shop worker, who was shot from ambush on Saturday. The police said that the men confessed.

ADRIFT FOUR DAYS IN A THIRTY-FOOT BOAT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(Canadian Press)—In a thirty foot motor boat without food or water, for four days, Thomas H. Batchellor, was rescued by the United States Coast Guards, who saw his signal in Long Island Sound off Port Jeferson, L.I. He had bought his boat in Springfield, Mass., last Wednesday, and started out with a pilot for New York. He dropped the pilot at Saybrook and continued through the Sound alone.

Late the same afternoon his engine developed trouble and soon died. When he was seen by the guards Batchellor, without sleep, had been buffeted by winds and several severe storms for more than 96 hours during which time he had dismantled the engine three times in an effort to locate the trouble. He was taken to his home at Long Beach in a motor car, too weak from hunger and exposure to walk.

CLEARED UP THEFT IN CAMPBELLFORD

Wm. Nuttall Arrested in Oshawa For Robberies Committed on July 1st, 1921.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 5. — Wanted on charges of having broken into two local offices on the night of July 1, 1921, William Nuttall was arrested by Chief Constable Duncalfe in Oshawa on Friday night. It is alleged that in company with Wm. Ellis, of whose whereabouts Chief Duncalfe has also received encouraging information, Nuttall stole a sum of money from the Trent Valley creamery, and from the Grand Trunk station the army revolver belonging to the local agent, Major Bygott.

Nuttall is reported to have confessed that Ellis took the revolver and pawned it in Montreal. It was a big 44 calibre Colt which was highly prized by Major Bygott because he had used it in France and also because it had been presented to him by the citizens of Lakefield before he went overseas. Nuttall and Ellis served six months in a New Hampshire jail for grand larceny, it is said, after their sudden departure from Campbellford, and Chief Duncalfe has endeavoured to trace both of them during recent months. Nuttal was working in Oshawa under the alias of Brown when the Chief got a fresh clue last week which he promptly followed up.

Entrance to the G.T.R. station was gained through the narrow transom over the office door.

M'MULLEN MADE A DESPERATE EFFORT TO GAIN FREEDOM

Man Held in Wyoming Bank Case Uses Dummy Revolver.

TIES UP TURNKEYS.

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press).—One of the most spectacular attempts to jail delivery in the history of Canada took place here, when Edward McMullen, alleged Wyoming bank bandit, attempted by means of a dummy revolver which had been made in secret in his cell to force his way to freedom.

McMullen, while on his way to his bath in company with Day Watchman Forbes and Turnkey Burns, suddenly ordered them to throw up their hands, pointing the perfect imitation of a fully loaded gun into their faces. He backed them into a bedroom and there tied their hands and feet.

Warden Dodd, hearing the noise, grabbed the door of his room just as McMullen attempted to lock him in. The latch broke and Dodd was ordered to throw up his hands. He was looking into what he thought was certain eath, but he grappled with McMullen and a terrific struggle ensued. Dodd hit McMullen over the head with his baton, knocking him unconscious.

Before meeting Dodd, McMullen unlocked the cells of Anderson and Vohn, and offered them their freedom, which they refused.

McMullen presents a terrible condition, being black and blue from the fight with Dodd and being nearly choked to death.

Dodd's fight was a great one, he being a much older man than McMullen. McMullen will be arraigned for jail breaking at the time of his trial on September 25 for robbery of the Wyoming bank.

THE WEATHER

Monday (Labor Day) was warm, but the temperature did not go as high as on Civic Holiday. Labor Day's high point was 86 degrees, while on Civic Holiday the temperature was up to 90 degrees. What really warm weather we have had this summer has apparently been apportioned to its closing weeks. The rainfall for August was but a little over two inches, and a few showers are in order, though perhaps not wanted by those farmers who are behind with their harvesting operations.—W. P.

Mysterious Fire is Being Investigated From Six Sources

PITTSBURGH, September 5 (Canadan Press). — Six investigations—by railway, municipal, county and federal agents—were under way yesterday to determine the cause of the fire which swept through a bunkhouse of the Pennsylvania Railway in the Thirtieth Street yards on Sunday, claiming seven lives and injuring ten other recently employed repair men. Property loss was more than $200,000.

The initial results of the investigation seemingly corroborated the statements of survivors that the fire started in a mass of greasy waste inside the building, and that it could not have been caused by sparks from locomotives passing on the tracks nearby.

George Figgus, a young man arrested near the scene of the fire early yesterday morning, was questioned at length at police headquarters.

It was announced by the police that Figgus was taken in custody because the failed to give a good account of himself, and he was booked on an open charge.

GAME OVERSEER ON TRENT BUSY

Walter Davidson Arrested Five Trenton Men For Opening Duck Season on August 31 — Has Other Cases.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 5.—Five Trenton men opened the duck shooting season at Bradley's Bay on Thursday evening last instead of waiting until the next morning, and before the schoes of their shots had faded from the valley of the Trent they were arrested by Game Overseer Walter Davidson on a charge of shooting wild ducks out of season. They are Alf. Crouter, W. H. Hubbel, W. Pickle, Fred Radway and James Post.

They arrived early on the ridge overlooking one section of the marsh, and about 6.45 their patience and restraint gave way at the sight of ducks feeding in one of the open spaces. Two shots were fired, but apparently there were no casualties.

They will appear in Police Court on Tuesday, and Reuben Weller of Weller's Bay faces a similar charge.

Mr. Davidson's recent activities include the arrest of four Havelock men on charges of catching more than the limit of bass. They will have a chance to defend themselves at Marmora on September 5.

W. F. Gartshore of Brighton and William Grass of Foxboro have received summons for placing set lines at Percy Boom.

SIR MACKAY SAYS EUROPEAN TRADE IMPROVING FAST

Steady Revival of British Trade Is Expected — Countries of Europe Are Placing Orders Again.

STEADY ADVANCE.

LONDON, September 5 (Canadian Press). — "Politically Europe is in a nightmare, but commercially it is approaching convalescence."

This opinion was expressed yesterday by Sir Mackay Edgar, who predicts a steady revival of British trade. He forecasted an exceptionally busy time in the Lancashire cotton industry, which, even now, is sending abroad as much cotton yarn as before the war.

Sir Mackay said that Europe was beginning to place orders once more, while outside of Europe the Indian and Chinese markets, in which Lancashire is particularly interested, are better and the outlook decidedly brighter. He looked to the northern county to lead in the coming trade revival, which would extend to the iron, steel, shipbuilding, coal, and wool and other industries.

British trade was now quietly persistently and definitely on the upgrade. There would not be a boom or anything sensational, but a steady even advance all down the industrial line, which neither blunders, politicians, nor chaos of exchanges would be able to prevent, he said.

Since the Armistice, without the country being aware of it, Lancashire has been the scene of steady progress in the reconstruction and consolidation of the cotton greatest industry, which will soon be as well equipped for external competition as it is for internal efficiency, Sir Mackay concluded.

IMMIGRATION ESSENTIAL.

It is sign of significance to note the changed attitude of the Trades and Labor Council of Canada on the subject of immigration. It has become generally accepted that the greater public question today in the welfare of Canada is bound up in the term "immigration."

Immigration is essentially a creation of new business, the development of our natural resources, the product from which will cause monies to flow into the country and at the same time start the factory wheels going towards the elimination of unemployment.

That this broad question has been comprehended by the Trades and Labor Council is clear in their resolution quoted below. Our resources are capable of the absorption of hundreds of thousands of new citizens, and when it is realized that immigration does not mean the immigration of people alone, but includes the flow of capital, it needs no stretch of imagination to commend it to the public:

"The organized workers of Canada desire to see Canada peopled by free, enlightened, moral, energetic and law-abiding class of citizens and recognize that this can be done quickest by the influx if immigrants. The influx, however, should be the spontaneous movement of the immigrants themselves, and false inducements should be prohibited, and the fullest accurate information freely circulated in the countries from which they comes. Whilst every regard should be had for the welfare of those who seek our shores, the first consideration should be the Canadian people and the betterment of our common country. This consideration covers the exclusion of certain nationalities and classes of people who either by temperament, non-assimilative qualifications, habits, customs or absence of any permanent good which their coming brings us, are not a desirable acquisition to our citizenship."

REFLECTIONS ON THE STRIKE.

Now that the Nova Scotia coal strike is about over, and reason is triumphing over a campaign of passion and unveracity, a few reflections upon the causes of the conflict may not be out of order, remarks the Ottawa Journal. And the first thing that must be said, in the light of what has transpired within recent months, is that a great measure of blame for what occurred rests upon the shoulders of the operators. Since last January, according to all reliable evidence, distress among the miners has been intense. The drop in wages, announced in that defiant, unsympathetic manner which too many employers affect, was sudden, sharp, and out of all proportion to the decline in living costs. The men were not given time to adjust themselves to the new scale, even if it had been adequate. They were simply told that their wages would be cut from thirty to forty per cent., and they were handed a contract the shortness of which was but calculated to annoy. Under the circumstances, in the face of the broken down family budget, who can wonder at the hot reproaches, the passionate demand against "capitalism," the soil so receptive to revolutionary seed?

It is perhaps true that the miners' ranks contained many firebrand leaders. It is probably equally true that many of them were easy victims to foolish talk about the Russian Soviet and the "Third Internationale," and that they struck a bad blow against the State. Yet, looking beyond such foolish talk, and the folly into which it led, looking into these miners' pitiable homes, into their unsanitary, drainless dwellings, examining the prices of their goods and the conditions under which they labor, one is compelled to the conclusion that if they were foolish children crying in the night they had a good deal to cry about.

Nor is such a condition to be remedied by arrogant defiance of employers. It cannot be met by operators using tactics of force by denouncing trades unions, blaming the many for the folly and the evil of the few. It cannot be met by employers talking wildly about Bolshevists and Revolutionaries and Reds and Third Internationale, terms almost as foolish in the mouths of the employing classes as "Exploitation" and the "Capitalist State" and the "Capitalist Class" are foolish in the mouths of the workers. It can be met only by a recognition that Trades Unionism is here to stay, that labor is not a commodity to be bartered for in the cheapest market, and by a spirit of tolerant inquiry into the workers' aspirations and needs.

Canada cannot and will not tolerate violence, or Sovietism, or the methods of the Russian Bolshevist. Canadians can never submit to a dictatorship by radicals, or to a tyranny of Trades Union force. Neither, however, can we afford the condition which subjects thousands of workers to a yoke of servitude, to underfeeding, to a lot which deprives them of giving their children the opportunity for education and betterment which the Creator intended they should have.

Much of the conflict that has been waged in the mining of Nova Scotia would be avoided if these truths were more firmly believed. How much better, for example, how much more profitable for all concerned would it have been if, instead of the sudden drop in the fall of last year, a more sympathetic scale, such as is being agreed upon, had been devised? What a store of passionate resentment, and class hatred, bitter recrimination would have been avoided! What a loss in wages and production would have been saved to miners and operators alike!

The moral, surely, is that many of our employers, as well as our employes, stand in need of education. They must learn that whatever their conditions, the remedy is not to be found by sabotage or by the Third Internationale. Employers must be taught that by their cry of Bolshevism or of Sovietism—words which all too frequently have no application to the case—but by the realities of their treatment of their employes shall the public judge of them. They must be taught, too, that in all disputes between capital and labor the third party, whose interests are just as vital as the other two, and that the time has come when the Public will permit neither the greed of employers nor the radicalism of employes to inflict injury upon the State. The day when either the Capitalist or the Labor leader can say "the public be damned," is gone, and gone forever.

BRITAIN'S COAL TRADE.

The one brightest spot in Britain, at th moment, in the middle of a wet August, is the coal trade.

Orders have never been larger, nor from a wider area, than they are to-day. A sudden shower of orders has comefrom the United States, and apparently this shower is to continue, as the latest cablegram announces that 35 American ships are now on their way across the Atlantic for cargoes of coal.

Canada, too, is ordering British coal, in anticipation of a railway strike; and orders from Germany have doubled.

In the last six months, Germany has bought 2,822,655 tons of British coal, in spite of the slump in the mark.

There is congestion at the British coal ports. The trimmers are working three shifts. They are shovelling night and day to load the queue of waiting coal ships, as all American buyers are demanding immediate shipment.

There is no danger of a docker's strike. That was made sure during the week. The dockers have quietly accepted a reduction of fifty cents a day.

Until a week ago, the coal industry was overmanned. There were 100,000 miners too many. But at present there is work for everyone, except in those mines that were destroyed during the strike.

There is a rush of workers to the coal fields, like a gold rush in Australia. As there are, all told, 1,200,000 unemployed in Britain, this rush is likely to be overdone.

The output has been averaging 5,000,000 tons a week, with one-tenth of this for export; but much more than a tenth will be shipped during August.

The poor old coal trade can scarcely believe its own eyes. No strike. No state control. No slump. No grumbling. It has not been so happy for many a day.

The coal miners have repudiated Bolshevism. They did it officially last month by a vote of 883 to 118. They have chucked Karl Marx overboard and decided to remain decent Britishers. Even Hodges, their leader, has developed from a firebrand into a conservative unionist. He led the attack on Bolshevism at the recent conference.

As for Robert Smillie, the man who nearly led the miners over the precipice, he is now living in retirement. He tried to be a British Lenine, and he failed. The net result of his outbreak is that the miners' unions are badly broken up and entirely destitute of funds.

All the better class of miners are now doing their best to live down the bad reputation that they made for themselves two years ago.

Under the leadership of a handful of Bolshevised labour leaders, they flooded many mines and drowned the pit ponies. Such violence was repugnant to Britishers and most of all to the miners themselves.

A reaction has come. The Red leaders have been dropped. In several cases they have been roughly handled by the miners whom they deluded.

An era of peace and goodwill has dawned in the coal regions. Employers and miners are sitting side by side in meetings, and trying to improve conditions and reduce costs.

The average earnings per shift for men, women, and boys is now $2.32. This is 50 per cent. above the wages of 1914. It is fair enough, considering that there are 100,000 boys and that the shift is now only seven hours, instead of eight.

Now that an adult skilled miner is getting more pay than the average school teacher or clergyman, he can hardly be said to have a "starvation wage."

Coal prices at present in London vary from $8.40 for the cheapest stove coal to $20.64 for anthracite nuts. "There will probably be a steady increase of prices," says the Coal Owners' Alliance. There was a rise in London during the week of 50 cents a ton on the better grades.

The freight rate on coal is still twice what it was in 1914; and a reduction is being demanded by the Federation of British ndustries. Cost of cartage is still more than twice 1914 figures.

All coal for use in homes or office buildings is still carted in sacks, like flour. It is still handled by shovels and hand labour. There is no such thing, in any British city, as a self-dumping coal truck. This primitive methodof delivery adds fully a dollar a ton to the cost of coal.

As for colliery securities, they have been under a cloud; but during the week they were favourably noticed for the first time in eight years.

The total capita l now invested in the coal trade is nearly $1,000,000,000. Average profits before the war were 10 per cent.; and 16 per cent. during the war and afterwards. This was gross profits, not dividends.

The total profits in the past ten years have been about $1,500,000,000, without deducting the cost of the wreckage in the last strike.

The profits in 1916 were more than three times as much as in 1911, so it is clear that the war and its aftermath have not damaged the British coal trade.—Herbert W. Casson in Barron's.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There is significance in the fact that in the by-election in St. John-Iberville, a Farmer candidate was elected over a prominent lawyer. Class consciousness is beginning to be felt in Quebec too.

Common-sense has prevailed in Nova Scotia. It is unfortunate, however, that it took so long to assert itself.

The Six Nation Indians have notified bootleggers that their presence is not required at the picnic next week. They are not that kind of Indians.

The public will have little difficulty in appreciating who lost the coal strike.

The miners' demands are to be simply passed on to the people; that is the hard coal situation in a nutshell.

Swimming the English Channel is not our idea for spending an enjoyable September day.

It is a good thing that the Government's road policy at least is broadening out.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Upon the man's face was an expression of horror and terror beyond belief. The white hair of the savant was stained dull red from the blows and bruises on his head. The clothes were torn away from his chest, revealing the cuts of some sharp instrument in crisscross designs. His feet, bare, were covered with huge gray-white blisters and red-blue burns. A fire of papers still burning in the grate gave mute testimony to his torture.

Involuntarily Dupont's eyes strayed to the wall. Half the paper was down. The portrait of Steele was gone. His benefactor, by methods worthy of the lowest savages, had been forced to tell the hiding place.

Stupefied, the hypnotist questioned the police almost incoherently. Only by a supreme effort of will could he force himself to action. When the apartment was searched thoroughly for clues, yielding nothing of value, he suggested an investigation of the adjoining quarters which he still believed connected in some mysterious way, but without hope, without courage, with the very heart torn from him.

In Paul Noyes's studio, the signs of another struggle were revealed before them in full grimesomeness of detail. Square in the middle of the floor, in a pool of blood barely congealed, Dacca and Kali lay dead, locked in their death grapple. How Dacca pursued his quarry through the secret passageway, just how he sold his life for the old scientist, Dupont never knew.

The shock of the second death, the testimony of the faithfulness of his man, had the effect of nerving Dupont. Before him still was the rescue of Violet. Impressed upon him as never before was the quality of her danger.

With the police behind him, he led the raid in the dusk of early evening. At first he thought he had the gangsters surprised, as no sound came from the church; then his forces were greeted with a fusillade of shots. There were no fatalities; likewise there were no results. Some hidden exit enabled all the emissaries of the Devil God to escape. A scream led him to Violet, to a door at the end of a dingy corridor, damp, and infested with cobwebs which clung to

XXI

VIOLET'S BIRTHDAY

From the window, Dupont glanced out upon Washington Square, which was bustling with the life of mid-afternoon. Immediately before him was the sector allotted by unwritten law to the well-dressed children of the houses on the north, and their nurses. Here was aristocracy which disdained to move to West End Avenue, or Forest Hills, or Westchester County. Beyond, were the irrepressible offspring of the Italians dwelling to the south. They swam in the fountain, scrambled beneath the wheels of Fifth Avenue busses for pennies, or swarmed over forbidden tracts of grass. Behind were Bohemian quarters and Village shops, a garage, and a church designed by Stanford White.

Then his glance strayed to the girl beside him. For all her terrors Violet had suffered no permanent hurt. She was dressed in black still, in memory of her beloved guardian. Dupont was just human enough to realize that the garb was immensely becoming; that her hair, which coiled high and proudly above the wide level-placing of her eyes, glistened yellow as brass in a lathe, and formed with the sombre circle of her gown below a glorious frame for almost perfect features. He was selfish enough to exult in the fact that she was to be his. He drew her a little closer to him with the involuntary contraction of muscles in an arm which had fought for her, valiantly.

"Thank Heaven" he exclaimed. "It's over."

"Robert" Her lips were full and red in protest. "You promised not to mention the horrible experiences of—of those eight days." The tears welled up in her eyes, brimming beneath her lashes. "Poor dear Doctor Daddy" she added.

He was very contrite as he kissed her. "Forgive me," he murmured.

"Besides—" Very suddenly she flung her arms about his neck, wholly without reserve. Now she held no though of attempting to do without him, of facing her enemies alone. Gone was the girlish courage of the morning she had sent him from her. Spare him she could not. "Besides," she confessed, "I'm afraid—I'm afraid it's far from over. I feel terribly frightened, Robert."

"It's more than two weeks since anything has happened," he suggested, reassuringly. "There has been no word, no sight or sign of the gang."

Her voice became a whisper. "I had a dream last night, again. I don't remember it clearly, but it was all about Phantom Face and Evil Eye and Vera Collins and the hunchback. It may be a warning."

"Nonsense It is just the natural reaction. And now to-day's your eighteenth birthday, and all their threats were to be executed against you before your birthday."

"Do you suppose—" She checked herself, blanching.

"What?"

"Could—could they be waiting to learn the provisions of my father's will? The lawyer is coming this afternoon to read it. Could that be the reason they have left us alone?"

For More Business

One reason why selling by Long Distance is so surprisingly successful is, that it enables merchants and manufacturers to put their best selling talent on the job of selling possible customers not on the travellers' routes.

The real salesman sells them by Long Distance a standardized stock of the best-selling goods. As they are well advertised, these goods, if well displayed, practically sell themselves. Duplicates, odd sizes, and additions to stock are ordered by Long Distance, and are shipped immediately by express, parcel post or fast freight.

Long Distance has become the Salesman's right hand. It reaches everyone you could hope to do business with. The Telephone Directories are a complete guide to "Who's Who In Business".

Reach out for more business! Go beyond your present selling radius! Put your best salesmen on the job of selling by Long Distance!

REBEKAHS HELD BIG CORN ROAST

Over 150 Rebekahs and Oddfellows Attended Outing Held at Wallace's Point.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 5.—Though a number of corn roasts have been held in Millbrook and vicinity this fall, no other has been as largely attended or more thoroughly enjoyed than the one held on Friday evening under the auspices of the Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176. Wallace's Point was the location chosen for the gathering, and the evening was the "finest ever" so far as the weather was concerned. About 8 o'clock the car loads began to arrive at the park, until at least 150 of the Rebekahs and Oddfellows with their husbands and wives were finally upon the scene. Gasoline lanterns were hung in the trees and, with headlights from some of the cars and a big bonfire upon the shore, gave abundance of light for the occasion, while community games were heartily entered into and enjoyed. Finally the fire became the centre of attraction, around which all gathered while dozens of ears of corn were roasted over the glowing coals, and these with a generous supply of pies of various kinds made a supper which left nothing to be desired either in quality or quantity.

A jolly time followed with community singing, led by Rev. G. S. Gervan, and as the flames began to die down and the midnight hour was drawing near the dance which was to have brought the outing to a conclusion was postponed until some later date, the merry-makers evidently having had enjoyment enough, and quite possibly exercise enough with the lively games which filled the earlier part of the evening.

100 HOGS ARE LOST IN FIRE

Also Large Barn and Outhouses Totally Destroyed.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 5. — A large barn, a number of outbuildings and about 100 hogs on the farm of George Vance, near Warkworth, were totally destroyed by fire on Sunday evening. The fire started at about 9 o'clock, originating it is thought from spontaneous combustion.

FAIRMOUNT CHURCH HELD A REOPENING

Rev. R. M. Patterson Preached at Both Services on Sunday — Interior Re-decorated.

FAIRMOUNT, Sept. 5.— The re-opening of Fairmount church was held on Sunday, Sept. 3rd, Rev. R. M. Paterson, of Fraserville, being the preacher for the day. Rev. S. G. Rorke, of Cavan, took charge of Mr. Paterson's appointments, thus allowing the latter to officiate at both the morning and evening services for the Fairmount congregation. The church, situated on the 12th Line, Cavan, has been thoroughly renovated during the past two months, the congregation worshipping at the Presbyterian church, Springville, (Rev. G. I. Craw, minister), for the seven weeks their own place of worship has been undergoing repairs.

The interior of the church has been greatly improved, under the skilful supervision of Mr. Hume, of Omemee, the walls being frescoed a deep cream mingled with white in marbled effect, and having a stencilled border of appropriate design, while the ceiling shades into a lighter tint of cream. The windows have been changed, and the woodwork regrained in a light oak shade, harmonizing well with the new and comfortable seating accommodation, and also with the new pulpit and pulpit furniture, which have been provided. The choir is now seated behind the minister, a new platform having been built for their use, not only giving larger space, and adding to the attractiveness of the auditorium, but being obviously of benefit to pastor, leader and organist in other ways as well. The carpets, with the curtains and railing round the choir loft, are also freshly purchased, and the entire color scheme is restful, and in perfect harmony throughout. The Sunday school room has likewise been re-decorated, new hardwood flooring put down, and new library book cases installed.

The congregation on Sunday morning practically filled the church, and as the people gathered, including many strangers from other circuits, expressions of approval of the changes made were heard upon all sides, the flowers, tastefully arranged within the altar, supplying an added note of beauty for the occasion. In his opening remarks, Rev. Mr. Paterson congratulated pastor and people on the religious significance attached to their renovation of the Lord's house in so thorough and satisfactory a manner. The choir furnished special music for the service, including an anthem preceding the sermon, "There is a river all must cross," with solo by Miss Southam, and after the lesson, Miss Annie Dean, of Ithaca, Mich., sang very beautifully the solo, 'I heard the voice of Jesus say." The concluding anthem, "O Wandering Heart," with duet by Miss Southam and Miss Marie McBain, was also much enjoyed. On account of the heat the service was limited to one hour's duration, the responsive reading of Psalms 23 and 24 being the only Scripture lesson used

The minister took his text from John 4:32: "I have meat to eat that ye know not of," and after describing the setting of the story when Christ, in that memorable talk by Jacob's well, sowed the seeds of gospel truth in the heart of the Samaritan, while the disciples were gone away into the city to buy meat, the speaker went on to show that our happiness and hope of eternal life depend upon our understanding and acceptance of this spiritual food of which Christ knew the full value. The question, "Of what nature is this 'meat'? finds its answer in the Saviour's own words, "My meat is to do the will of Him that sent Me"; does this add to the mystery of the original remark, or make plainer the statement of Jesus? Throughout the discourse this thought of "feeding on Him by faith with thanksgiving" was carefully illustrated, and developed, a warning being sounded to those who, through carelessness, or indifference, are spending their money" for that which is not bread, and their labor for that which satisfieth not." A charitable judgment of our fellow citizens is necessary, but it is a sad tragedy for any soul to lack partaking of that 'meat' for which our Saviour made plain the spiritual hunger is great.

The evening congregation filled the church to capacity, a solo by Rev. Mr. Craw, of that charge, and Rev. Mr. Rorke, of Cavan, were present and took some part.

No special appeal was made for funds when the offering was received, but that a generous spirit of "bringing the tithes into the storehouse" prevailed was evident as the ushers concluded this part of their task in connection with the day's worship.

SCHOOL OPENS IN MILLBROOK

Number of Improvements Have Been Made to the Building — Review of Work.

MILLBROOK, September 5. — An inspection of the school building during the holidays revealed the fact that it would be compulsory to carry out many needed improvements before the fall term began. A committee on repairs was appointed by the School Board, consisting of Rev. C. R. Spencer, C. Thorndyke, L. C. Russell, and J. A. Vance—the last-named proving a very active and capable chairman.

For the first time since the building was erected, the floors in all the rooms and halls, and the stairs as well, have been oiled. Had this been done in earlier years, doubtless many unsightly cracks and stains might have been avoided.

Where needed, the blackboards have been carefully done over, new blinds have replaced those torn and faded during months, and possibly years, of use, while the walls in halls and classrooms have had fresh coats of muresco in well-blended shades—a deep cream having been chosen for the former and the latter tinted a pale pink.

In Miss Handley's room, where the congestion is greatest, the committee felt that everything possible should be done to improve present conditions, hence not only has the woodwork in this room been freshly painted, but 35 new seats and desks of the latest approved design have been provided, the seats having a good-sized receptacle for books, and the desks being adjustable at various angles to suit the size of the pupils, and placed flat or slanting according to the needs of the study hour.

The seating has also been altered in Miss Russell's room, the seats now facing north instead of east as formerly, to allow the light over the pupils' left shoulder—this arrangement, in the opinion of experts, causing the minimum of strain upon the eyesight. As soon as the blackboard accommodation will permit, this alteration will be made in any other room not as yet so provided for.

All the woodwork in the present building would have been the better for a fresh coat of paint, but as this will have to be done when the four-room extension now being planned for is added, the committee felt it necessary to keep as well within the limits of a wise economy as circumstances would permit.

It was also found upon examination that the waterworks system required a thorough overhauling, and this, as considerable trouble and under careful supervision, has been satisfactorily carried out. When the proposed extension is made to the school, electric light should certainly be installed — indeed, considerable inconvenience must be experienced by both teachers and scholars during the dark days of fall and winter through the fact that no lights of any sort are available.

As soon as possible the plans for the additional rooms, which the trustees have now well under way, will be made public, and all necessary steps for their successful carrying out be proceeded with.

In the meantime the repairs committee are to be commended on having done all that could reasonably be accomplished to improve conditions for the present, and doubtless when both the Continuation and the Public Schools re-open on Tuesday morning, teachers and scholars will appreciate the changes which have recently been made.

The staff for this year consists of Miss M. Money and Miss G. Hood, principal and assistant for the Continuation School, and Misses I. Handley, A. Russell, and M. McConnachie, principal and assistants in the Public School.

FIRE DESTROYS VALUABLE BARN

Season's Crop Went Up in Smoke — Loss Will Be Heavy — Campbellford News.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 5. — Early Sunday evening the large barn, outbuildings, silo, etc., on the farm known as the "Douglas Farm," about two miles from Warkworth, were totally destroyed by fire, together with its entire season's crop, consisting of 65 tons of hay, grain estimated at about 3,000 bushels, 500 bushels of last year's grain, four pigs, the poultry, and all the implements, which were of the most modern type, all except the tractor, being destroyed. The farm is owned by Mr. George Weddell, of Trenton, and is under the management of Mr. George Vance, who had returned from town and had completed the evening's chores, when Mrs. Vance, who was in the house, noticed a fire in the north end of the barn, and immediately gave the alarm. Neighbors quickly responded to the call, and seeing it was impossible to save the buildings, assisted in the removal of the horses, etc. It was with much effort that the flames were prevented from destroying the house, sparks having several times caught on the roof, and trees were cut down to save the house, from which all the furniture was being removed. Crowds gathered from far and near to assist in fighting the flames, and to witness the conflagration. Whether the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion, or the work of a couple of tramps seen in the neighborhood recently, is not known. Although there was some insurance, Mr. Weddell's loss will be considerable, and it is understood the barns will be re-built.

Principal Moffatt was well pleased with the attendance on opening day at the High School. The teaching staff for session 1922-23 is as follows:

Choose Your Preserving Utensils Carefully

MANY women enjoy great success with their preserving year after year for the simple reason that they use the best enameled ware that money can buy. They use either Diamond Ware or Pearl Ware. The porcelain-like surface of either of these wares keeps as clean as a glass jar. Acidy fruit juices cannot affect their non-metallic surface. Ensure success in your preserving by using

SMP Diamond or Pearl WARE

"A Face of Porcelain and a Heart of Steel"

The hardest cooking or preserving leaves it as easy to clean as china. It cannot absorb grease or odors. And it will mean much lower cooking fuel bills, because it cooks food far faster than all-metal utensils.

Do you know that the Diamond Ware or Pearl Ware pot or pan that cost $1.50 last year can now be bought for 90 cents? Ask your regular hardware merchant.

Diamond Ware is sky blue and white outside, all white inside, with three coats of enamel fused on shapes of steel. Pearl Ware is pearly grey inside and out and has two coats of special SMP enamel fused on steel shapes. Either will suit you admirably.

Reduced Prices on Preserving Sets

HARDWARE merchants who sell SMP Wares have put a special price this year on Diamond Ware and Pearl Ware preserving sets — comprising preserving kettles, sauce pans, cullenders, measures, fruit jar fillers, flat skimmers, ladles, spoons, pitchers and so on.

Clip this advertisement from the paper. Take it to your regular hardware man's store and he will give you a very moderate price on a preserving set—much cheaper than buying the utensils at the regular price piece by piece. It's a great saving. And make sure the SMP trademark is on every utensil.

WILLING TO BUY FARM MACHINERY FROM THE STATES.

Turkey at Last Realizes the Vital Need of Machine Power to Replace the Exhausted Animal Service.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 5. — (Associated Press).—The vital need of machine power in Turkey has been obvious and urgent as a result of the exhaustion of the available supply of animals in the long-drawn wars, is the opinion of American Consul-General G. Bie Ravndal. "Most of the draft animals have been used for calavry and artillery purposes, and many of them to supply food for the soldiers," he continued, speaking to the representative of the Associated Press. "Consequently a demand is arising for the tractor and the plow. American tractors as well as other American-made farm machinery, possesses a fine reputation in Turkey, and at present dominate the market. The Kahnemann (German), Fiat (Italian and Renault (French) tractors are in the field, but they cannot compete successfully with American machines which are being offered. The chief desiderata are price, efficiency and simplicity, and the American tractors have been found to fill these requirements."

Similar consideration apply to other agricultural machines and to tillage instruments, for which the demand is growing in the Near East. These include reapers and binders, threshing machines, plows, harrows, cultipackers and drills.

There appears to be good ground for encouraging American manufacturers of agricultural implements and machinery to pay increasing attention to the near eastern field, Mr. Ravndal went on. In the extension of this trade, it is essential to give credit to dealers in order that they may be able to carry out the practical demonstrations which are so necessary in these virgin markets, and to accommodate the farmers financially. It is also important that measures be taken to have a full supply of spare parts on hand in suitable repair shops.

"The opportunities for the development of the Anatolian, Thracian and adjoining markets for agricultural machinery and implements are considered very good," the Consul-General continued. "The situation at the present time is adversely affected by the absence of highways and railways and other means of transporting farm produce to the central markets, but this defect is certain gradually to be remedied. No duty is charged for the admittance of agricultural machinery into Turkey. As a rule, general agencies are established in Constantinople with branches in other cities."

RESEARCH SHOWS KINSHIP WITH APE

Says Man and Monkey Had Common Ancestry Millions of Years Ago.

Surprising statements on evolution in the three new supplementary volumes of the "Encycloppedia Britannica" just published are calculated to rouse William Jennings Bryan and all those who are not on the side of the monkeys to a vigorous denial.

A remarkable article in these new volumes is the one on "Anthropology," by Professor Grafton Elliot Smith, of the University of London. He says that recent research has definitely established the fact of man's close kinship with the anthropoid apes, and that mankind springs from the Siwalik Hills, in the foothills of the Himalayas. He repudiates the views of Professor Edward Burnett Tylor of Oxford, who wrote the "anthropology" article in the 1911 edition.

Professor Elliot Smith says:

In spite of not infrequent attempts to disprove man's kinship with the apes, recent research in anatomy, embryology, and comparative pathology, as well as the conclusive test of blood-relationship, has definitely established the fact of man's close kinship with the anthropoid apes, and especially with the gorilla. But this fundamental conclusion is not in any sense invalidated by the clear recognition of the further fact that the ancestors of man and the gorilla respectively became differentiated one from the other at least as early as the Miocene period. (Millions of years ago.)

Referring to the discovery of certain fossil apes in the foothills of the Himalayas by Dr. Pilgrim, the writer says:

. . . it is quite certain that in Miocene times the region of the Siwalik Hills was a great breeding ground of anthropoid apes, and that the great variety of species and genera which were involved there included the ancestors not only of the orangs, the chimpanzees, and gorillas, but also of the human family. The ancestors of the chimpanzees and gorillas spread west with man's forerunners and reached not only Africa, where their descendants have survived until the present day, but also Europe, where the fossilized remains of Dryopithecus are widespread. In the course of its wanderings between Northern India and Africa human characteristics emerged in one of these simian forms.

The professor, in his comments on the famous Piltdown skull found in Sussex in 1912, a "missing link" between man and monkey, says that it is of fundamental importance to realize that it "reveals indubitable traits of an extremely early phase in the attainment of human character. . . . In fact, there is not reason for withholding assent to the view that this remarkable cranium has not yet lost all the marks of the ape.

Professor Elliot Smith says that black was originally probably the color common to all mankind:

After the Australian and Negro has been differentiated the rest of the human family attained a higher plane of development associated with a bleaching of the skin, a refinement of the features, and a further growth and specialization of the brain.

A Practical Prescription For Sour, Acid Stomach

Nine-tenths of all cases of stomach trouble nowadays are caused by too much acid. In the beginning the stomach itself is not diseased but if this acid condition is allowed to continue, the acid is very likely to eat into the stomach walls and produce gastritis with stomach ers. This may render a radical surgical operation necessary even to prolong life. Therefore, an "acid stomach" is really a dangerous condition and should be treated seriously. The excess acid or stomach hyperacidity can easily be neutralized by Bisurated Magnesia taken in teaspoonful doses in a glass of water after each meal. Larger quantities may be used if necessary as it is absolutely harmless. Be sure to ask your druggist for the pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for this purpose.

Mr. M. Mr. Huycke's ability as a pianist is well known to the public, and his special gifts in extemporising should add a special attraction to some of the features that will be shown.

BEECHAM'S Sweeten the Stomach PILLS

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR OTTAWA FAIR

In Every Way the Exhibition Promises to Exceed Records in All Departments.

Each day finds prospects brighter for the Ottawa Exhibition of 1922 eclipsing all previous years both as an exhibition of stellar worth and also from the point of attendance.

Entries close on Sept. 5th and they have been coming in for the last few days in a way which ensures splendid competition in all departments. The light horse class will be particularly well filled, in fact the performances in harness and over hurdles will make a show in itself as some of the finest horses in the Dominion have been entered. Other departments in live stock, the automobile, dairy, agricultural, poultry, manufacturers and other departments will also have displays of the highest standard. Special attention has been given this year to the dog and cat shows and these will be real centers of attraction.

Realizing that Exhibition visitors look for amusement as well as education, the management and directors have planned on an elaborate scale for refined and unusual amusement. The midway has been laid out differently this year and new shows and riding devices will furnish pleasure and surprises for all.

In front of the grandstand the show will be on a scale never before equalled in Ottawa. Those who desire thrills will have full satisfaction. Topping these will be sensational drivers who have made their reputations on road and dirt tracks will cut loose their high powered machines, the track having been specially fitted for the event. Drivers with reputations for daring and speed will be seen in real contests. Then each afternoon there will be auto polo by teams, the individual members of which seem to be flirting with death all the time that they struggle for supremacy. Another thrill, or series of thrills, will be when Prof. C. A. Farley steps off an aeroplane, landing in the grounds from a parachute. Horse races, whippet races and aerial feats will keep interest up to the highest notch. Then there will be New York vaudeville acts with comedy features predominating. These will include the Original Baggage Smashers and the Lunatic Bakers, two turns which have been the biggest kind of hits at the New York Hippodrome. In the evening there will be a spectacular fireworks display.

It will be a full week fair. All the displays are required to be in place on Monday morning and each afternoon and evening the full program of entertainment will be presented, the week concluding with a Mardi Gras on Saturday night when King Carnival will hold sway.

Strip tickets, by which five admissions ae secured for a dollar, a direct saving of seventy-five cents are now on sale and the demand has been unusually good. Special arrangements are being made for the reception of visitors. To augment the hotel accommodation, citizens are listing their homes at the exhibition office so that visitors may be able to secure first class rooms during fair week. In addition to the regular boarding houses, there will be many homes opened by people who do not as a rule rent roms.

FARMER'S WIFE REGAINS HEALTH

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fork River, Manitoba.—"I saw in the newspapers where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing so much good to women, and as I needed something I began to take it. I used to be very sick but I am not now. I live on a farm in the homestead district and we have to do all our own work. I tell all the women I see what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for me. I think it saves me from going to a doctor and is the best medicine women can take."—Mrs. Wm. Coultas, Fork River, Manitoba.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for the ailments peculiar to women. It is prepared from medicinal plants, with care and accuracy. It can be taken by women of any age.

Such symptoms as pains and irregularities, all gone feelings, backache, headache, hot flashes, nervousness, with a general run-down condition, indicate some form of female trouble.

The Vegetable Compound has brought relief to thousands of women suffering from such ailments. Let it help you.

AMERICAN LABOR TO FIGHT THE INJUNCTION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—American debt agreement provides for waiving payment of all interest due before January 2nd, 1923, and all arrears now due. Mexico in return obligates itself to restore railroad and rolling stock to private management and to see that railroad debts are met.

Anthracite mining expected to be resumed in full in one week, following agreement to end the strike.

Congressional leaders to decide to-day on bonus tariff programme.

American Federation of Labor to fight in court rail strike injunction to determine workers' rights.

Hoover to arrange emergency control of anthracite distribution and prices.

Bradstreets reports 1,660 failures in the United States in August, with $36,828,753 liabilities, against 1,568 in July with $42,145,545. Excepting June, August failures smallest reported since Septemebr, 1921.

Resources of national banks of the United States totalled $20,706,000,000 on June 30, increase $529,000,000 over May.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Conspicuous strength in Wall Street last week demonstrated the fact that the underlying principles of the market are of a positive nature. There were some weak cases for the hospital but these were in evidence for some time and only culminated last week. The main strength was manifested in such stocks as C. P. R., North-Western, Union Pacific, Studebaker, U. S. Steel, etc. You might include A.S.P. Crucible, Famous Players in the strong group.

There were other stocks that rose considerably during the last week, but I mention the foregoing because they showed remarkable resistance when any attempt was made on the market and also because they all improved their positions so easily. This shows quite clearly that if there are any bears in the good stocks they are quite nervous for any bidding at all on the A1 stocks always results in higher prices and levels which is most important. Mexican Petroleum has been the active leader for some days, but I would not call it the strong stock of the market—it is used more for a demonstration than for its genuine gain by increased profits, etc. It has been no doubt a beautifully attractive stock for the stout-hearted but for the weak-margined trader, beware.

The chemical stocks showed a better position than for some time past and I think both Allied Chemical and Davison Chemical will make money for a pull, perhaps in the next few weeks. International Nickel will undoubtedly advance when those behind it feel inclined to do so. Cast Iron Pipe, Retail Stores and like stocks will be attractive later on. Our old friend, United States Steel, will increase your bank account if you buy and have patience to wait. Its worth is warranted and its past history should bear out my prediction of higher prices. There isn't a doubt in my mind but that the equipment shares will reward you handsomely in the next few months, as the railroads must of necessity buy equipment to take care of the enormous business awaiting them. It doesn't require much nerve to buy at anywhere near the present prices.—Spencer.

MONEY A POWERFUL BULL FACTOR.

The strike situation has resulted in a condition which may prevent any important advance in money rates for some time to come, according to well-informed banking interests, who say that had the labor crisis passed two months ago a different story would have been told this fall.

Funds are understood to have continued to accumulate owing to (1) the coal strike checking business expansion by making fuel scarce; (2) the railroad tie-up preventing new enterprises from becoming active in fear of traffic congestion this winter; (3) readjustment credits have been released and enlarged the supply of idle capital; (4) resumption of gold imports has added its force to the accumulation of money.

Harvesting demands can easily be taken care of by western banks, under the circumstances, aided by Federal Reserve transfers, eastern centres having no place to employ funds in the meantime except in the security market, with a result that the fleeting supply of attractive issues will continue to be steadily reduced.

This condition is referred to in conservative quarters as forming the basis for extension of the market advance into higher levels, the belief being encouraged by latest developments that it will be some time before credits are demanded from the street. Aggressive activities on the long side of the market are being predicted in the near future by conservative sources.

ACTIVE INVESTMENT OPINION

As we see it, all that has happened has been the customary resting and digesting point, and with this corrective influence having served its purpose, higher prices are immediately before us.—Hornblower & Weeks.

We continue to favor purchases of good rails, equipments and steels and while we do not expect a general movement upward of all stocks, we think well selected purchases will show good profits.—A. A. Housman & Company.

Our faith in the market remains unshaken, and we believe stocks of merit will ultimately enhance in value.—F. B. Keech & Company.

Everything points to record earnings for most of the railroads from now on.—Prince & Whitely.

From general market action it certainly appears as if stocks are still in strong hands and, while the accumulation stage has been passed, the final distributing stage is still some ways off.—J. S. Bache & Company.

Coal-rail shares should feature and leadership by Reading would be no surprise.—Halle & Stieglitz.

Group operations resulting in new high prices for specialties indicates that generally higher prices are in sight later in the year. It gives us the signal to buy stocks for the remainder of the bull market when the next re-action occurs.—Livingston & Co.

While we would not follow stocks up, purchases of good stocks are warranted on recessions.—Block, Maloney & Company.

NEW YORK DISCOUNTS THE LABOUR DIFFICULTIES.

(By Stuart P. West)

NEW YORK, September 5 (Special to The Examiner). — Labour troubles, for the time being at any rate, ceased to be a factor in the financial markets to-day. The coal strikes were over, and the bituminous output will be back to normal in a considerably shorter time than anticipated. Over the holiday came fresh evidence that the contest with the shopmen was on the wane.

There was nothing to expect from the American Federation of Labour until the meeting nearly a week off. Meantime, Wall Street refused to take seriously the threat of a general strike.

The consideration which the security markets had chiefly in mind this morning was that the question of the fuel supply which was the last month or more had been the one disturbing feature in the business situation, had now been finally disposed of. With this assurance, buying operations were actively resumed in industrial stocks.

Some of these, like Studebaker among the motors, and Baldwin Locomotive among the equipment shares, made new high points for the year.

Announcement of the Mexican Government debt settlement on terms more favourable from the Mexican standpoint than looked for, helped along another sharp uprush in Mexican Petroleum stock.

It is inferred that holders of the Mexican bonds will waive back interests which would incline Mexico to be more lenient with American corporations in the matter of taxes.

In the railway section, Louisville and Nashville went higher in anticipation of a large stock dividend. Norfolk and Western was brought Norfolk and Western was bought on the possibility of an extra dividend now that the soft coal strike is over. With the exception of Rock Island, in which special operations were again in evidence, non-dividend-paying rails were neglected.

NOON REVIEW OF MARKET.

New York, September 5. — Mexican Pete's recent advance was partially based on expectation of an extra dividend at this month's meeting. Consequently it was heavily sold last week on knowledge that no additional payment would be made. It recovery following the authorization of only regular dividend was largely result of short covering.

R.B.C. sold 74 1-2 and over eight points from recent low made immediately before Federal trade commissoin issued its formal complaint against Midvale-R.B.C. Inland merger. Action of stock shows Wall Street's belief that merger will go through. Under present terms R.B.C. is entitled to 170 per cent. in North Amer. Steel Common and if latter is brought out at $50 a share R.B.C. transfer value will consequently be $85 a share.

GENERAL MOTORS UP

General Motors reached 14 3-8 its best price in two months. Forecasts made earlier in year that G.M. would be on dividend basis before next spring appear sure of fullfilment. All five of companies passenger car divisions report the motor demand best in July with no immediate signs of a let-up.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Mexican Pete declares regular quarterly dividend of $3.00 on common and $2 on pfd. Pan Pete declares regular dividends of $.50 on class A and B stocks. Kelly Springfield pfd declared regular dividend of 1½ payable Oct. 2nd to stock of Sept. 15th.

CATTLE MARKETS.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—Cattle market receipts 3,061. Trade steady. Quotations: Heavy beef steers, $7 to 8. Butchers' cows, medium, $3 to $3.50. Butchers' steers, choice $6.50 to $7. Calves $10 to $11.50. Lambs, $11. Hogs, selects, $12.50 to $12.75.

The junior and juvenile championship contests this week should receive the support of the fans. In the two divisions are to be found teams who put up a mighty interesting game of ball. The pitchers being developed in these leagues are high class twirlers.

Truth in Wall Street

New York's busy with rail strikes many,
Isn't Canada blessed, not to have any?
Our Canadian Pacific will move wheat galore,
The price of C.P. will advance more and more,
Our office's connected direct to New York,
With continuous quotations, thats no lark;
If its money you want buy stocks right,
Your profits 'll come if you just sit tight.

The ROYAL QUALITY SERVICE ELECTRIC CLEANER

an efficient, simply designed sanitary housecleaning outfit built to last a lifetime

How Royal Suction gets all the Dirt

Note the large amount of dirt in bottom of jar. This is the embedded dirt—full of sharp grit that cuts and ruins rugs. It sinks because heavier, the surface litter floats. (From an actual photograph.)

YOU—as a good housekeeper—take pride in keeping your home thoroughly clean. But have you ever thought about the gritty embedded dirt that settles down into the pile of your rugs? Or the powdery dust that gradually sifts through into your hangings, upholstered furniture, mattresses and pillows?

For the Royal cleans by air alone!

It has no brushes, belts or gears to get out of order or slow up its strong cleansing stream of air. A slight turn of the patented Royal adjusting screw quickly adjusts the extra wide 14-inch nozzle to any floor surface. Indeed, the Royal is really a complete house-cleaning outfit! With its simple, easily-connected attachments, it performs every cleaning service thoroughly and with minimum labor. Its light weight (barely 11 pounds) and its large rubberoid wheels make it exceptionally easy-running. Its nozzle is specially designed to go under and around furniture and into corners readily. It is built to give a lifetime of faithful service. And because it cleans by air alone it cannot possibly injure even the finest rugs or fabrics.

NORWOOD, Sept. 5.—The tragic death occurred here this morning of Mrs. John McMillan, formerly Miss Annie Raddon and a sister of Mr. A. J. Raddon of Peterboro. Deceased was organist in the Anglican church her and on Sunday did not put in her usual appearance at the church. Rev. O'Connor-Fenton called at her home Sunday morning on his way to another appointment. The screen door was locked on the inside but he did not notice anything unusual. When Mrs. McMillan did not appear at the evening service some of her friends became alarmed. The house was entered and the deceased was found lying on the floor in an unconcious condition. She failed to rally and passed away eary this morning. She had not been seen since Thursdy and neighbors say the electric lights were burning in her home each evening so it is assumed that she had been lying in an unconcious condition nearly all that time. Doctors say her condition was due to a stroke.

The late Mrs. McMillan has resided in Norwood for many years and during that time had occupied the position of organist in several of the Norwood churches She was prominent in church work of all kinds and her death will be mourned by a wide circle of friends in Norwood and the district. KIDNEY TROUBLE

Is quite common, gradually becoming more severe, and if prompt action is not taken, serious results will follow. The symptoms are headache and pain in the back, sleeplessness, ashen complexion, white coated tongue and frequent urination. If a puffy swelling is noted in the feet or ankles the disease is well established and you must give the kidneys all the help possible by stirring the liver and bowels into action. Take Henderson's Herb Tablets every night according to directions, watch the digestion carefully, drink plenty of cold water between meals.

Mrs. T. Bevington, 303 Wilton ave., Toronto, Ont., says:

"I wish to express my gratitude for the great benefit I have received through Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. I suffered for a number of years with kidney and liver trouble and at times could scarcely do my work with the pain in my back, and cramps in my muscles. HON. G. H. FERGUSON ADDRESSED A LARGE GATHERING AT ORLAND

Leader of the Conservative Party Shoots a Few Holes in Provincial Administration — Other Speakers Present.

ORLAND, Sept. 5.— Speaking at the Liberal-Conservative picnic held yesterday at Orland, a hamlet about 12 miles south of Campbellford, the Hon. Howard Ferguson addressed between six and seven hundred people present on the subject of the "dual-administration" of the present Provincial government, declaring their disposal of public funds a 'carnival of extravagance," characterizing Attorney-General Raney as an autocratic despot, and his methods of enforcing the O.T.A. as a menace to the morals of the community, and finishing with a challenge to Premier Drury to deny that he had entered into secret agreement with the Backinterests, detrimental to Canadian timber limits.

Mr. Ferguson, whose appearance on the gaily-decorated platform under the tall trees of Orland's baseball park, was accompanied by the presentation of the floral tribute, which was also accorded the other numerous speakers, the small maidens receiving paternal kisses from the various recipients, made an appeal to the ladies present for their votes for Major Rev. Jas. H. Belford, of Codrington, Conservative candidate for East Northumberland, in whose interests he spoke.

"Irresponsible Government."

Declaring that the last three years' administration of Provincial affairs had been an era of absolutely irresponsible government, he scored the appointment of the thirty or more commissions, to "provide those who are paid to administer the affairs of the province with a means of escaping their responsibility. The increase of 107 millions of dollars in the provincial debt was alluded to, with the increase of 73 millions in the capital expenditure, the 40 p.c. increase in ordinary domestic outlay, and the enlargement of the Civil Service staff from 790 in 1919, to 1,088 at the end of 1921, whereby "300 of the boys got jobs."

"A Novel Method."

The statement of the Provincial Treasurer for last year, showing a surplus of $687,000 to the credit of the province was ascribed to a "novel method of book-keeping," by which all payment of accounts was considered stopped at the end of October last, while revenue amounting to nearly two millions coming in up to the end of December was included in the budget, a "purposeful falsification of the accounts of the province."

Of the 300 miles of highway constructed in Ontario under the Government's good roads programme, the speaker declared that only 60 miles was permanent roadway, the balance being gravel or water-bound macadam, and that the construction had cost between $50,000 and $75,000 per mile, adding also that most of the better class mileage had been laid directly adjacent to residences of members of the government. Referring to the method proposed to divert part of motor license fees towards the cost of this programme, the speaker considered that the day had come when municipalities should have some say in the disposition of money collected by them for license fees, amusement taxes, pool-room fees, etc., to offset their steadily mounting liabilities and decreasing revenues.

"Autocratic Dictator."

Attorney-General Raney was described as an autocratic dictator, a man of domineering disposition and narrow views, whose arbitrary methods had caused magistrate after magistrate to lose their positions, because they had refused to comply with his wishes. Mr. Raney's methods of enforcing the O.T.A. which, according to Mr. Ferguson, included the employment of boys of 17 and 18, and of women of questionable character, to secure convictions of breaches of the Act, were considered a menace to the morals of the community.

The increase of prices charged for liquor at Government dispensaries was considered a method of increasing revenue from the "impure sources of whisky combined with race track gambling," to carry on the education of the rising generation and for business administration.

The Provincial Government had spent $300,000 in tow and one-half years, in inquiries which finally proved "Ferguson clean and honest." The circumstances in his own career which led to a judgment against a certain timber baron for over a millions dollars' reparation to the Province, Mr. Ferguson declared he would explain in the proper place, on the floor of the House. He also said that he was prepared to resign if he was unable to prove that "the Prime Minister himself is responsible for the greatest piece of extravagant waste in the history of the Province by deliberately, designedly, and secretly entering into a private agreement with a timber baron from the other side, involving 3,600 miles of the best timber land in the Province, made under circumstances which prevented any other competition, executed in the Minister's private office, with a refusal of approbation from the Deputy Minister, and giving his friend, E. W. Backus, one of the largest and richest timber areas in the province."

Other Speakers.

Other speakers during the afternoon who endorsed the candidature of Major Belford, and hailed Hon. Mr. Ferguson as "the next Premier of Ontario," were Major L. Boggs, of Cobourg, former Conservative candidate in West Northumberland; W. H. Ireland, of Trenton, M.P.P. for West Hastings, who attacked the Babcock test as incorrect; Milton E. Maybee, of Brighton Township, M.P. for East Northumberland, who stigmatised the administration at Ottawa as a failure on its record with regard to soldiers' gratuities, the cattle embargo, the oleo question, the Wheat Board, and reduction in naval, military, and aerial estimates, whereby "Canada's safety depends solely on Great Britain"; Sam Nesbitt, of Brighton, ex-M.P.P., who based his support of the Hon. Howard Ferguson on an expressed desire to show the Toronto Globe that it couldn't dictate to him in political matters; Harry Phillips, of Brighton, Warden of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, who declared that Mr. Ferguson had made the Hon. Peter Smith look like a "small donkey," and the candidate himself, Major Rev. James H. Belford, of Codrington.

Major Belford compared the "broadening-out" policy of the Drury administration to Aesop's fable of the ox that blew itself to pieces in its efforts to inflate itself, and considered this attempt an idea of Mr. Drury's to get back once more into the ranks of the Liberal Party, "but the people of this Province won't stand for such a double betrayal on the part of any man in public life." The expenditures of the present Provincial Government also came in for criticism on the part of the speaker.

Geo. S. Van Volkenburg, of Campbellford, Reeve of Seymour, acted as chairman for the affair, and Harry L. Walker, of Warkworth, made an efficient secretary.

The Wooler Brass Band, in attendance, rendered several fine selections.

Do not let constipation get the upper hand; do not neglect the mildest symptoms because constipation is only the forerunner of disease, premature old age, and many forms of child illness! Ninety per cent of all sickness can be traced to constipation, which is the direct cause of such diseases as diabetes and Bright's. Fight constipation with Kellogg's Bran! We guarantee results if you eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily in chronic cases, with each meal!

Kellogg's Bran is not only a permanent corrective for constipation and a very delicious cereal, but it is one of nature's most valuable foods because of its richness in mineral salts. It stimulates brain and nerve cells in grown people; it aids children to become strong and rosy. Kellogg's Bran will correct a pimply complexion and an obnoxious breath.

Kellogg's Bran is not only an unequaled health aid, but delightful as a cereal or sprinkled over your favorite cereal. Its nut-like flavor is very appealing. You never ate such muffins or raisin bread or macaroons or countless other bakery batches as made with bran! Prove out Kellogg's Bran today. Buy it at all grocers! It's wrapped "WAXTITE."

KIRN PITCHES PETERBOROUGH TO VICTORY OVER OSHAWA

Gallagher Was Humbled On His Own Stamping Ground By the Local Boys in Saturday's Game.

CLOSE SCORE.

VERY once in a while Jake Solomon springs a surprise on the fans. Saturday Howard Kirn, who has done practically no pitching at all this year, was sent in to hand Oshawa a licking on the motor ...an diamond, and right well he did ...s job, sending the Oshawa aggregation down to defeat with a score of 2 to 1. "Kirnie" was right there with all his old-time style and held his opponents to four scattered hits. His teammates gave him air-tight backing, handling everything that came to them and playing a brand of baseball that showed the real caliber of the local team.

Oshawa's chief trouble was that they could not hit Kirn's offerings. They swung on them hard and frequent, only to send little pop flies or easy grounders to the infield. Two nice flies were sent to the outfield and they were gathered in with neatness and dispatch.

The Petes scored their two runs by ...coming across with two good hits ...st at the moment when they were ...ost needed. Oshawa scored first, in the fifth ...ning when Pellow's double sent ...ller across the scoring station. In the seventh Collins went to ...rd on Evans dropped his third ...ke and to second when the Oshawa back-stop made a bad throw to ...st. Bergoine struck out, but McCarney came across with a two-bagger to send Collins home. McCarney went out trying to go to third.

In the eighth the Petes scored again. Kirn was safe when Hall dropped his fly to right, but was forced at second on Wolfe's grounder to Gallagher. Wolfe stole second and Johnson went out on a grounder to Gallagher. Swanston then walloped the ball to deep left for three bases, scoring Wolfe. Swanston should have been credited with a home run, but Saunders, the Oshawa second baseman, blocked him at second by standing directly in his path. Holyman struck out to retire the side.

Gallagher also pitched a great game, striking out fourteen without issuing a single pass, but the Petes were able to get their hits at opportune moments.

The game was featured by two double plays. In the fourth Belding and Fair were both safe when Kirn fumbled their bunts, Belding going to third on the second error, while Fair stopped at first. Fair started for second on the first ball pitched. Swanston held the ball long enough to hold Belding at third and then made a good pe... to the keystone sack. Fair w s safe at second and Belding started home. Johnson made a good throw to the plate and Belding tried to slide in on his stomach, but was caught cold. Fair tried to take third on the play, but Swanston's peg to Collins retired him easily. The second double play ended the game. Belding singled and Fair flied out to Holyman. Rowden then sent a grounder to Holyman, forcing Belding at second, and Johnson's peg to first beat Rowden to the bag.

CENTRAL LEAGUE GAMES TOMORROW

Belleville at Leaside.
Bowmanville at Oshawa.
Cobourg at Lindsay

season so far resulted in a win for Campbellford intermediates over the Senior Maitlands of Toronto by 6 goals to 4 on Saturday afternoon. The fairly large crowd was furnished with a clean, snappy game between two teams that were quite evenly matched. It was not the usual Campbellford lacrosse crowd, but at that the attendance was more than satisfactory. Rumours of a league game on Monday had got around, and there were also expectations that Bradford would be here this week for a semi-final game. These were conditions that probably affected the count at the gate, and those who stayed at home missed a game that in every way proved a pleasant surprise.

Most of the goals were scored in the last quarter, and the game was close and in doubt almost to the final gong.

Campbellford were leading by 2-1 at the first rest and were 3-1 at half time. Maitlands got the only goal in the third, and with the score 3-2 starting the last period both teams cut loose with dashing attacks that broke through defenses and ran the score to 6-4 for the home team, the concluding goal being only a second or two ahead of the final whistle.

The teams were as follows:

Campbellford — Goal, Garrison; points, Tom Thomas and Montgomery; defense, Gannon and Jacobs; centre, Holmes; home, Harte and Paul Thomas; outside home, Heagle; inside, Kerr. Subs., Akers, Copperthwaite and Lebrash.

Maitlands—Goal, Grant; points, McLean and Brown; defense, Porteous and Chandler; centre, Mulroy; home, Cook and Johnston; outside home, Diabo; inside home, Walsh. Spares, Dunn, McBride and Scott.

Rreferee—Dick Cole. Judge of play—Emerson Stevens of Toronto.

The Scoring.

The first ten minutes produced no scoring, although the ball was traveling from one end to the field to the other. Both defenses were working well, and Campbellford's defenders were exceptionally effective. Thomas started the rush that got the first goal. He passed to Holmes, who carried it in and shot to Heagle, who scored.

For the next one Paul took a chance with a side shot at a difficult angle. Diabo gave the visitors a goal by reaching around the goal post and dropping the ball inside.

The second period was marked by close hard checking. Jim Kerr took a pass well inside the defense, but Grant blocked the spot cleverly. Paul Thomas whiffed an underhand shot through a struggling group in front of the goal, making the score 3-1. In the third Maitlands got a loner on a beautiful pass from Scott to Buck Johnston, who had an easy chance and made sure of it.

In the fourth Gannon worked the ball down the field, and passed to Akers, boosting the count to 4-2, but Chandler moved the margin up a few minutes later. Heagle got two more for Campbellford, and Maitland's last goal looked like a fluke, drifting past Garrison in what appeared to be a pass in front of the nets.

Although the game was clean and was played in a friendly spirit, it was strenuous, several men on each side coming out of it with court-plaster beauty spots.

The home team as a whole played well and appear to be ready for the long delayed semi-finals.

BELLEVILLE WON A LISTLESS GAME

PORT HOPE TRIMMED TWICE BY THE PETERBOROUGH TEAM

Close Score in the League Game But Exhibition Affair Was Easy For the Locals.

A FIELD DAY.

YESTERDAY'S two victories over Port Hope marked the close of the home schedule of Central League games for the Peterborough team without a defeat on the Riverside diamond being credited against them. The league game yesterday morning fell to the Petes by the score of 3 to 2 and they took the exhibition game in the afternoon 8 to 2.

Heckman and Dear were the opposing moundsmen for the morning session. Both pitched good games, but the local boy had the better of it. Dear fanned seven, walked two and allowed six hits during his term of office, while Al fanned ten, walked one and broke even with Dear in the matter of hits.

Heckman won his own game in the seventh inning by knocking out a nice single to score two men. Port Hope scored first when Chalk circled the bases in the opening frame on a hit, a wild pitch and two errors. The Petes promptly evened matters in their half of the inning, Johnston doing the trick on a hit, a stolen base and an error. Things stood even until the fifth, when the visitors again came across with a counter. Dear was the lucky man this time, a walk and a fielder's choice landing him on second, in a position to score on Chalk's two bagger. They held the lead until the seventh, when Wolfe travelled to second on Rowden's bad throw to first and four balls sent McCarney to first. Heckman then crashed a nice single through second base and Wolfe and McCarney scored. The ball had been thrown in to second when McCarney left third, but there it rested and Chris trotted home while the rest of the team were wishing "Finnigan" Hills "pleasant dreams." This gave the Petes a one run lead and they didn't exert themselves much for the remainder of the game.

In the exhibition game in the afternoon the Petes had everything their o... y. Dear tried the iron man ... t ten hits and seven runs ... four innings proved a little ...ch and Boyd was sent in to try his hand at the twirling. He did better work, walking one and hitting one, but holding the Petes runless and scoreless for one inning, after which he too was sent to the showers and Rowden took the rubber for the remainder of the game. His work was the best of the lot, the Petes only getting two hits and one run off his delivery.

Kirn did the heaving for the Petes and had the visitors guessing from the start. He held them scoreless for the first seven innings and hitless from the secon... to the end of the seventh. They garnered one run in the eighth and another in the ninth. The tally was an easy home run for Teeple, who sent a good hit out the third base line. It should have been good for two bases, but the ball was lostin the long garss and Teeple was home before it was. Johnston was the fielding hero of the game, accepting eight chances without an error.

The game was followed by a baseball field day for the players. Harvey Boyd, of Port Hope, carried off the prize for throwing the ball for distance, with McNeil a close second. Wolfe, R. Fair and Boyd tied for first place for circling the bases, all doing the distance in 15 seconds. In the draw for the prizes Wolfe took first and Boyd second. Bergoine did the trick twice in 14 seconds, but on the first occasion neglected to touch second base and on his second trip overlooked the third sack. In throwing the ball for accuracy, "Shiner" Johnston was the only man able to throw the ball in the barrel in three times, and in fungo batting Bergoine took first with a mighty wallop that sent the ball almost into the bushes.

LINDSAY, Sept. 5.—(Special to Examiner).—The Leaside ball team took advantage of the Lindsay Greybirds here Saturday when they defeated them 5 to 1, while the latter were sound asleep. Oulette started for Lindsay and was hit for seven safeties. He struck out five men, and in the first of the eighth went to second. Allan threw the rest of the game and allowed no hits and no runs, striking out two. The Birds has six errors, three of them bunched in the third. Hines pitched for the winners and struck out three. GOING SOME FOR MERE STRIPLING

By ROY GIBBONS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.— Martin J. McManus, now twobagging it for the St. Louis Browns, is another one of those sand-lot meteors which every now and then flash out across the sky of sportdom.

Marty achieved his love after the horsehide in the Windy City behind the stockyards at the early age of seven when he organized a neighborhood team of youngsters known as the "Athletics."

Today, at 21, he is making great time in the big leagues, piling up an envious .338 batting average, "which is going some for a stripling," as Chicagoans are wont to ruminate in speaking of him.

Marty's father died when Marty was quite young. For a long time the family had a struggle of it. But things are different now, because with Marty going big league stuff and a brother and sister working at home, their little white-haired mother is ensconced comfortably in a cozy West Side flat with a phonograph and everything.

And is that little mother proud of her boy! You should hear her talk about him.

"He was just wild about baseball even as a tiny tot," she says.

"I remember one day after he had cleaned himself up for school he turned around and looked at me and said: 'Ma, some day I'm going to be with the big ones. Just look at my batting arm. I'll make things easy for you when that happens.' And he's been doing that too just as he promised."

At 17 Marty climbed out with the Tulsa team of the Western League and had his first professional workout.

He had drifted around Chicago long enough, so he thought, and anyhow, the semi-pro. managers were suspicious of his batting ability. To them Marty was an excellent second baseman, but his slugging was a dispute.

Marty joined the Browns in 1921 as a rookie. Since then he has been playing unquestionably good ball. All the old gang back in Chicago watch his every movement on the diamond, as reported by the press, with eager interest.

When Marty makes a play worthy of mention there is a celebration back in the yards.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neil).

Getting the ball into the cup after it has reached the green is one of golf's greatest problems. The stroke by which this act is accomplished differs radically from every other stroke in the game. I have not been able to fit it easily into a simplified method. I have seen good putters use successfully such widely varying strokes that I have come to fancy that confidence in what one is doing, and an understanding of one's individual limitatons, are the really important factors in good putting.

Fifty years of golf would be about half enough for the average enthusiast, whose sole wish, after he has taken up the sport, is that he had done so earlier in life. John Ball, pictured today, has enjoyed the game that long and says he has just "hit his top stride." Ball is the famous English star who has held a number of British titles.

OWLS WINNERS IN PECK CUP FINALS

The Owls won their second trophy this season when they sent the C.G.E. down to defeat in a hard game at the Oval yesterday with a score of 2 to 0, the game being the final one for the Peck Cup.

C.G.E. were the better team in the first half and had the best of the exchanges, but weak finishing, and superb defence work by Ralston and Jones kept the score sheet clean.

Nearly half an hour had gone before Griffin got a shot to save, Roberts forcing a corner from a cross by Burrows shortly before half time Burrows forced Griffin to give away another corner, but the free kick was put past.

In the second half the game was very even the outstanding play bein a great one handed save by Jones from a shot by Bartley.

Fifteen minutes from time Burgess opened the scoring for the Owls, folowing a mix up in front of the C.G.E. goal. C.G.E. made a great effort to equalize, but the strain of playing two hard games close together told against them. Hutton made the issue sure by following up a long pass, and bringing Griffin out of his goal, the ball was missed by the goalie to roll into an empty goal.

At the conclusion the Cup was presented to the winners by William Rudkins, President of the Trades & Labour Council.

The teams lined up as follows:

Owls—Jones, Wain, Ralston, Burrows, Hotston, Edward, Turner, Hutton, Roberts, Hosker and Burgess.

C.G.E. — Griffin, Gable, Dyer, Williams, McMillan, Bestard, Gatfield, Hurrle, Mander, Bartley, Sharman

Referee—A. McKinley.

BASEBALL GAMES AT ORLAND PICNIC

Features of Liberal-Conservative Rally in Brighton Township.

Two baseball games featured the Liberal-Conservative picnic held at Orland Monday. In the morning, the Warkworth Athletics, managed by Mr. Jas. Fruere, met the Orland Bantams, with a score in favor of Warkworth of 7-2. The Warkworth battery did some good work in this game. Frank Whitton, of Brighton, acted as umpire, with a line-up as follows:

Warkworth Athletics—Corkery p. J. Drury c., Leonard 1b., Armstrong 2b., Thompson s.s., P. Zufelt 3b., Angus l.f., Thompson r.f., Oliver c.f.

Orland Bantams—L. Way p., Lex Moran c., J. Austin 1b., Houlihan 2b., G. Austin s.s., Belford 3b., F. Moran l.f., Roy Plumpton r.f., Ray Plumpton c.f.

A game arranged between Brighton and Colborne teams was called off, as these teams are tied for first place in the Northumberland County League, and did not wish to play an exhibition game yesterday. A game between Brighton and Trenton took its place with a score in favor of Trenton of 9-0, and a line-up:

Brighton—Shannon, p., H. Strong c., —— 1b., Halliday 2b., McKee s.s., Strong 3b., Walt l.f., Martin r.f., King c.f.

Umpires—Whitton and Gallegher.

Diamond Dust

McCarney trotted in with the winning run in the league game yesterday morning while "Finnigan" Hills slept with the ball at second.

* * *

In throwing the ball for accuracy yesterday "Shiner" Johnson was the only one to drop the pill in the barrel. He succeeded on his third trial, though he hit the edge on his first attempt.

* * *

Heckman won his own game yesterday morning, for his hit in the seventh enabled two men to score when Port Hope had a one run lead.

* * *

Illnes kept Swanston out of both games yesterday but his place was well filled by Chris Bergoine.

* * *

Peterborough now has but one more game to play to finish up the second half schedule. It is the Lea-side game on Saturday.

* * *

Kirn's work on the mound Saturday showed that Jake has had more than a one-man pitching staff all summer.

* * *

"Shiner" Johnson handled seven chances without a slip on Saturday, and Tommy Holyman showed up equally well with six.

FIRST ROUND IS WON BY C.G.E.

Defeated Massey - Harris Team From Brantford on Saturday Afternoon.

The C.G.E. soccer team defeated the Massey-Harris of Brantford 3 to 1, in the first round of the Ontario Cup on Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park. A fair sized crowd turned out and the local boys were given good support from the side lines.

Mander opened the game for the C.G.E. and right off Pratt in the visitors goal was called upon to save from the center forward. The visitors lost a good chance to score when Williams was pulled for a foul the throw and from the free kick Hingley got in a hard shot only to see Griffin bring off a great save at the expense of a fruitless corner. The play ranged from goal to goal until Hingley took a good pass and scored the first goal for Brantford. They immediately returned the attack but offside relieved the pressure and a few minutes later the C.G.E. lost a good chance to score in a glorious mix up in the goal mouth. The Massey Harris men were getting in some good shooting but the wonderful work of Griffin saved the day. On one occasion he stopped a terrific shot at a three yard range.

The electricians finally got on even terms when Mander took a good pass from Sharman and equalized the score with a fast shot. Half time came with the score even.

For the first few minutes of the second half Brantford had the better of the play. The C.G.E. soon got going and the Sharman, McMillan, Mander combination was responsible for their next goal. The visitors followed with several strong attacks but the defensive work of Griffin and Dyer proved too much for them. McMillan scored the third goal with a surprise shot, the ball swerving through Pratt's hands. The visitors came back with another strong attack in the last ten minutes, but were unable to break through the stone wal defence of the local team.

The teams were:

Masey Harris—Pratt, Brown, Gilbert, Proctor, Andrews, F. Gilbert, Porter, Mercer, Habour and Spencer, Hingley.

C.G.E.—Griffin, Dyer, Mann, McMillan, Bestard, Gatfield, Monk, Mander, Sharman and Bartley.

Referee—Hurley of Toronto.

BIG OPENING NIGHT FOR ROLLER RINK

Large Crowd on Hand Saturday For the First Night of the Fall Season.

An exceptionally good crowd was on hand Saturday evening for the opening of the fall season at the Roller Rink. Music of a first-class order was provided and was thoroughly enjoyed by both the spectators and the skaters. The rink will be open every night from now on and the management are looking for one of the best seasons on record. Every night is band night and no charge is being made for spectators.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Sports Editor, Examiner.

The pleasing feature of "Follower's" letter Friday is that it shows that there are some ardent lacrosse lovers. Unfortunately for himself and certainly even more so for us, he has, like St. Peter, "followed afar off" and is, as his letter shows, under some misapprehensions. We invite him to see his favorite, the good Crescent team, stuck up against the Riversides on Saturday afternoon at the Oval. It will be a very tidy game, and the odds are fairly even. We also invite him to see any of the executive at any time he wants to learn what is up in the lacrosse situation—City League or O.A.L.A. We will always be glad of less co-operation advice or help. If he has a car we could have used it today in our trip to Norwood to play off our tie game with Havelock. This game, which this year's rules make it necessary to play off on neutral ground, takes place at 3 p.m. We would like to have our friend of last night's letter with us then and many other followers with him.

CAPITOL — Pauline Frederick in "Two Kinds of Women," a stirring story of love and adventure. Comedy, "Saving Sister Susie." Pathe News and Snub Pollard comedy.

ROFAL — Fox feature, Al St. John in "Special Delivery." William Russell in "Money to Burn." Also Mutt and Jeff in "The Stolen Snooze."

The second season of Capitol entertainment opened last evening with Jack Holt starring in "The Man Unconquerable," a vivid romance of the South Sea Islands, with their tropic atmosphere and lax standards.

Jack Holt does his usual good work in this picture, in which there is plenty of red-blooded action and tense human interest, with a charming heroine in Sylvia Breamer as Rita Durand a French girl, whose father owns a pearl island concession. Holt's fistic encounter with the fighting Swede, played by Clarence Burton, is one of the thrilling intervals of an interesting picture.

An excellent comedy and a display of the stellar lights of "Paramount town" are items in an entertaining programme.

AT THE ROYAL.

A PICTURE NEVER TO BE FORGOTTEN

Audience Sat Spellbound as This Artistic Masterpiece Was Screened.

Here is a photodramatic masterpiece not only unspoiled by the hand of the director but patiently improved upon and by one outstanding element, namely the almost unbelievably beautiful performance of Miss Norma Talmadge.

If ever an actress earned the appellation "artiste supreme," Miss Talmadge is fully entitled to that honor. We have heard it applied to nearly every motion picture actress from the time they made "Macbeth" in one reel, but "Smilin' Through" is the medium through which Miss Talmadge positively substantiates her position as the leading luminary among cinema stars.

Jane Cowl with her wonderful stage presence, her sympathetic voice and sundry audible and visual effects all aid her, never produced in "Smilin' Through" a more pronounced emotional response from the audience than Miss Talmadge did yesterday. From the moment that the strings in the orchestra took up the first strains of the beautiful score, until the final measures of "Smilin' Through" sounded as the curtains came together, an audience never sat in more rapt attention or reacted in as marked a manner as the tremendous crowds which packed the Royal all day yesterday. The picture, the story of which is known to practically every person, exercised an influence not likely to be forgotten.

"Smilin' Through" will be shown to-night and to-morrow only, with a matinee at 2.30 p.m. Attend early to avoid disappointment, as the Royal was crowded to capacity at yesterday's performance. Usual prices.

AT THE GRAND.

JIMMIE EVANS MADE HIT AT THE GRAND

"Odds and Evens" Presented to Large Audience

Jimmie Evans and his musical revue company in their 1923 edition of "Odds and Evens" scored a distinct hit at the Grand yesterday afternoon and evening in their initial presentation of their opening revue, "Miss Manhattan." Clever singing and dancing by a well balanced company and clean comedy and some good specialties went to make up a very diverting evening's entertainment.

The Evans company is here for an indefinite engagement, and if they maintain the standards set in their first production, they are assured of continued popularity here. The company comes from a tour of the Maritime provinces and a ten weeks' summer engagement in Boston, where they were well received.

"Miss Manhattan" is advertised as 'a' little bit of everything entertaining," and this is descriptive of the production. Jimmie Evans and Joe Devine, as Irish and Hebrew comedians respectively, look after the mirth-provoking end of the production effectively, and Evans is also a tenor of creditable ability, making a hit with his Irish songs. The dancing of Roy Elles, particularly in his specialty with Miss Jollymore, is a feature of the show. Florence Pippin scores with a violin solo and if you like syncopated music you will you like syncopated music, you will donna, has a pleasing voice and sings several numbers effectively, particularly "Days of Long Ago." Kitty Fraser is the soubrette in the opening and scores with her singing of "California," Bert Ryan's singing of "Way Down Yonder" and "Mother Eve" and his comedy and George Wheeler's base solo are very good. A well-trained and decorative chorus completes a pleasing production. The cast is well costumed and the revue is well staged.

Altogether it is a collection of diverting entertainment sufficiently varied to suit all tastes.

WHERE PLUMS GROW IN LONG CLUSTERS

Plums that grow like grapes are apparently commonplace in the Niagara district, if the cluster shown the Examiner by Mr. Sam Touchburn this morning is an average sample. On a small branch about a foot long seventy-two Lombards were crowded together when the branch reached Peterborough. Some of them have fallen off since, but the rray of fruit is still a novelty in comparison with the local production. This sample is on exhibition in Trebilcock's window.

Dolby-Worth Nuptials

DOLBY—WORTH.

The wedding took place on Saturday, September 2nd at 5 o'clock at All Saints' church of Edith Evelyn, eldest daughter of Mrs. Emma Worth and the late Dyson Worth, and Henry Dolby, of Niagara Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dolby of this city. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, with masses of asters, ferns and palms. Rev. Geo. J. Bousfield, rector of St. Luke's church, performed the ceremony in the absence of Rev. R. B. Grobb.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Edgar Worth, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Mr. J. H. Renwick, was beautifully gowned in ivory satin charmeuse, embroidered with pearls, with panels and inserts of Chantilly lace, court train lined with pink georgette, and white satin slippers. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms and pearls, she carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley and wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Leon B. Webb, matron of honor, wore a gown of periwinkle blue georgette, with pearl and crystal bead embroiderey. Her hat was of periwinkle and silver tissue, with long scarf drape she wore crystal cloth shoes and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses.

Miss Louise Dolby of Calgary, acted as bridesmaid, wearing champagne georgette, with gold and pearl bead trimming, gold tissue hat and gold brocade cloth shoes, also carrying ophelia roses.

Charming little train-bearers and flower girl were small nieces of the bride, Blanche, Evelyn and Dorothy Worth, the two former in pink taffeta and white georgette, with French rosebud trimming, hats to match and old-fashioned bouquets of Columbia roses.

Dorothy Worth, the dainty flower girl, wore a frilled frock of peach taffeta, with French blue flowers and hat to match. She carried an old-fashioned basket of sunset roses.

Miss Doris Pilling, cousin of the bride, whose rich tones were heard to splendid advantage in the solo, "O Fair, O Sweet and Holy," wore a Grecian costume of caramel canton crepe, with silver-trimmed black picture hat, silver shoes and bouquet of sunset roses.

The bridegroom was supported by Leon B. Webb, the ushers for the occasion being Russel Sandham, of Niagara Falls, and John Renwick, Walter Worth and Harold Pilling, of Peterborough.

Following the ceremony at the church a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, the bride and her attendants receiving with Mrs. E. Worth and Mrs. W. Dolby, the former wearing navy, steel-beaded canton crepe, navy hat with silver osprey, and corsage bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. Dolby wore a beaded robe of black georgette, with picture hat to match and corsage bouquet of tea roses and lilies of the valley.

The house was lavishly decorated with palms, ferns and gladioli, the table very attractive in a color scheme of pink and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolby left later by motor for Toronto, for a honeymoon tour in the New England States. They will reside in Niagara Falls. The bride, who was the recipient of numerous cables and messages from friends in England, Sweden, Buffalo, Woonsocket, Boston and Toronto, travelled in a suit of brown duvetyne de laine, with small gold-brocaded hat and stone marten fur.

Gifts to the young people were numerous and costly. Souvenirs by the bridegroom to the matron of honor, bridesmaid and soloist were silver vanity mirrors, to the train-bearers and flower girl, silver napkin rings, to the organist a gold Eversharp pencil, and to the ushers, pearl studs and cuff links.

CHURCH IS AT FAULT AND NOT THE HOMES DECLARES MINISTER

Present Generation Knows Very Little About the Bible—Ministers Prone to Announce Flippant Texts.

ONE SERMON A DAY

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 6.—Canadian Press. —Lack of education in the Bible was declared the weakest point in the armor of the church, not only in Canada but in other countries by Rev. S. P. Rose, D.D., Professor in Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal, in an address before the session of the Ottawa district in the Eastern Methodist church. "Generation is growing up whose knowledge of what the Bible contains is very slight. Half the ministers' texts might as well be taken from Plato as from the Bible."

Dr. Rose was of the opinion there was too much preaching. That was one reason why the Bible was not better known. One sermon a day was sufficient for any minister and people. Other service should be one of instruction. Ministers were prone to announce flippant texts. "Theer is something radically wrong in our church educational system that we send out teachers and preachers without knowledge of what is fundamental. Young men coming into our colleges know little about the book. You cannot blame Public schools nor hurl epitbets at the State nor say the home is at fault. It is the church."

LINDSAY, September 6. (Special to the Examiner.) — Howard Fairbairn, a returned soldier, and son of Thomas Fairbairn, Bobcaygeon, has had his right arm amputated at the Ross Memorial Hospital here as a result of a shooting accident which took place near Nogie's Creek on Monday. Fairbairn in company with William Hill, was duck shooting, and on making a landing reached back into the canoe and tried to pull his loaded shot gun towards him by the muzzle, with the result that the gun was discharged, Fairbairn receiving most of the charge in his right arm, which was badly shattered.

Hill, who is a one armed man, administered what first aid he could and then ticing his empty sleeve to the paddle, was able with great difficulty, to paddle several miles to where the car was parked. Finally he reached Bobcaygeon with the injured man, who was then brought to the local hospital where amputation was considered necessary.

REQUEST FROM DE LAVAL COY.

W. R. Breyfogle Asks for Fixed Assessment of $50-000 Except For Schools

In a letter to the Council last night Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, general manager of the De Laval Company, asked for a fixed assessment of $50,000 on his company's property for all purposes except school taxes, which he requested should continue for ten years on the present total assessment of approximately $192,000. His communication was referred to the Manufacturers' committee.

Mr. Breyfogle recalled that when the De Laval company locoted in Peterborough ten years ago they were given a site, a grant and moving expenses amounting in all to about $20,000, and tax exemption except for school taxes and the patriotic fund. Since then the De Laval Company has paid in wages $2,400,000 apart from other business it provided in Peterborough, it has built more than twice the promised plant, and has employed up to 400 men as against the 50 mentioned in the agreement with the city. It has also paid $19,000 in school taxes, and in other material respects has contributed largely to the growth of Peterborough.

The war set the company's business back, and this condition was seriously aggravated by the post-war deflation. At present ninety employees are engaged.

PEACE LEAGUE COULD FIND A TASK IN EAST

Turkey and Greece Provide a Chance For the League of Nations to Function if it Ever Will

SESSION TODAY

GENEVA, Sept. 6. — (Canadian Press). — The League of Nations Assembly to-day elected as its six vice-presidents: the Earl of Balfour, Great Britain; Gabriel Nataux, France; Senhor Gomez, Portugal; H. The debate on the work of the League was re-opened by Lord Robert Cecil, of Great Britain, representingg South Africa. He approved of the work of the Council during the past year, but expressed fear that it was in danger of being overwhelmed by a mass of detail and public opinion to underrate really important work of the Council. Alluding to the situation in the Near East, Lord Robert asked why the League of Nations could not intervene between Turkey and Greece and halt the bloodshed in Asia Minor.

THREE FINED FOR REFUSING TO HELP FIGHT A FIRE.

WILLIAMS, Cal. — Three Portuguese laborers, Manual Rochar, John Santos, and Manual Reis, were each fined $15 by Judge Jones of Williams. When Fire Warden Totman ordered them to fight a fire near Wilbur Springs, two of them complained of being ill, while the third said he would rather go to jail.

Frenzied Infatuation For Girl Responsible For Brutal Murder

YARMOUTH, N. S., Sept. 6. — (Canadian Press).—Frenzied infatuation of an old man for his nineteen-year-old housekeeper, led Omar Roberts, trapper and guide, to court here this morning on a charge of murder. He has confessed to having murdered Flora Gray at his hunting lodge in Kemptville one week ago, and gives "jealousy" as the motive which impelled him to commit the crime. Roberts, suffering from burns he received in the fire which he started in his lodge, and which burned Flora Gray to death, was carried into court through a file of people, and was charged before Magistrate Charles Pelton. He shoved himself into the corner of the dock and buried his face in his hands and sat in this position throughout the proceedings. According to a statement of the jailer last night, Roberts had proposed marriage to the girl and was refused. On the night of the tragedy she refused to walk home with him from a neighbor's house, and accepted young Ransome Randall as her escort. Incensed at her presence in the company of another man, Roberts is said to have approached the girl in her room after Randall left. His advances repulsed, he poured gasoline about her bed and room, and set them afire. She perished in the flames.

FRIEND REFUTES IDEA LINCOLN WAS UNCOUTH.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The common-sense which carried the American people through the civil war and preserved the union will carry them through the present crisis in industry and government, declares Henry B. Rankin, friends and biographer of Abraham Lincoln.

Rankin, who is 85 years old, watches present-day trends with as clear an eye as he witnessed the dark days in the struggle between north and south.

"I am an optimist," Rankin said. "We are not as bad off as the newspapers would have us believe.

"The troubles and disturbances on which the newspapers base their head-lines are characteristic of the whole nation."

"In eight years Lincoln rose to a position in the world that brilliant statesmen failed to attain in a lifetime," he said.

"Lincoln was neither uncouth nor uneducated. He was a tremendous reader and he moved in the best circles in his community."

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE CABINET

MONTREAL, Sept. 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Dominion Cabinet, at a special meeting to-day will consider the case of railway shopmen of Canadian lines with reference to the findings of the Conciliation Board, which has announced in favor of tentative wage cuts. Promise of Cabinet consideration was given yesterday by Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, to R. J. Tallen, President of Division No. 4 Railway Employes Dept. American Federation of Labor. Report was widespread in Montreal this morning that the shopmen have communicated by telegram to the Minister of Labor their refusal to abide by the award.

CABINET MEETING.

OTTAWA, Sept. 6. — (Canadian Press.)—No special meeting of Cabinet has been called for to-day. The Cabinet is, however, scheduled to meet to-morrow afternoon.

WEDDING BELLS

WEIR—SPEERS.

The wedding ceremony was read by the Reverend Percy Halstead at the home of Dr. J. Dean Robinson, Altario, Alberta, on Wednesday afternoon the twenty-third day of August, when Miss Margaret Speers was joined to Mr. Geoge Weir in the bonds of holy matrimony.

As the beautiful chords of the most beautiful of wedding marches, Wagner's Lohengrin were being played by Miss Eleanor M. English, the lovely bride appeared in the drawing-room and met the bridegroom at the altar. The bride, who was given away by Dr. Robinson, looked charming in a clinging gown of ivory silk crepe de chine with lace over-dress decorated with seed pearl and wearing a bridal veil and orange blossoms. The bridegrom wore the customary wedding garments.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Dean Robinson sang that so appropriate song "Love's Cornation" by Florence Aylward. Her rich contralto voice blended well with the clarinet tones of the obligato played by Dr. Robinson. Mr. Leslie G .Robinson ably accompanied on the piano. A delightfully fitting solo was also rendered by Mr. N. Dwight Robinson.

After these things had taken place they all sat down to a tastefully decorated table, in the centre of which was the wedding cake and while the dainty wedding luncheon was being served music was furnished by the Altario Band who had assembled outside on the lawn.

The bride's travelling gown was a cape costume of seal brown Clydene with trimmings of sand shade and a cluster of French flowers at the belt. She also wore a black picture hat.

In a barrage of confetti, streamers, good wishes and cheers, the newlyweds left by motor for Provost and from Provost by train for a tour through the Rocky Mountains. It is whispered that Mr. Weir has rented one of those romantic little cabins in Jasper Park where he and his bride will spent a part of their honeymoon.

M. and Mrs. Weir will reside in Saskatoon where they have many friends. Mr. Weir has lived in Saskatoon for some years and hails from Peterborough, Ontario. Miss Speers also lived in Saskatoon before coming to Altaria. The Speers family formerly lived in Owen Sound, Ontario.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Paul and daughter Clara of Saskatoon, Mr and Mrs. W. E. Young of Compeer Rev. Percy Halstead of Compeer Miss Eleanor M. Speers of Vegreville and Mr. Leslie Robinson of Montreal.

COLONIZATION SCHEME.

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.— (Canadian Press.) — Huge colonization scheme to settle Italian immigrants in Canada is projected by government of Italy which has sent Joseph De Michels, General Commissioner of Emigration, to make a minute survey of industrial and agricultural conditions in the Dominion. Dr. De Michels passed through Montreal today en route to Ottawa, where he will meet members of the Cabinet.

CHEERFULNESS IS NECESSITY SAYS SPEAKER

TODAY'S LUNCHEON

The doctrine of good cheer and optimism was preached to the Rotary Club at its noonday luncheon to-day by Rev. J. A. Mackenzie, pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, whose inspiring message was just the tonic needed for such a depressing morning.

President John Crane presided, and there was a good atendance of members.

The president furnished the information that he and five or six other members had visited the Lindsay club last week, and that Rotarian H. R. H. Kenner had delivered an address that was thoroughly appreciated. The Lindsay Club was looking forward to a good season.

President Crane also stated that Toronto Rotarians were expecting a visit from the International president this fall, and that a delegation from Peterborough would be counted upon to be present on the occasion of his visit.

Rev. J. A. Mackenzie, in beginning his address, remarked that he wanted the members to think of Solomon's words, "A merry heart doeth good like medicine." He urged his hearers to bring good cheer into their lives, and remarked that the greatest robber of all was he who robbed people of their gaiety, of their privilege of being joyful. Too many people worried too much about things that were of minor importance; they had forgotten how to laugh and consequently lost the benefit that would come from cheerfulness. It was necessary, in order to be joyful, to have faith, faith in God and faith in one's fellow-men, and it was also necessary to have charity, to learn to laugh at one's self, for when we learned to do that, we learned to laugh with the other fellow—and that was of vital import.

Rev. Mr. Mackenzie thought that the Rotary Club was doing much to spread the doctrine of cheerfulness, and he congratulated the members upon what they had accomplished along that line.

At netx Monday's meeting of the Club, a musical programme will be given.

HIGHLY PAID CHOIRS HELD NOT ESSENTIAL.

Congregational Singing Urged in Episcopal Church.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 6.—A plea for the maintenance of standards of music commensurate with those of the liturgy and the high office of music in the Episcopal Church, is made in the report of the joint commission of church music, which will be presented to the general convention of the church here next Wednesday.

The report recommends that facilities for musical education be provided for the clergy through the systematic instruction of all candidates for holy orders in the theology schools, and that organists receive authoritative specialized instruction in conservatory and college musical departments, and through diocesan conferences.

A specific recommendation is that congregational singing be developed; and a hint that elaborate and highly-paid church choirs are not altogether essential.

The restoration of the chanting of the Psalter, by choir and people, is recommended whenever practicable, and emphasis is laid upon the desirability that the music for Holy Communion shall be the most important of all the musical services of the Church although not necessarily the most elaborate.

FIRST FORM PUPILS OUTSIDE THE LIMITS REFUSED ADMISSION

Mr. J. W. Worth Advises Non-residents Living on Outskirts of City to Vote For Annexation and Obtain City Advantages.

SCHOOL BOARD MEET

At last night's meeting of the Board of Education, H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute, submitted the following interesting report on the fall opening of the Institute, which includes a reference to the number of non-resident pupils seeking admission to the Collegiate. Mr. Kenner's report follows:

The Collegiate Institute opened this morning with the following attendance: IA-40, IB-40, IC-40, ID-23, 2A-37, 2B-33, 2C-34, 3A-28, 3B-33, 4-35, 5-24, C. IA-26, C. IB-25, C. 2-51, a total of 469.

You will remember that in June last I wrote you stating that in all probability it would be necessary to open up another room in the main building for first form pupils in September. The alternative policy was to exclude all non-resident first form pupils. You decided to adopt the latter course. This morning, therefore, in carrying out your policy, I refused admission to twenty non-resident first form pupils. You will see from the figures given above that Forms IA, IB and IC with forty pupils each can accommodate no more. In ID there are only twenty-three pupils, but since some pupils never attend school on the first day, I expect in the very near future that Form ID also will be filled with city pupils. If by chance there should be a few seats vacant it will be for you to decide what non-resident pupils are entitled to be admitted.

As regards the Commercial classes in the South Central school you will notice that there are fifty-one pupils in Commercial II. Six of these have completed the full two years' Commercial Course and have secured their Commercial Diplomas. If these are excluded the number will be reduced to forty-five and that number can be handled without any serious difficulty. In Commercial IA and Commercial IB provision can be made for more pupils if proper Commercial desks are purchased to replace the kitchen tables which are now being used there. On this point let me quote you from the last report of the High School Inspector:

"The congestion in the Collegiate proper has been relieved to some extent by the transferring of nearly 100 pupils in the Commercial Department to some vacant rooms in a discarded Public school. Little or nothing has been done by the Board to make these rooms attractive, more than 50 first year pupils are using kitchen tables as desks. There appears to me to be no good reason why these pupils should be under greater disabilities than the exigencies of the case made unavoidable.

Commercial desks should be purchased and the slate blackboard from vacant rooms in the building placed in the three class-rooms now in use. The heating also should be improved."

"I might say that the Commercial Department is seriously handicapped. The equipment they have is very poor so far as desks and blackboards are concerned, and there are a large number of pupils in Peterborough who would avail themselves of the third year's course for more advanced Commercial work. This, of course, cannot be adopted at the present ime as an additional Commercial teacher likely to prove satisfactory cannot be secured at this date, but I would strongly advise that next year at the latest a third year course be added."

Mr. Kenner called attention to the Board's refusal to provide accommodation for non-resident pupils. Yesterday twenty-one non-resident pupils were denied admission and numerous others last week.

Mr. Worth pointed out that a great many of the non-resident pupils were children of parents who were non-residents of the city because they desired to avoid paying city taxes. "Such an attitude was hindering the progress of the city and the sooner they seek incorporation in the city the better for all concerned," said Mr. Worth.

The Board reiterated its intention not to accept non-resident pupils in the first form of the Collegiate Institute until such time as accommodation can be provided. This motion was moved and seconded by J. W. Worth and J. Wearing.

Fifty-seven cities, including Montreal and Toronto, have sent their fairest to contest for prizes in the national beauty contest which features three days of festivity. Beauties will be judged in bathing suits, afternoon dress and under spotlights before footlights and on stage. Pageant opened officially to-day with dumber athletic events. Bathing beauties will appear to-night for the first time when they are presented to Hudson Maxim, noted inventor and King Neptune of Atlantic City who will be at Garden City pier to hold the first "royal" reception.

COUNCIL LIKE HAPPY FAMILY

Discussions Are Brief and Pointed, With No Disputatious Subjects on the List.

The City Council communed together last night in perfect peace and harmony, and disposed of an average budget of business in less than two hours. Not a cloud crossed the horizon, and not even a breeze blew up to ruffle the placid and pleasant atmosphere of the chamber, which was sultrier than all outdoors. It was a light session, but its comparative briefness was largely the result of the expeditious and business-like manner in which the proceedings flowed.

To Receive Minister.

Dealing with the request of the Peterborough Exhibition Board that the Council assist in the reception of the Hon. Mr. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, who will officially open the Exhibtion here on Thursday, September 14th, the Reception committee was authorized to co-operate with the Board, and was given full power to act.

Why Lights Are Out.

Ald. Crowe was instructed to enquire into the cause of the husbandry in the lighting of the main streets of the city during the last few weeks.

"We are not getting the light, and we should get some reduction," remarked the Mayor, who also stated that the first consideration was the proper lighting of the business section.

Upon Ald. Phelan's suggestion, Ald. Crowe will also query the Utilities Commission as to the reason for what are regarded as excessive charges for the illumination of the Hunter street bridge.

"It's a characteristic of the bridge that everything connected with it is high," commented Ald. Stocker.

Garbage is Wet.

Ald. M. McIntyre told the Council that residents of the south ward persisted in setting out wet garbage, which impedes the work at the incinerator and may necessitate the purchase of wood for the fires unless this practice is corrected. He asked City Solicitor Widdifield last night to inform authority the Garbage By-law provided for enforcing a uniform observance of the regulation requiring to be properly drained by householders before it is placed for collection.

Sanitary Inspector Stapleton's complaints and requests in regard to the problem have failed to make any effect on offenders, and he has evidently appealed to the chairman of the property committee for more drastic action than polite appeals through the press.

Improving Park.

Ald. Gainey conveyed the recommendation of Mr. Frank Wise, caretaker of the city's parks, for the construction of a curb along the path in Central Park from the fountain to Brock street. It will extend 386 feet and cost about $100. Ald. Crowe moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that this proposal be left to the chairman of the Park committee with power to act. Two of the north walks, Ald. Gainey said, are being filled up.

Mayor Taylor remarked that the parks have been kept in excellent condition this year.

Fire Chief's Report.

Seventeen alarms of fire were answered by the Fire Department in August, with losses of $404 on buildings, $467.70 on contents and automobiles $325. Insurance $5,000 on buildings, $3,800 on contents, $1,000 on automobiles.

Chief Gimblett reported that the apparatus had travelled a total distance of 35 miles and 80 gallons of chemicals were used. Drills were carried out in the usual manner on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. During August 369 inspections were made as follows: Original inspection

UNITED DAIRYMEN CO-OPERATIVE LTD. STATES POSITION

Gives Version of Differences Relating to Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Ltd.

In reference to the difficulties which have been reported to exist between United Dairymen Cooperative, Limited, the big co-operative dairy company which has been operating in Ontario during the past three years, and the directors of Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited, the new $1,000,000 dairy company, which Hon. Manning Doherty is endeavoring to launch, a statement has been handed out to the press by the secretary of the United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, whose head office is in Peterborough. It is as follows:

"The directors of United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, would like to set right any misunderstandings which may arise from the news despatches sent out from Toronto, and which appeared last Saturday in the daily press of the provinces, relating to United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, and Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited. In these despatches it was stated that the diretcors of Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited, "having exhausted every reasonable possibility of reconciling the differences between the two companies," had decided to proceed with the organization of their company. It was stated that the directors of Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited, had made their "last and best offer" to United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited. The latter company was referred to also as a "semi-private Sales Agency."

The foregoing despatches would seem to indicate that "reasonable" and "fair" offers for a settlement had been made repeatedly by the directors of Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited, to the management of United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, and that these had been refused by United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited. In brief, the facts are as follows: Between May 25 and July 25 three different conferences were held between representatives of the two companies in an effort to reach an agreement. At all three conferences agreements were drafted and approved by those conducting the negotiations. These were all later accepted by the directors of United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited. They were all turned down later for one reason or another by the directors of Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited. The last of these agreements referred to was approved unanimously at a joint meeting of the directors of both companies, only later to be set aside, as already intimated, by the directors of Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited. This being the case it will be seen that the directors of United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, have not been refusing the "fair" and "reasonable" offers of the directors of Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited. The last and final offer which the directors of Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited, have made and which, was referred to in the despatches, contained a number of provisions not at all acceptable to the directors of United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, and therefore, has been refused.

The reference to United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, as a "semi-private Sales Agency" is incorrect and misleading. This company is a purely co-operative company organized under the Ontario Co-operative Companies' Act, and has been operating on co-operative lines for three seasons. During that period it has handled for the dairy farmers of Ontario about $3,500,000 worth of dairy products. It has been operating successfully and purposes continuing to operate on the lines which it has followed to date, and to extend its activities considerably during the next year, throughout the whole province.

RESULTS AT THE DAIRY INSTITUTE

Standardization of Creameries Well Under Way.

KINGSTON, Sept. 6.—(Special to Examiner).—The result of butter competitions recently held show the high standing which Eastern Ontario creameries are taking in this field. To the instructional staff of the Eastern Ontario Dairy School, the advances made are particularly gratifying, for the standardization of the creameries in Eastern Ontario is one of the branches of the work of the local school. Prof. L. A. Zufelt and J. A. Craig of the Eastern Ontario Dairy School have this particular branch of the instructional work in charge.

At the Canadian National Exhibition Ontario butter made a very fine showing, probably the best in some years. The Eastern Ontario butter took the bulk of the prizes won by Ontario. Of eleven prizes won by Ontario, which headed the Provinces, nine were carried off by the eastern section. The other two Ontario rewards were taken by Western Ontario. Manitoba was, however, the banner Province in the number of points awarded. The most notable of the Ontario creameries was the Lang Produce Cold Storage Company, Brockville, which figured in the winnings in every creamery butter class. The other Eastern Ontario prize-winning factories were: T. J. Newman, Lornville; H. D. Newman, Cambridge, and J. Johnson, Rathburn. The two Western Ontario winners are: Sanitary Dairy Company of St. Catherines and the Canada Milk Products, Brownsville.

The tabulated list by Provinces indicates the standing taken by Ontario, a large proportion of this being credited to the eastern section of the Province, as already indicated. In recording the number of points, nine gradings were made in each case, first place thus being equivolent to nine points, and so on down to the ninth, which was given one point. The Provinces ranked as follows:

	Prizes.	Points.
Ontario	11	38
Manitoba	10	69
Alberta	6	32
Quebec	3	15
Nova Scotia	3	12
Saskatchewan	2	14

Eastern Ontario's highest scoring butter was but seven per cent. lower than the highest butter in the Dominion.

The butter from the local dairy school's territory is at the present time commanding top prices on the Montreal market, where the creameries are competing with whole milk butter creameries.

IMMIGRATION POLICY DISCUSSED YESTERDAY

TORONTO Sept. 6.—(Canadian Press)—Conference on immigration held here yesterday attended by Hon. Manning Doherty, W. C. Nixon, Agent General for Ontario in London England and representatives of Womens Institute, Toronto Board of Trade and Salvation Army decided that Ontario Government would justified in co-operating with imperial and federal governments of an agression immigration policy with object of increasing settlement in rural Ontario and devloping resources of Province. It urged that consideration be given to bringing out of boys from fourteen to sixteen years of age; placing of experienced farmers with families on; tical assistance to domestic servants.

Municipal Representatives Barred From Voting Power

Will Be Allowed to Take Part in Discussions of Unemployment Conference But Not to Vote.

FOR THE WINTER.

OTTAWA, Sept. 6.— (Canadian Press.)—The question of admission with full voting and deliberate powers, of the representatives of municipalities, labor and soldier organizations and similar representations, arose in the very early stages yesterday afternoon of the conference between the federal and provincial authorities on unemployment. The invitations had been extended only to representatives of the nine provinces through their premiers, and all except Prince Edward Island had sent government officials to the conference. When the prime minister, Right Hon. MacKenzie King opened the conference he called attention to the fact that yesterday's proceedings had been intended to be restricted to the representatives of the various governments. Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, and chairman of the conference, also stressed this point and asked the representatives of municipalities and other bodies to withdraw until this morning when, after organization, they would be given opportunity of presenting their views.

Mayor Adams of Calgary protested and urged that full powers of representation be given to the municipalities and other bodies. The outside delegations left the room to return for to-day's meeting. Subsequently it was decided to admit these delegates to the meetings and to the discussions but without voting power. This decision was reached after considerable discussion.

The understanding in calling the conference, it was claimed, was that only the federal and provincial governments would participate in the conference and that the latter would secure the views of the municipal and other organizations and be able to repre sent them. However, many western municipalities, instead of falling in with this view and presenting their ideas to the provincial governments, had sent delegations to attend the conference without direct invitations.

When the question of admitting the municipaiities was settled the conference heard somewhat optimistic reports on unemployment prospects from all provinces of the dominion. With the exception of the Ontario speaker and one of the Nova Scotia delegates, all declared that employment conditions in their provinces at present were normal or better. These two speakers warned that the conference must prepare for emergencies this winter before adjourning.

Manitoba's delegation sounded a direct warning to unemployed single, physically fit men, that they would receive no relief during this winter. These not physically fit and the married men might need assistance, but fit single men would get none.

The conference continues at ten o'clock in the morning, when the municipal delegates will be present with their status definitely established.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate winds to-day; partly fair, but showers or thunderstorms in some localities.

ANOTHER STEP IS MADE TOWARD A RELIGIOUS UNION

Patriarch of the Holy Orthodox Church Admits the Validity of the Anglican Ordination.

IMPORTANT STEP.

LONDON Sept. 6.—(Canadian Press)—Church circles here are widely interested in a letter received by the Archbishop of Canterbury from the Patriach of the Holy Orthodox Church announcing the conclusion of the Holy Synod that Anglican ordination possesses the same validity as that of the Roman, Old Catholic and the Armenian churches.

While this does not mean that full inter-communion is immediately realized it as a valuable step towrds external unity.

"The result," says the London Daily Telegraph, "must be a shifting of the balance of things in the Catholic world. The immediate practical importance of this decision at Constantinople lies in its application to certain administrative problems notably in Canada and the United States where there are large numbers of orthodox christians many of whom are out of reach of their own clergy. Their position is now regularized and the scattered orthodox churchmen will be able to receive the sacraments and other administrations from Anglican priests as lawfully as from their own."

Concerning a dogmatic agreement it is generally held that that is still far off. Indeed a dogmatic agreement among Anglicans themselves is firstly a requisite.

HAVE WITHDRAWN PLOWING MATCH

Five Acre Competition Open to Boys—Council Failed to Provide.

A meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Plowmen's Association held in the Council Chambers, Peterborough, on Saturday, Sept. 2nd, was one of the best attended and most enthusiastic meetings ever held by the association. Among those present were Messrs. Cleghorn, Moore, Webber, Lillico, Brown, Smithson, Bennett, Sullivan, Henderson and McFee.

It was decided not to hold the annual public plowing match this year owing to the County Council having withdrawn their usual grant to the association, but to have a five acre competition, open only to boys under 21 years. The plowing of not less than five acres must be done on the home farm before Oct. 21st. Entries to be made to Hugh McFee, Keene, R.M.D. No. 2 or to F. C. McRae, Norwood, on or before Oct. 14th, with name, post office address, township, concession and lot. Condition of land will be considered by judges. The prizes are: 1st $15, 2nd $12, 3rd $10, 4th $8, 5th $5.

It is hoped that all the young farmers will take part in the competition and become linked with one of the great agricultural associations of the country.

THE RIGHT PATH.

The address delivered in Toronto on Labour Day by the president of the District Trades Council contained a warning that should not pass unheeded by members of labour organisations throughout the country. It was that the best way for the workers to obtain what they believe to be their right is by means of the ballot rather than by revolution and violence. That is outspoken and sound counsel, and is particularly timely because of the announcement that efforts are being made to bring about a general strike in labour circles throughout the United States as a protest against the injunction move taken by the Attorney-General. Labour's greatest enemy lies in its own ranks; if labour allows itself to be swayed by such enemies, persuaded by the radicals and Reds in its own membership to forget the duty it owes to the people, no one will be more severely hurt than will labour itself. A great responsibility is upon the labour leaders. If they continue to counsel prudence and moderation, they will gain for their movement something that is essantial to success and that cannot easily be secured again once it is lost—the sympathy of the masses of the people. The Toronto president did his co-workers a good service when he pointed out the right path to them.

CLEARING THE AIR.

The conference among the various Provincial Governments and the Federal Government over the unemployment programme may not arrive at a solution that will settle the whole question, but at least it should be productive of much valuable information, and good cannot fail to come from an exchange of ideas. The difficulty, of course, is that a policy that might suit a Western province would be out of joint with Eastern conditions, and to attempt a cure-all course of action covering the whole of Canada would be to attempt the impossible. At the same time, the reasons why there is unemployment should be uncovered by such a conference. Canada is not an over-populated country, and it seems only logical to believe that it would be possible, under proper handling of the conditions, to prevent any large measure of unemployment. It is understood that the Federal Department of Labour will submit some concrete proposals to the conference. Each province should similarly be prepared to contribute a plan covering its own difficulties, so that the gathering will serve as a clearing-house for ideas, and so that out of the discussions will come a remedy or series of remedies applicable to each province for the solution of this troublesome problem. If it does nothing else, the conference should be of value for the opportunity it gives of closely inspecting the situation as it exists to-day, and of clearing the air.

WHERE HAVE WE FAILED?

With the tourist season practically over, it is a good time for Peterborough and district to take stock of the conditions, and size up the season. The assertion is made that the largest influx of American tourists, especially of motor tourists, in the history of Ontario has taken place during the summer that is drawing to a close. That being so, can it be said that this district has received its full quota of such visitors? The answer, to be truthful, must be in the negative. The Kawartha Lakes, although enjoying a good season, cannot be said to have reached a new record in spite of the increased number of tourists into the Province as a whole. The question that should concern us during the next few months, in order that we may be able to make a better showing next year, is, where have we fallen down this summer?

The scenery is there, an unrivalled chain of lakes and rivers await the tourist, fishing, on the whole, has been good. Have we been deficient in advertising? Are we lacking in accommodation Is there need of more good roads? These are some of the points that will have to be decided by some organisations, as the Trent Waterway Development Association. We have no occasion to fear competition because we have something to offer that cannot be surpassed. The Kawartha Lakes will "sell" themselves once the customer is brought within reach. How best to accomplish that operation should provide food for serious reflection before the next tourist season rolls around.

THE RIGHT TO STRIKE.

The statement for the striking shopmen, discussing the injunction, says that it is assumed that the right to strike in a lawful manner until a satisfactory settlement can be reached is acknowledged. It is. Congress deliberately left out of the Railroad Act a restriction of this right and yet it is one in transition.

We do not believe in peremptory measures or violent legislation in handling this issue, but rights and necessities have to be adjusted. If the right to strike meant the right to suspend all transportation until a satisfactory settlement were reached it would mean one of two things. Either it would give complete control to a working group or it would ruin the nation.

The right to strike is accorded in principle, but it is a principle which could not survive certain contingencies. If all the railroad workers used it to put on economic pressure railroad operation would be reorganized on a different basis to save society and the right to strike would be merely the right to quit railroading and seek other means of making a living. It would require a large measure of government force to operate, to protect lives and property, but it would have to be used.

The workers in essential services preserve the principle of the right to strike by not pressing the use of it to extremity. In several necessary public services certain rights of individuals are definitely surrendered to the welfare of society. Policemen do not organize as garment workers may do, and firemen do not act collectively as carpenters do, or, if they act collectively, it is by totally different methods.

The services in which the individual puts the welfare of the community above himself, either by tradition or by taking oath, do not include all the services without which society could not exist. A general railroad strike is a legal possibility. It would not be an endurable fact. We believe that people rationally can make adjustments. The railroad workers assert their right to strike, but they do not create the extreme situation. Society knows it could not endure railroad suspension, but it is not attacking violently the principle of the right to strike when it is not forced to do so. The necessary transition can be made gradually in moderation without the upheaval which the pushing of logic to extremes would cause.

People recognize that as men give up individual liberties of action the responsibilities of the people at large towards them are increased. The railroads themselves, as private properties, are also impressed in public service as common carriers. They cannot be managed as ordinary private properties are managed. They cannot suspend service. As common carriers they must give adequate and reasonable service. They can be administered for the public by receivers and the receivers' certificates are the first claims against their resources.

The public regulation of these private properties is tending towards adjustments which will make the settlement of issues between employer and employee and the public a government decision, both as to what the railroad shall charge and what it shall pay. The government says how the railroad shall serve the public and how the employee shall serve it.

This makes it rational for the worker to regard himself pledged to public service. He is not dealing with an employer in a conflict over profits and wages but with the government, presumably interested only in general justice.

We work the scheme awkwardly by giving one body the jurisdiction over wages and another the jurisdiction over rates when the two are interdependent, but that can be remedied. The farmer, the producer, the transportation worker, and the consumer are directly related to each other. What they do and what they get affect each other and the railroad property is merely an intermediary which cannot get a knock without sending it on somewhere.—Chicago Tribune.

WHY EXCHANGE IMPROVES.

Canadians read with interest and appreciation that their dollar is worth 100 cents in United States markets, and no doubt wonder why it is. It is, in fact, not a very easy matter to understand why back in 1920 the Canadian dollar should have been worth only 80 cents in New York, and in 1922 toward the end of the year, be worth par, says the London Advertiser.

Exchange of goods is, needless to say, the chief factor in determining the rate of exchange on money between two countries. Even prior to 1914 Canada importing trainloads of tropical fruit, coal to the value of $50,000,000 annually, and large quantities of other luxuries and necessities from Uncle Sam, found that the grain she shipped to the States, the lumber, fish and other commodities, did not nearly offset her purchases from that quarter. At the end of the year Canada invariably owed the States a large sum. Britain, however, always bought more from Canada than she sold the Dominion. In fact, the sum owed Canada almost equalled Canada's debt to Uncle Sam. And when the mother country had squared this in goods or gold with the U. S. A., our debt was practically wiped out. Hence the dollar stayed at about par.

But war altered all this, and at its finish, Britain, though owing Canada large sums, could not settle with the United States. So Canada's adverse balance of trade, the big-combined debt of all her citizensto all the citizens of the U. S. A. depreciated the Canadian dollar bill. A learned authority illustrates the principle of exchange by asking one to imagine Smith, of London, owing Jones, of New York, $1,000 for goods, and Brown, of London, being owed $1,000 by Robinson, of New York. No money crosses the ocean, nor even changes hands. The banks settle the four accounts by having Smith, of London, pay Brown, of London, and Robinson, of New York, pays Jones, of New York. It is all done by swapping bills of exchange. Special brokers deal in these bills, which, bought and sold, fluctuate in value as the demand varies. In normal times the country which buys more than she sells from a certain country adjusts the balance periodically by shipping gold. But the war seriously fractured this old way of maintaining equilibrium.

Though the balance of trade is the main factor in determining the rate of exchange between two countries, there are other influences. The amount of gold behind the dollar is one. International loans are another and government loans to banks still another. In 1920 when the Canadian dollar was hovering between 17 and 21 per cent. discount in the States the Dominion note issue approximated $123,000,000, backed by $100,000,000 in gold and securities. To-day Dominion notes in circulation total some $109,000,000, secured by $87,000,000 in gold. But if the gold ratio at Ottawa is about the same as formerly, the balance of trade between the two countries has altered radically. During the high discount period in 1920 Canada owed Uncle Sam a bill of roundly $300,000,000 for goods, etc.

To-day Canada owes the State $211,000,000. And though Great Britain only owes Canada $188,000,000 to-day instead of the $370,000,000 of 1920, the mother country is in a far better position to square her debts than two years ago. This all assists in bringing Canada's dollar back to par in the States. Then Canadian banks which had borrowed heavily from the government owe Ottawa $60,000,000 to-day instead of the $184,000,000 of 1920. Canada, too, has borrowed $100,000,000 from the United States within the past year, and this loan has a marked effect in pulling the Canadian dollar back to the century mark. The finance department in Ottawa, which supplied most of the foregoing figures, considers the improved balance of trade and the big United States loans to Canada chiefly responsible for the improvement. Investment of American capital in Canadian properties, and enterprises, and the unusually heavy influx of American tourists this summer, who all spend money here, help in the upward trend. The splendid crops prospects exert a potent influenee as well.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

"Hardly " He spoke with decision but it was a disquieting thought. "You know they have done nothing since they obtained possession of the portrait of Stuart Steele. That may have been what they were after all the time. I believe it's over."

She shuddered. "I don't. I—I feel is isn't, in here." She put a hand over her heart, raising lips again for his kissi

Inwardly, however, Dupont agreed with her. The little band of their enemies had been too determined, too ruthless, too desperately unscrupulous, to believe that they would fade away silently, that they would leave Violet and himself in peace. If the picture of Steele had been their sole objective there would be no explanation for he viciousness of their attacks upon Violet. He remembered the attempt to burn her to death in an abandoned chemical works, he recalled Vera's double effort to take her life, once by the throwing of a knife while in a supposed hypnotic trance once by burying her alive in an extemporized mold of plaster of paris. Too, he recollected Canfield's brutal attack upon her in her room, from which she was saved only by the dog.

Last of all, and perhaps most vivid in his mind, was the danger besetting her in the abandoned church.

"Don't come in " The terror in her voice came to him sharply and clearly again. "If you open the door you plunge me to my death "

At the moment of her cry, the acrid pungent odor of a chemically fed fire had struck him. Through the cracks and crevices of the doorway had come the smoke in perceptibly increasing volume even as he hesitated. When he crashed through the panel with his fist he found her poised on a narrow ledge where it had been almost impossible for her to cling. In the decay of the old structure the floor had fallen and Violet, escaping from her cellar prison in the excitement of the attack, had clambered up the wreckage, had grasped at her frail support just as the rotten beams and planking collapsed beneath her weight. While poised there helpless, because the door opened inward, she had been aware suddenly of a movement below her. Case, the hunchback, had spread over the tinder-dry wood the contents of some jar with a single swee. He hade set a match to it, the flames had virtually leaped at her feet at the moment she heard Dupont, as he had grasped the knob of the door.

Now she w s safe. But did the two weeks of freedom from attack mean anything? Both were silent; their thoughts busy.

Into the garishly furnished, almost cluttered front parlor of the Washington Square home flounced a rather stout and florid figure. Her dress was a heavy taffeta which rustled riotiously. A long chain of china beads and several bracelets and numerous other ornamnets collaborated in the near pronMetion of clatter. Tied about her, however, was a kitchen apron, as out of place as overall at a palace. A big splotch of flour on her cheek made ludicrous the effect of a coiffure remarkable and immaculate.

"Aunt Julia " Violet exclaimed.

"What do you think?" gasped the intruder. This sister of Doctor Sutton, never on speaking tems with the scientist in his lifetime and as a consequence hardly ever civil to Violet either as a child or young woman, now sought to make up everything to the girl by the quantity and quality of her attention. "What do you think?" she repeated, sitting cautiously upon the edge of a chair, so as to impose no strain upon the upholstery. "I sent Thelma out to get the candles for your birthday cake and she only bought a dozen. Is'nt that crass stupidity? And they wonder I oppose immigration at the Fortnightly Club.... Mercy?''

Violet smiled. "It isn't necessary to have eighteen candles on my cake, is it, Aunt Julia. I'm a big girl now, you know."

"Violet " Miss Julia Sutton, whom no one had ever suspected to be three years older than her brother, gestured with a manicured finger, severely. " I'm making this cake it's going to be exactly right. I sent Thelma out for more candles and—and I'll have you know this is a genuine, old-fashioned, homemade cake. I'm using ten eggs, and at eighty cents a dozen, too "

"But——"

"Don't interrupt This is to be a good luck cake, too. Eighteen is a fine number in occult science. It is too nines, and nine is most important, most important indeed, according to the Pythagorean system of cosmology."

"Whew " Dupont whistled as she hurried back to the kitchen.

Violet slapped his face, playfully. "You shan't make fun of her " she exclaimed. "Who knows you may not be just as funny to people with your hypnotism as she is with her science of numbers?

"But it's a fad with her. She goes to hear every Swami who lands in the country, she travels to California to join every theosohpical colony that starts out thers, and now she isn't happy until I spend half of every evening knocking knees and playing with her on the ouija board."

"But she's done everything for me since Doctor Daddy was killed."

"That's true." Dupont looked out the window. After all, the old lady had few interests in life. A spinster, she had been dependent upon her clubs for social intercourse. She was only one of very many thousands swept a little beyond the point of rationality in the rising wave of enthusiasm for things occult. "Is this the lawyer?" he asked suddenly, as a man turned in at the gate.

The representative of the executors of the Sutton and Bronson estates was a fussy little man who was delighted when Miss Julia Sutton, camping square upon the realization of her social position, insisted that tea be served by the sniffing Thelma before the document was read. To Dupont the delay was irksome, the actual intoning of the lengthy provisions of the legal instrument an ordeal. He reached over, taking Violet's hand, knowing it was more of a strain on her than upon himself.

IMPROVING THE HAIR.

For improving the general condition of the hair the bob is said to be the most beneficial thing. Many women who do not care for bobbed hair are having their hair cut shoulder length, just long enough to do up under a net. Beauty specialists also recommend sun baths and letting the hair hang as much as possible.

By the exercise of great care in the selection and blending of beans, and by the employment of the most highly developed machinery and processes of manufacture we believe that we have solved this problem and produced a

What This Buffalo Physician Has Done For Humanity

The picture which appears here of Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., was taken in 1910. As a young man Dr. Pierce practised medicine in Pennsylvania and was known far and wide for his great success in alleviating disease. He early moved to Buffalo and put up in ready-to-use form, his Golden Medical Discovery the well-known tonic for the blood. This strength-builder is made from a formula which Dr. Pierce found most effective in diseases of the blood. It contains no alcohol and is an extract of native roots with the ingredients plainly stated on the wrapper. Good red blood, vim, vigor and vitality are sure to follow if you take this Alterative Extract. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery clears away pimples and annoying eruptions and tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. This Discovery corrects the disordered conditions in a sick stomach, aids digestion, acts as a tonic and purifies the blood. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Director Recreation.

Walter Smaill wrote, applying for the position of director of recreation for the schools of Peterborough. Mr. Smaill formerly held a similar position in Victoria, B.C.

On motion of J. W. Worth, seconded by J. M. Greene, this matter was referred to the Supervision committee with instructions to consult with H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute, and A. Mowat, Inspector of Public schools, with a view of ascertaining the need for a supervisor.

YOUNG MOTHER NOW STRONG

Her Mother's Faithin Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound led Her to Try it

Kenosha, Wisconsin.—"I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother had great faith in it as she had taken so much of it and when I had trouble after my baby was born she gave it to me. It helped me so much more than anything else had done that I advise all women with female trouble to give it a fair trial and I am sure they will feel as I do about it.—Mrs. FRED. P. HANSEN, 562 Symmonds St., Kenosha, Wisconsin.

A medicine that has been in use nearly fifty years and that receives the praise and commendation of mothers and grandmothers is worth your consideration.

If you are suffering from troubles that sometimes follow child-birth bear in mind that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is especially adapted to correct such troubles.

The letters we publish ought to convince you; ask some of your women friends or neighbors — they know its worth. You will, too, if you give it a fair trial.

SILK MAKERS WARNED ON REDUCING OUTPUT.

Japanese Told Prices Must Be Brought Down.

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 6.—Japanese raw silk manufacturers who recently decided to withhold 30 per cent. of their output from the Yokohama market have been warned by American buyers that this artificial stimulation of the trade might lead to its ruin. A paper prepared by C. E. Douty, general manager of the United States Testing Co., and read at a meeting of sericulturists and reelers, explained how this ruin might be brought about by the use of substitutes unless the Japanese could bring down prices by means of labor-saving devices.

Explaining that the imports to and production in the United States of artificial silks had increased nearly sixfold in nine years and that more factories were being built, he declared that prices must decline, and added:

"In cotton, artificial silk, and mercerized cotton, the cost of raw material constitutes from 16 to 30 per cent. of the entire cost of the finished fabric. In silk, it is approximately 50 per cent. of the cost of the finished fabrics. This causes the silk manufacturer to be more sensitive to fluctuations in the raw material than other classes of textiles."

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT IS FIERY, ITCHY OR ROUGH, USE SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

SEEK REDUCED POOL LICENSE

Municipal Tax on Pool Rooms Shown to Be the Highest of Ontario Cities.

The proprietors of Peterborough's pool rooms presented a petition to the Council last night requesting that the license fee per table be reduced to conform with the average charge of the other cities of Ontario and also to take into account the change in business conditions. Peterborough's license for pool and billiard tables is $40 each, and the Ontario government imposes an additional tax of $15 a table.

Mr. J. A. O'Brien who appeared with a deputation of pool room proprietors pointed out that the provincial tax had not been applied when the Council fixed its fees at $40.

"The pool room business is now in an unhealthy condition," said Mr. O'Brien. "The men and boys on whom my clients depend are out of funds, and consequently not able to visit the pool rooms as usual. According to authorities on physical culture pool or billiards is a good healthy indoor recreation."

Mr. O'Brien contended that it was inequitable to require pool room owners to pay as high a license as during the war. He also referred to the fact that no pool room proprietor in this city has been charged in police court with any offence in four years.

Comparison of Fees.

The municipal licenses, apart from the provincial fee, as quoted by Mr. O'Brien, are as follows: Toronto 20, 1st table, $10 each additional table; Hamilton $30 1st table, $20 second, $10 each additional; London $25 1st table, $10 each additional; Ottawa, $35 1st table, $25 2nd table, $15 each additional Kingston $40 1st table, $20 each additional; Brantford $20 and $10; Belleville $50 and $25; Chatham $10 each for first three, $5 each additional table; Kitchener $15 and $10.

On the basis of a five-table pool or billiard room the municipal licenses, exluding provincial tax, compare as follows: Peterborough $257, Toronto $135, Hamilton $155 Ottawa $180; London, $140; Kingston, $195; Brantford, $135; St. Thomas, $140; St. Catharines $165; Belleville, $225; Stratford, $155; Chatham, $115; Woodstock, $130; Brockville $160; Kitchener, $130.

The petition was referred to the Finance committee.

Ald. Gainey suggested that the proposal to discuss licenses be extended to include eating house licenses, but this broader question was transferred to the committee in a separate resolution.

Ald. Gainey said that the Council might reconsider its policy of granting licenses for $5, permitting persons to carry on business for a few months in the year in cheap and easy competition, with business men who were paying high taxes and conducted business the year round.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir: Kindly allow me space in your paper for the following regarding parents barred on account of too many children.

One of the most cruel, shameful and disgraceful acts is carried on by landlords and landladies. When a mother or father goes out looking for a house that is advertised to rent in your paper, they are asked "How many children have you?" and you answer five, or maybe six (as in my case.) They then make such an explanation. "Oh! I could not think of renting it to you. Why you, have too many children!" What encouragement is this to mothers of large families? Christian women who attend to their church and go by the teaching of their church, which teaches them to live a good and holy life, and bring forth heir children, will have large families. And what are they to do? Bring up their children in a stable, or have they got to do away with them? But woe to those who are guilty of such actions! for the soul of that child will cry with vengeance on the last day. Or perhaps they have been Topsies—grew up from nothing.

I think it would only be right for the government or the civil authorities to punish such house owners. I remember during the war people married ten years never had a child but when the war act came out they had children quickly. Some even went and adopted children to save their husbands from going to the front. Some make the excuse children destroy and hack houses; if they do who repairs them; but if you bring up your children correctly they won't destroy. I asked a Sunday preacher to rent me a house of five rooms, and he said "Oh, I could not think of renting it to you—too many children!" Does he get that in his Gospel? Five rooms, kitchen, dining room and three bed rooms suits me. But, no, the children are the bar. God help the poor little children and the discouraged mother! I wonder when they go to the golden gate of heaven will they be refused admission for having too many children?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, and hoping that this letter will find space in your columns.

A Father of Six.

Autumn Exposition

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 7th, 8th and 9th

Exhilarating, new, expressive of the best of the many original and charming new style details launched this season, is new Fall apparel in this Store. To women everywhere qui vive with interest in the Mode for Fall, we cordially extend an invitation to visit our store-wide Exposition.

New Frocks

Beautiful Modes Inspired by Those from Far Distant Lands

FROCKS are the most versatile of all the new things for fall! Their styles are legion! The Old-World influence has gone its gamut in Frock affairs. Here are Frocks with Russian, Persian, Egyptian, classic Greek or Roman style details. Waistlines vary from the very low one of Russian origination to the prim, tight basque effects. Draped hip effects, beloved by Jenny, are recent style modes. $25 to $75.

Graceful Wraps With Straight-Line Silhouettes

COUTURIERES have placed their faith in the straight-line silhouette. Such beautiful fabrics and gorgeous embroideries and fur trimmings have been launched for fall, 1922, that Wraps are creations indeed! The Russian side - closing, striking girdles — Mandarin sleeves—low bloused effects and the clever use of beautiful furs on Wraps of marleen, panvaline, matelasse or marvella make Wraps luminaries in the fall revue. $19.95 to $125.

The Fall Tailleur Accentuates Dressy Russian Modes

THE modes and manners of Suits! How important they are to Milady of the Fall who chooses a Suit to wear into the first, brisk leaf-blown day! Costume Tailleurs in modes a la Russe, or piquantly boxed styles are infinitely varied in sleeves and trimmings. Beautiful embroideries glint with metal. Braidings are unique. Fur trimmings more luxuriously beautiful than they've ever been! $35 to $115.

The strictly tailored Suit with severe, infinitely smart long coat is very chic in Poiret twill. It is destitute of even a hint of fur. Fine twills and tweed mixtures in sports styles are quite indispensable for general utility wear.

New Blouses With Fall Tailleurs in Mind

BLOUSES follow many a vagary in fabrics and styles and the Jacquette, made of gaily printed brocaded fabrics, matelasse or Rodier fabrics is very new. Conventional designs on crepe de Chine, satin crepe or Georgette, follow the trend for things Oriental, Egyptian or Russian. $5 to $25.

Millinery for the Autumn Costume

NEW Fall Millinery makes its debut here, and the Store cordially invites every woman interested in the new styles to come in and see them, try them on, and decide leisurely just which type she can best wear. These are decidedly new types, that should be carefully selected—barbarically beautiful ones, evolved from the famous headgear of imperial monarchs of the old world.

The Costume's Finishing Touch

THIS is Exposition Week in the Millinery Section. Just the right Hat is here to complement your new fall costume. It is a splendid time to see the different effects, different Hat styles can achieve for you. Wear your new fall suit or frock in, and try the new Hats with it.

Color splashes its light on trimmings that overflow with the clear brilliant shades of Egypt—Russia—Persia—France—the Orient. Vatican purple, aluminum grey and wood brown shades are fashionable street colors, Paris decrees!

Fall Fabric Exposition

Displaying Many Fascinating New Weaves and Colors

UP the aisles and down there are inspirations galore for women hunting knowledge of what is new and authentic. The Store has arranged its displays of fabrics, imported and domestic, so that every woman may get a concise idea of what will be worn and what will suit her needs. Important and lovely are matelasse effects, cloky, deep-piled velours, crepe satin and kasha. In the newest shades such as marron, noisette, mocha, King's blue, bronze-green and sand, they are irresistible.

New Woolens Do Themselves Up Brown

AND they're enough to make a trip to the sewing-room or seamstress a very intriguing adventure. Browns from the beige and pinkish effects to chocolate or seal with all the golden and wood shades in between are what Paris approves. And when they appear in deep-piled velours, piquetine and wool crepes, who could blame her?

Salient Style Details

REMINISCENT many style periods, are modes for fall! Expert designers have culled costume details from the courts of the Louis, from Cleopatra's sumptuous empire, from Turkish harem and Russian palace—from the courts of ancient Greece and ribald Rome! Here the costume a la Russe, a Mandarin styled blouse, the Egyptian frock, a Napoleonic hat, a Louis Fourteenth hat, a Grecian draped frock!

Graceful Cut-Out Patterns Distinguish the Newest Fall Pumps

AND how different they look. And besides, the new Pumps for women lend themselves admirably to displaying silken hose.

The smart Spanish heels tend to lift the longer skirts and thus give a more graceful line to the frock.

In patent leather, black satin or grey suede, $6.50 to $10 pair.

Accessories With the Gift of Novelty

THE League of Little Fashions has in it such beguiling things as Silk Tricolette Scarfs in wondrous colors and weaves. OTTAWA, September 6. Canadian PressPress. — According to the latest reports enquiries are being received from Liverpool, England, which are thought to be the forerunner of business in storage eggs for fall shipment.

Toronto finer specials 41 to 42c, extras 38 to 39c; firsts 33 to 34c, seconds 28c. Country markets higher, shippers paying 26 to 28c and making sales graded firsts 33 to 34c f.o.b. cases free.

ST. LOUIS, September 6 (Canadian Press). — St. Louis regained first place in the American League yesterday by defeating Cleveland 10 to 9, while New York was losing a double-header to Boston. The Browns are now half a game ahead of the Yankees. Kenneth Williams made his thirty-fourth home run of the season, taking the league lead in circuit clouts and tying Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, leading National League home run hitter.

Williams' drive came in the fourth inning off Boone, and was good for four runs, Kolp, Tobin and Sisler scoring ahead of him. Sisler hit safely in his thirty-fifth consecutive game, and is only five games behind the modern major league record set by Ty Cobb of Detroit in 1911. Cleveland used twenty-one players, including five twirlers, and the Browns used 14, four being pitchers. Score:

NEW YORK, September 6 (Canadian Press). — The New York Yankees sustained a severe set-back yesterday, losing both games of a double-header to Boston by scores of 4 to 3 and 6 to 5, and losing first place in the league to the St. Louis Browns. Boston now has won eleven out of eighteen games with the Yankees this season. Former Yankee players in the Red Sox line-up played a prominent part in the champions' downfall, Mitchell's home run giving Boston its winning margin the first game and Pratt's homer with Burns on base decided the second game. Bush, pitching for New York in the second game, sustained his sixth defeat in twenty-eight games. Scores:

JUVENILES NOW IN THE MIDGET SERIES

Winner of City League Will Play Either Toronto or Lindsay—Game To-Day.

Arrangements have been completed where by the local juvenile teams have been transferred to the midget series. The qualifications for this series are that the players must be under 17 years of age, and as all the local juvenile players have been able to produce the necessary birth certificates the matter was easily arranged. The Lakeviews and Maple Leafs who won the first and second halves of the schedule, will play off this evening and Saturday for the city championship, and the winner will meet either the St. Mary's team of Lindsay or a Toronto team for the Ontario championship. There is a possibility that a team may also be entered from Cobourg. The probable schedule will be home and home games betwen the local and the Lindsay champions, and the winners of this series will meet the Toronto team.

It is confidently felt that either the Lakeviews or the Maple Leafs can trim both the Lindsay and Toronto teams with ease. The youngsters have been showing up exceptionally well in the league games this summer, and some of the most promising material in years has been developed. The winner of the Peterborough league will be a team that can not only take the Provincial championship, but will be of sufficiently high calibre to meet any team of the midget class in the Dominion.

Adanacs Take First Game in Junior Championship Series

Heavy Hitting Bunched in Second Inning Cause Defeat of the Lakeviews

A FAST GAME.

Ed. Wright's Adanacs took the first game of the series for the junior city championship from the Lakeviews, 2 to 1, yesterday afternoon at Riverside Park. The Lakeviews had a little the better of the play, but the winners were able to bunch their heavy hits, a home and two double in the second inning for the winning runs. The Lakeview hits were kept scattered and their only run resulted from a hit followed by a stolen base and two errors.

MacLean was responsible for the home run when he hit to deep left and lost the ball in the long grass. Jeff Hardill, the next man up, ai for two bases and C. Turner followed with another double, to score Hardiil. Whitehouse then tightened up and pitched air-tight ball for the remainder of the game, but the damage had been done, for the Lakeviews were unable to overcome the lead established by their opponents.

Whitehouse and Shaughnessey both pitched good games, and with the exception of the second inning when Whitehouse was hit hard, they were very evenly matched. Whitehouse struck out ten, including the only three men to face him in the fifth, while Shaughnessey fanned eight and walked one.

MacLean, at third for the Adanacs, and Huff, at second for the Lakeviews, both turned in good steady games, handling several chances without errors.

U.S. TENNIS TEAM WON THE DAVIS CUP.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 6.— (Canadian Press.)—A valiant effort to take the Davis Cup International trophy to Australia failed yesterday on the turf courts of the West Side Club.

Gerald L. Patterson, ace of the Antipodean challengers, met and lost a stirring three set match to William M. Johnston, of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1, and the cup was America's for another year at least.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By Ge... O'Neill)

The clubs for putting vary as much as strokes and I think I have used every one with more or less success. The pendulum stroke is the most popular in this country, Jerome Travers being its finest exponent, and there is no doubt that the logical club for that stroke is a centre-shafted putter, for a pendulum swings from a centre and is easily balanced. If the game of golf had consisted wholly of work upon the green it is probable that a golf club would have been a centre-shafted implement, but as the largest and most interesting part was through the air it is easy to understand why a certain orthodox form of club would be retained throughout the game.

Dr. Paul Hunter, formerly a star amateur player of Chicago and now a resident of Los Angeles, is one of the country's best medal players. He is California State champion and was chosen for the all-American team of amateurs to meet the all-British team this month, but was unable to be in New York at the time. He is a fine stylist and a sure putter.

PROPER PHILOSOPHY IS FOUND IN THE BEGINNER

Novice at Golf Never Blames the Clubs, the Wind, His Ball or the Luck of the Lie—He Is Invariably Cheerful and Loves the Game For Its Own Sake.

Whether playing with clubs, shafted with steel or wood, there is probably one, and only one, stage of a golfer's existence when he is blithely indifferent to cause and effect. That delectable period is centred around the time he makes his first purchase of clubs, bag, balls and so on, and sallies forth on some course, public or private, it matters not, to tempt fate. At such a time any shot is magnified in his eyes, as a good one; every yard the ball travels causing more or less delight.

The beginner at golf is the only one who can really enjoy the game. The links world is surfeited with books on golf, and whole chapters are devoted to telling "How to drive" and "How to put," what clubs to buy and where to buy them, what balls to purchase, what to wear and when to play, ad nauseum. It seems a never ending output and is all designed to lure the player along that fatal path which leads him away from the only true game—the beginner's.

Once the novice is persuaded to pursue what he vainly imagines is proficiency his peace of mind is gone forever. The innocent delights of his golfing adolescence is forever lost. He becomes merely one of a huge and ever growing crowd which sees nothing in the game but the reduction of handicaps.

Directly a novice joins a club he is persuaded to place himself in charge of a professional. He spends hours endeavoring to drive, then he is put to the next weapon of offense, only to find when he has grasped the intricacies that he has forgotten how to drive. The poor wretch alternates between hope and despair, and eventually the pitying handicap committee turns a blind eye on his cards and puts him to the limit mark.

This, if he but realized it, is the beginning of the end. Thenceforth he is a golfing monomaniac. His home is but a museum of discarded clubs and his knowledge of the vagaries of golf balls is profound. His only ambition in life is to ge his handicap reduced and as at long intervals he painfully succeeds in accomplishing this, his wretchness is only intensified. He is the drugged victim of the handicap habit.

There is nothing in the world to equal the beginner's joys. He never blames the clubs, the wind, his ball, or the luck of the lie. Innocent as yet of the excuses which are really accusations, he takes his luck as he finds it. He loves the game for its own sake and the health it brings him. He is invariably cheerful; always going to do better next time. He has no handicap to live up to.

Cheerfulness in golf, as in everything else, is the greatest essential to enjoyment of the game. Golf seems to react to cheerfulness more than to anything else. A happy way of looking at things is altogether invaluable. The man who goes on the course with good cheer in his heart and meets every obstacle in that manner, will soon outdown his handican, regardless of whether it goes from 18 to 15 or from 1 to scratch.

COLONIAL WEAVERS SWAMPED BRINTONS.

The Colonial Weavers swamped the Brintons in a Girls' League game last evening with a score of 23 to 2. The winners scored heavily in every inning, while the Brintons were only able to get one run across in each of the first two frames. In spite of the one-sided nature of the score the game was an interesting one.

The players were:

Brintons—M. Todd, p; R. Jay, c; E. Leither, 1b; H. Evans, 2b; M. Middleton, 3b; A. Griffin, ss; L. Hatley, ss; I. Williams, rf; T. Todd, lf; P. Williams, cf.

Harwood vs. Keene.

Last week the replay game of baseball for a silver cup, donated by the Keene Regatta Committee, between Harwood and Keene, was witnessed by a large crowd of ball fans. A large quota of Harwood fans gave their team good support, and the old-time rooters of Keene were there to support the home aggregation.

The battery for Keene was O'Dette and Hawkins, who played the game from start to finish with splendid support from the field. Dunnitt pitched for Harwood, with very good support, especially from Bates, the short-stop, who played an excellent game. Dunnit retired in the eighth, when Hogg went in and finished the game for the visitors.

Score—Keene 10, Harwood 5.

Hodge and Ward Toss Ball Away With Runners On

BASEBALL'S BIGGEST BONERS

Throwing the ball away without the permission of the umpire is something a bit new in the way of ivory stuff.

In the old days, every now and then some coacher would ask a "rookie" pitcher to see the ball. Occasionally the obliging "rookie" would throw it to the coacher, who would then let the ball go by, while the runners dashed for the plate.

The players to be involved in the latest escapade of that sort were Charley O'Leary of the Yankees and Boh Hasty of the Athletics.

Several years ago in a game at the Polo Grounds with runners on second and third, O'Leary, coaching on third, requested Hasty to let him look at the ball.

The umpire saved Hasty. Feeling that he should pass judgment on the ball if anything was wrong, the umpire called time just before Hasty obligingly tossed the ball to O'Leary.

Of course, O'Leary stepped out of the way and both runners scored. However, the umpire sent them both back as he had previously called time, suspending play.

Pitcher Hodge of Chicago and Second Baseman Ward of New York figure in the two freak "bonehead plays" of 1922.

Due to the concrete stands, a ball is usually rendered unfit for play when it hits the rough concrete. If the player discovers the ball is rough, he is supposed to throw it to the umpire for his inspection.

Failure to do that little thing caused some very unpleasant moments for Hodge and Ward.

In a game at Detroit, with Chicago leading by one run, Detroit got runners on first and second. Hodge, pitching, made up his mind that the ball was unfit for play, and deliberately threw it into the Detroit dugout.

The umpire in charge was forced to score the runner from second and advance the other runner to third. That runner also scored. Chicago managed to win out with a run to spare, so the "bone" on the part of Pitcher Hodge wasn't so costly as it might have been.

On Decoration Day in New York, the Yankees were leading the Athletics 2 to 1 up to the eighth. In that inning, with one down, Johnston singled against the right field wall. The contact with the stand cut the ball badly.

It was thrown to Second Baseman Ward, who seeing that it was unfit for play, threw it into the New York dugout, which entitled Johnston to go to third. He scored on a sacrifice fly, tying up the game.

Ward himself scored the winning run in the last of the eighth, so he atoned for his boot.

TO-DAY'S MARKET WEAKNESS DUE TO TECHNICAL CAUSE

(By Stuart P. West.)
(Speciol to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 6.—Explanation for the selling which came into the stock market to-day lay in conditions within the market itself rather than in anything on the outside. Outside news was certainly not unfavorable. If anything, it was favorable.

Latest figures on the shopmen's strike indicated a very substantial gain in the number of men at work compared even with a few days ago. On the eastern roads the average was placed close to 80 per cent.

What further information there was on the subject of German reparations was more hopeful and it was duly reflected in price quotations for both French and German exchange. The Franc sold above 7.90 cents as contrasted with the recent low of 7.45 1-4. In short it could not be said that any happening in the situation either at home or abroad could have accounted for the selling movement on the stock exchange.

Reasons for such decline as occurred were wholly technical. For over a week the market had had no reaction worth speaking of. Day after day individual stocks had been pushing forward.

The downward trend to-day was certainly due on the well understood principle, therefore, that no speculative movement can go on for long in one direction without at least some temporary interruption.

One version might have been that prices, having stood up so well during the labor crisis, were relapsing now that the strain was over. Another version might have been that the market was experiencing the familiar speculative phenomenon of selling on the good news of the strike settlements. But after all it was the rule of reaction following advances which accounted better than anything else for the market of the day.

There was no important weakness except in one or two sets of individual stocks. Mexican Oils broke rather badly at one time on the revival by a Standard Oil organ of the charge which struck terror into the market a year ago, that new production in the Mexican fields was far from keeping pace with the capacity that is approaching exhaustion. Shipping stocks were sold on the recent cutting of passenger rates and the fear that this would have an adverse effect upon earnings.

Railway shares sagged off a half point and there was a rather sharp recoil in the equipment stocks. But the selling did not increase on the decline as would have been the case had the market position undergone a real change. On the contrary as prices went lower trading grew less active.

LOCAL MARKET GOSSIP

The whole market was under pressure today apparently from profit taking sales that affected all the groups and most of the specialities with a few exceptions. In the rails C.P.R. dropped back to 146 1-4 at noon and Union Pacific was down to 148 3-4. Mexican Petroleum moved frequently over a comparatively narrow margin from 192 1-2 to 189, and Pan American Petroleum was off four points from yesterday's high of 84. General Asphalt receded to 67, but Mexican Seaboard alone in the oil group opened at 18 and was selling at 20 by noon. The stel stocks had also given way Gulf State and Crucible showing the widest declines. United States Steel touched 103 7-8 and Crucible was down to 96 1-2. Midvale also sold below yesterday's figures. Famous Players dropped from its new high of 107 on Tuesday to 101, and Studebaker seemed to be heavily sold moving downward from its opening at 133 1-2 to 130 at noon. The market was exceptionally brisk, and while the selling was general across the board the recessions were not seriously regarded by the local traders, most of whom decided that the slump was a good opportunity to buy.

STRONG BOOSTER OF C.P.R.

NEW YORK, September 5. — There are few words that can express the anguish of soul of the man who has had opportunities presented to him of making enough money to put his business on its feet or to obtain enough ready cash to send his boy to college and then to have missed that chance. It is bad enough not to have had cash to do these things, both of which are expected of a business man, but immeasurably sadder is it to have had that where withal staring you in the face an then miss it. I am not chiding those of you who have refused to profit by my experience for not accepting your opportunities that have presented themselves the last year and more recently in the last three months. A client said last week, "Look at C. P. R., up 10 points. Oh, if I had taken your 'tip' and bought 100 shares, I could have sent Jimmy to college for I would have had $1,000.00 profit by this time, or just doubled the investment." Now, don't mistake me and think you can throw your money under your broker's door and the janitor will sweep out twice the amount in the morning, oh no, but any reasonable man with a reasonable amount of money can make money faster in the stock market when the market is right than in any other place in the world. Take Canadian Pacific, for instance—it was around 140 three weeks ago, and now is equal to 151½—"Yes," you say, "but look at the risk." Why, my dear man, there isn't any chance (unless a war crops up) for the company will move the biggest crop in its history this fall, and besides, what about the new buying in London? It is a dead cinch to buy C.P.R. between 145 and 150 and hold for at least 15 to 25 points advance. This is strong talk, I know, but the facts surrounding conditions warrant me in being what some people might think over-confident. When it is around 200, you will be saying, "that guy wasn't far wrong, eh, what?" Buy it and stay with your purchase.—Seawright.

MARKET OPINIONS.

Price and Whitley—Higher prices and greater activity looks likely this week.

Merrill Lynch Co.—The steels, oils and every one of the equipments and all the high-class rails will be in demand on every occasion.

Hudson & Co.—There is no reason in sight for us to recommend purchases of industrials on a slump so long as it is possible to secure more attractive bargains on a safer basis in the rail group.

Johnson & Co.—We adhere to our bullish position and believe that much higher prices are warranted on account of the outlook for business expansion.

LEHIGH DIVIDENDS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.— Lehigh Valley declared regular quarterly dividend of 1 3-4 on common and 2 1-2 on Pfd., both payable Oct. 3rd, stock record Sept. 16th.

U. S. STEEL STATEMENT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.— Unfilled tonnage statement U. S. Steel to be made public at noon September 9th is expected to show some increase probably about 50,000 tons over previous month as of July 31st, forward business was 5,776,161 tons increase of 140,630 over July 1st since operations for August averaged somewhat above 66 per cent. shipments probably approximate 800,000 tons, indicating incoming business of about 850,000 tons.

WESTINGHOUSE DIVIDEND.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Westinghouse declared regular quarterly dividend of $1 both common nad preferred stocks, common payable October 31 stock record Sept. 30th, preferred payable Oct. 16 stock record Sept. 30.

American Chemical and Dye declared regular quarterly dividend $3 on common and $1.75 on preferred, both payable Oct. 2 stock record Sept. 16.

STRIKES LIKE WARS.

A new phase has been born in the New York financial district. It is: "Strikes are hell as well as wars." In explanation, it is pointed out that both strikes and wars have caused huge loss, disaster and death in the past few years. It is also noted that the latest fuel restrictions are worse than they were during the fight with Germany—and it is also proposed to impose other restrictions not put in effect during the great conflict. It is hoped in the financial district that if the strike hell is made bad enough it may arouse the public to take real remedial action.

CONSERVATIVES SURPRISED.

The progress of the stock market in the strong underlying bullish trend which has been conspicuous for its powerful resistence to unfavorable developments, has not been expected in conservative quarters to be either uniform or rapid. It is argued that irregular improvements, with frequent re-actions, would be more in accord with business developments—which are favorable to certain lines but not to others. While the strikes and other uncertainties continue to exert their handicaping influence the wisdom of following a discriminating policy is particularly emphasized.

MARRIAGE AL LA MODE.

In our country we delegate most of the duties connected with a wedding to the bride's family, but in Peru they have nothing to do with the event except to act as guests.

The marriage is conducted at the home of the bridegroom and his father provides the feast and the habiliments. Usually the ceremony lasts for three days.

What We Don't See.

It sometimes seems that every one
Is growing old but me:
For I don't show the marks of time,
As far as I can see.

But could I look within the thought
Of those whom I behold:
I guess I'd find them feeling young
And saying, "Bill is old."

CAPITOL —Jack Holt in "The Man Unconquerable," a thrilling tale of the South Sea Islands; Comedy and Pathe News.

GRAND—Musical melange—Jimmie Evans and all-star cast, in 1923 edition of "Odds and Evens," "Miss Manhattan."

Hilda O'Shaunnessey works in the toy department of the Bon Ton store—and also plays the part of an animated doll in a big Christmas display. Her ambition is to earn money enough for proper treatment for her crippled little brother Mickey, who spends most of his time on the roof of their tenement. Directly across in a "roof bungalow" lives Emery Gray, a grouchy young artist, a widower, and his little girl, Susan.

Roof top life is enlivened by the feud between Hilda's Irish aunt and Emery—and the latter's growing interest in the little toy saleswoman.

In the midst of the Christmas rush Hilda sees snow on the shoulder of a customer — and remembers that Micky is alone on the roof. The floor-walker tries to stop her but she brushes by and out of the store. The boss is told—but instead of "canning" her, he takes her home in his limousine.

The unhealthy interest of the boss suggests to Hilda a means to get money to pay for a sanitarium for Micky. The next day the boss asks her what she wants for Christmas—and she answers, "A long squirrel coat." She promises to meet him the next night "right in front of the house" — and pawns the coat for $300.

That night, Christmas Eve, she lances for Micky in her doll costume—and the next day sees him off for the hospital.

Then she goes to the roof, prepared to leap to her death, to meet Gregory Sterns "right in front of the house," as she had promised.

But Emery saves her just in the nick of time. Sterns, impatient, comes to the roof—and Emery recognizes him as the man who had wrecked his home and stolen his life. A fight follows—and little Susan gains a new mother.

The story is one of unusual appeal and will prove a delight to the average child. There are many thrilling scenes, all of which will hold the attention of spectators to the final fade out. The finish is novel, dramatic and quite captivating.

A stranger was on the set watching Jimmy Aubrey at work making scenes for "The Chicken Parade." The business in the comedy is exceptionally tricky and the comedian must at all times appear unconcerned and his every move unstudied.

"There's my idea of a perfect actor," remarked the stranger as he watched the comedian. "He thinks before he acts. His every move, posture and expression is thought out carefully before he goes before the camera.

"Watch him with that cigarette in his mouth. See how he shifts it from place to place trying to get it in just the proper position. Notice how he weighs every move and then stops to consider its value."

Jimmy stepped before the camera and the stranger continued his commentary without taking his eyes from the comedian.

"Now observe Aubrey. He appears unconcerned and the spectator is unable to trace any of his studied action, he is as carefree as though he were filming an episode of his daily life.

"That is acting, real acting to be able to study every movement and appear to relax and give free reign to emotions."

AT THE GRAND.

Another large audience witnessed the Jimmie Evans Musical Revue of Odds and Evens last evening at the Grand and to judge the wonderful reception each member of the Company received after the different numbers were presented, the show was an instantaneous hit from the rise to fall of the curtain. A more novel evenings entertainment cannot be seen anywhere, and the special feature is the fact of the cleanness and refinement of the production. Special mention should be given to the stage settings and costumes which are very attractive indeed.

Mr. Jimmie Evans is a really funny Irish Comedian and also the possessor of a splendid tenor voice, had the audience with him from the start, and no doubt will become a great favorite in Peterboro'. Mr. Joe Devine is a Hebrew comedian of entertaining ability above the ordinary. Mr. Bert Ryan has a fine singing voice, and renders several numbers in a finished manner. Mr. Roy Ellis proves himself an exceptional dancer, and one of the features being his number with Miss Jollymore.

All the little ladies of the Company are extremely clever and versatile and the chorus of 8 pretty girls proved to be all that the advance notices said about them as they are all good dancers and singers.

Miss Kittie Fraser is a winsome little lady of talent, and her several numbers are well rendered. Miss Pippin is a violinist far above the ordinary and proved one of the hits of the evening. Miss Grace Gould is the prima donna and looks and sings her numbers in an attractive manner. There is not a weak member in the entire company, and if the standard set in this opening revue of Miss Manhattan is maintained for their indefinite engagement, Peterboro is very fortunate in securing such a high class attraction for the opening of the theatrical season and the patronage should be large every night, and the refinement of the entertainment is worthy of this patronage. Mr. Evans announced a special matinee would be given on Saturday for the ladies and children at special prices. The entire production will be changed tomorrow night, for the last tree days of the week.

CRESCENTS PRACTICE.

The Crescent Rugby Club will practice this evening at 6 o'clock at the Sacred Heart Church grounds. Thirty players are expected to be out, and Dr. McPherson and "Bob" Abbott have promised to go down and give the team a few pointers. Bill Meagher and Jack Deannard realize that they have a big job on their hands to whip into shape a crowd that have had no Rugby experience with the exception of Chris. McCarney and one or two others. However, they have plenty of material, the boys are willing, and are turning out well for the practices. Special attention will be given to tackling, which will be started easy and gradually speeded up. Everybody out at 6.

FIRE MENACED OMEMEE TODAY

Heroic Labour by Volunteer Brigade Prevented Flames From Spreading to Nearby Buildings.

(Special to the Examiner)

OMEMEE, Sept. 6.—Fire broke out in the big frame building at the rear of Dr. A. R. Younie's residence this morning and in close proximity to six other buildings clustered around it A bucket brigade was quickly formed to assist the local fire department, and because of the possibilty of fire spreading to the adjoining buildings and there by threatening a large section of the village, an appeal was telephoned to the Peterboro Fire Department for assistance.

The flames, however were confined to the one building as a result of strenous efforts by the local volunteer brigade and when Chief Gimblett arrived with the combination chemical engine the fire was practically under control.

Five wells were drained by the local hand-pumper engine. The citizens were very grateful to Peterboro for their prompt and generous response.

CITY OF MANDALAY HAS ATTRACTIONS.

One Thousand Pagodas, Deserted Palaces and Picturesque Ruins.

MANDALAY, BURMA, Sept. 6.—(Associated Press).—With its thousand pagodas, its deserted palaces and its picturesque ruins, the city of Mandalay continues to be a place of chief attraction for the European or American visitor to Burma.

The palace grounds, surrounded by a wall and moat, are about a mile and a half square. The buildings have a cheap gaudiness about them which compares in many ways to that of an American street carnival. Still preserved are the throne rooms and the apartments of the king, the Senior queen and numerous junior queens. Mindon Min, the next to last King of Burma, married 57 wives—seeking, evidently, to discover what the "57 varieties" are like.

From the palace grounds an American taxi takes the visitor to the foot of Mandalay Hill, one of the holy places of Burm Buddhism. Here those who are adherents of the Buddhist religion and are willing to remove their footwear may obtain great merit by climbing the nearly 400 steps which lead to the summit.

The zayats (rest houses) built at the foot of the hill are interesting chiefly on account of the pictures which appear along the walls. Most of these depict supposed incidents in the life of Gautama Buddha, and provide good instances of an inconsistency which is typical of Burmans. Though Buddha was an Indian, he is always pictured in Burmese clothes. And though he lived about 500 years before the time of Christ, electric lights and electric fans are to be seen in the same room with him.

Arakan pagoda, on the other side of the city, presents a striking appearance by its being plastered over with gold leaf. The image housed here was stolen and carried away from Arakan by the Burmans in 1784. It was cast during the reign of a king who succeeded to the throne of Arakan in the year A.D. 146. The old Burman kings used to try to please Buddha by making war on their neighbors, carrying off, as the fruits of victory, all the images they could find.

Mandalay has been dwindling in population since it ceased to be the capital of Burma. People say that every other man in town is a monk, and out out in the street early in the morning would almost believe that this is true. There are usually several yellow gowns and black begging-bowls for each block. Although there are already more than 1,000 pagodas in and about the city, new ones are now in process of construction.

Many Americans have been confused as the exact location of Mandalay by a couple of geographical errors which occur in Kipling's well-known song. It could hardly be "where the flying fishes play," when the sea is over a hundred miles distant. And China isn't "just across the bay," but is just across the mountains instead. Just across the bay is India.

FORD'S INCOME IS $75,000,000

A Gross Business of 700 Million Indicated—Owned By Family.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The income of Henry Ford and his family for the current calendar year may reach $75,000,000.

This estimate is made by the Dow-Jones financial Agency, which basis its deductions on the figures given in a statement of the condition of the Ford Motor Co. as of Feb. 28, 1922, filed with the Massachusetts Commissioner of Corporations and on the fact that 1,300,000 Ford cars probably will be turned out this year.

This balance sheet shows no notes payable, for the first time since 1918. Borrowings to effect purcause of mnority stockholders' interest for $108,000,000, which stood at $72,000,000 in the 1919 balance sheet, have been wiped out. The Ford Motor Co. has weathered the difficulties of this purchase, and the general financial depression of the latter part of the year. It now stands as wholly Ford owned, with record cash, working capital, surplus and earning power.

The family is in possession of a business, the gross of which unless plants are closed down, will exceed $700,000,000 for the current calendar year and whose net should be at least $75,000,000 on a capital of a little more than $17,000,000. The original cash investment a score of years ago was $28,000. The three stockholders are: Henry Ford 95,321 shares, Edsel B. Ford 71,911 shares, and Mrs. Henry Ford 5,413 a total of 17,645 shares. terday will be held on Thursday were alive.

SOLAR ECLIPSE TESTS EINSTEIN

Photographs of Certain Stars, Sept. 21, May Confirm Famous Theory

CHICAGO, Sept. 6. — New tests of the validity of Einstein's theory of relativity will be possible with the total solar eclipse on September 21, which will darken the eastern Coast of Africa, Australia and several of the South Pacific Islands, according to Prof. Edwin B. Frost, of the University of Chicago, and director of the Yerkes Observatory.

The theory requires, he said, that the rays of light from a distant star should be bent out of their straight path when they pass within the field of attraction of a great body like the sun. But stars, whose light passes close to the rim of the blazing sun, cannot be photographed except on those rare occasions when the moon obscures the sun.

Dotted with Stars.

The path of the sun in its annual sweep around the sky, is dotted with many stars which would serve for the test, but only those can be used which nearly graze the sun at the moment of clipse, Prof. Frost said.

Accordingly a photograph is made of these stars at a time of the year when the sun is in a different part of the heavens. On such photographs taken at night, when the same instrument that is used at the eclipse, the distance between the critical stars are measured to the 10-thousandth part of an inch.

At the moment of the eclipse, these stars will lie on opposite sides of the sun. Hence when this photograph is measured, the distances between the corresponding stars should be slightly greater than on the plates taken some weeks before or after the eclipse, and which were not disturbed by the sun's presence, according to Prof. Frost.

Astronomers Ready.

The observations by two English parties of the eclipse of May 29, 1919, in Brazil and in Liberia, in this way yielded results which have been regarded as giving the strongest physical confirmation o' Einstein's theory, says Prof. Frost.

Several parties of astronomers are locating stations in the path of the shadow and will make investigations along this line. It will not be until some months after the eclipse that they shall know whether the measurements confirm the theory for this eclipse.

Many astronomers predict the eclipse of 1922 will fail to confirm the results of that of 1919.

WOMEN 15, 50 CALLED HAPPY

Pursue Worthy Ideals Only Early and Late in Life, Says Lecturer.

LONDON, Sept. 6.— It was the worrying of discontented women that made men succeed, declared Dr. Josiah Oldfield, lecturing to the Eclectic Club on "Can a Woman Be Happy?" the other day.

Perhaps the happiest women, Dr. Oldfield said, were widows of really bad men, for they did not waste force in pursuit of a phantom.

Few women know anything of the happy, toilsome road leading to wealth, he said. Their chances were lost by the gambling element in their nature, which bade them hope for a stroke of luck or a prize draw in the marriage market.

Women lost their share of life, health and beauty in a selfish attractiveness. Their search was not for means to make all women beautiful but to make one woman especialy beautiful. They lost happiness because they had only one eye on the goal.

Two Happy Periods.

Less than 15 and more than 50 were the happiest periods in a womn's life, because then she might be more or less absorbed in the pursuit of worthy ideals. Too often between those ages woman was discontented and dangerous.

She often set out on an impossible quest —the search for an ideal husband. Centuries strewn with broken hearts, wrecked lives and shattered idols did not discourage the quest.

Miss Happiness.

The lecturer defined happiness as the absorbing pursuit of a worthy and attainable ideal and he named the objects whose attractions were the most absorbing as power, knowledge, wealth, health and beauty. Women, owing to their limitations of thought concept and to their lack of imagination and overflow of emotion, failed to travel along any of those great highways to happiness.

In place of the pursuit of knowledge women were carried away by the lower spirit of inquisitiveness. It was not in the search for knowledge that Eve ate the forbidden fruit or that Bluebeard's locked room was opened.

LIFEBOATS ON RAILS MAKE LAUNCHING EASY

LONDON, Sept. 6.— (Associated Press).—Lifeboats arranged on decks on rails, so that they can be run to that part of the ship from which launching is possible, are features of the new steamship Mecklenburg, claimed to be the last word in safety ships, which has just made her maiden trip between Folkestone and Flushing.

In many cases of disaster at sea, it has been found impossible to launch all of the boats on a ship because of the list. By this new device this difficulty is said to be overcome.

Forecasting the Winter From A Fashionable Point of View

Fashions like events cast their shadows before them and the fashions for the winter of 1922 are casting most interesting silhouettes which indicate for the coming season a development of the lines of the season past and at the same time show departures from the fashions we have known.

The silhouette remains pretty much the same, straight of line, falling almost directly from the shoulder to the hem of the costume with merely an indication of the belt line. In spite of this similarity of silhouette there are several outstanding points of definite fashion interest about the new garments for the fall and winter.

The placing of the belt line and the length of the skirt are the two most striking differences. In the first place there is nothing literal about the present fashionable waist line for it is not placed by the up-to-date designer in the same anotomical position we once judged the place for it. We still refer to it as the "waist line" rather because it is a substitute for what we once knew as such. The real waist line is like the ear it has not been shown for an age.

Winter Dresses go to Both Extremes

In this one feature the winter dresses go to both extremes and while some of the designers accentuate the long waist line and the low girdle by making them lower even than they have been others seek variety and a new note by raising the girdle to an empire line and place it high under the bust.

In either case the girdle is pretty apt to be finished at the front or side front with a handsome and interesting ornament. Sometimes this ornament is lengthened by long tassels of beads or fringes of the same color and again it is acceptuated by folds of the material falling in full draperies from it to entirely encircle the figure.

All skirts are draped either entirely or in part. Some drape all their fullness to the side after wrapping themselves snugly about the hips others fall straight the entire length of the skirt and depend upon the overskirt for drapery.

In general the hemline is even with the exception of a side point or dip. This often reaches to the floor and on some evening gowns is elongated to form a train. Skirts are longer than they have been. In fact they are as long as the designers dare make them and still hope to have them worn.

They are also full. The fullness however is artfully concealed and so arranged that the skirt falls as straight as did the tubular ones of another year.

Promises of Heavy Black Season.

While some colors are shown it promises to be a heavy black season and black combined with white will be very popular for early fall.

A new dress that has recently come over from Paris is made of the black and white satin successfully combined and embroidered with pearl beads and gold thread. Black is always good for the informal dinner dress and no wardrobe is complete without one on its list of dresses. One of a new crepy material known as "Trigoddette" is shown with a round neck following the broad shoulder lines and the straight blouse falling from a fitted yoke to a beautifully draped skirt. The skirt is caught at the left side front with three long black silk tassels that fall to the bottom of the dress, and at the other side appears the only contrasting note on the whole dress, a handsome buckle of brilliants from which hangs a long point that scarcely escapes the floor.

Another dinner dress that is very new in design is made of black lace and black chiffon. The front of the dress, if of the chiffon accordian pleated which falls straight from the neck to the bottom of the gown. The back and sleeves of the blouse are cut in one and catch low under a fuschia girdle of chiffon studded with steel nail heads. From this girdle falls a full circular skirt of the lace, the points of which come to the front catch to the girdle. The sleeves grow wider as they reach the wrist and are banded with the fuschia chiffon again studded with rows of the steel nailheads.

A dinner dress is distinctive for two inetresting features. One is a latticed effect that forms the yoke about the shoulders and the low placed girdle on the skirt which is made of the same crepe fabric as the gown. The other is a cap of real hand made Chantilly that falls full across the back from the shoulders and grows to long points at either side which are caught about the wrists with more of the latticed crepe. This dress is shown in white with the lace cape of black in striking contrast.

Straight and Plain Blouses.

For the young ladies who make their bows to the world during the coming season, is a charming frock for informal occasions. It is made of white peorgette trimmed about the skirt with many rows of narrow Valenciennes lace, which finds its way round and round the skirt. The blouse is cut straight and plain to blouse just a bit over a girdle of self material which is held at the front, by two large rings of pearls through which pass the ends of the girdle weighted at the ends with long pearl tassels.

A dress that has a style of its own and an individual way of attaining it is made of crepe Elizabeth and trimmed with silk braid. The waist is made with long sleeves that are wide as the waist itself at the top and narrow to a tight fitting cuff at the wrist. The braid forms a yoke effect that begins at one end, runs across the shoulders at the front and the back and continues to the other wrist. A panel of several widths of the braid runs the entire length of the dress and the bottom of the over skirt is banded in the same way.

Developed in Heavy Flosses.

All-over embroidery pattern in bold designs are featured on the fall dresses in both the cloth models for street wear and in the silk and thinner materials for more dressy wear. They are developed in the heavy silk flosses, in chenille, mercerized cotton, in metallic thread, in narrow ribbons and braid combined with beads, nail heads, applique motifs of velvet and felt, and many short scraps of fringes that lend themselves in a fascinating way to the most novel effects.

Fringes are only used in the shorter varieties and many tassels are still seen in bead and silk combinations either in the color of the dress or to introduce a note of contrast. These tassels are long, some of them reaching the entire skirt length. Great imagination is shown in them and while some are long straight strands of beads or silk, caught under large and fancy knot like tops, others length with cross bars or buckles to match those at the top of the tassel. Big heads in all the high Chinese colors are used as trimmings for the tassels and serve as weights at the end of many of them.

Girdles Loosely Wrapped.

Girdles are still shown on many of the most popular of the new models. They are made of beads, of different colors combined to harmonize with the gown. Strands of beads loosely draped about the dress suggest rather than form a girdle on many of the evening gowns made of lace or net and the soft drapes of satin charmuese, crepe or velvet.

Girdles made of the same fabric as the gown are also shown, some of them loosely wrapped entirely about the figure, others passing across the back flat enough to seem like the yoke of the skirt part of the dress and then draped in fold at the front, or hanging down either side in long ends, leaving the front of the dress unbelted and hanging perfectly straight.

This straight line at the front of the dress is one of the most decided features of the winter mod , and is accentuated by the fact that the back of the dresses are bloused over a low girdle. This is particularly true of street costumes which are unusually smart this year. They are made not unlike the coat dresses of last season in that they make appropraite costumes for street wear with a fur collar or they are equally suitable for later in the season, to be worn under the fur coat.

Worn Three Different Ways.

They are made of the twills and serges and are simple of line, interesting as to sleeves; inserted panels and cape and panel effects. A cape coat dress is finished at the neck with a braided roll of padded tan crepe which ties at the shoulder in a bow. The same gown has loose panels that may be worn three different ways, either hanging straight, caught under the girdle or wrapped about the neck in scarf fashion in case the weather warrants it for warmth.

A street dress of navy twill might almost be a chemise were it not slit from the neck at the side front to the bottom of the skirt to disclose a panel of silk and gold brocade. This panel finishes at the bottom with a deep fring in a new shade known as Coeur de France, which matches the brocade and hangs almost to the floor. The dress is girdled with real amber and carved ivory Chinese beads and the girdle clasps at the front under a cared ivory buckle of Chinese design.

Embroidery is Popular.

While dresses and coats will be made for the winter months many suits are being shown for the fall before the weather becomes too severe for them to be comfortable These will be shown in soft duvetyns and similar materials with the skirts made straight and comfortably short. The coats will follow the long lines for the most part and will blouse about the hips and roll high about the head with collars of fur or of the material and cuffs to match the collar. Twills and whip cords will also be seen in the more severe models, and they will be trimmed with stitching and other tailored effects. The most dressy models of them will be embroidered and braided with fur applied at the back and wrists and additional bands placed according to the design of the coat.

An effort is being made to revive the circular effects in the skirts and also in the lower part of the suit coats. This requires a nipped in tight fitting coat above the waist. Variations of it are being sent over by the French designers, but American women seem to prefer the coats built on more box like lines.

Capes and Coats.

Capes and coats still vie with one another for popularity but be it a coat or a cape the new wrap must be full with sleeves so designed that the casual observer might mistake it for either.

In summing up the fashions for the coming winter it might be said that garments in general will be straight but full, skirts will be longer, waist lines will be higher or lower but never normal; sleeves will still leave to the dress most of its individuality, and its decorative interest and girdles of different kinds will appear during the coming season in as great numbers as in seasons past.

Black will predominate again, although many colors will also be seen, particularly in combination with black. The crepy silks and the soft as well as the tightly woven woolen materials will be used for the dresses and suits. a l fur, embroidery, braiding, stitching, fagotting and other unique forms of trimming will be used for the day time dress, while lace, beads, garlands of flowers, buckles and other gayer, glistening trimmings will appear on the evening gowns.

For evening wear metallic laces, materials and braids all will be shown, for nothing lends a more festive effect to the evening party than the glistening of beads and metal. Draped effects are coming back in great numbers and such gowns are trimmed with fringes, tassels, depending on their own soft folds for the greater part of their charm.

RESULT OF FEAR.

Fear should never be used as a compelling agent towards children. It is a mistake which, bred in childhood, follows into maturity. Fear is something no one should know, and much less the little child. He is told ghost stories and the little mind is quick to absorb them. The wrong habit of thought thus inculcated begins to sow an evil harvest. Children should be won by love and gently guided until the mind knows nothing but casting away evil and taking on good.

Perhaps the woman who does not wish to vote has nothing to wear to the polls.

BEAUTY PICTURES OF DAME NATURE

Rare Scenes in Thousand Island Galleries.

(By Mrs. J. E. Leslie)

WOLFE ISLAND, Ontario. — Nature is prodigal with the rare pictures she hangs in her Thousand Island galleries. Magnificent sweeps of sky and water and rugged land she paints with bold stroke in deep, vivid colours — sometimes softens them with mists of purple or grey.

Gorgeous, indescribable sunsets; boundless horizons of sky and water; moods of lake and river without number, from gently sparkling sunkist ripples to angry, noisy, spray-dashing waves, lashed by wind and storm; rugged rock-strewn hills; forests of century-old trees—all these and more of mighty pictures, Nature displays in her island galleries of the St. Lawrence.

But the mighty paintings are not all. Countless bits of pictured beauty meet the eye at every turn—curve of pebbled beach, warm and grey under the summer sun; little rolling hill, golden with garnered grain against the blue of the sky; wee lonely island with stunted, scraggly tree lifting itself out of a crack in the rock; deep dark reflections in the water that double the line of willows along the shore; sharp, rocky promontory jutting high out into the river where the water is always darkly green and the waves strike with a roar; clouds, flying fleecy and light, or heavy and dark with storm; red sunset sun that comes "smilin' through" a purple curtain; mammoth trees, singly and in clumps, with the marks of the ages upon them; these are some of the smaller pictures.

A tiny white sail boat driving its graceful way on the blue sunny river; or a huge freighter moving its slow heavy course north or south, framed by the azure sky, are favourites in the Island gallery.

Cows standing knee-deep in the water; a lonely horse on the peak of a rugged hill taking a good-night look at the twilight sky; a tiny long-legged killdeer running its cunning way along the shore, comically tilting its tail as a balance when it stands still; a solemn crane standing one-legged on a solitary rock, like a Japanese print—these are living pictures in the northland.

Rough, crooked country road, strewn with rocks and covered with dust; occasional farm houses and yards where the hollyhocks and the asters grow; porch-circled summer homes of city folks—these are the human pictures.

And they are all lovely with a loveliness of colour and form and thought that no human painter's brush has ever been able to duplicate—these pictures in Nature's gallery of one Island of the Thousand Islands.

Women have been permitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court since 1879.

A good sentiment is all right, but a good practice is better.

Lingerie Follows New Lines in Keeping With the Mode

"Out of sight, out of mind," cannot be said of the lingerie of the present season, for while designers of these delightful garments have been presenting ever new and more enticing, bits of under apparel for our admiration and delight, they have quite outdone themselves this time. The things they offer are the kind that once seen are never forgotten, but linger in the mind of feminine persuasion, until they are added to her very own collection of dainty underthings.

Ever widening in scope of design, of fabrics used, ever trying to become more and more suitable to the outer garments worn above them,and more and more practical for various occasions, the undergarments seem to have reached their zenith in charm and originality.

Bloomers Are Preferred.

There are garments for all occasions as has been said and there are garments to suit the tastes and purses of all women. There are those who prefer the bloomer to the petticoat, and there are bloomers designed to take the place of the garment that for centuries has been considered almost a necessary part of the feminine wardrobe. These bloomers are made of silk and crepes, trimmed with ruffles made of self material of lace, or georgette, sometimes caught here and there, on the more dressy models with tiny bows of double faced ribbon or with tiny nosegays of French flowers.

Some of these are knee length and others extend almost to the ankle, or as far as is consistent with the length of the skirt worn over it. Skirts are growing longer and longer so many of the winter models may be shown to the ankle itself.

Bloomers of darker materials are most practical for street wear under the tailleur of cloth or silk.

Imported Petticoats Liked.

A lady's preference, or certain gowns may demand the use of a petticoat and for these have been imported models of different kinds. The more practical ones come in the darker colors of crepe de chine, Italian silk or the soft satins. They are trimmed with hand embroidery, with appliqued designs in contrasting color, which appear on the pleated flounces at the bottom of them. For the thinner dresses and the more dressy occasions are shown imported models of hand embroidered batiste of silk combined with real lace in panels, in stripes, in medallions, set upon yokes and inserts of tucked net so fashioned that no one could possibly mistake the French inspiration that designed and made them.

Some of these petticoats are combined with bodices and make charming slips for the summer gown or for the neglige. On the silk models deep hem effects of lace or net often appear at the top and bottom of the slips, into which are run the patterns of the embroidery. Step-ins and night gowns made to complete the sets have the same scheme of trimming carried out on them.

Many Striped Designs

Georgette is popular in the white, in flesh and in many of the other dainty and more vivid shades combined with laces and embroidered or tucked nets, or more simply trimmed with just hemstitching or feather stitching to give a more tailored effect. Added to this form of trimming on some of the garments are large embroidered dots and eyelets. Fagoting holds many narrow strips together in the form of yokes and bands that suggest sleeves.

Dainty Simplicity Noted.

Pongee has taken a place for itself in the lingerie world and appears in the natural, in white, and in the delicate shades of flesh, light blue, green, and orchid. It is used for shirts, chemises, camisoles, nightgowns and pyjamas, step-ins and bloomers, and is popular partly because of its smart appearance, and partly because of its durability.

This same idea is delightfully applied to lingerie made of gingham. This material has but recently made its debut into the land of lingerie, but it promises to become a very popular fabric for undergarments. Chemises, nightgowns, steps-ins, made of the tiny checked and small plaid patterns shown in the best imported English ginghams make up very successfully in all the light shades. Appliqued designs of plain gingham form the trimming on most of them and the hems are held by hemstitching which trims them at the same time.

Varied Styles Pleasing.

Camisoles with vest fronts to take the place of shirtwaists with coat suits are also shown in new variations this season. These are made of combinations of lace and net that is embroidered or tucked, of the hand embroidered batiste bands, and sometimes with dotted swiss.

Corsets have undergone more of a change during the past few years than almost any form of apparel, and have grown more supple. They are made of softer materials, of elastic, of suede materials and are made with larger belt lines and flatter hips. Many of them consis of an elastic band made very wide which holds the figure snugly and at the same time comfortably for the athletic woman who needs both freedom of movement and support of surplus flesh.

Longer Brassieres Used.

Brassieres are made of nets and laces, of all kinds of satins, sateens, Italian silk, the cotton fabrics both plain and embroidered, and are cut to suit any figure and for all occasions. The corsetless era was a short one and while corsets are back stronger than ever they are more comfortable, more attractive in material, and in the lines they give the figure. Due to them is the success of the outer garment for without a good figure, the best costume made would be an utter failure.

The Vital Question of "What's New"

Admirably answered in this Magnificent Showing of New Fall Garments, Correct Style Hats, Rich Fabrics, Dainty Lingerie and Pretty Dress Accessories.

AN Exhibit of New Fall Attire that will at once confirm the Store's leadership as the Style Centre of the Peterborough District. This seasons array of New Merchandise will be a delight to all who enjoy mingling among really smart styles. A glance at the price tickets will be an assurance that the price extravagance incident on war conditions has been entirely removed.

The Proof of the Costume is the ACCESSORY Thereof

The accessories of the costume count so much these days it might truly be said that when a woman has the rest of her outfit she has but begun. There are the necklaces, girdles, gloves, shoe buckles, collars and cuffs, vests, veils, bracelets, pins, combs, purses and dozens of other things that appeal to the feminine heart and make or mar the whole effect of the most thoughtfully selected costume unless they harmonize with it.

During the last few seasons the neck lines of the dresses have been very severe in shape and very trying to most women. To alleviate this, charming necklaces and collars have been presented by the designers which combine so successfully with the dresses of the present mode as to seem specially designed a a part of them.

Distinctive New Novelties.

There are chains of all beads, made of contrasting color and a variety of sizes that make them individual, there are others made of beads strung on heavy silk cords which close at the front with large decorative medallions, finished with large silk tassels.

Other necklaces consist of black ribbons buckled at intervals with brilliant set buckles and ending at the front with studded plaques. These plaques on some are little lockets that open to show the pictures encased inside; others, in the more expensive ones, are studded watches.

Black ribbon is also successfully used for bracelets clasped at the top of the wrist with jeweled buckles or with jeweled watches. Other bracelets that are quite smart and gaining in favor are made of rings or composition in white, jade, black, red amber or whatever the color scheme may demand. These are large enough to be worn high on the arm with the sleeveless dress and from them hang strands of smaller beads that fall over the arm for several inches. To be worn at the wrist or between that and the elbow, are small chain bracelets, studded at intervals with beads of pearl, or jade or of whatever color or combination of colors strikes the fancy of the designer.

Attractive Shoe Buckles.

Speaking of buckles, there never has been a time in the history of dress when the shoe buckle took a more prominent place than at the present time. They are large and small, square and round, shaped like little fans and in tassels that dangle from mere buttons. They are made of cut steel, of bronze metal, of silver, of white metal studded with crystals, or colored stones and of jet. They are made to wear with low cut pumps or with those that strap the instep and show enough diversity of design to please all purchasers.

At a time when gowns are shown with very short or very full sleeves, the long glove is the logical conclusion. In some instances it is the elbow length glove in black or brown kid for the street costume, and the white glazed or suede for more dressy wear. Gauntlet gloves are the most popular for the more useful glove, but all gloves are fancy. They are made with deep cuffs of combined colors, put together in points that radiate from the wrist, or they are stitched one color above the other, the upper one being cut in a design or perforated so that the contrast shows through when one is appliqued on the other.

Gloves Are Trimmed.

Fancy stitching, hand embroidery and other methods of trimming are successfully used on the imported gloves. One pair that is unusually elaborate is made of ivory color glazed kid, with a gauntlet lined with silk of a darker shade. The back of the glove is hand embroidered in the two tints and in the embroidered pattern on the turn back cuff is introduced a medallion of real lace.

Black and white combinations and other strong color contrasts are commonly seen and in some of the less conservative patterns, colors to match the trimming on the gown is also used to trim the gloves that are worn with it.

Bright Colored Bags.

Among the purses that are seen in the shops there is nothing that has yet dimmed the glory of the bead bag and new and fascinating patterns are constantly coming to our notice in these delightful accessories. High colors, patterns that are conventional or scenic, others that charm us with graceful bunches and sprays of flowers are all seen in every known combination of color. There are the dainty colored ones and the more gaudy ones, each designed to lend a certain note to the costume with which it is carried. Then there are the silk bags that are literally covered with tiny loops of small beads in all the bright shades. These are conical in shape and draw at the top with a metal chain or a silk cord.

Flat purses designed for formal use to carry the cards, money and vanity fittings that are so necessary to the frequent primp are shown in fascinating folding cases made of metal and silk brocade. Rich color combined with gold, silver or bronze skilfully woven into the fabric lend these novelties a charm that is quite their own.

Gay Girdles and Belts.

Girdles promise to be more popular than ever this winter and are shown in many different ways. Some are made of ribbons with buckles shown at regular spaces. Others are silk cords with buckles of cut steel, jet, highly colored composition or of beads. Belts too are good, and by means of braiding or appliquing contrasting colored kid, suede, or leather, delightful results are attained that give the costumes on which they are worn a most distinctive touch.

The influence of the Spanish is still felt in the high comb and the big fan. Combs are made of shell and imitation of it, of composition in white and colors set with stones of different colors and of jet. They are bigger at present than they have ever been and more and more elaborate.

Interesting Fans Shown.

Fans of lace, of ribbon, of feathers and of hand painted silks and gauze are shown, some in the variety that fold, others of the kind that remain spread and large at all times. A French designer has recently sketched a gown on which the fan is the ornament at the front of the dress when not in use as a fan.

These are but a few of the hundreds of things a woman adds to her toilet as a final touch. There are still all kinds of rings, of bags, of sashes, and neckwear, but the main thing about any or all of them is that the correct thing be chosen for the occasion and for the gown with which it is worn.

STYLES FOR BEST DRESSED WOMEN

Metal Embroidery and Ribbon on Dinner Gown.

Somewhat on the Grecian lines is a popular dinner gown of rose coloured georgette embroidered in silver and crystal, with silver ribbon caught underneath the drapery at either side. The dress is ankle length, indicating the continued leaning to increase skirt length. A Grecian suggestion is also carried out in the hair ornament — a simple wreath of silver leaves.

This frock might be made over a slip of white or self coloured satin, or over a cloth of silver slip with equally good effect. Silk and metal brocades and plain metal cloths are prominent in the array of fabrics used for formal evening and dinner gowns. The fancy for metal effects is also evidenced in the embroideries applied to many of the plain fabrics. Rhinestone embroideries are also featured on many of the more elaborate and costly evening gowns, and very effective they are.

A very lovely dance frock recently seen was made of turquoise blue chiffon quite heavily embroidered with gold thread. A wide girdle of cloth of gold held the frock .n at the normal waist line, long ends simulating a flying panel or side train. The frock was worn over a cloth of gold slip.

Metal brocades and metal cloths are very popular in the fashioning of evening wraps. Many deep fringes of metal thread also appear on evening wraps of velvet or brocade.

Generally speaking, the styles most approved for the coming fall and winter season are quite conservative, but sufficiently different from last season offerings to be decidedly interesting.

The best dressed women do not go in for bizarre or extreme things, so that styles of the bizarre and extreme type are usually short-lived.

The Women

By Betty Brainerd.

Old age sometimes assumes an air of authority which young people politely resent. A ninety-five-year-old lady, speaking to a reporter in Washington, says: "The flapper wears her skirts to advertise. After she is married she lets them down, at least a little."

It is true, of course, that it pays to advertise, but no advertising campaign, however extensive, will succeed unless it exploits a good article. I have conferred with advertising men on the subject, and they tell me that the intelligent advertiser does not advertise an article once and then cease to advertise it. The power of advertising, I am informed, lies in repetition. I am also told that advertising is absolutely essential to the life of a successful business.

* * *

Flapperism has not become a business as yet. I should say it was an applied art, and the fact that a young woman wears a high skirt does not necessarily mean that she is a flapper.

I have never known of a merchant who advertised too much. It can't be done. Quality and quantity go hand in hand. A growing concern will annually increase its advertising budgets, and a young woman, embarking upon a matrimonial career, must run her home on sound business principles. If she advertised as a flapper, she will continue to advertise as a wife. Short skirts are a sane and healthy style.

Old age sometimes exaggerates. The old lady I have quoted also said, "Some of the dresses have no more cloth than this." Then she waved her handkerchief. "The flappers," she went on, "are silly to use rouge. Powder makes the skin smooth, but paint makes wrinkles." She then confessed that she had never used rouge.

* * *

Annually John D. Rockefeller celebrates his birthday by preaching a sermon to the young people of the country. Thomas A. Edison similarly issues bromidic advice. And Henry Ford prescribes academic formulae for good living.

Rockefeller is an authority on oil; Mr. Edison knows electricity and such; and Mr. Ford has a peculiar talent of his own. Their success in their particular fields does not qualify them as oracles, nor does the fact that a lady lives to be ninety-five—God bless her!—entitle her to speak with authority on such a delicate and mysterious subject as flapperism.

Preachers also attack high skirts and bobbed hair from the pulpit. Most doctors, on the other hand, believe in this flapper sort of advertising on broad, hygienic principles among others.

REGARDING MOTHS.

Go to any department store and buy a cedar spray to use in your closets.

Moths destroy woollen, silk, or cotton materials, according to the kind of moths.

Eggs are laid on material which serves as food to larvae when they hatch.

Clean clothing perfectly, brush and hang in the sun and air—to be sure there are no eggs or larvae on the clothing.

Store in sealed boxes or moth-proof bags or seal in newspaper and tie in cotton bags.

Cold storage is effective, but expensive.

CLEOPATRA GOWN.

A Cleopatra gown recently arrived in New York from Paris. It was of silk, printed in small squares which depicted scenes in the life of the famous Queen of the Nile. About the waist the metal girdle took the for mof an asp, its head serving as a part of the buckle.

Vivid in Color, The New Hats Gaily Brighten the Dullest Days

In selecting the season's outfit there is nothing more important than a becoming hat. To a becoming hat and a sense of humor is attributed the success of one of America's best known, and correspondingly most successful women artists. After all the hat is the frame for the face and the face is the most interesting part of the whole picture. Therefore, as we have said before, the hat is one of the most important factors in the season's scheme of clothes.

New Ideas Evidenced.

For the coming winter many new ideas have been introduced by the millinery designers. They have taken all the fabrics and shapes of other seasons and used them in new and original ways to portray the mode of 1922. There will be big hats and little hats, shaped hats and crushed hats and crushed turban effects, hats without brims and hats with them, brims that are cut close to the head at the back and gradually widen by many inches as they reach the front. There will be brims that turn up and brims that turn down, there will be the demure little hat inspired by the poke bonnet our grandmothers wore, and there will be the smart and dashing turban suggested by the peasant headdress of foreign lands.

No matter how demure the inspiration of those hats may have been there will be always an up-to-date smartness about the new versions, for they are very striking in color and fabric combinations, and the brims are tilted with a certain daring that is both chic and modern.

Striking Color Combination.

Brilliant colors, Roman stripes, metallic effects, beads, buckles, gaudy feather trimmings are all shown in the winter millinery display. A little toque that is being worn by one of the best known actresses is a small wrapped turban in which are successfully and brightly combined a Roman striped ribbon with red predominating and the same vivid color in kid. At the front the only trimming is a large ornamental pin that is pushed through at a very effective angle.

A mushroom that combines felt and a metal ribbon in an interesting way is developed in jade and silver. The large crown is made of the felt and the brim gives a checker board effect by means of interlaced strips of the felt and a narrow silver ribbon. Felt holds its own persistently in the millinery world and appears on many of the never models in combination with other fabrics, notably velvet, kid and the metal edged or entirely metal ribbons.

It is also used for flowers, some of which are cut out and applied flatly to the hats, others are made more realistic and put on in bunches or in wreathes. Perhaps the most novel of them all is the big calla lily that wraps itself about a centre of yellow chenille.

Felts Much Liked.

Felt fringes too are good and many of them are tipped with metal, sealing wax, or nail heads to lend a sparkle to the winter bonnet. Perforated felt brims are shown either faced with contrasting color and fabric, or left for the narrow metal ribbons to lace themselves through the perforations.

Sport hats of felt are still good and one with a crushy crown upturns a rolling brim which is edged with an overlapping row of many colored felt disks edged with silver sealing wax.

While the interlaced effect described on the mushroom sailor is very popular, felt is often seen cut out in designs and applied flat to the brim and crown of the hat which retains a simple silhouette, and requires no other trimming.

Ribbons Effectively Used.

Ribbons are used in many different ways. They are gathered and put on as facings to the small toques. They are made into flower-like rosettes, and are interlaced through the slashed brims and crowns of the simple hats. In their narrowest version they are used to carry out very interesting embroidery patterns combined with beads, with appliqued motifs of velvet, felt or kid.

The use of kid, of patent leather and suede is one of the outstanding features in the display for fall and very novel and imaginative effects have been attained by the clever use of them. They form facings of brimmed hats, are crushed in combination with gay striped materials of silk persuation to form the soft toques that come from the Oriental headdresses, they are cut out in any number of fantastic silhouettes to paste themselves flat against a background of velvet, of silk, or of felt.

Unusual Embroidered Designs.

Embroidery has proved its charm by enduring many seasons, and it promises to outdo all its own previous records in color and design for the coming season. Worked out in chenille, worsted yarn, in narrow ribbons, in metal thread, combined with beads of all kinds, with cut-outs of fabric that contrast with the material of which the hat itself is made, embroidery lends itself most attractively to the winter mode.

Duvetyn in combination with silk or baronette satin in both the high colors and the more sombre shades, promises to be good for fall. Bright colors will predominate for street wear, but there will always be the generous number of more dressy hats made on large blocked lines for the more formal occasions and these for the most part will be of black with colorful trimming saving that of self color for popularity.

Feathers Are Smart.

Ostrich will claim a place for itself on the winter millinery and will appear in conventionalized novelties rather than in the sweeping plumes.

Pheasant quills will be very popular as will the glycerined ostrich and the burnt peacock.

Trimmings will show great ingenuity of design and flowers made of yarn and angora, of felt, chenille, tinsel, jet and other materials will all make an appearance during the season. One bunch of fruit that is important is made of cork, painted in the pastel shades, in very lovely tones. The fruit and the foliage are both cut from the smooth cork and painted a flat color.

Belt-like bands that end at the front with elaborate and colorful buckles or cabachons will surround many a crowd, and the crowns will be very large and high on many of the hats while others will follow rather closely the outline of the head itself.

Many Unusual Effects.

To sum the whole display of winter millinery it might be said that hats of every size and every shape will be good, trimmed in the most unexpected trimmings, put on in the most surprising ways, but the keynote of the whole fashion decree in hats is color. Color in vivid shades, and every shade of the spectrum asserts itself either alone or in combination with other shades.

As far as my lady's hats are concerned the season promises to be a gay one.

STUDY KEEPS YOU YOUTHFUL

So Declares a Woman Student of Seventy-One Years of Age.

MRS. A. P. CRAWFORD.

The oldest student of the Columbia University summer session is a woman, Mrs. A. P. Crawford, of Greensboro, N.C.

She admits her 71 years proudly, and makes you wonder guiltily why you have been associating infirmity and fireside chairs with the seventies. After all, one may be very young at 71.

"There's no need of growing old—mentally at least," she assures you with a smile, reading your thoughts. "It is intolerance and stagnation that make you old, not years.

"New viewpoints, new interests, and study will keep you young. That's why I am here at the university, taking courses that will wake me up and give me a basis for my home reading during the winter months.

"I'm taking science, comparative literature, and a course in radical, conservative and reactionary tendencies in present-day morals. These subjects all interest me intensely."

Takes course in modern science at the age of 71.

This is not her first taste of college life. Mrs. Crawford was graduated from Greensboro College for Women back in 1869, when the college girl was looked upon as a dangerous experiment. She studied a year at Vassar College when Vassar was but four years old.

She taught school two years and then married a Methodist clergyman. The duties of her home and parish and the mothering of five sons kept her pretty busy for the next quarter of a century, but they never diminished her love for study.

The sons grew up and established themselves in business and professional lines, and she lost her active job as mother.

This year, when her grandson was graduated from the University of North Carolina, she realised there was nothing to prevent her going back to school, even though over half a century had elapsed since she was a college student. Hence, Columbia!

The mother of five children and many times a grandmother.

Mrs. Crawford has always associated much with young people and has kept their point of view. For that reason, she does not berate the flapper.

"Although I am not really sure I know just what you mean by a flapper," she admitted. "The term is used so indiscriminately to-day.

"Certainly the girls of this generation are reaching out toward a broader, freer life, and there is nothing to condemn in that.

"Perhaps the modern girls do not study so hard as those of the older generation did, but I believe they study more intelligently. There is less excuse to-day for uninteresting and uninterested girls than ever before because knowledge has been made so accessible, and advantages are within the reach of all."

Mrs. Crawford does not claim any particular credit for her youthful appearance, which she says is merely the result of plenty of outdoor exercise and obedience to the fundamental law of hygiene.

She has an erect carriage, quick, easy walk, and an unusual amount of endurance. She makes 71 seem like the prime of life.

Dancing is becoming very popular in Japan and many of the demure little Japanese girls have become as proficient in the art of jazz as their sisters.

At one time women were not allowed to appear on the English stage. Even in Shakespeare's time, the female characters in his plays were always acted by boys.

The trade in black silk in England was once ruined for a generation because a notorious murderess elected to be hanged in her black silk dress. For many years thereafter the fashion was dropped by every woman in London.

Mme. Preft, now a member of the Austrian Parliament ,began her career as a housemaid.

Search for a picturesque setting for her next novel has led Lady Dorothy Mills, the beautiful daughter of the Earl of Oxford, to make an adventurous trip to the strong-holds of the cavemen in the North African mountains. She is said to be the first white woman to make the acquaintance of these mysterious cave-dwellers.

Furs are Designed to Flatter and to Comfort

Every fur that has ever been seen before will be seen again this year and some perhaps that have not been used as wearing apparel, or as a trimming for suits and gowns will be brought forth and fashioned into something to adorn the stylish woman for the winter of 1922.

Coats and wraps will vie with one another for first place and both will be shown. For day time wear the coat is perhaps the smarter after several seasons of dolmans, but for the dressy occasion and the evening affairs the cape is the wrap of prference.

Long Fur Capes.

These capes for evening wear are made of mole, of seal, of ermine, kolinsky and other short nap furs trimmed with deep cape like collars or stole shaped reveres. Many of them are gathered full on a yoke that fits snugly about the shoulders and they grow wider and wider as they near the bottom of the garment.

Linings for the capes are all the light shades. Some of them are the soft silks or satins embroidered in large designs, trimmed with contrasting ruches of narrow ribbons. Others are the brocades with the designs woven into the fabric, shown on some of them in the one color, in others in contrasting colors. The metal farbics in the delicate shades are also shown trimmed with pleatings of chiffon applied in stripes near the bottom of the garment. At either side of these bands are often shown bands of metal galoon, or narrow metal edged ribbons shirred as a finish.

Sleeves Much Abbreviated.

Sleeves in these wraps, if they could be called sleeves, are either just slits or are slits cuffed with narrow bands to match tme fur of which the cape collar is made.

One lovely coat made of ermine is shaped to fit the shoulders as closely as would a fitted yoke andthen falls in circling fullness to the heels of the woman who wears it. The hands protect themselves from the wintry blast in cuffs that band the splits in the sides of the cape and form the semblance of a muff when the hands are held together at the front.

This lovely cape of fur is lined with turquoise chiffon shirred and puffed in the most fascinating and intricate way.

Squirrel for Evening Wear.

Squirrel too is considered very smart for evening wear and a wrap that attains its widest at the elbow is made of this fur and wraps about the figure, giving it a barrel shaped silhouette. There are not even slits for the hands in this model, but the collar stands high about the head without doubling back or crushing. It is lined with jade brocade banded with golden galoon.

The fur is cut and sewed together so that it forms a wide band of striped effect about the middle of the wrap.

Day time wraps of fur are made of the darker pelts, seal, kolinsky, sable and mink. They are both capes and coats, and are particularly attractive in the unusual use of the fur and the workmanship by which it is cut in stripes and sewed together forming squares, fan flares, and other designs.

Many of these garments are trimmed with the longer furs as fox, marten, fitch and wolf which form large collars and deep cuffs as well as wide bands about the skirt of the coat or cape.

Elaborate Girdles Used.

The fur coats are made with deep arm holes, long waist lines, huge rolling collars and are girdled with metal girdles, many of which are jeweled and buckled with very pretentious fastenings.

Long heavy silk cords that end with large fancy tassels are also shown on the winter coats and seem to be the most popular of all girdles, though not so individual as some.

Girdles in the bright colors are developed in kid, suede and the leathers in all the high shades. In some of them patent leather is effectively used. They are perforated in interesting designs, lined with contrasting color of heavy silk or metal cloth and many of them are trimmed with the big brass or nickel nail heads. Buckles that close at the front are made of either the metal to match the trimming of the belt, or covered with the same fabric as the belt itself. Some of them hook or loop and fall to long tassels made of the kid or suede.

Striking Color Contrasts.

On some of the most unsual models, silk girdles are shown. Some of them are wide and crushed and others are narrow and faced with contrasting color that shows a bit at the edges. The collar of many of these are held close about the throat with corresponding ties that catch at the front or side in small bows that lend a bit of becoming color.

Blousy backs and straight front effects are also shown in the fur coats and a few are fitted closely to the figure to the waist and then permitted to flare in a full circular skirt.

Sleeves too assume a circular fullness and are finished inside the cuff with linings that shir on elastics tightly about the wrist.

Fur Coats for Sports.

For more practical purposes asd for the winter motor coats the raccoon and the muskrat are still favorites and nothing in the more dressy furs seem able to take their places with the woman who is out a great deal either for business or for pleasure. They are made to hang full from the shoulder with long loose sleeves and deep shawl collars and are made with the belt which may be used or not according to the whim of the wearer.

Seal is coming back stronger than it has for some years and in fact stronger than it has since the winter when every woman and her sister had a seal coat. A few of them are all of seal being self trimmed with deep collars and cuffs, but for the most part they are trimmed with large rolling collars and deep cuffs of squirrel, fitch, marten, fox or some other contrasting fur.

Worn Over One Shoulder.

Fox scarfs are shown in great numbers and the lighted shades of white and the very lightest gray are coming back strong for street wear with the tailored suit or dress. The red fox and the pointed and silver foxes are still popular and the blue fox holds a place of its own. These skins are made into the round scarfs consisting of just one medium sized animal that hangs with the head over one shoulder and the tail over the other with the paws hanging gracefully between.

Muffs have not appeared for many a season as a fashionable accessory of dress, but they are replaced by pockets in the long stole-like scarfs that are cut in many different sizes and shapes that adjust themselves from capes to scarfs and even into semi sleeved jackets to be worn on the mild winter days.

An Interesting Innovation.

Suits of short napped furs were launched last year without much enthusiastic response from the women of fashion. Whether they were too much of an innovation or whether they did not appeal as practical it is hard to tell. However they will be shown again this year. A stunning coat dress made entirely of ermine and embroidered in crusted gold braid was worn at a recent showing.

Shoes and pumps of fur are shown to accompany these suits and dresses and perhaps the more popular costume is the three piece affair that consists of a dress of some silk or cloth fabric banded widely at the bottom with fur and worn with a coat of fur that extends to meet the band at the bottom of the dress.

As we have said before there never has been such variety of furs and fur garments. Furs of all kinds will be shown and they will be used in literally hundreds of different smart ways. They will be smart in inspiration and smart in effect, and no wardrobe will be truly complete without its fur wraps and scarfs.

FUEL DICTATRESS IN EMMET COUNTY

Only Woman on Job of Coal Rationing.

Emmet County, of which Petoskey is the county seat, is the only county in Michigan that has as its fuel administrator—a woman.

Emmet County will go further than that—it will venture that it is the only community in this entire land of coal famine that has one of the fair sex on the job of rationing out its scanty coal supply.

Miss Afton Holm was appointed administrator by W. W. Potter, the State Fuel Administrator at Lansing, a few days ago, when the original appointee, a man, resigned for business reasons.

As secretary of the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce, she knew something of the problems of mining, shipping, and profiteering that have come up since the coal and rail strikes became so serious, and the members of the chamber were agreed that of all the available candidates, she was the best qualified.

Miss Holm is 26 years old, a graduate of the Petoskey Grammar, High, and Normal Schools, and of the local business college, has been stenographer for a lawyer and a manufacturer, and is secretary of the Petoskey Retail Merchants' Credit Association, in addition to her duties as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. On Sundays she teaches a Sunday School class in the Presbyterian Church.

Miss Holm was sitting at her desk in the Chamber of Commerce when she received her appointment.

"The men of Petoskey aren't kidding me a bit when they hand me this job," she remarked. "Of course, I'll take it, because one more job doesn't make any difference, and I'd just as soon be the goat when it comes to deciding where the coal is to go as not. I answer so many questions every day now that a few more won't matter."

Miss Ella Wiley, of Birmingham, Ia., recently completed a quilt containing 30,000 pieces of cloth and untold stitches.

SAY AMERICANS LEAD FASHIONS

Canadians Also Are Exceptionally Well Gowned. Takes Issue With French Designer.

NEW YORK, September 6. — American women—and Canadian, too, for that matter — always are eager to adopt a new fashion and are ever ready to see its value, according to Nathaniel Gidding, well-known American conturier, who thus takes issue with M Poiret, the French designer, in his recent expressions regarding the American woman, her designer and her clothes.

Mr. Gidding, who has just returned from Paris with a consignment of advanced fall models, declared that instead of being three years behind the styles, as M. Poiret stated, we are ahead of Paris with some of the models now being shown there. As an example of this he cited the beaded gown, prominently shown in this year's creations, which has been in favour here for the last two seasons.

"Although I do not deny that Paris is th centre of fashion," said Mr. Gidding, "I cannot allow the statement that we are three years behind the styles to go unchallenged. We would be extremely lacking in enterprise if such were the case. The buyers for all the smart shops make from two to four trips to Paris a year, visit all the salons there, and select what they consider is suited to the American market. It would be very shortsighted not to keep up to the moment and all the shops here have a corps of expensive agents whose business it is to keep informed on new features introduced in the Paris shops. We go to the openings of Poiret, Callot, Jenny, Lanvin, and others, and return at once with the ideas gathered there.

Quickly Adopt New Styles.

"Nor are the American women slow to adopt the new styles. Our customers are notified when we are ready to offer new models, and they have enough confidence in our judgment to accept the creations which they believe to be suited to them. The American woman is the best-dressed woman in the world. Not only does she shine here, but at the seat of fashion she surpasses the French in style. At the races, in the smart restaurants, or on the boulevards of Paris she is always smarter looking than the French woman. The American woman was the first to wear the long skirt in France last year, and even this seaosn there were more American women there wearing the long skirts than French women.

"The American customers still bow to the superiority of the French dressmakers, however, and we must have their models, even though there may be a duty of 90 per cent. on gowns. We producers must have the models, anyway. Paris is a city of apparel. The styles there are not set by any individual. She has the world to call upon for ideas—with all the individual countries around her—and in that way she has an advantage we are in slight hope of ever having. Vast stores of ideas are to be found in the museums of Europe, Northern Africa, and the Orient—all within easy reach of Paris—and, as the city is more cosmopolitan than any of ours, in the visitors alone she can find inspiration. Fate has aided France in this way.

Where Designers Disagree.

"From this vast store the Paris dressmakers draw. Each individual dressmaker there has his own ideas, and we must go there to get the benefit of the new features introduced by them. Some inconsequential designer may produce the most interesting feature one season and the following years drop back into obscurity. For instance, this year Callot approved the high waistline, Renne the long waistline, and Jenny is featuring the natural waistline. All are showing splendid models and yet none are agreed as to this detail. We see them all and then work out some modification of the various ideas.

"But, while we turn to Paris for ideas, we are turning out some splendid models ourselves. I was interested to see in a newspaper recently a picture of Mrs. Castle returning from Paris wearing a new creation, when that very creation was designed by Evelyn McHorter in our shop. The American designers have made wonderful progress, and, outside of six or eight of the famous ones in Paris, we have just as good designers here as are found abroad. The French gown has to be modified to be made wearable for the American woman, and it is often more sztisfactory for her to carry out her own ideas from the beginning. As for our shops themselves, I must say that our Fifth Avenue shops are superior to the shops on the Rue de la Paix ten to one."

THE IDOL.

Whatever passes as a cloud between
The mental eye of faith and things unseen
Causing that brighter world to disappear
Or seem less lovely—and its hopes less dear—
This is our god our idol though it bear
Affection's impress or devotion's air.

FROSTING.

A very simple frosting is made by mixing confectioners' sugar with cream, hot water or fruit juice until of a consistency to spread. When fruit juice is not used, add a few drops of vanilla or any preferred flavouring extract. Fresh strawberry or raspberry juice makes a very prettily coloured frosting, and orange—a very good tasting one. If chocolate is desired, melt one ounce or one square and add confectioners' sugar until of the right consistency.

A Youngster's Fall Wardrobe

by Marjorie Howe Dixon

Fall finds youngsters trudging to school again with books and lunch baskets, soberly engaged in acquiring knowledge. No,—we do not really mean that. For there is nothing sober about learning, especially from a child's point of view, taking it up as he does with merry laugh and eager smile.

And to vie with and express the spontaneous joy of youth, comes a brightly tinted fall wardrobe, with many dress designs in colors, for tiny wee folks and all the others up to the sprightly flapper.

Ginghams for School.

Early fall days see many cotton materials for the little people. Gingham makes attractive school dresses, chintz make a tiny frock with matching bloomers, while striped linen in red and white is smartly combined with fine white linen to make a refreshingly bright frock for an older girl. Gingham and linen is another effective combination.

As cooler days arrive, one appears in a wrap of some sort, etiher a cape or a diminutive coat. In homespun comes a comfy cape in plaid, orange and red. White serge makes a dress affair of another coat, embroidered in cerise silk, with a large collar terminating in a point and a tassel. Perhaps a lassie will prefer still another arrangement, a dress, very simple indeed with its little pleated skirt, over which she may wear a little straight jacket edged with scallops, all this in beige twill.

Smart Knitted Wear.

Then there are the delightful knitted things. The miss of eight or ten will just adore a gay striped sweater with its funny patterns, to be worn over a pleated serge skirt, For her smaller sister is a knitted frock, the gay stripes going round and round, and at the waist it is sashed with black satin.

For cooler days, there are warmer dresses, and among them we find a large variety of novelty woolen goods offered. Velveteens and duvetyns will make very simple frocks, enriched here and there with interesting bits of embroidery. The dark serges will not be used as much as usual, but jersey will be popular.

Many Oriental Designs.

As for embroidery, Eastern patterns will form the chief point of interest. Chinese designs, ornament from Japan, and again colorful bits from East India will enrich the frocks of our wee misses.

For special occasions there are the pretty crepe de chine and challis dresses. One of these in crepe had an apron panel in front edged with gathered bits of silk. It further adorned itself with a rosette of slik from which flew narrow ribbons. Challis in scarlet patterned with white dots made a demurely bright costume for one blonde miss, her very short double skirt having banded itself in white. From inside a heading (which made the waist line) tiny ribbons appeared and bowknotted themselves on either hip. Short sleeves bound in white, and a small round white collar completed this confection.

Dainty Farty Frocks.

And then, of course, there comes that breathless occasion when one is asked to be flower girl at one's auntie's wedding. One's dainty frock must skillfully correspond with the filmy costume of the bride, as one scatters rose petals down the staircase and across the room, to the flower decked corner where the minister and an agitated groom stand waiting.

Fragile georgette, or white organdie seem best adapted for weaving this fairy frock. Frillings of the material outline two flying panels on the skirt, and yet another two loose panels, hanging from the shoulders of the blouse. These latter two panels hang over a narrow ribbon sash, that presently emerges, and ties itself in a knot over one hip. A slashed short sleeve outlined, as are the panels, in frills of the organdie completes an attractive dress. Oh, we must not forget there are tiny embroidered flowers in white which lurk inside the edge of the frills.

PRIVATE AND SECRET RADIO TELEPHONES.

Further popularity of radio may bring about the creation of private radio telephone "lines" throughout the world.

This would mean secret conversation between branches of a firm without the necessity of paying toll to a telephone company.

Plans for such kind of communication have already been considered by officials of some of the larger concerns of the country. Directors of the Midland Refining Co., with headquarters at Tulsa., Okla., have had this idea under consideration for some time.

High Tolls.

The company has branches scattered through this field far enough apart to necessitate long-distance telephone conversations. It was found that calls between the Tulsa and Eldorado officies ran the company's monthly telephone bill to slightly less than $1000. The possibilities of radio were apparent to the officials.

Their plan was to install a radio transmitting and receiving set in each of their branch offices, so that they could communicate without the cost that line telephone calls would bring them.

To secure secrecy in radio telephony for such business firms, special wave lengths would have to be assigned by the government. For this, federal officials say they are not ready. Further development of radio however, might make such arrangements possible.

Sharp Tuning.

When radio telephony has progressed to such a fine state that tuning could be sharpened down to any given wave length, then secret communication will be possible.

Radio experts have declared this possible. In fact, some of them say tuning will be brought down to the fraction of a wave length, where it would be almost impossible for an outsider to listen in.

In such event, private and secret radio telephone "lines" will be possible.

A curious fact connected with most of the great electrical inventions is that they were made by men who did not have the advantage of a scientific education.

Sooner or later, if you are going to get anywhere, you will discover that you must depend on yourself, and yourself alone.

Fashion Hints

WHITE VELVET.

White velvet evening gowns are promised for popularity this winter. Many are shown with trimmings of silver lace or silver embroidery, giving a certain glacial effect that is really charming.

NOVEL GIRDLE. 8

A novel girdle effect, seen on the dancing frock of a young girl, has a wreath of pink roses, from which fringe in a bluish-green shade falls to the hem.

SKIRT LENGTH.

No skirt should be more than nine inches from the floor and seven or eight is the approved length, advanced designers say.

BOXES.

Intriguing boxes for holding cosmetics come in white china with a very natural sort of a rose in pink china making the lid.

VELVET.

Flame velvet makes a charming evening gown with a girdle of the twisted material and a shower of flowers, also of the material.

PLEATING.

Accordion pleating is used to excellent advantage on many of the new frocks. It is used in the form of panels, deep collars and side draperies and gives the long graceful lines so desirable now.

LUSTRE LACE.

French lustre lace is being exploited. It is made of pure silk, somewhat heavier in weight than Spanish lace. The designs are very bold and cubistic, and a high lacquered effect is achieved.

VEILS.

Many novelties in veils are shown. Heavy embroidery, silver or gold insets and colored borders vary the appearance of these very feminine accessories.

ORNAMENTS.

Large cabuchon ornaments, used singly and in pairs, are seen on many of the fall gowns and coats. They are jeweled, enameled or made of colorful compositions.

GINGHAM.

Gingham handkerchiefs are extremely popular with flappers. So are corsets, brassieres and bathing suits of this material.

CIRCULAR HEMLINE.

The circular hemline is noticed on many of the new frocks as well as the handkerchiefs or irregular, pointed line.

JACQUETTES.

Separate silk blouses of satin matelasse or embroidere fabrics are worn with accordion pleated satin skirts and form what is known as a Jacquette costume.

SEAL CAPE.

A cape of Hudson seal, cut with points which are long at either side, has a wide, upstanding collar of slate fox.

REVERSIBLE CAPES.

Fur lined, reversible capes are new this season. With a twist one may change from a wrap of fur to one of wool.

JERSEY.

Jersey will be a popular fabric for fall street wear. An unusual model developed in this material comes in a very soft shade of green with collars, cuffs and belt of white kid. The skirt is quite circular in cut and the sleeves are long.

LACES

Laces, in all high colours, and in gold and silver mesh, are in demand for dinner gowns and dance frocks. There is a tendency to use Spanish lace in black or grey over colourful foundations.

OSTRICH FRINGE

The sash of one of the newest Paris importations in the way of a dinner gown is trimmed with ostrich fringes shading from orange into deep brown. It is worn with a brown silk frock.

STATISTICS AND STYLE KEEP THE WOMEN YOUNGER

(By Margaret Rohe)

With silver hair beneath their caps,
In days gone by our grandmas sat.
With dimming eyes and palsied limbs,
They gently rock and knit and chat.

To-day our grandmas seldom sit,
They're all too full of life and vim.
Their hair is bobbed, nor palsy makes Them shake a very wicked limb.

NEW YORK, September 6. — They say a woman is as old as she feels. If that is true then that other cynical statement anent the fair sex, that they have no feelings, must be veracious also. Recent statistics show that the average span of life for females in this country has increased 2.71 years since 1910. In our cities the average longevity of the ladies is 54.77 and the truly rural feminine life reaches an average of 57.41 years. In spite of statistical proof theat their years are increasing, the fact remains on the face of things that they are also growing younger every year they gain.

A generation ago the average woman of 60 was classed as an aged crone. Her sparse white hairs were peeled up under her cap, her back was bent, and her joints were gnarled. She affected felt slippers and woollen lingerie and sat peering through her specs as the world swept past her.

D:Sarent Now.

Nowadays the woman of 60 sweeps right along with the jolly old mundane sphere. She kicks up her French heels as she sweeps and is just a few flaps ahead of the flappiest flapper. If her hair isn't bobbed, then it is elaborately dressed and the sparkling eyes that look out from under carefully arched brows wink gaily at the advancing years until 60 is a memory and 70 a promise.

With kittenish young flappers like Edna Wallace Hopper confessing to 69 years it's no wonder poor old Father Time looks wan and discouraged.

Hymen on the other hand is beginning to perk up and take notice. When blushing brides of 79 like Mrs. Elizabeth Eastman Johnson are led to the altar by dashing 77-year-old bridegrooms like Gen. Stillman F. Kneeland, it means both Cupid and Hymen will have to work overtime and no longer expect to sit back and cease all active attentions to humans over 40.

Ahead of Men.

Like everything else in which she is given half a chance woman is ahead of man in this longevity business. Of course, there are a few of those over-80-year-old youths like Henry Clews, John Wannamaker, Chauncey Depew, and "Uncle" Joe Cannon who are still very much in the running, but statistics prove that the average life span of the city man is but 51.55 and the country male 55.23. Still that is an increase of 3.75 years since 1910, so the latter must needs look to their laurels. The old boys are sure stepping up a bit faster.

The good old reliable statistics also prove that with the average span of male life at 59.73 years and the female at 60.7, that folks all live longest out in Bleeding Kansas. But then, who'd want to?

SLEIGHT-OF-HAND ARTIST

The teacher was having a bad time of it. The class was very dull or pretended to be, and seemed incapable of answering the easiest questions.

"What is a person called who steals?" asked the teacher, persuasively.

There was no answer.

"Now, Herbert," said the teacher, "suppose I was to put my hand in your pocket and take out a penny, what would you call me?"

"A bloomin' conjurer," replied Herbert with conviction.

WINTER FROCKS

Solidly embroidered and braided jackets are featured with winter frocks, forming three-piece costumes. Usually, the dress has very little trimming and is draped in the approved fashion of the moment.

AUTUMN—Well Shod Steps Forward

By Marjorie Howe Dixon

In tracing the illusive shoe mode, one must first determine the dominating features of a smart woman's costume for Fall. What colors has she adopted? What skirt length does she favor? In which direction has she reacted from a brilliantly-hued Spring wardrobe?

As to this matter of skirts there is diversity of lengths. Morning and sports demand a short skirt, and as a result a low heeled shoe. After noon and evening wear finds dresses longer, about eight inches from the ground. For these occasions the heel is higher, while for an elaborate evening costume, the heel receives especial attention and is profusely decorated.

Colors Are Subdued.

Then again there is this question of colors. Fall demands a lower key this year, in color tones, most of the vivid colors favored by Spring having been laid aside. For street wear the browns are favorites, tobacco brown, and the various shades of castor and fawn. Deep notes in burgundie red, smoked grays, navy and twilight blue have appeared in many smart outfits.

For evening wear, more brilliant shades are favored, a lovely sea blue being one of these. Scarlet and garnet are with us again, with almond, green and maize. For slippers there are offered many perfectly charming effects, combining straps and sandals, generally in plain satin. Crystal cloth, silver and gold brocade appear now and then. But the jewels, oh, the entrancing jewels! All sorts of arrangements of rhinestones with colored stones, cut steel and little fringes, ah, these attract the feminine eye.

Novelty Buttons and Fringes.

Buttons of cut steel with or without pendants seem to have it all over buckles. Then there is the cunning little fringe which is laid over a single strap. Sometimes it is of even length, then again the fringe is graduated. Possibly tiny pendants hang in the fringe. And Paris shows jeweled heels—in fact all sorts of fancy effects in heels, obtained from lacquer, embroidery or stitching.

For every day, shoes are low. One may choose from black or brown kid, in oxfords, or patent leather. For some, there are gun metal calf oxfords and tailored effects combining bands and panels of ooze in colors In the strap patterns (almost never more than two straps) are found similar leathers. In popularity, patent arrives first, next comes black kid, and last of all medium tan calf.

Many Strapped Models.

Then if one cannot find exactly the right little boot among those mentioned, there are several combinations of leather from which to choose. Gray ooze is trimmed with patent leather or gun metal, while black ooze is similarly trimmed with patent and gun metal. Among the softer shoes for afternoon wear are many of the pretty leathers in strap patterns. Again patent leather comes first, then follows black satin and black kid. After that one may choose from delightful combinations.

Medium tan calf trims fawn or beige, or perhaps it is supplanted by brown patent leather. Patent or black kid trims gray ooze as in the case of the more severely tailored shoe.

And Paris, ever new, lets my lady wear the most charming little red heels, whenever her costume is scarlet trimmed.

Sandals For Fall.

Of course, Falls disapproves of the liberal use of sandals. But who could resist this patent leather sandal, with a gray ooze quarter, to which a gray strap fastens itself with a single button? And all this firmly planted on a one-inch covered cuban heel.

Then there is another pretty patent leather sandal with a two-button single strap all gayly stitched with white. Another of the smartly tailored boots has a wide pointed band of ooze outlined in patent, firmly bound across the instep. Its quarter is patent, and oddest of all, its heel was covered with tan.

One sees some lattice effects in tan ooze. After covering the instep, these smartly lace up the side. Side gore shoes obtain some favor. There is an abundance of styles from which to make one's choice.

In the midst of so much ooze,
It is difficult to choose,
For a patent leather strap
May completely mar the map.

Reviewing FASHIONS FOR FALL in Men's Clothing

While simplicity and conservatism continue to rule men's fashions in clothing this fall there is a tendency to break away from some of the austere lines that have dominated the designs of the last few seasons.

Novelties will be pushed to the background, particularly in the apparel for the better dressed man, although the jazz and rah rah models which had a splurge this last spring will be the main lines of some of the cheaper manufacturers.

All efforts to bring forth anything that is out of the ordinary have been rebuffed and the pendulum of style always swings back to the plainer and more dignified models. While women's clothes undergo radical changes from season to season men's apparel follow certain lines with almost religious fidelity.

Style Changes Noted.

Here are the most notable changes which will appear in the three important groups for men's clothing.

The first long trousers, commonly called high school or prep suit, running in sizes up to 37, show high waists, narrower coats, draped skirts one and two button coats with peaked lapels. Some have slanting pockets; others have regular patch pockets in front.

The coats are high chested, with square shoulders. There are the stylish modifications of the extreme coats that have been prevailent earlier this year and are shown in both the double and single breasted styles

The second group leans towards the regularly fitted models, with two and three button coats. Some have peaked lapels; others the notched lapels, with regular pockets. They follow more closely than any other group the lines of coats of the past season.

The third group promises to show the widest range of changes and if advance information is correct is expected to be the most popular. The coats are of the looser type, with softer construction of fronts. They are made with three and four buttons and have regular pockets.

The three button coats are identical with the four, except for the wider spacing of the buttons. These coats carry short roll lapel, short straight vent, and are worn much longer than other types. This style is an odd growth of the coats made popular by college men. Because of their construction they will demnd a wider trouser, which may be worn with plain or cuff bottoms.

As for prices, costs are practically stable. The manufacurer has passed through the period of readjustment and has placed his business in order Uuless the unexpected happens there will be no radical price changes for another year or two.

Like Double-Breasted.

The vogue of the double- breasted coat promises to be as popular as last year when there was a greater demand for such style than there had been for several previous seasons. Although they will not be featured with any dressed emphasis they will receive more than their share of attention.

As for the trousers of most suits the style apparently has reached a happy medium. Neither the tight bottom nor bell- shaped trousers legs are to be worn extensively, but the general tendency will be styles that are straighter than hereofore. In some instances where no cuffs are worn the pants legs will break over the shoes.

The five-buttom vest will be with us again and the cut will be a trifle longer, particularly the points to conform to the new ideas.

Darker Colors the Vogue.

As for coluors there will be no partiality shown, although the darker shades naturally will have the call. But there promises to be more of the lighter tones shown than ever. Brown, which is as staple as sugar, as well as blue, will be as strong as ever. There will be an ample presentation of grays, greens and mixtures.

The stripe idea in patterns which has been favorably received in recent seasons will continue in popularity but there will be a slight variation of this idea in which there will be a combination of checks with stripes. Most of these designs are small and dignified.

There also will be shown a choice variety of the new diamond weaves, which originally was used in Overcoatings, but, of course, in larger designs.

Loose Raglan Effects

As for over coats the style tendency is towards the loose raglan effects and the large English type ulsters, with half full belts. Many will have the convertible collars and patch pockets;some are made with plain backs Others will have yokes and inverted plaits.

The new things in young Men's Overcoats will be a full coat, forty-four inches long, with regular shoulders, small self collar and lapel. The sleeves are plain; there are three patch pockets and they have button; through the fly fronts. This is the new type for college men who substitute an angora muffler for a storm coliege.

Double-breasted models appear to be most favored, but some of the better makers are showing dapper single-breasted styles, particularly in the lighter weight coats.

You will not find many fur-trimmed models this coming season, but the detatchable fur collar of bear, seal or otter promises to come in stronger than ever. Such collars permit the wearer to make changes in a jiffy to fit climatic switches.

Detachable Collars Favored ...

Fur-lined coats, of course, will be worn only in the coldest sort of weather and largely by motorists who are out a great deal. Since it appears that reduced prices of fur would make one believe that fur will be used more extensinvely than ever. the reverse is the condition, due largely to the trend of conservatism.

The practical idea in overcoat fabrics is back again. For several seasons the soft, fluffy fabrics were the vogue and while they made up beautiful they failed to give the desired service. Now the makers are putting firmer cloth in their overcoats and this, of course, will result in greater satisfaction to the wearer.

Topcoats Regarded Essential ...

The topcoat, now regarded by most men as an essential part of their wardrobe, naturally is being worn more than ever. There is no radical changes in thestyles, but themost important thing pertains to the tailoring, which after all makes the real style of the garment.

This leads to this conclusion that there is economy in quality. The man who will pay a little more than the average for his clothes will profit thereby. He will find that he will get much better fabrics, much improved styles, and a higher type of workmanship.

SLEEVES.

Sleeves have as yet found no golden mean. Either they are long and flowing and are the most important feature of the frock or they are completely absent. For evening, the sleeveless gown is not so all-powerful as it was. Small caps and draperies are seen on many of the newest models.

LINGERIE.

Nightgowns of Italian silk are perhaps the most practical type on the market as they are easily laundered and may be pressed by a few strokes. There is a new empire type, with picoted neck and sleeves, that is much more becoming than the more common strap type.

DANIEL WEBSTER ON GOMPERS ET AL.

"There are persons who constantly clamor.

"They complain of oppression, speculation and the pernicious influence of accumulated wealth.

"They cry aloud against all banks and corporations, and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results.

"They would choke the fountains of industries and dry all streams.

"They carry on mad hostility against established institutions.

"In a land of unbounded liberty they clamor against oppression.

"In a land of perfect equality they would move heaven and earth against privilege and monopoly.

"In a land in which property is more evenly divided than anywhere else they rend the air with agrarian doctrines.

"And in a country in which the wages of labor are beyond parallel, they teach the laborer that he is but an oppressed slave!"

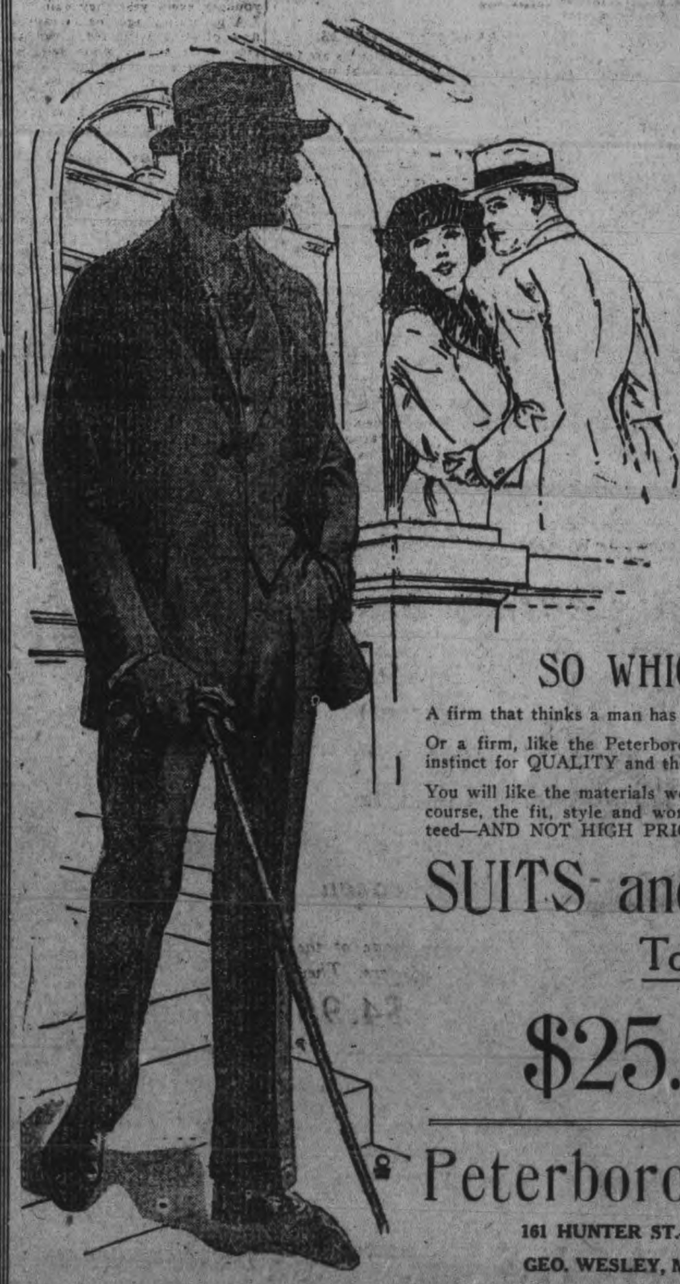
TAILORING COMPETITION:—Good, Bad and Indifferent



The average Canadian was raised on the idea that the more people who competed for his trade the better off he was.

Like many good ideas, it has SEVERAL SIDES.

They all show themselves clearly in the Tailoring Business.

There are firms which prefer to compete largely on a PRICE BASIS, believing that the public is more interested in the dollars and cents they pay than in the worth of what they get.

On the other hand, Peterboro Tailoring Co. believe differently.

And men who wear our Tailoring have a PLUS feeling which they get both from actual experience and because they realize the INTEGRITY OF THE MAKERS.

People don't think of our Tailoring as high priced. They think of it as BETTER TAILORING.

In the man who knows what a good, faithful Suit or Overcoat we produce, the firm that makes price its main argument hardly arouses more than a little curiosity.

SO WHICH IS BETTER?

A firm that thinks a man has no judgment beyond his pocket-book?

Or a firm, like the Peterboro Tailoring Co., which credits the public with instinct for QUALITY and the sense to find out TRUE ECONOMY.

You will like the materials we are showing for fall and winter, and, of course, the fit, style and workmanship ARE SUPERIOR—in fact, guaranteed—AND NOT HIGH PRICED.

"TO MY SON."

Do you know that your soul is of my soul such a part,
That you seem to be fibre and core of my heart?
None other can pain me as you, dear, can do;
None other can please me, or praise me as you.
Remember the world will be quick with its blame;
If shadow or stain ever darken your name,
"Like Mother, like Son," is a saying so true,
The world will judge largely of "Mother" by you.

Be yours then the task, if task it shall be,
To force the proud world to do homage to me,
Be sure it will say, when its verdict you've won,
"She reaped as she sowed. Lo! this is her son."

BY THE WAY

Explorer's Disappointed Ambition

The Lachine Rapids in the St. Lawrence carry in their name a reminiscence of an explorer's disappointed ambition. It was from the village of Lachine, close by, that La Salle, in the Seventeenth Century, embarked on his long journey to the West, hoping eventually to reach China. It was because he believed the St. Lawrence to be the highway to the Flowery Kingdom that he gave this village the name of Lachine (a la Chine).

As fate would have it, La Salle's fame as an explorer rests on quite other discoveries than those he expected to make. After making his way up the St. Lawrence as far as the site of the present city of Kingston, he turned in another direction, discovered the Mississippi, and traced the course of that river to the Gulf of Mexico.

At Lachine, which is only a short distance above Montreal, the St. Lawrnece is crossed by a steel bridge of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which is one of the largest in America. Not long ago it was changed from a single to a double track at a cost of $2,000,000, the whole operation being carried on without interfering with the regular running of the trains.

Some Choice Flowers from Wild Plants

The hollyhock, that old-time favorite that flourished in grandmother's garden, is a native of China. The sun flower came from wild plants, most species of which are native to America.

The petunia, a cousin of the tobacco plant, is a native of South America. The fuchsia is a tropical plant, most of the species recognized being natives of Mexico, Chile and Peru. A New Zealand fuchsia is a tree that grows to a height of 20 feet. Most of the 150 species of gladioli came originally from South Africa, where they are esteemed to this day as much for their edible bulbs as for their beautiful flowers.

Roses, of which there are many varieties, grow wild throughout the North Temperate zone, the great variety of cultivated ones having been developed from them. The tuberose is native to Java and Ceylon, where it still grows wild.

The Easter lily grew first in Bermuda. The checkered lily came from France and Italy, and the crown imperial lily from Persia. The Guernsey lily, indigenous to Japan, received its name in a rather interesting manner. A ship carrying a cargo of bulbs was wrecked off the Guernsey coast. A large number of bulbs were thrown up on the shore by the waves. They quickly took root in the soil and grew rapidly and hence were given the name of the Channel island which has also been applied to a famous breed of sows.

The original crysanthemum, a small, unattractive blossom, grew wild in Japan.

St. Gauden's Aid to Imagination Peeved Janitor

One of the strangest ways of calling up or stimulating the imagination was that employed once by the great American sculptor, St. Gaudens. When he was in Rome, during his student days, he was fond of strolling about at nights in one of the old Italian gardens, in which there was a fountain in the moonlight and played such music as only a fountain in an old Italian garden can play.

So when St. Gaudens got back to New York City and into his humble little studio on the third flour back, he turned on the water tap and kept it running all day long to remind him of the tinkle and splash of that fountain in the old Italian garden. One day the janitor went plodding up the stairway, and, discovering the running tap, said: "I've been pumpin' water up here for three weeks and wonderin' where in blazes it was a-goin'. Young man, you'll have to cut that out."

Longfellow's "Evangleine" Based on Fact

A few days ago a chapel, a memorial to the French settlers of Acadia, who were expelled from the land of Evangeline by the British in 1755, was dedicated at Grand Pre, N.S.

In 1621, Acadia was granted to Sir William Alexander, who named it Nova Scotia. In 1755, because of their persistent refusal to take the British oath of allegiance, the Acadian French were removed.

Evangeline, a tale of Acadia, is said to be based upon a true story, which travelled from Canada to New England by word of mouth, and is the subject of a famous poem by Longfellow, published in 1847. It is the story of two innocent lovers who were banished from Acadia with the rest of the Freneh, but who remained faithful till death. The poem founded a national legend which has kept alive the memory of an episode that would have otherwise been forgotten.

Ancient Races Right-Handed Like Moderns

The average man to-day is right-handed. Estimates differ regarding the prevalence of left-handedness. Probably not over five persons in a hundred are left-handed. Criminologists find the percentage among criminals and epileptics three to six times as great.

The ancients also were right-handed. In Judges XX. 16, it is stated that out of 26,700 warriors of the tribe of Benjamin, only 700 were left-handed, a percentage of 2.62. A study of the tools of cavemen of the Stone Age shows them to have been right-handed in the proportion of 146 to 135. Both hands seemed to have had equal preference—a condition which changed with the ushering in of the Bronze Age, when right-handendess came to the fore.

IDOL OF YESTERDAY.

PARIS, September 1.—Announcement comes from London that Georges Carpentier, the European heavyweight champion, will retire definitely from the ring within six or eight months. This has created only mild interest in Paris, where Carpentier is not the idol of old among the fight fans, who rightly or wrongly charge him with snobbishness and an exaggerated ego.

One cautious newspaper critic hints that Georges may be automatically retired before six months, referring to his coming bouts with Battling Siki and the winner of the Joe Beckett-Frank Moran bout.

VELVET AND ERMINE

One of the most stunning coat models in the August fur display is one of black velvet collared and lined with ermine and fastened with thick, white cords finished with heavy tassels.

Women bond sellers throughout the United States have formed the Women's Bond Club.

What's What in MEN'S HABERDASHERY

By Milton B. Conhaim

Noticeable improvement in the execution of details, meaning better style, better fabrics and better workmanship, will be seen in the fall displays of men's haberdashery. The battle for quality has been waged successfully and once more we are restored to the conditions that featured weabrales of pre-war days.

Manufacturers, who in the stress of business caused by shortage of help and inability to get suitable material during the last few years, have turned their attention to the nicety of things. That has resuled in a better finished product—a diverting change to all who seek the distinctive in dress

White Shirts in Demand.

Particularly does this apply to shirts in which there will be noticeably better fabrics and detailing. Simplicity, of course, follows. The white shirt has been high in demand by dealers everywhere. Its popularity is ascribed to the natural swing from the high coloured silk shirts in which the candy stripes and loud effect predominated.

The trend is toward the solid colors, with tans and grays in the pastel shades dominating. These, of course, apply largly to the finer grades of madras shirts.

The white silk shirt will find its place in the sun, but the plain silks will find as companions the satin stripes and jacquard effects. Colored silk shirts, with variegated stripes and other effects are losing in favor.

.. .. Two- Button Band Cuffs .. ..

One of the newest things in shirts will effect the cuffs. The two-button band cuffs will be worn more than ever, but of course will not supplant the present day French cuffs.

Collar-attached shirts in madras, poplin, cheviots and flannels will be shown more than ever. The reason is found in the improved making of collars for such shirts. Heretofore the makers apparently took little pains in putting good collars on even high grade shirts.

Neckware gaudier than ever will make its bow this fall. That means the artillary or college stripes will be the vogue. This is in contrast to the usual somber effects that marks the beginning of the fall and winter season. Many will show the diagonal stripes in combination of two and three colors, featuring such as blue, silver and black, tan, gold and brown etc.

Grenadine Ties Good.

Grenadine ties which reached the height of popularity this last spring will continue to be worn by good dressers and this season many new combinations of stripes and other effects are to be had. Bow ties also will be in good form, with designs or stripes.

Because of the increasing popularity of Oxfords for men's footwear we'll find more wool hosiery worn than ever. Featured for this coming season are the fine importations, principally from the British isles. They have brought to us an exceptionally high grade selections marked by its unusually fine weight, yet in three different styles, plain, dots having sufficient warmth.

Among other hosiery one can select from camel hair or cashmere. Heather mixture and darker shades of blue, brown and gray—also black—are shown. Fine lisle and silk hose in fashion's best colors will remain in favor.

The oyjama innovations which appeared last season will continue in favor. One is the coat that is buttonless, put on by slipping over the head and the other is the elimination of the draw string in the trousers The latter is fitted and stitched to the coat which relieves the aggravation occasioned by slipped strings.

Lighter Underwear Favored.

In underwear for fall and winter there is a tendency toward the lighter weight garments. This is due in a measure to the better heated homes and "warmth without weight" Ulsters which furnish sufficient protection even on the coldest of days.

Collars for fall are a trifle higher than they have been recently, still low enough to make them exceedingly comfortable and stylish in appearance. The short pointed models are preferred.

Fancy Fads in "Kerchiefs"

In handkerchiefs fanciful fads are coming in strong. Colored borders and decorative effects are being displayed. Some silk and fine linen ones are being treated with one, two and three harmonizing colors. Colored initials and mograms are being used, even the white handkerchiefs. Pongee, which is normally a summer fabric, will be found among the fall stocks.

The better dressed men will wear two pairs of gloves. Buckskin or heavy cape is favored for every day service, and kid or suede for evening wear. Dark brown or gray is the preferred color and both plain and embroidered or stitched backs are given equal preference.

Fashion Hints

CONVENIENT.

The folding ironing board which fits neatly into the suitcase or trunk now comes with an attractive cretonne cover. It contains commodious pockets which will hold the iron and electrical attachments.

ERMINE AND MONKEY.

Ermine and monkey fur is an odd combination noted in the fur displays. The ermine makes the body of the three-quarters length coat, and the monkey fur makes the collar and cuffs.

VELVET FROCKS.

Draped velvet frocks increase in number as the season advances. This year's velvet is so soft and supple that it is the ideal material draping into the fashionable lines of the present.

HARMONY.

Drooping hats are most appropriate for wear with the long draped gowns. They are becoming and picturesque and bring a gown into correct harmony with one's figure.

SIX TO TEN.

For small girls from six to ten are shown smart little hats of shirred duvetyn with headbands of fitch, and a pompon of the fur at the side.

MATELASSE.

Brown matelasse is the material of the moment for coats and suits. It is usually shown in combination with fur, fitch, beaver and kolinsky preferably.

FUR CUFFS.

Deep fur cuffs are shown at the bottom of the new evening wraps. The coats are made of the new soft velvety materials that are rich looking, but surprisingly light in weight.

Tips on Styles in MENS HATS

By George Chapin

Feeling that they have been a bit behind the times in making changes, hat manufacturers this fall have evolved several innovations that will be a noticeable difference from the styles of a season ago.

Both style and color will undergo a change. Browns which have had a long long run will share the glory of the stage with an olive green or a soft merging of brown and grass green.

For a hat of this shade both manufacturer and retailer see a big season, for they say that there is no reason why the green hat should not be a big seller if the shade is softened and in harmony with the many overcoating materials for fall and winter.

Wider Brims, Wider Crowns.

As for shape the tendency is toward slightly wider brims and slightly higher crowns. For the last two years the smaller brims and smaller crowns featured most headwear and according to good dressers the fall styles will be a welcome change.

One maker comes out with a rather novel style arrangement, but whether or not it will prove popular is to be seen. The style concerns the crease in soft felt hats. It is a modification of the telescope crease, the Alpine crease and the "front pinch." The crown is telescoped all around except in front where it is creased in Alpine fashion.

Rough Finished Hats

Rough finished mixtures in the fedora or diamond shaped styles will be prominent. These fabric hats of two-toned mixtures and scratch effects are regarded as altogether practical and comfortable and are noted for their long wear.

As for the fine felts in tans, browns, grays and the new green shades nothing need be said about these except the colorings, since they are regarded as staples in the headwear industry.

Later on with colder weather you will find more velour and beavers worn than ever. These aristocrats of the hat family are down in price and it does'nt require a large outlay to buy one now. During war days men spent as much as $30 for a very good hat.

Derbies are Staple

Derbies, of course, will make a bid for patronage among a certain class of men, who are pretty much set in their ways. As with the soft hats the brims and crowns will be slightly larger, but the change will not be appreciably noticeable.

Hat bands will be about the same as last fall, with some hats showing contrasting shades. Although most hats will show the bows in the side, there still remains a few makers who will put them on the back.

Caps to be Favored

Caps, naturally will get a big play and among the best styles are the one-piece variety, with variations as to the fitting in the back. One maker is putting out a cap made of duvetyn, but it is not believed it will meet with great success since the material will not stand up under inclement weather. Other caps are made of smart woolens, including plaids, checks and solid colors.

The fur cap business depends, of course, on severe weather, and if the winter is a hard one there is certain to be a great sale of them, particularly this season since prices are down a little.

SHOES.

Despite the rumors that plainer shoes are to be the vogue, one sees a number of fancy models with elaborate stitchings and cut-out designs. The higher models are favored for fall.

FOR BROWN.

The vogue for brown is responsible for the increased interest in amber and the semi-precious stones that look well against this background.

HAS SOLD MILLION TICKETS TO FIGHTS

Phil Campbell Has Been Ticket-Seller at the Big Scraps For Twelve Years

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Sept. 1.—Getting excited often costs people money, and, as Phil Campbell says: "Fight fans are about the most excitable people as is."

Phil is business manager and ticket expert for Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons of Michigan City. Until Governor McCray forbade the holding of the Dempsey-Brennan mill in Indiana he had been oiling up his ticket fingers to handle the pasteboard "jack" for that event on Labor Day. Even yet he may be assigned to go wherever the heavyweight championship fight may be held because he's been in the ticket office at most big fights in the past 12 years and there are few men as efficient at the work as he.

"Selling tickets for a boxing show," he says, "isn't a short-change game, but you'd be surprised to see how much change is forgotten at the window where the selling's done.

"Customers stand in line for a long while, and when it comes their turn a lot of them are in such a hurry to get inside the arena that they simply plank down their money, grab their tickets and rush for the turnstile without stopping to get anything back, no matter how much may be coming to them.

"In one show I handled recently the gate was $59,000 and excited customers left $1,800 with me in change.

"The forgetful streak's so consistent that you can almost figure in advance what the left-over money will be. For instance, a $100,000 gate should yield from $4,000 to $5,000.

"The most change I ever remember one customer as having left was $67 out of a $100 bill.

"I've made a study of faces and when one of these forgetful birds shows up with a complaint I almost always recall him and he gets what's coming to him."

Phil's home is Paterson, N. J. He was a boxer once. Now handling money is his trade. At one show he sold $37,000 worth of tickets in an hour and 20 minutes, and, at the finish, found himself standing knee-deep in bills.

When a boy he went to the race-track with $1,500 and in a couple of hours had run it up to $67,000. He has an uncanny faculty for picking winners—something like the once-famed Pittsburg Phil. He can pick fighters in the same way. At the Dempsey-Carpentier battle he named, in advance, the round and the blow that laid the Frenchman out. Johnny Kilbane, writing for the NEA Service, was the only other expert to call the exact turn.

Campbell has sold more than 1,000,000 fight tickets. He expects to sell that many again, and more.

OH, HOW SHE DANCES!

Sir: I love to dance, but I hate
Tall partners who lift me off my feet and pull my gown up in the back. And short partners who seem always about to rest their chins upon my shoulder;
Fat partners to whom dancing is but another reducing exercise, and around whose protruding stomachs I must skip at each turn;
Middle-aged partners whose loose-lipped mouths hover close to my ear, wheezing vapid compliments and uttering commonplaces;
Imagined specialists in the dance who offer to teach me new steps and keep me guessing as to what we do next. And those less confident ones whose dancing is monotony.
Partners who dance silently, only a little less than those who talk too much, and those who sing or whistle out of key.
Perfumed partners; those whose breaths smell of the contents of the pocket flask, and those who chew cloves or eat garlic-scented foods.
Handsome partners; those who think always of their audience, and homely ones who are self-conscious, and those of average appearance who frankly like to dance but have never quite learned the steps.
Partners of any size, shape, age or appearance whose dancing is but an excuse for stolen caresses.
I hate 'em all and yet, I love to dance! M. J. B.

LIGHT AND SHADE.

A little work, a little play
To keep us going—and so, good-day!
A little warmth, a little light
Of love's bestowing—and so, good-night!

A little fun to match the sorrow
Of each day's growing — and so, good-morrow!
A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing! And so, good-bye!

Since the war Turkish women have been dressing for the street in modern European style, without veils.

Cease lamentng, you fond mammas who have regretted time and time again that your Johnny wasn't a Mary. "'Cause there's a heap more fun dressing a girl.

What with Boy's Clothing smarter and more attractive every season, and girls patterning their's after brothers' there's very little difference—unless it's that Boys' Clothes are better styled and tailored if any thing!

Reviewing Boys Fashions

A general review of the Fall and Winter style for Boys impresses one with the colorful patterns and weaves of the woolen fabrics. These are noticeable in both Suit and Overcoats, but are particularly emphasized in the latter.

Black and white mixtures and shares of tan, brown and green are best liked. Some are developed for Overcoats in soft finished fuzzy fabrics but more hard finished woolens are observed this season than for quite a while. And they do give much better wear.

Coats Are Loose Fting.

Voluminous, loosely fitting Coats are much in demand—Klavacles and inevitable, either at the backs or completely circling. Capacious patch pockets are noted on almost all Boys' Overcoats, but these are often combined with obliquely inserted breast pockets with very swagger effect.

Collars are deep and full, are comfortable and smart in all weathers but delightfully protecting in severe spells. In speaking of Overcoats one must not overlook the plaid reverse sides many are showing.

Interesting Suit Developments

Boys' Suits show an extremely pleasing variety in styling. Pinch back models are much in demand for the older Youths—some are made with yokes and inverted pleats. Norfolks, too, are well liked. Patch coats button high with short, stubby lapels, and produce and exceedingly jaunty effect.

Suit models for Juveniles are equally clever and distinctive. A Norfolk suit that butons all the way up through the neck is much favored. Middy and Sailor Blouse Suits hold their well established places—an innovation is the use of kimona sleeves on these.

One piece knitted Suits for the wee toddler are so cunningly picturesque and quaint with their pointed caps to match, that one's attention need hardly be directed to a vogue so universally indorsed. Eatons, Tommy Tuckers and Oliver Twists lend a pleasing diversity.

Furnishings for Youths

Furnishings for Youths, of course, reflect the style tendencies of their elders. Striped Cravats are much in evidence. Noticeable is the preference for solid colored Shirts of tans, grays, whites, etc. Those with collars attached, buttoned down models are favored.

Medium-sized Sailor Hats, with turned up brims are shown for Juveniles. These are made of fine felt and beavers in deep toned colors and black. Cloth tams are well liked and are surely worn by the little fellows with pleasing effect.

Boys of the school-day age decidely prefer Caps and wear them with a regular college bred air. The Fall Caps are developed along large, capacious lines of brightly patterened light colored fabrics. Coth Hats of two-toned mixtures and scratch effects are also well liked.

What's Correct in MENS' SHOES

by O. A. Engel

Fall footwear for men, generally speaking, will be very much like the Footwear of 1921. Manufacturers apparently have decided that the styles of a year ago have met with popular favor and there was no occasion to make any radical changes

Probably the only marked change will be the increased wearing of Oxfords, featuring the brogue which was brought in several years ago. The tendency it seems, is to follow Miss Fashion, who has almost entirely discarded the high shoe for the lighter low shoe.

Oxford to Reach Climax.

Just how far Mr. Man will go with the Oxford as a fall and winter foot protection cannot be prophesied at this writitg, but the general feeling among experts of the trade is that the vogue will reach its climax in a few years, then the high shoe will be gradually restored to its former place of prominence.

There are many foot specialists who predict that unless spats are worn with the oxfords during inclement weather the wearers will eventually suffer for their folly.

While woman has been going for years with uncovered ankles it appears as if nature has provided better protection for her than for her supposed stronger companion. For that reason chiropodists predict that men will revert to high shoes as soon as they find that they are unable to withstand the rigors of the season.

Comfort Chief Factor.

While the brogue will continue in favor among the oxford family, nevertheless the style will find favor in high shoes. Comfort, of course, will be an important factor and the broad roomy lasts will furnish plenty of it.

Naturally the English toes will find a large following, but those who prefer foot ease to good looks will turn to the broad, round lasts, the styles that adhere to the lines of the foot.

As was the case last year brown will be the favored colored for fall. Russet and cordovan shades will be called upon by a great many as a compromise between the light tans and dark browns. Black, dull and gunmetal finishes will be worn by those who have never held colored footwear in esteem.

Button Shoes for Dress

The once popular button shoe will be restricted to formal or semi-formal dress. These will be found in the patent leather footwear with the cloth tops. For social functions the patent leather oxfords with light hand turned soles will be worn extensively.

Because of the increased use of oxfords spats will be worn more than ever, principally for the protection they afford, as well as style. The lighter shades of fawn, tan, pearl and beige are favored for dress occasions, while the dark greys, browns and black for every day wear.

Many Like Blucher Styles.

Blucher styles are finding a more responsive cord than heretofore, for they afford better fitting qualities. While there is a class of young fellows who dote on style, even if the footwear is ill fitting, there is a greater following each year who turn to comfort as the deciding factor in the purchase of footwear. For the latter class the manufacturers are making what is known as the composite lasts, marked by the wide room ball and toes, narrow heel to keep the shoes from slipping and the narrow instep.

BY THE WAY

Steffenson Tells of Green Fields of Arctic

It is the absence of glaciers which makes the difference between the North and South Poles, and gives the Arctic the "friendly" disposition towards man which Mr. Stefansson has divulged in his book, "The Friendly Arctic." "If you travel seven or eight hundred miles overland from the glacier-infested South coast northward, you come to the prairies bordering the Alaska North coast," says Mr. Stefansson. "On the great triangular coastal plain of 50,000 square miles there are no mountains, consequently no glaciers. The explanation is that Northern Alaska is low, flat land, with a precipation so light that the snow which falls in winter is all thawed away in the spring."

The Arctic grass lands, he says, have caribou in herds of tens of thousands, and sometimes hundreds of thousands to a single herd, with lesser numbers of musk oxen here and there. There are the polar foxes, both white and blue, that feed in summer on the unbelievable swarms of lemmings that also form the food of thousands o owls and hawks and gulls. There are the goose and brant and swan and crane and loon, and various species of duck. When you add to this picture the bumble b es, blue-bottle flies and abundant insect life, of which the clouds of mosquitoes form the most impressive and least tolerable part, you get a picture of a country that in summer certainly is not without life.

"Doing Up" hi Hair, Makes Boy a Man.

A K ean boy crosses the line from childhood to manhood in a single day—the day he takes his topknot. Astrologer who read his future in the stars are present at the ceremony, with the relatives and friends who have come to see the barber fix his hair.

First the hair is shaved from a small circular spot on the top of his head and the remaining locks are combed up in straight lines, which are tied over the shaved place. Then a small compact knot is tied from the hair.

A band of net called "mangan" is then fastened on top of his head below the topknot to hold the stray hairs in place. A gold or jewelled pin is placed in the knot and the boy grins with pride. New clothes—the most important of all is a great topcoat—are donned by the youth, and he is hailed as "man" amid great feasting and rejoicing.

It s here that the young man chooses his future mate and the engagement festivities at once begin. A few hours later the marriage ceremony takes place and more feasting.

Quaint Features in Marriage of Princess Marie

There were many quaint features about the marriage of Princess Marie of Roumania and King Alexander of Jugoslavia. On her return from church the bride stepped over a band of cloth hung between the gateposts. This represented crossing the moat and her entry into a new life. Then she took a sieve of wheat and sugar, which she threw in handfuls into the corners of the courtyard. The old custom is for the sieve to be thrown over the walls, but those of the palace were too high for this.

The new queen then approached the palace carrying bread and wine, and her final duty was to embrace a child to whom she gave a garment which she herself had made.

First Society of Dunkers 214 Years Ago.

The first society of Dunkers or Dunkards, a sect of German Baptists, was founded in Schwartzenan, Germany, 214 years ago by Alexander Mack and seven others. The name "Dunker" was originally given them as a nickname, and was derived from the German word meaning "to dip." They were also called Tumblers.from their mode of baptism—putting the person while kneeling head first under the water. The members prefer to be known by their official name of Brethren.

The church in America is divided into four sections, the Conservatives being by far the largest banch, the others being the Old Order, the Progressive and the Seventh Day. The original Dunker societies in Germany were cruelly persecuted and about two centuries ago they were forced to leave the fatherland, emigrating to Holland and Friesland, and later coming to America. The expatriates were cordially received in the English colonies of America and most of them stetled in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, later dispersing themselves throughout the continent.

Why Red Hats are Worn by Cardinals.

The custom of wearing red robes and red hats by the cardinals or princes of the Catholic Church dates back to the early days of catholicism when the ambassador of the Pope took precedence over royalty itself, for he was regarded not only as a representative of a temporal ruler but also as a personage whose spiritual power was superior to that of archbishops. Just as purple was the color worn by the emperors of Rome, red was, during the Middle Ages, the distinctive color throughtout the Christian world.

Kings and princesses dressed themselves and furnished their palaces in materials of scarlet hue, and as "the father of kings and princes," according to the ritual of his coronation, the Pope ranked with the most influential sovereigns, his ambassadors were entitled to wear the same royal color.

KNITTED CIGAR CASES.

Young Men with Cheek Whiskers Produce Presents from Girls.

Side whiskers are coming into fashion again in London, England.

With them, there is an influx of the knitted cigar cases of early Victorian times.

Several young men with their cheek whiskers produced the knitted cases—presents from girl admirers—at the Cowes yacht races.

Diversity of Races Under Stars and Stripes

As illustrating the diversity of races under the Stars and Stripes, the following incident is of interest:

A flag—One of many thousands—was being made at a mill, and the owners had the curiosity to find out what hands it passed, from the clipping of the wool from the sheeps back until it was ready to be given to the breeze. They found that they flag was made of wool from American sheep, and had been sorted by an American, carded by an Italian, spun by a Swede, warped by a German, dressed by an Englishman, drawn in by a Scotsman, woven by a Belgian supervised by a Frenchman, inspected by an Armenian, scoured by an Albanian, dyrd by a Turk, and examined by an Irishman.

MINIATURE STAGE FOOLS 'EM

When vocal music was first broadcast by radio, the artists used to give the studio managers cause for worry. They would act while singing. This would lead them away from the microphone into which they were to send their voices and the result would be poor reception at the other end.

To forestall this acting a clever manager hit upon the scheme of providing a miniature stage for the soloists. It is only a low wooden platform, but the singers feel more at home on it. At the same time the platform discourages them from moving about the room while singing.

RADIO PRIMER

FADING—A rapid variation of the strength of signals from a given transmitting station, the same circuit adjustments being used at the transmitting and receiving stations. It is observed particularly on short wave lengths, at distances from the transmitting station which are some 10 to 20 percent of the normal transmitting range of the station. Another word for fading is "swinging."

Farmers Want Rain.

The continued dry weather is retarding the sowing of fall wheat. Many of the farmers think that it is of very little use to sow it until the rain comes. Summer fallows are the only fields where a proper seed bed can be made. The other newly plowed fields are too dry.

AT STONEY LAKE AND THE VICINITY

Closing of the Season at Kawartha Park in Sight

JUNIPER ISLAND, Sept. 6.—Last week saw the gospel tent taken down, and that marks the closing of the season at Kawartha Park. Many cottages will remain open till later, but many will be closed during the next few days. The appearance of piles of baggage on verandahs and wharfs and the disappearance of the flags, hammocks, etc., the insigina of the summer holiday, tells a story all its own. Never did the crowds remain at the lake as late as this year. Usually the end of the regatta season sees the beginning of the end, and one by one the cottagers leave till a fair proportion are closed when the Toronto Exhibition opens. At the beginning of the last week the steamer crews said that practically no cottages were closed. Toronto provides more of the Stoney and Clear Lake summer colonies than any other city—this includes cottagers and guests at the various hotels and boarding-houses—but most of the Toronto cottagers this year have spent the first week of the "Ex." far from its thrills and crowds.

This season has been a successful one, with perhaps a little more getting back to nature. Swimming parties have superceded the bridge parties to some extent. There was less evidence of fussing over fine raiment than a few years ago. A pretty girl dressed in khaki knickers and middy was more often seen than the "fluffy-ruffle" girl. The flapper with her rolled stockings, cobweb sweater and bobbed head was in evidence everywhere in the forefront of the activities of the summer.

Viamede Notes.

While the season is on the wane the crowds and tourists at Stoney Lake are still in evidence. Some sixteen guests from Viamede Hotel made the excursion to Bobcaygeon on Friday last and all pronounced it a very picturesque and enjoyable trip.

Bass and lunge fishing still continues good in Stoney Lake, and among the catches brought in at "Viamede" last week were a 12-lb. lunge by A. J. Wing of Cleveland, O.; a 15-lb. lunge by Wm. McMillan of Pittsburg and a 10-lb. lunge by Wm. F. Brown of Whitby.

Two 3¼-lb. small mouth bass were landed by H. L. Hamilton, of Sheddon; one 4-lb. bass by F. G. Stark, of Rochester; a 4½-lb. one by Capt. E. B. Lansin, of New York, and several 2 and 2½-lb. bass by H. J. Van Valkenburg, of Ithaca, N.Y.

Closed for Season.

D. W. Dumble closed "Ballyragit" for a few days last week, but will return again to the lake. Mr. Dumble is one of Stoney Lake's grand old men, and is full of enthusiasm about its beauties.

The "Y" camp closed on Wednesday and the Blue Triangle and all the camp equipment were loaded on the steamer Stoney Lake and taken to Peterborough. The camp, which was very successful and always appeared "live" to the passers by, will be much missed by the cottagers.

TIRES OF OLD CHINESE WAYS AND PIGTAILS

Boy Emperor Wants to Cut Off Pigtail and Get Out and See the World —Emperor in Name.

A REMITTANCE MAN

PARIS, Sept. 7.—The former Emperor of China wants to cut off his pigtail. This momentous news has leaked out from the Imperial Palace at Peking and reached Paris. Suen Tong is now 18 years old, and he is beginning to be bored with being Emperor in name and nothing else. So at least runs the story told in Excelsior by Albert Nachbaur, from Peking. He has begun to get tired of his company of wives, his grandfather and such other companions as Imperial etiquette allows him, and his desire to cut off his pigtail is but the outward symbol of his revolt.

The trouble began, it seems, three years ago, when Suen Tong decided that he wanted to learn English. Up till then his tutor, the august mandarin Tcheng Paocheng, had instructed him in everything a Chinese Emperor ought to know. But Tcheng could not supply that accurate knowledge of the English tongue which Suen Tong wanted and so, against the tutor's advice, an English teacher was imported into the Imperial Palace.

With a zeal which might with profit be emulated by less august persons, the youthful Emperor began to devote two hours a day to the study of English with his master. And even worse, in the opinion of his preceptor, he began to study geography as it is taught in foreign countries, paying no attention to the Chinese conception of how the world should be divided. From that stage his descent was rapid, and it was with tears in his eyes that the tutor recounted to M. Nachbaur the designs of his pupil.

"Now, the Emperor can no longer resist the desire to visit your countries," he said. "He wants to travel in an automobile and train, and it is the dream of his life to fly in an airplane."

And there is something else that is worrying the little Emperor. According to the terms of settlement between the Imperial house and the new republic some $4,000,000 ought to be paid each year for the Emperor's maintenance. But somehow this $4,000,000 does not seem to arrive with the regularity which is desired by the student of geography. So he wants to cut off his pigtail and go out and see the world. When he does so the last stronghold of royal exclusiveness will have fallen and Tcheng Paocheng will be ready, he declares, for death.

HARD COAL STOCK IS 30,000,000 TONS SHORT OF NORMAL

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7.—The country's normal supply of anthracite coal is already short approximately 30,000,000 tons as a result of the five months' strike just settled, according to a statement issued today by the coal bureau of the United States. According to the statement the normal yearly production of anthracite coal suitable for household purposes is about 72,000,000 tons.

Plans for emergency control of distribution and prices of anthracite coal similar to that which prevailed with bitumious coal, will now be undertaken by Secretary Hoover, who will call a conference at Philadelphia with anthracite operators and miners as soon as the summer tri-district convention notifies the strike settlement.

Murdock Replies to Protest of Shopmen

OTTAWA, September 7. —Hon. James Murdock last night wired reply to the protest of Division No. 4, Canadian Railway Employees against the majority report of the Conciliation Board in Shopcraft dispute, and declared that he was not convinced that it would answer any beneficial purpose to re-submit certain questions to the same board whose reports have just been published.

STINNES AGREE REBUILD FRANCE

Poincare is Expected to Sanction Contract Between German Magnate and Senator de Lubersac

COST 13 BILLION

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—Hugo Stinnes broke all his own publicity rules by inviting the representatives of four Berlin papers to a conference. To them he outlined a scheme to restore the ravished provinces of France at an estimated expense of 13,000,000,000 francs. He and his industrial associates are planning to do the business with a net profit of 6 per cent.

The German Socialists are strongly against it and will bring an interpellation in the Reichstag when it re-assembles.

Stinnes's latest coup burst bomblike on German public opinion and actually steadied the mark, making that scrap of paper go up twenty-five points to 1,425 to the dollar.

The Socialist Vorwaerts talk of "Stinnes's six per cent. patriotism," jesting on the profit he has reserved for himself on all reconstruction business done through him.

It is just dawning on the German press and public opinion that Stinnes, following for all practical purposes in the footsteps of his late murdered political foe, Rathenau, has with a daring flash of business genius, acquired for himself a 6 per cent. commission job with the trimmings and incidentals of Contractor General for the reconstruction of devastated France.

"Poincare knows all about this agreement and approves of it," Stinnes, under a pledge of secrecy, told the representatives of two Democratic and two reactionary papers he had invited to a talk in his suite at the Hotel Esplanade. Those present were: George Bernhard, chief editor of the Democratic Francophile Vossische Zeitung; Felix Pinner, economic and financial editor of the Democratic Tageblatt; the economic and financial editor of the reactionary Lokal-Anzeiger, and the representative of Stinnes's own suppressed paper, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung.

Their host particularly emphasized the "national, economic, practical value" of his contract with Marquis de Lubersac for the reconstruction of devastated France, with the result that these four journalists as well as their papers and through them the whole German press except the Socialist, Communist and extremist reactionary organs, are enthusiastic about the scheme.

Turks in Peace Terms Want to Regain Everything Lost in the World War—The Conditions.

RESTORE TURKEY

(By Edward J. Bing, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Copyright 1922 by the United Press

VIENNA, Sept. 7. — The Turkish peace terms were outlined today by Mahmoud DjemalBey, the former Minister of Commerce in the Nationalist Government, in an interview here.

They comprise a return to Turkey of practically everything lost in the world war.

Mahmoud Djemal, now that the Mustapha Kemal have proved victorious, is touring Europe, laying plans for the gove.ament's foreign trade.

"Our victory won't induce us to unreasonable demands," the Turk Minister said. "Our minimum demands were made known long before the war with Greece turned in our favor. We won't go beyond them.

First the government of Angora insists upon the rockbottom peace conditions as outlined by the so-called National Peace Pact, which our National Assembly sanctioned.

"Second, we demand full freedom for our commercial customs policies, and are willing to enter into far reaching economic cooperation with the United States.

"Our basis conditions for peace are as follows:

"1. Restoration of Turkish sovereignty in Smyrna, Western Asia Minor and Eastern Thrace.

"2. Constantinople and the shore of the Marmora Sea must be Turkish again. (We shall agree to open the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus to international shipping.)

3 An international commission, comprising representatives of all interested nations shall discuss the guarantees.

4 The Turkish army shall remain as large as at present.

5. Capitulations resulting from the recent world war shall be completely abolished."

"Hand in hand with far-reaching administrative reform," he continued, "we are anxious to establish commercial relations with America. Angorans now are negotiating with an American group for railway construction. Our oil wells in northeastern Asia Minor, our mines, our irrigation systems, the electrification of the Leander River and systematic wholesale trade in agricultural machinery, are fields in which the United States could profitably cooperate."

Police Magistrate Langley accepted his July salary of $166.66 under protest, and intimated that he was protest, and intimated in a letter to the Council that he was entitled under new legislation to $200.00 a month.

"As I understand that the new statute with respect to Police Magistrates fixes the minimum salary for magistrates in cities having the population of Peterborough at $200.00 a month, and came into effect on the first day of July last, thus entitling me to at least $200.00 for the month of July, I am taking the cheque for $166.66, which you have drawn up, under protest and without prejudice to my rights to the higher sum brought into force by the statute The official printed copies of the statutes passed at the last session of the Legislature are not out yet, or at least I have not yet received my copy, and wish to protect my position on the salary question pending seeing these."

TAXES EXCEED THE PROPERTY'S VALUE

Mr. Joseph Gray Asks City to Accept $50 as Settlement.

The following letter from Mr. A. E. Dixon has been turned over to the Finance committee for consideration:

"I have been requested by Mr. Joseph Gray to write to you regarding the taxes on the rear or east end of the part of lot 21, south of McDonnel street, and west of George street, lying south of the G. T.R. The taxes against it amount to between $200 and $300, which is far more than the value of the property. Several years ago a small building was erected on it and used for a short time as a planing mill, but the roof fell in and the building had to be taken down. The taxes were piled up apparently under the supposition that the mill was still in existence and in use. Mr. Gray has authorized me to offer you $50 to settle the taxes against the land in question, including the taxes for the present year.

BOOTLEG GROG IS RESPONSIBLE 10 CASUALTIES

Two Women and a Man Held in Jail on Charge of Causing Deaths of Three of the Victims.

LABOR DAY RESULTS

NEW YORK, September 7 (Special to The Examiner). — Poison booze took two more lives early to-day, bringing the death toll in Brooklyn since Labour Day to ten.

Martin J. Connolly, 55, and his brother-in-law, Thomasm M. Paden, 50, were the latest victims. Their deaths were diagnosed by Dr. Thos. F. Patton as wood alcohol poisoning.

Three persons, two of them women, are held in jail without bail on charges of causing the deaths of three of the victims.

Assistant Oistrict Attorney Reuben Wilson is investigating to determine if the latest victims purchased their sinthetic whisky at the same places it is alleged the others made their purchases at 50 cents a pint.

The prisoners are Mrs. Imerlinda Vatala, owner of a grocery; Michael Cafiero, her employee; and Mrs. Adelina Reale.

In several of the cases the victims were apparently in fair health after having drunk the poison. Later they complained a little about "not feeling very well." Then, according to witnesses, they became violently ill and several went blind before death.

Wilson is to carry the cases to the Grand Jury, which meets to-day, and will ask for indictments.

The police have started a house to house canvass to determine if others are ill from the booze. Hospitals were searched for victims.

All the victims lived in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn, in which the labouring people make their homes.

The distillery believed to have turned out the booze responsible for ten deaths in Brooklyn since Labour day was sought by the police to-day.

The manufacturers of the illicit poison are marketing their product at the cheapest prices since Prohibition, according to authorities.

SUPPORT FROM LABOR LEADER

Samuel Gompers Wires From Atlantic City—Progress of Rail Strike

NEW YORK, September 7. Canadian Press.—Support of the American Federation of Labor in its efforts to bring about the impeachment of Attorney General Daugherty and Federal Judge Wilkerson of Chicago for their part in issuance of rail injunction, was pledged by Samuel Gompers, Federation President, in a telegram received from Atlantic City to-day by the Central Trades and Labor Council.

WASHINGTON, September 7. — Canadian Press.—There are no conferences now in progress between the leaders of the railway strikers, and the railroad presidents, and none has been held since the formal gatherings in New York last month, it was asserted to-day by J. P. Noonan, chief of the Electrical Workers, one of the seven rail unions on strike.

A meeting of the strikers policy committee called for next week at Chicago will consider action regarding application of Attorney-General Daugherty for a permanent injunction against the rail organizations.

HAD CONFERENCE.

Attorney General Daugherty today conferred with Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee regarding the Chicago injunction issued against the striking railway shopmen, and it was indicated that the government would not insist in application for a permanent injunction on the provisions alleged to curb freedom of speech.

FILED PETITION.

A petition for an injunction was filed to-day against United States Attorney Peyton Gordon and United States Marshall Snyder, Marshall for the District of Columbia, by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which would restrain them from enforcing within the district of Columbia the provisions of the blanket injunction issued in Chicago last week.

Russians Seize Two More British Ships

BATUM, September 7. Canadian Press. — The Russian port authorities have seized two more British vessels, the Hedwige and Lady Elinear. When the British flag was lowered the Soviet band played "God Save the King," and "Internationale," as the Red Flag was hoisted. Word has been received from Constantinople that if the boats are not released a fleet of British destroyers will forcibly take them.

SITUATION IS GETTING WORSE

British Take Steps to Protect Smyrna—Nationals Removed.

LONDON, Sept. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Unending throngs of distracted and destitute Greek and Armenian refugees, fleeing from the war area in Anatolia, are besieging the gate of Smyrna, clamoring for Allied assistance, according to the latest reports reaching London. Four railroad lines terminating in Symrna are chocked with Greek troops and the remnant of the Greek war supplies. All highways are black with evicted families, who are struggling to carry enough covering and food to last until they reach the Mediterraneon. The city's sanitary system is primitive, and the danger of pestilence is admittedly very great. Smyrna has a population of more than three hundred thousand, half of whom are hostile Turks and the remainder Greeks, Armenians and Jews, with a small sprinkling of British, French, Americans and Italians. The streets are narrow, dark and dirty, and the houses are of the ramshackle type, with poor living in great squalor. Most intense religious antipathies prevail between the Turks and the Christians.

SMYRNA, Sept. 7.—(Canadian Pres)—Situation in Smyrna at noon was growing more critical. British were moving some of their nationals in merchantmen using destroyers to cover their embarkade. French and Italians have landed marines and have called on their male Nationals to serve as volunteer corps. Troops from thrace with officers have arrived and are organizing resistance. own of Magnesia and Cassabba twenty miles east of here are reported in flames. Admiral Sir Osmond Brock commanding British Mediterranean fleet is taking measures for ortection of Smyrna.

EXHIBITION NOTES

Peterborough's Exhibition is making a stronger appeal than ever to outside exhibitors, as is evidenced by the concessions secured by the Canadian Postum Cereal Company, the Ideal Aluminum Products, Ltd., the Roman Meal Company and others who have been allotted display space.

The tug-of-war match for the Roland Denne Cup will be held on Friday afternoon, Sept. 15th, at 3 o'clock. City and country clubs are reminded of this event, which promises to be a real feature this year.

The drawing match is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, beginning at 3.30, in charge of Messrs. Harry Webber, Robt. Grandy, Smith Milburn, H. Sanderson and H. Baptie. The events and prizes are as follows:

Heavy class for horses, 2,900 lbs. and over, weight of load 6,000 lbs.—$20, $15 and $10.

Light class, for horses under 2,900 lbs., weight of load 5,000 lbs.—$20, $15 and $10.

Team pulling load farthest in four minutes is the winner. No whips to be used. Time allowed to repair breaks. This is a good chance for teamsters and farmers.

Mr. F. J. A. Hall, the Exhibition secretary, is at Mr. R. Denne's store all this week receiving entries, which have been so far more numerous than ever. The directors decided that the entry list would close by Saturday, Sept. 9th. All entries must therefore be filled this week.

Boys are reminded of the dog race for Wednesday afternoon. The distance is for one-quarter of a mile, and the race is open to boys under 12 years. Dr. H. M. Yelland is donating the prizes for this competition.

KIWANIANS OF PETERBORO HAD A NIGHT AWAY

Went to Lindsay and Kept the Inhabitants Up All Night — Governor Bev. Hay Present.

A GOOD PROGRAM

LINDSAY, Sept. 7.— Kiwanians of Peterborough and Kiwanians of Lindsay held forth at the G.W.V.A. Club rooms last night and exemplified the Kiwanis spirit of comradeship, good fellowship and educational development. Some twenty-five members of the Peterborough Club were guests of the local Club and an evening of wholesome enjoyment was spent by everyone present. Hot dinners was served, and a rapid fire of wit and humor, sense and nonsense, pathos and tears, mirth and song combined to make the evening a very enjoyable one. The programme was one of entertainment from start to finish.

The gavel was in charge of President Frank Whitehouse of the Peterborough Club, and President Tom H. Stinson of the Lindsay Club, while Les. Unitt and Stanley M. Scott presided at the piano for the respective Clubs. The Sergeant-at-Arms was Cliff Mulligan and he provoked barrels of laughter with his running comment. Cliff was in uniform for the occasion, and was so persistent in looking after the dimes and shillings that he had a large collection at the conclusion of the evening's entertainment.

Proceedings were opened by the pronouncement of the blessing by Kiwanian (Rev.) James Rollins, of Peterborough, which was followed by "The Song of the Kiwanis" by the Peterborough Glee Club. Frank Whitehouse rendered two very fine selections on the violin, and Charles Cook told a couple of stories.

Peterborough Glee Club.

Howard Nesbitt of the Lindsay Club, was in his usual good form and his stories were good and well told. The Peterborough glee club rendered another chorus and Jos. Worth demonstrated that he is an expert at "spinning yarns." Chaplain Rollins of the visitors also told a good story (a truthful one), after which the proceedings were taken charge of by President Stinson, of Lindsay, and the Lindsay quartette favored the audience with a good number. The quartette comprised: Kiwanians A. J. McBride, A. J. Claxton, A. W. Allin and H. C. Brown.

Chief White Elk.

Chief White Elk, a Kiwanian belonging to the Victoria, B.C., Club, told of his engagement by the Lindsay Central Fair, his intention of presenting a wonderful pageant and living flag with the assistance of 1,000 school children of Lindsay, when the Lieut.-Governor of the Province will be welcomed at the Fair. He urged the business men of Lindsay to get behind the Fair and boost it, and requested that the Kiwanians give him their support in making the Fair a success.

"Kiwanians in my language means everything that is good and everything that is helpful," said the Chief. Kiwanis means the making of better citizens, spiritually, mentally, physically and morally. It is an institution for the education of its members and for helping others less fortunate."

Chief White Elk stated that he was the last Chief of a wonderful race ,the Cherokees of the State of Oklahoma. The Indians needed the help of the Kiwanian Clubs, and he appealed for that help. To a certain extent civilization had ruined the Indian people, who at one time owned the lands of this country, but were now inclined to be indifferent and lacked ambition. "Missionary-work is needed among our Indians, and we need more education." Indians were thankful to Canadians for what has already been accomplished in their behalf, but the Indians would like to see their children properly educated.

A short speech by the Chief was closed by Kiwanian White Elk giving a rendition of John McCormack's "I Hear You Calling Me."

Governor Bev. Hay.

The speaker of the evening was Bev. Hay, of London Ont., District Governor. Following a well chosen and told number of stories the Governor said it was the things Kiwanians had to work for that were appreciated when they were accomplished. Kiwanis is that invisible spirit that is doing for the North American continent what religion has been trying to do, without casting any reflection on religion, said the Governor. The motto of Kiwanians was "We Build," and every member should endeavor to live up to that motto. The speaker emphasized the importance of the word "We," and said it was a mighty good citizen who could put himself in the background and become one of the Roads Plan to Rush Hard Coal Plenty of Cars to Handle It

There need be no fear of an anthracite coal shortage because of the inability of the railroads to carry all that the mines offer, L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, and of the Conference of Eastern Railroad Presidents, has declared.

A conference of representatives of the seven Eastern anthracite-carrying roads, the Erie, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Philadelphia and Reading, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna and Lehigh Valley, will be held to discuss the coal-carrying situation. Mr. Loree said these roads would be able to carry all the coal offered for shipment.

The Delaware and Hudson had 7,000 idle cars, he said, and the other railroads had sufficient idle rolling stock to meet the demand for cars caused by the re-opening of the mines. He said that, despite reports to the contrary, the mines were in excellent condition, as the maintenance men, carpenters, and pumpers remained at work during the strike, so that few mines had been flooded, and that the shoring had been kept in good repair.

It was learned that the State Fuel Administrator, announcement of whose appointment by Governor Miller is expected, is likely to cancel the requisition for 100,000 tons of bituminous coal placed with the Federal Distributor by the Governor's Coal Commission. The Federal official has sent a number of orders under this requisition to different mines, but so far the producers in each case have insisted on a price in excess of the Hoover fair price of $3.50 a ton at the mines for Pocahontas and $4.50 a ton for New River coal on 16th August, when the requisition was made.

The Governor's Commission, which will be succeeded by the State Fuel Administrator, has refused to accept coal at an advanced price.

GUIDE AND HUNTER MUST STAND TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Omar P. Roberts Charged With Murder of Girl After Alleged Confession Is Read As Evidence.

WAS HOUSEKEEPER.

YARMOUTH, N. S., Sept. 7.—(Canadian Press.)— Omar P. Roberts, the sixty-nine year old north Kemptville guide and hunting lodge keeper, was yesterday afternoon committed to stand trial for the murder of his nineteen year old housekeeper, Flora Gray, by stipendiary magistrate Charles S. Pelton, following the putting in evidence of a full confession made by Roberts last week. The prisoner will in all probability be tried at the next session of the Supreme Court, opening here September 19, with Mr. Justice Chisholm presiding.

The confession, which was put in evidence during the examination of Dr. George W. T. Farish, one of the witnesses to the document, and following the examination of six or eight former neighbors and friends of the accused, described how Roberts was overcome with a fit of jealousy, upon his return to his home following an evening spent at William Randall's; how he waited until the girl had retired to her room, how he then went outside and filled up a bucket with gasoline, how he took this upstairs and left it outside her bedroom while he entered the room in an endeavour to assault her, and how, after an interview of a few minutes he returned to the gasoline, spread it over the girl and room and then knocked over the lighted kerosene lamp, and left her to her fate. The scene in the little court room during the reading of the confession by Dr. Farish was one that will not be forgotten soon by those present. In the dock sat the aged self-confessed murderer, his bandaged feet burned in the fire at his home resting on a chair, his elbow leaning on the railing of the dock and his hand covering his eyes. His throat muscles moved from time to time and occasionally his chest heaved convulsively, but otherwise he gave no evidence of emotion. He seemed as one stunned. Some distance behind him sat Clarence Gray, father of the murdered girl, with his head buried in his hands.

Following the reading of the confession the old man was asked if he had anything to say and upon shaking his head in the negative he was formally committed for trial. A few minutes later he was carried down to the street below and a way cleared for him through the curious who thronged about the door, to a waiting automobile, in which he was returned to the jail.

SOUTH SEA ISLES ARE O.K. BUT SAILOR PREFERS HOME

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Exotic South Sea islands with their cocoanut groves intoxicating moonlight nights, coral, wave-spiashed shores and dancing grass-clad damsels, are very fine—in books or movies; but as for N. P. Benson first mate of the American schooner Henriette, give him beefsteaks and open plumbing—and his own American wife. Such, in substance, was Mate Benson's assertion when he arrived in San Francisco from the Island of Nakualailai, in the Ellice Group in the South Seas.

Benson and his crew were on their way from Fiji to San Francisco some weeks ago on the schooner Henriette. The schooner was wrecked and the crew found refuge on the tropical isle.

In a recent interview in Honolulu Captain J. A. T. Olsen of the Henriette described the island as a miniature replica of the Oriental idea of Paradise, where the women outnumbered the men fourteen to one. Not disputing his captain's word, Mate Benson avers his own wife had group of fourteen women on the island beaten in every way, and, besides fish and cocoanuts are no kind of diet.

The mate described the inhabitants of the islands as good looking, hospitable and healthy. He said they had acquired religion from missionaries and held services for about three hours each Sunday, which the crew had to attend.

"But they made up for it" Benson said, "by giving a dance every night" and adding that the women were not hampered by much clothing.

"The principal thing a South Sea island is good for is to make a man glad to get back to civilization" Mate Benson said.

Mrs. Benson was present while her husband received the reporters and described his South Sea experiences.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Automobile Backed Down Hill — Toronto Teacher Did Not Like the Look of the Tall Timbers.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 7. — About 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning the occupants of a large touring car had a narrow escape from death, when the big car stalled at the top of French's Hill and started to roll backwards, due to the heavy rain the road was greasy and the brakes would not hold, and about half way down, went over the embankment. Beyond a severe shaking up, neither driver nor passengers were hurt, but the car was badly damaged.

No Rural School For Her.

A trim little lady from Toronto, who had been engaged to teach one of the rural schools in section No. 8, arrived safe and sound on Monday evening, and as there was no official to meet her, she hired a car at the station and started for her new home. Now, whether her heart failed her, or that the country seemed too lonesome, will never be known, but the fact remains that she ordered the driver to speed to Havelock and returned to Toronto by C.P.R., telegraphing her resignation from that point. Now had she arrived when the sun was shining, and had a view of the Trent Valley by daylight, but then there would be no story.
